Tillson's Roller Process Buckwheat Flour.

If any grocer who wishes to increase his business in Buckwheat Flour will try Tillson's brand just once in his own family, and then abide by his wife's decision about its rich, true, buckwheat flavor, its cleanliness, its healthfulness, then we'll be satisfied. The woman is "the power behind the throne" on every article you sell. Test it in your own family—there's no better way to prove its virtues.

VOL. XIII. TORONTO AND MONTREAL, JANUARY 6, 1899. NO. 1

WHAT IS PROFIT?

By E. Ballard.

I WONDER how many merchants have any idea of what their actual profits are? Of course, you are well aware what every article is billed to you at, and, of course, you know what you sell it at. But, if you are of the opinion that the difference between the bill price to you and the retail price at which you sell it is your actual profit, you are about as much mistaken as you can be.

The trouble with too many storekeepers is, they haven't any exact idea of what their goods cost, nor have they anything more than a general idea of what it costs to do business. If you should make ten thousand sales of $1 each in a year, and each of those articles cost you just 62 cents, your profit would not be $3,800, although that is the way that too many merchants reckon their profits. Out of that $3,800 you must reckon, say, $1,000 for rent, and such expenses as lighting and heating; as much more for clerk hire, and, perhaps, half or a quarter as much for advertising. By the time that $2,250 or $2,500 is taken out, it leaves you much less than half of the $3,800 for your profits. If you add to that $1,000 for your own services, and, certainly that is cheap enough, you have left, perhaps, $300 or $500 for actual profits. This, of course, is a supposable case. Nobody is doing a retail business and making every sale at $1, neither are all your goods bought at 62½ cents apiece, or pound, or yard, or bunch, or whatever may be the unit.

There are many men who have made business failures without knowing the reason why, simply because they did not make a proper profit; and the real reason why they did not make this profit was because they did not know the exact cost of selling them. Next to the importance of knowing just how much stock to have on hand, and how much money, and how much indebtedness other people hold against you, is the question of how much profit you have made. In many lines of goods there is a distinct and easily-reckoned depreciation. From the time they get into the store until they are sold, they steadily shrink in value, and this depreciation must be reckoned in the cost. Where goods come from a distance the cost of expressage or freight, and the cost of boxing and carting are sometimes important items in reckoning the cost of goods.

The man who discounts his bills can usually make those discounts pay the cost of delivering his goods, and, perhaps, you are not one of those who take advantage of the discounts. It is said that a leading dry groods house in New York, stated in their advertisement that they would sell for the first year after they had opened, at exact cost, and I think that it is on record that the advertising manager, in explaining what exact cost meant, reckoned not only what the goods cost according to inventory, but also the cost of laying them down in his store, and the estimated cost of rent, interest, taxes, light, heat, clerk hire and proprietor's salary, at a good round sum. If I remember rightly this added at least 12 per cent. to the inventory price of the goods.

Some manufacturers claim that they can do business cheaper than others because they own their own stores or because members of their families act as their clerks, without salaries, or that they have their own teams for carting and in other ways they save money. It is all right to claim that they save by these things, but they should be reckoned just the same. Because you own your own store and do not have to pay rent to a landlord, do not be so blind as to say you do not pay any rent. The fact is, you are occupying a store which could be let to someone else at a good rental and you are using what that tenant would pay you for if you were not occupying the store yourself. Therefore, you are paying rent.

It is the same way with your clerk hire, if your son, your wife, or some other member of your family does it for you. And it is the same way regarding your teaming if you have your own horse and wagon to carry your goods. These items are actual expenses in one way or another and cannot be left out of reckoning when cost of doing business is taken into account.

There is one other item which too few merchants reckon in as the cost of doing business. Almost everybody, or entirely too many people, does more or less credit business and I never yet knew a man who did credit business who did not lose some of the accounts he had on his books. This loss must be paid for and is another important item in reckoning the cost of doing business. Another important item is the depreciation of stock. I have spoken of this before, but I wish to call attention to it again. Every merchant has goods on his shelves or in his storeroom on which it would be difficult to get their first cost, and this loss is one which should be considered when the year's business is taken into account.

The first of January has reached us, and the time for annual inventory is at hand. As soon as you have taken account of stock and found out how you stand it will be well worth while for you to reckon what it has cost you to do last year's business. I am afraid that some of you will find, if you look at it honestly and go into the matter carefully, that you have paid pretty dearly for the amount of profit your books show. Reckon what you have paid out for all these items which go under the head of running expenses—the salaries, the cost of lighting and heating the store, the cost of such supplies as paper, twine, etc., the taxes, interest on capital, in fact, everything which comes under the head of expense and which cannot be charged definitely to the cost, or I would prefer to say the bill price of the merchandise. Reckon this up and see how large a percentage it is of the total sales for the year. Remember to charge as your salary, the amount of money you have drawn during year, and do not forget that what goods you have taken out of the store should be charged just the same as the money. By this means you will be enabled to see what are your net profits. Another interesting thing will be to see just what lines are not paying you actual profit. It may show you that you are selling some goods entirely too low, and in this case it is none too soon you turned over a new leaf and to do business in future but for profit, and remember that there is a great difference between real profit and seeming profit.

Every dealer is apt to ask, at some time or other, what percentage he should add to cost in order to sell at proper retail prices. That is a question for the dealer himself to decide. But, if he does not know how much it is costing him to do business, he will never know how much he should add to cost in order to make a profit. Look out for the leaks. This is a principal one, and the dealer who does business without profit is one who will, sooner or later, go into bankruptcy. Do not make up your mind that a level profit, or a certain per cent. on all goods, will show a profit. Some goods cost much more than others to handle, and this fact must be considered. But be sure you do make a profit on every line. If there is one which you cannot sell at an actual profit on the basis I have outlined, the sooner you drop that line the better for you and for creditors.—Trade Magazine.

Some grocers and many grocery clerks are artistic sign painters. They can use the brush better than the pen. While the handwriting is often very poor, the signs they make are without faults, an honor to the maker, an attraction to the store, an example for others.—Retail Grocers' Advocate.

CANADIAN EXPORTS TO SOUTH AFRICA.

CONCERNING Canadian exports to South Africa a report from Cape Town says that Canada is making headway as an exporter to South Africa, not only through foreign ports but direct from New York, especially in cereals, timber and products of the dairy. Canada has also been sending canned meats and fish, stoves, soaps, iron roofing and many other products. While most of the exports have passed through the port of New York, on account of its proximity to her industries, yet a steamer is now on the way to Cape Town from Quebec with full cargo. It is claimed by Canadian exporters that the port of New York is much nearer to the manufacturing centres of the Dominion than to many similar centres of the United States, and consequently railroad freights are cheaper. The establishment in Cape Town of what is hoped to be a permanent exhibit of Canadian products is worthy of commendation and emphasizes the advice given to American manufacturers. In this exhibition are found samples of household, office, school and church furniture, hardwood fittings, organs, pianos, bicycles, doors, sash and frames, metal ceilings, lathings and interior finishings, pressed brick, soap, crackers and biscuits, canned fruits and vegetables, woollen and cotton goods, cigars, split peas and rolled oats, belting, vehicles, woodworking machinery, flour mill machinery, dairy outfits and products, etc.—N.Y. Journal of Commerce.

WORK ONE KIND OF BUSINESS.

Never try to work at more than one kind of business at a time. Persevere in whatever you are engaged in until you have succeeded, or until you are satisfied that you never can succeed in that line. To make money dishonestly is the hardest thing in life. Therefore, preserve your integrity. John Randolph, of Roanoke, once said: "I have found the philosopher's stone, and it is this rule, 'Pay as you go.'" Nothing is truer. The road to wealth lies in paying out less than we take in.—William Waldor Astor.

FRONTIER HONESTY.

"WELL, there is one thing," said the old Kansas man, as he tipped back in his chair and put his feet upon the register, "I don't believe the people are as honest now as when the country was new."

"Now there was the case of Pete Lampton and the eggs. This Pete was sometimes accused of rustling a few cattle, but he was found to be square in little matters. Eggs were selling at 25c. a dozen and Pete took two dozen to his camp. The next day he returned to the store, threw down $2.25 and started to walk out. The storekeeper asked the reason for deposit of currency, when Pete explained in this way:

"Well, Sheldon, there was just an even dozen of them eggs I got out of you yesterday that had chickens in 'em. Eggs is worth 25c. a dozen and chickens $2.50 a dozen. I figured it out that I must owe you $2.25. You can't afford to sell chickens for 25c. a dozen and I says, to square myself, says I, Pete, the square thing for you to do is go right back there and pay old Sheldon chicken price for them eggs. You may say what you please," continued the old-timer, as he sliced up another pipeful of plug tobacco, "but for downright square dealin' in small matters. I've never seen the country that come up to western Kansas in the early days."

Balfour & Co., Hamilton, report the receipt of many letter orders for "Tartan" tea. The trade appreciates the fact that the bright, handsome packages in which this tea is packed, not only add to the appearance of the store, but attract the attention of their customers. The combination of refined, delicate flavor and pronounced strength insures perfect satisfaction to every buyer, and there is nothing that adds so much to the prestige of a store as handling goods of this description.

THE ONE THING SHE WANTED.

NO matter how willing a man is to do his share in household matters, he will occasionally forget, and no one that I have ever known, or expect to hear mentioned in years to come, can be fully absolved from this besetting sin.

So it is that the gentlest of wives will at last turn, when the third request for any given article has been neglected, will suddenly change her endearing title for you to that of your full Christian name, closing with, "And you won't forget it to-day, will you, d-e-a-r?"

You can wager your saccharine existence that the request is neither forgotten or neglected that night.

It was the one week of all the 52 of the year, the one that brought us "peace on earth," and although the domestic demands had been continuous, everything had been brought except the one repeated request, "a nine pound pail of butter," a most necessary article during the season of hot cakes and waffles. The over-quiet distinctness with which she mentioned "butter" at breakfast, and repeated it as I rushed for the train was equal to the last call for supper in the dining car.

Yes, indeed, I stopped on my way to the office and bought the pail of "golden creamery," and placed it in a position near my desk, so out it would have tagged of its own accord, had I attempted to leave that night without it.

Good fortune did seem to attend me all that day, for everything she might have wanted was right at hand for the buying, and soon a substantial peace-offering was gathered together.

Eight bundles, a nine pound pail of butter, and just an average time to make the train, barring delays; I reached it just as "All aboard!" sounded in my ears.

Through the kindness of the big, good-natured brakeman my plunder was safely gotten on board and dumped into a seat alongside of me, and there I sat, thinking of the happy surprise it would all be soon, not one thing forgotten. The seat was so comfortable, the song of the wheels as they rushed along so quieting, that I dimly heard and wondered who it was shouting so, when a hand was laid on my shoulder, and a "Hi, there! get a gait on yer! It's your station."

Never did nine packages get so tangled up as mine. One shot up in the air, carromed on my head, rolled along my arm, danced on my fingers, fell, broke, scattering its contents in every direction. Once on the platform, I couldn't hang that pail of butter on anywhere and I left it ornamenting the steps of the depot and started homewards.

The night was cold and every foot fall on the snow-covered plank walk gave out its musical creak as I hurried on. Before the front gate was reached, the eight parcels seemed possessed of an insane desire to move about, and I strained every nerve to hold them until my arms ached and felt as if they would drop from their sockets; the 16-inch collar grew so small that breathing was anything but easy, and I was hotter than a toasting muffin, although the air was two deg. below zero. Mad? Well! just as I walked up the short approach to the front steps, I saw through the bay window the one being I was struggling to surprise. There she sat, calmly stitching away on some fancy work for a Christmas present, and, although expecting me and hearing my footsteps, no movement was made until I reached and kicked at the front door vigorously. Then everything was dropped, and she hurried to the door and threw it open.

There she stood in the bright light, as beautiful and sweet a picture of femininity as God ever made, smiling, expectant, but calm, calm beyond description. Quietly looking me over, taking in everything from the unbuckled galoshes, to my red, perspir-

CRANBERRY CULTURE IN P.E.I.

THE probability is that cranberries will be cultivated extensively in Prince Edward Island in the next few years. The Island Pioneer, of Summerside, P.E.I., states that there are thousands of acres of bog land throughout the Province which are just fitted for the cultivation of the cranberry plant, and, as these acres are good for nothing else, it is likely that a proportion of them will be cleared for cultivation by their owners.

The climatic conditions of all the Maritime Provinces are suitable for cranberry culture—in fact, the conditions are even better there than in New Jersey or in the Cape Cod district of Massachusetts.

With suitable land and climatic conditions the cultivation of the cranberry plant is a simple matter.

In an address before The Nova Scotia Fruit Growers Association, Henry Shaw, a successful grower, of Annapolis Valley, N.S., described his experience. He owned a bog which had long been useless. In the fall this bog was drained, cleared, and fitted for the plow at little expense. Two acres were ploughed; on one acre the plow brought the sand to the surface; on the other the mud was too deep to reach the sand.

In the following June and July, he secured wild vines (which are better than vines imported from the United States, for the latter are infested with various worms and insects), and planted them over the two acres. They grew well for four years, no more work being necessary.

On the fourth year, the acre which was sanded bore well, but the plants growing in the acre which had no sand never bore fruit, though they were left seven years.

As an experiment, a quarter of this fruitless acre was covered with a layer of sand. the result was, that this year this quarter acre yielded 27 barrels of cranberries. The other three-quarter acres were still fruitless.

Mr. Shaw has now an acre and a quarter of fruit-bearing cranberries. Concerning the value of his product, he spoke as follows: "We got at the rate of 108 barrels to the acre. We sold these on the Montreal market at $7.34 per barrel net. Let us strike off the $1.34 per barrel for harvesting, barreling and moving to the station—this amount will more than pay the cost. When this is struck off, we have an even $6 per barrel, which would return for the acre $648, or the interest at 5 per cent. on over $12,000. A half, or even a quarter, of the yield I have mentioned would pay well, and pay if the berries sold as low as $3 per barrel."

SULPHUR MATCHES LOWER.

Sulphur matches manufactured by The E. B. Eddy Co., Limited, have been reduced 25c. per case, the change going into effect on Tuesday.

"Telegraph" matches are now quoted at $3.20 for 1 to 4 case lots, and at $3 in 5 or more case lots. "Telephone," 1 to 4 cases, $3; 5 cases or more, $2.80. "Telephone," in ⅛ gross boxes, 1 to 4 cases, $3.20; 5 or more cases, $3. "Tiger," 1 to 4 cases, $2.85; 5 or more cases, $2.65.

"Victoria" parlor matches have been increased 25c. per case, now being quoted at $2.50.

Terms are without change, 5-case lots still being delivered.

He who is late to business is usually a lap behind the day through in his duties.

A DANGEROUS COMMERCIAL DOCTRINE.

A MERCHANT is to be found here and there who boasts that he has never taken stock, and that, notwithstanding, he has been able to pay his way.

This is a dangerous commercial doctrine.

It is possible someone may yet safely swim the Whirlpool Rapids at Niagara without any artificial aid; but the probabilities are enormously against it.

It is possible a merchant here and there may make a success of business without taking stock; but the probabilities are against it.

He who makes a success of business must be a competent, thoroughly up-to-date man. And it follows that the man who has these qualifications would no more think of neglecting such an important essential as stock-taking than he would of keeping his stock unreplenished.

But whether the life of a business depends on stock-taking or not, one thing is certain: Neglecting to take stock at least once a year tends to make success less possible.

If a merchant does not know just where he is, how in the world can he tell what is best to do in furthering his business? And if he does not take stock, how is he to know where he is?

The merchant who does not take stock is always, to a more or less extent, groping in the dark, and obviously no one can make as good headway in the dark, whether it be the darkness of night or the darkness of business, as he can in the light.

CANNED TOMATOES.

The canned tomato situation is, if anything, stronger than it was a week ago.

Buyers who bought certain brands of tomatoes a few weeks ago for 80c. have within the last few days bid 85c. for several hundred case lots, net cash on spot, but their bid was rejected.

One operator claims to have secured 90c. per dozen f.o.b. the factory, and $1 for corn f.o.b. the factory, on British Columbia account.

The ruling price with wholesalers is now 85 to 90c. per dozen, and they quote the latter figure oftener than they do the former.

Canned tomatoes have also taken a firmer turn in the United States.

A YEAR OF CANADIAN TRADE.

THE year which has just bidden us adieu was, in a commercial sense, a most important one to Canada. Whatever may be the character of its successor, 1898 was a signal one in the history of the country.

A better knowledge of her resources has been obtained, greater effort has been made to develop them, and the home and foreign trade of the country is larger and healthier than at any previous time in the history of the Dominion.

The foreign trade of the country showed a most gratifying development. We have not yet, of course, got the figures for the 12 months of the year, but for the 11 months the aggregate trade was, in round numbers, $274,263,000, of which $134,600,000 were imports and $139,662,000 exports. The following table gives the figures for the two past years :

	Eleven months, 1898.	Eleven months, 1897.
Imports.....	$134,601,000	$106,790,000
Exports.....	139,662,000	138,000,000

Figures as to the volume of the home trade cannot be adduced, but it has probably been the most active in the history of the country. In a great many lines manufacturers have positively been unable to keep up with the demand.

Taking the bank clearing returns for the eleven months, ending November, we find that they aggregate $1,266,668,334, compared with $1,061,130,269, a gain of $205,538,065 or over 19 per cent. This is the largest total since the establishment of clearing houses in Canada.

The traffic on the Canadian railways was very heavy during the past year, but the rate war, which prevailed for several months, naturally impaired their net earnings. The gross earnings of the Canadian Pacific for the eleven months, ending November, were $23,467,860, an increase of $1,741,068 compared with the same period last year, but the net earnings were $54,061 less. The gross earnings of the Grand Trunk for the ten months were $19,755,021, compared with $19,183,269 the corresponding period 1897.

The shipping trade of the port of Montreal is another evidence of the expansion of trade, 516 ocean steamers, with an aggregate tonnage of 1,212,747, having entered the port against 479 vessels, with a tonnage of 1,054,225, in 1897. In coastwise steamers an increase is also shown, there being 330 vessels with a tonnage of 345,000, against 300 in 1897 with a tonnage of 317,000.

Now, in regard to the commercial failures : The number during 1898 was 1,427, or 520 less than in 1897. The assets were $4,085,722, against $5,191,647, and the liabilities $9,644,100, against $13,147,929. The decrease of 36.33 per cent. in the liabilities is the most striking and pleasing feature in regard to these returns. The proportion of the assets to the liabilities was also more satisfactory, being 42.36 per cent., compared with 39.49 per cent. in 1897. In both failures and liabilities, the figures are the smallest in, at least, seven years.

In agricultural matters, Nature was most beneficient. Ontario had the largest crop of wheat in its history, and the quality of the same was exceptionally good, as well. The yield of fall wheat was 25,158,713 bushels, or 24 bushels per acre, and, of spring wheat, the quantity was 6,873,785, bushels, or 17½ bushels to the acre. Taking grain alone, the yield in Ontario last year aggregated over 150,000,000 bushels. With the single exception of potatoes, the root crops were all larger. The yield of tobacco was over 10,500,000 lb.

Manitoba and the Territories were also blessed most bountifully in this respect. According to the latest bulletin issued the total grain crop of Manitoba exceeded 47,000,000 bushels, of which over 25,000,000 bushels was wheat and 17,000,000 oats. The dairy produce of the Province is also developing, and 1898 was a favorable year for this industry, the total output of cheese and butter being valued at nearly $500,000. Year by year the live stock of Manitoba is increasing in importance. Beef cattle to the number of 12,525 were exported from the Province, while of stockers 9,500 were shipped to the Northwest Territories to be fattened and 20,000 went to the United States.

The lumber industry has not been in as satisfactory condition as desirable, but exterior, and not interior, causes contributed to that, namely, the overstocking of the British market and the $2 duty imposed by the United States. In spite of these adverse influences 317,333,593 feet were exported by way of Montreal, compared with 300,420,069 in 1897, and 221,003,609 in 1896.

Canada is at the moment centring much hope in its mining industry, and the results of the past year are most encouraging. In British Columbia the conditions are particularly promising.

In gold, in copper, and in silver, the prospects were never so bright. Rossland has passed through its critical stage, and the value and permanancy of its mines are now assured. Neither now is there any doubt in regard to the Yukon country. In both Ontario and Nova Scotia there have been increased productions of gold. The output of gold in the latter Province is estimated at $600,000, the largest in its history. The gold produced in Ontario during the first six months of the year was $133,744, against $190,244 for the 12 months of 1897, so that it is tolerably certain that the yield for the whole year will exceed that of its predecessor.

The outlook for the coal industry, like that of the gold industry, is promising. The output in Nova Scotia last year was large, and during the year upon which we have entered, promises to be still larger.

In British Columbia, the opening of the Crow's Nest Pass railway has materially improved the prospects of the coal mining industry in that Province. The collieries at Fernie, East Kootenay, have 150 to 200 miners at work. Fifty coking ovens are complete and several are in operation, while fuel is being shipped to the smelters. It is expected that the coking ovens will be increased to at least 150 before long. As an adjunct to the gold mining in British Columbia these Kootenay coal mines will be most valuable.

What Canada wants more than anything else just now is population, and the next few years will, in all probability, witness a substantial increase in this respect. The signs are not wanting, at any rate, for the number of homestead entries in Manitoba and the Northwest the past year were 4,426, compared with 2,383 in 1897, while the immigrants were 27,171, against 10,864. Then, there are the number of people who have gone into the Klondyke and into the various mining camps in British Columbia to be taken into account.

SPECIAL TAX FOR DEPARTMENTAL STORES.

THE city council of Montreal has been for some time laboring with taxation in general and with departmental store taxation in particular, and at a meeting held the other day it was decided to ask the Legislature for power to impose a special tax on the latter. The clause adopted reads as follows :

An additional special tax, not exceeding 10 per cent. of the annual assessed value of the entire premises in which departmental stores are maintained and carried on, may also be imposed upon such persons, companies or corporations, for each separate and distinct branch of trade and business maintained and carried on in such department stores.

THE CANADIAN GROCER is not prepared to say that the scheme proposed by the city council is the best that may be advanced for the regulation of the departmental stores.

The departmental store problem is as intricate as it is large, and it is probable that effective, satisfactory, and, at the same time, just regulations will only be obtained by easy experimental stages. It will be necessary to step as the footing is felt to be sure. It would not be wise to make a move and then go back again.

The proposition of Montreal, if adopted by the Legislature of the Province of Quebec, seems an experiment worth the trying, although some difficulty might be experienced in defining a "separate and distinct department." That, however, is no reason why the attempt should not be made. It should only impel those who are promoting the scheme to greater effort in devising means whereby this or any other object may be overcome.

The departmental store is one of the many species of monopolies which are developing in this age, to the injury, not only of business men and property owners, but of municipal corporations as well.

The municipalities were the last to feel the effects of this particular class of monopoly. As long as it was only the ordinary merchant and the property owner that were being pinched they had not much concern. But, when closed stores meant decreased revenue from taxation, they became interested. And now various corporations in Canada and the United States are searching diligently for ways and means to compel the departmental stores to contribute their due share to the taxes of the respective municipalities.

With business men, property owners, and municipal authorities interested some feasible scheme should be evolved whereby the desideratum may be secured.

CANADIAN BACON LOW.

THE price of bacon has taken quite a tumble in the British market during the past three months. No. 1 Canadian bacon has fallen from 50 to 58s. to as low as 37 to 40s. per cwt.

The cause of this has largely been the remarkable increase in exports from Canada. During the five months ending December 1, 1897, our exports of bacon were 276,696 cwt. ; in the same period last year they were 507,248 cwt., an increase of over 83 per cent.

Such an increase as this could not fail to affect even such a large market as the British one, for, during the Christmas season, the demand for bacon is limited considerably by the large sales of poultry, etc.

Canadian bacon has not taken this tumble alone, as prices all along the line have depreciated. Even at the low price now ruling for the pea-fed Canadian article it is still quoted 8 to 10s. per cwt. higher than the corn-fed American article.

The Canadian packers now point to this depreciation in values as vindication of the reduction made in the price of live hogs some time ago, which reduction was severely criticized in some quarters.

They now turn the tables on these critics, who, at the time, advised the farmers throughout the country to hold back their hogs, by pointing out the fact that, owing to the farmers keeping their hogs too long, fully 40, and possibly 50, per cent. of the hogs offered are too fat, and are unfit for export. As the price of thick fats is but $3.75 per cwt., against $4.37½ to $4.50 per cwt. for light singers, the loss by keeping this large proportion of hogs so long is considerable.

A BUSINESS MAN REJECTED.

THE CANADIAN GROCER exceedingly regrets the defeat of Mr. Tilden for the Hamilton mayoralty.

As a business man he should have been elected.

Newspapers that were opposed to him acknowledged that the office was one which demanded business principles in its conduct, but they solaced themselves with the alleged belief that Mr. Tilden's opponent, a lawyer, was blessed with business qualities, and, therefore, was just as qualified as he for the position.

Then, the organized labor vote was against Mr. Tilden. He had deigned, some years ago, in connection with his own business, to do something which did not please that body. Consequently he had its opposition instead of support, notwithstanding his importance as an employer of labor and the support that was due to him as one who has done so much in building up the industries of the "Ambitious City."

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

ONTARIO MARKETS.

TORONTO, Jan. 5, 1899.

GROCERIES.

WHILE the volume of business is naturally not large at this time of the year, it appears to be better than usual, and the general outlook is healthy. During the last few days inquiries have been coming in more freely for canned goods, and a few transactions at good figures are announced. Coffees have been a little easier in the primary market, but quiet and unchanged locally. There is not much being done in tea, but business in this line may be expected to improve from this out. There have been a few sorting-up orders for foreign dried fruits, such as currants, raisins, etc., but trade in this line is, on the whole, quiet. Sugars are dull and weak, although no further change has taken place in the local market. A fair business is being done in molasses, but in syrups there is very little doing.

CANNED GOODS.

Canned tomatoes appear to be gathering strength. There have been, during the week, more inquiries, and there have been a few transactions, although the volume of business does not yet amount to a great deal. One wholesale dealer was bid 85c. for a round lot of several hundred cases of tomatoes, but he refused to accept. Other houses, it is alleged, have recorded similar bids. One operator claims to have obtained 90c. f.o.b. the factory for tomatoes, and $1 for corn f.o.b. factory for shipment to British Columbia. Wholesalers are now, as a rule, quoting tomatoes at 85 to 90c. per dozen. Some declare they will not accept less than the outside figure named. Corn is being held at 90c. to $1 by the jobbers, and peas at 75c. upward. Business is a little more active in canned salmon than it was. There has been a little more inquiry, of late, for canned fruits, although the orders have been small individually.

COFFEES.

The coffee market was a little weaker, but a little better feeling has again developed, the cables denoting steadier prices. Locally, the market is quiet and uninteresting.

SUGARS.

While there have been further declines in the European beet sugar market, the market appears to be, on the whole, steadier than it was. In New York there was, last week, a decline of ⅛c. in granulated sugars, but except in soft sugars the cutting of prices by the Trust and the independent refiners has practically ceased for the time being at least. Refiners are buyers of raws, but importers do not appear in a hurry to do business. Business in sugars, both at home and abroad is light. Local quotations are unchanged at $4.58 for Montreal granulated, and $4.53 for Acadia.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Trade has fallen off in both sugar and corn syrups, and very little business is being done. In molasses, a fair trade is being done in the New Orleans description at 25 to 27c. in bbls., and 27 to 30c. in half-bbls. Advices from New Orleans report a scarcity of desirable grades, with lower grades steady as to price.

NUTS.

A few small sorting-up orders are being received. The total arrival of Brazil nuts in Liverpool the past season is placed at 3,332 tons, against 3,179 tons last year.

See pages 27 and 28 for Toronto, Montreal, St. John, and Winnipeg prices current.

TEAS.

There is not much business being done. In the way of import the chief business at the moment is in high-grade Ceylon teas, practically none of which are to be had on spot. There is a little business being done on spot in low and medium grade teas. There is talk of an easier feeling in Japan teas, but in spite of this there have been transactions during the week at prices previously ruling. A few inquiries have been received during the week for China Panyongs, but no transactions resulted as far as can be learned. Inquires for this description of tea are rather scarce upon this market.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS— There is not a great deal doing in currants, but the market is steady. An advance of 3d. per cwt. was cabled from the primary market last week.

VALENCIA RAISINS — There is a little sorting-up being done, but it does not amount to much.

PRUNES—Trade is still quiet in prunes, and the market is without special feature.

GREEN FRUITS.

While the usual after Christmas quietness is now observable, the demand is better than was expected. The demand for oranges is good, but receipts are so large that Valencias and navels have declined 25c. per box, and Jamaicas 25 to 50c. per bbl. Sweet potatoes are practically done. There is no change in either prices or the conditions affecting any of the other fruits on the market.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—There is little activity. The demand for strictly fresh and for boiling stock is excellent. Held eggs move steadily at 15 to 18c. per doz.; pickled at 14½ to 15½c. Cases bring all the way from 14½ to 16½c. f.o.b. point of shipment.

POTATOES—The demand is steady, with prices firm at 55c. for car lots and 60 to 65c. for small lots on the market.

POULTRY—The market for turkeys and geese is decidedly weak, a reduction of ½ to 1c. per lb. being noted. Poorly dressed birds are neglected, as there is sufficient bright, fresh-killed stock to supply the demand. The demand for chickens and ducks is moderate, but steady, and prices are firm and unchanged.

DRIED AND EVAPORATED APPLES—The situation is unchanged. Dried apples are steady at 5 to 5½c. at outside points, and at 5½ to 6c. in a jobbing way for No. 1 stock. Common stock is 1c. lower. Evaporated apples are in a steady demand at 8¼ to 8½c. outside, and 8½ to 9c. in a jobbing way locally.

VEGETABLES — Spinach, onions, lettuce and radishes, greenhouse-grown, are on the market. Cabbage is 15c. per doz. dearer. Turnips are 5 to 10c. cheaper. We quote as follows: Spinach, 75c. to $1 per bush.; green onions, 10 to 15c. per doz.; cauliflower, 50 to 75c. per doz.; celery, 50 to 75c. per doz.; lettuce, 20 to 30c. doz. bunches; radishes, winter, 15 to 25c. doz. bunches; cabbage, per doz; 75c. to $1; parsley, 10 to 12½c. per doz. bunches; turnips, 25 to 30c. per bag; beets, 50 to 60c. per bag; parsnips, 60 to 75c. per bag; carrots, 50 to 75c. per bag; onions, Danvers, $1.25 to $1.50 per bag; butter squash, $2 to $2.50; pumpkins, $1 to $1.50; Hubbard squash, $2.50 to $3; red cabbage, 40 to 50c.; egg plant, 50 to 90c. per basket.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—Dairy large rolls are in poor demand. Prints and tubs are steady. Creamery tubs and boxes are unchanged; prints are ½ to 1c. dearer. We quote at outside points: Dairy tubs, 12½c.; prints,

GRAIN, FLOUR, BREAKFAST FOODS.

GRAIN—Wheat is moderate this week, and red and white are now quoted at 70c. at middle freight stations. There is little doing on the street market. Oats are 3c. dearer; goose wheat 2c., and red and white wheat, ¼ to 1½c. We quote: Wheat, white, 72 to 72½c.; red, 72 to 72½c.; goose, 71 to 72c.; peas, 58 to 65c.; oats, 34 to 35c.; barley, 48 to 50c.; rye, 51 to 52c.; No. 1 hard Manitoba has advanced 1c., and is now quoted at 81 to 82c., Toronto freights.

FLOUR—There is no change to note. We quote: Manitoba patents, $4.15; Manitoba strong bakers', $3.90; Ontario patents, $3.90 to $4; straight roller, $3.15 to $3.25, Toronto freights.

BREAKFAST FOODS—The demand is good. Prices are steady and unaltered. We quote as follows: Standard oatmeal and rolled oats, $3 90 in bags and $4 in bbls.; rolled wheat, $2.60 in 100-lb. bbls.; cornmeal, $2.50; split peas, $4; pot barley, $4.

HIDES, SKINS AND WOOL

HIDES—The market keeps firm. There is no change in prices. We quote cow hides as follows: No. 1, 8½c.; No. 2, 7½c.; No. 3, 6½c.; cured, 9c. Steer hides are worth ½c. more.

CALFSKINS—We quote nominally: No. 1 veal, 8-lb. and up, 10c. per lb.; No. 2, 8c.; dekins, from 30 to 35c.; culls, 15 to 20c.

SHEEPSKINS—No change. Sheepskins and lambskins keep firm at 80c.

WOOL—The market continues dull and weak. We quote fleece at 15c. and unwashed at 10c.

SALT

A good demand is noted, with prices firm and unchanged. We quote: Carload lots, $1.05 per bbl., and 65c. per sack; less than carload lots, $1.10 per bbl., and 70c. per sack. At the wells we quote F.O.B., barrels, 75c.; sacks, 54c.

MARKET NOTES.

Eddy's sulphur matches are 25c. per case lower.

Turkeys and geese are ½ to 1c. per lb. cheaper.

Canned tomatoes are firmer, and quoted from 85 to 90c. per dozen.

Dairy large rolls butter has declined 1c.; dairy and creamery pound prints are both 1c. dearer.

Valencia and navel oranges are 25c. per box cheaper; Jamaicas have declined 25 to 50c. per bbl.

GROCERIES.

THE wholesale grocery trade during the past week has been very much of a holiday character. In consequence, the market, on the whole, has ruled quiet, and without any new feature of note. The demand for all lines has been limited, but the prospects are that there will be some activity in the leading lines, now that the holidays are over, and especially so in teas, as the duty question is again being brought up, and the opinion is that the Government will impose a duty of 4 to 6c. per lb. at the next session of Parliament. On account of the above, there has been more inquiry of late, and considerable business will likely be done before our next report. Molasses is quiet, but firmly held.

SUGAR.

There has been no further change in the sugar market since our last, prices having ruled steady for all grades. The demand has been limited, as buyers generally laid in ample supplies before the holidays, in consequence, business has been dull with granulated quoted at $4.40, and yellows at $3.70 to $4.20, as to quality, at the factory.

SYRUPS.

In syrups business has also been very quiet, and prices rule steady at 1¾ to 2¼c. per lb.

MOLASSES.

The demand for molasses has been slow, but the undertone to the market is firm, and a larger movement is anticipated later on in the month. At present car lots of choice Barbadoes are quoted at 30c.; single puncheons at 31c., and the inside figure holders would accept for round lots is 32c., and some are asking 32½c.

DRIED FRUIT.

The situation in dried fruit is practically unchanged, owing to the fact that stocks continue large, in consequence prices are in buyers favor. We quote: Layers, 5¼

Japanese Tangerines

CLEMES BROS.
51 Front St. East

to 5½c.; fine off-stalk, 4c., and off-stalk, 3½c.

NUTS.

In this line business has been quiet, as buyers generally have ample supplies on hand, and prices show no change.

CANNED GOODS.

There has been no new feature in this market. The demand for all lines is somewhat quiet just now, and prices rule about steady.

SPICES.

A fair business has been done in spices, there being a good demand for small lots, and prices, generally, are well maintained.

COFFEE.

This market has been quiet and easier, in sympathy with American advances. We quote: Maracaibo, 9½ to 13½c.; Santos, 7 to 10c., and Rio, 7 to 10c.

TEA.

There is nothing new in the situation of the tea trade. The talk of duty has created an uneasy feeling, and the prospects are that considerable business will be put through in the near future. A few small sales of Japans have been made at 15 to 15½c., and one or two round lots of Pingsuey gunpowders were placed at 8½ to 9½c.

GREEN FRUIT.

Business in this line has been quiet, owing to the fact that buyers laid in large supplies for the holiday trade, and, until such are worked off, not much activity is looked for. The only changes notable are a decline of 25c. per box in the price of Valencia oranges and a decline of 50c. per box in Californias. Valencia oranges are selling from $3.75 to $5.50, according to size; Californias at $3 to $4, and Jamaicas at $5 to $5.50 per barrel. Lemons are in fair demand at $2.25 to $3 per box, cranberries at $7 to $9 per barrel. Almeria grapes plentiful at $4.50 to $7 per keg, pineapples sell at 35c. each, and grape fruit at $5.50 to $6 per box.

APPLES.

There has been no improvement in the apple market, and prices range from $2.50 to $4 per barrel.

FISH.

Supplies of fresh frozen are larger and prices easy. We quote: Haddock and cod at 4 to 4½c.; salmon, 13c., and to arrive by freight, 9c.; whitefish and dore, 6½c.; pike, 4c.; tommy cods, $1.50 to $1.75 per bbl.; fresh herring, 2¼c. per lb. and smelts 6c.

Demand for salt has been fair, and prices show no change. We give quotations this week as follows: No. 1 herrings, $4.25 to $4.50 in barrels, and in half-barrels, $2.12½ to $2.25; No. 1 green cod, $6; do. large, $6.50; No. 1 hake, $4.25 to $4.50; B.C. salmon, $12.75 to $13, in full barrels, and $7 in half-barrels, and No. 2 mackerel, $18 per barrel.

Supplies of preserved fish are limited. We quote: Haddies firm at 7c.; bay bloaters at 80c. to $1 per box, and smoked herring 10c. per box. Dried codfish, 4c.; boneless, 5½c., and dressed boneless cod, $4.12½c. per 100.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—The egg market was quiet and prices show no change. We quote: No. 1 candled, 16c.; No. 2 do., 12½ to 13½c.; Montreal limed, 14½ to 15c.; western limed, 13 to 13½c., and culls, 9c. per doz.

POULTRY—There was little demand for poultry, and trade was quiet at unchanged prices. We quote as follows: Turkeys, good to choice, 9 to 9½c.; scalded, 8 to 8½c.; chickens, good to choice, 6 to 8c.; fowls, 4 to 5c.; ducks, 7 to 8½c., and geese, 5 to 6c. per lb.

BEANS—Beans were dull and unchanged. We quote: Choice hand-picked, 95c. to $1 per bushel; primes, 85 to 90c.

HONEY — The market for honey was very quiet. We quote as follows: White clover comb, in 1-lb. sections, 7 to 7½c.; dark, 5½ to 6½c.; white extracted, 6 to 6½c., and dark, 4 to 5c.

DRESSED HOGS AND PROVISIONS.

The local provision market was dull and featureless, prices being steady all round. We quote: Canadian pork, in barrels, $11.50 to $16; pure Canadian lard, in pails, at 7½ to 7¾c. per lb., and compound refined at 5 to 5½c. per lb.; Hams, 10 to 12c. and bacon, 10 to 12c. per lb.

In dressed hogs trade was quiet and prices unchanged at $5.65 for light, and $5.40 for heavy weights per 100 lb.

FLOUR, GRAIN, ETC.

GRAIN—The grain market was quiet, but the undertone was firm, and prices fully maintained, in fact, holders in most cases were asking higher figures, but shippers showed little disposition to operate. On spot, No. 2 white oats in car lots sold at 33c. store, and at points west of Toronto 29½c. was paid. Manitoba No. 1 hard wheat was quoted at 68½c. December, and at 72½c. May, afloat Fort William. Ontario red wheat at western points sold at 71c.

FLOUR—In sympathy with the recent strength in wheat, there is a firmer undertone to the flour market, and, although no actual advance in prices has taken place yet, the prospects are there will be early in the new year. Business to-day was quiet. We quote: Winter wheat patents, $3.75 to $4; straight rollers, $3.50 to $3.65; in bags, $1.65 to $1.75; Manitoba patents, $4.25; strong bakers', $3.75 to $4.10

FEED—The demand for feed continues good, and millers, in some cases, state that they find it impossible to fill all the orders coming forward, owing to the scarcity of stock. Ontario bran sold at $14.50 per ton in bulk. We quote: Manitoba bran, $15; shorts, $17 and mouille, $18 per ton, including bags.

MEAL—There was no change in the meal market, business being quiet at $3.50 per bbl., and at $1.70 per bag for rolled oats.

HAY—In baled hay trade was slow and prices are unchanged. We quote: No. 1, $6 to $6.50; No. 2 extra, $4.50 to $5; No. 2, clover mixture, $4 to $4.50; clover, $3.50 to $4.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—There was no change in the butter market, and values remain 20¼ to 20½c. for finest late made, in boxes, and 19½ to 20c. in tubs.

CHEESE—The cheese market was quiet and unchanged to-day, with holders firm at 10½c. for finest western and 10¼ to 10⅜c. for eastern, but buyers are backward at these figures.

MONTREAL NOTES.

D. Morson & Co. have been appointed agents for Remy's starch, and will carry these goods in stock.

A. & B. Gallant, general merchants, Bloomfield, P.E.I., have dissolved. Benj. Gallant intends continuing the business.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 2, 1899.

WITH Christmas day the very mild weather left us, and Winnipeg has settled down to really sharp weather, the thermometer for the week ranging from 25 to 35 below zero. In business circles, the week has been a quiet one, practically no business being done by wholesale houses. The year's business has been wound up and preparation made towards stocktaking before the spring trade.

There has been little or no movement in wheat. Deliveries are small, and most of the grain coming in now is more or less damp. The slight improvement in the grain market outside is encouraging holders here to look for an advancing market.

FLOUR — Plour is quoted at: Patent, $1.95; bakers', $1.75; Algoma, $1.30; XXXX, $1.05. Trade in this line is better than almost any other. Millers are still anticipating higher figures, but will not advance until there is a permanent improvement in the wheat market.

PORK—Supply is increasing slightly, but there is very little doing.

CURED MEATS—This market is fairly easy and without change. Hams, smoked, 11c.; breakfast bellies, 11½c.; backs, 11c.; shoulders, 8½c.; spiced rolls, 10; dry salt long clear bacon, 8½c.; extra short clear bacon, 8c. backs, 9c.; shoulders 8¼c.

CANNED GOODS — No change can be reported here and the demand at present is light. Quotations are: Corn, $2.25; peas, $1.90 beans, $1.90; tomatoes, $2.25 to $2.30.

EVAPORATED AND DRIED FRUITS — Apricots continue at 16½c. per lb. Evaporated apples are ranging from 9½ to 11c., according to quality, while dried apples are 8c. per lb. and practically unsaleable at those figures.

SUGARS—Granulated is dull at 5 7-16c. Paris lumps are quoted 6¼c., and bright yellow, 4½c.

FISH—Scarcity of haddies continues, and many orders are still unfilled and will remain so.

BUTTER—This market is slow. Dealers here have good supply of creamery on hand and little, if any, is arriving from the east, except certain carload lots bought and shipped direct to British Columbia. The price of creamery from jobber to retailer is 22 to 23c. per lb. Dairy butter is slow. Round lots are being bought at Winnipeg for 14 to 15c. The Government dairy school opens on January 3 for its winter sessions, and the product will be put on the market to meet local demand for fresh-made creamery.

EGGS—Manitoba hens are busy keeping warm, and have no time to lay. Strictly fresh laid eggs are at famine prices. Fresh gathered are worth from 20 to 22c. per doz.; pickled, 16 to 17c.

NUTS—The demand for nuts this year has exceeded all previous records. New peanuts, roasted, 12c.; Grenoble walnuts, 15c.; Tarragona almonds, 15c.; Sicily filberts, 12c.; Brazils, 13c.; pecans, 15c.

GREEN FRUIT—This market is now reduced to the ordinary winter varieties, and will show few changes for some weeks to come. The supply of oranges is large and of good quality. Californian navels, $4.75 to $5, according to size; lemons, Caiifornian, $4 to $4.50 per case; cranberries, $8 per bbl.; bananas, small shipments coming by express, $3 to $3.50 per bunch; apples, $3.50 to $4.50; sweet potatoes, per bbl., $5; celery, per doz., 40c.; fresh lettuce, 50c. per doz.

A 25-POUND LOBSTER.

One of the largest lobsters ever caught in the vicinity of Calais, or in any other place, as far as known, was recently captured off Grand Manan. The monster weighed 25 lb., measuring 42 inches from tip to tip, having claws 26 inches long by 7 wide. The only other one of about the same size which is known to have been caught is, at present, in the museum at Philadelphia. The age of this giant monster is, of course, only conjectured. Up to two or three years of age, it is easy enough to determine, but, after that, it becomes more difficult. It is believed the age of the one above mentioned must have been at least 50 years. This one was sold to a fish dealer in Montreal—Kennebec Journal.

HARDWOOD PACKING BOXES.

It seems paradoxical to state that there is a possibility of pine packing boxes being superseded by hardwood boxes because of the lighter weight of the latter, but such is the case. It has been found that, especially beech, birch and maple, cut into thin veneers, and cemented together three-ply, the thickness of the whole about 5-16ths of an inch, make superior packing cases for carrying all kinds of heavy and light merchandise.

This veneer box is waterproof for all practical purposes, it is less bulky, more durable and much lighter than the 1-inch pine packing case now in use. By this reduction of weight the saving in freight and express charges over long distances, it is claimed, will give the shipper his packing case free of cost, which is a consideration in the expense account not to be overlooked.

The advent of this style of packing box will be beneficial to Canada in two ways, for, besides its advantages to the merchant using it, their use may appreciate the value of the great hardwood forests within our borders, and may stay the "passing" of the white pine, 40 per cent. of which, it is claimed, finds its way into packing boxes.

An English company has already commenced the manufacture of these boxes in Toronto. Another English company is erecting a factory in the easterly section of New Brunswick, where hard woods abound close to the seaboard, from whence shipments to England, the great user of packing cases, can be economically made by water the year round. Here the veneer is manufactured, cut into sizes, and shipped to the London factory, where the cases are put together and distributed.

PEOPLE WITH GOOD MANNERS.

IT was fortunate for Napoleon that he married Josephine before he was made commander-in-chief of the armies of Italy. Her fascinating manners and her wonderful powers of persuasion were more influential than the loyalty of any dozen men in France in attaching to him the adherents who would promote his interests. Josephine was to the drawing-room and the salon what Napoleon was to the field—a pre-eminent leader. The secret of her personality that made her Empress not only of the hearts of the Frenchmen, but also of the nations her husband conquered, has been beautifully told by herself. "There is only one occasion," she said to an intimate friend, "in which I would voluntarily use the words 'I will!'—namely, when I would say, 'I will that all around me be happy.'"

When Catherine of Russia gave receptions to her nobles, she published the following rules of etiquette: "Gentlemen will not get drunk before the feast is ended. Noblemen are forbidden to strike their wives in company. Ladies of the court must not wash out their mouths in the drinking-glasses, or wipe their faces on the damask, or pick their teeth with forks." But to-day the nobles of Russia have no superiors in manners.

Etiquette originally meant the ticket or tag tied to a bag to indicate its contents. If a bag had this ticket it was not examined. From this the word passed to cards upon which were printed certain rules to be observed by guests. These rules were "the ticket," or the etiquette. To be "the ticket," or, as it was sometimes expressed, to act or talk by the card, became the thing with the better class.

A fine manner more than compensates for all the defects of nature. The most fascinating person is always the one of most winning manners, not the one of greatest physical beauty. The Greeks thought beauty was a proof of the peculiar favor of the gods, and considered that beauty only worth adorning and transmitting which was unmarred by outward manifestations of hard and haughty feeling. According to their ideal, beauty must be the expression of attractive qualities within—such as cheerfulness, benignity, contentment, charity, and love. —Pushing to the Front.

There is a movement on foot in Toronto for the establishment of a Canadian home product league, the object of which organization is to foster a preference among consumers for Canadian-made goods, all other things being equal.

A PURSE FOR FRED. DIXON.

On Saturday afternoon last, a pleasing function took place in the offices of The Davidson & Hay, Limited, when the firm and entire staff, traveling and warehouse, took the opportunity to present Fred. Dixon with a well-filled purse, as a slight mark of the high esteem in which he is held, both by the firm and by his fellow-employes. Mr. Dixon is leaving the firm's employ to assume a position with Geo. Lightbound & Co., brokers. Col. Davidson, in making the presentation, referred to the long and faithful service of the recipient; and, while regretting the loss to the company of so valued an employe, for himself, and on behalf of those present, assured him of their hearty wishes for success in his new field.

CROCKERY CHEAP THIS YEAR.

The travelers for Gowans, Kent & Co., wholesale crockery and glassware dealers, Toronto, started out this week with a full range of samples. Grocers and general merchants who handle these goods will be pleased to learn that a material reduction has taken place in the price of all crockery ware. The competition among the potteries of Britain has been so great lately that a considerable decline has ensued. This should lead to an increased demand for this class of goods.

TRADE CHAT.

THE opening of the Dufferin mines at Salmon River, N.S., and other mines along the eastern coast of Nova Scotia has given quite an impetus to trade there. The Montreal and London Gold Development Company have erected a large store at Salmon River, and several travelers who have visited there recently have been fortunate in securing good-sized orders.

Tenders have been asked for building the proposed pork-packing factory at Harriston, Ont.

W. A. Starring has started for Dawson City with a ton of oysters for the Klondyke miners. He expects to retail them at $25 per plate.

Application has been made to incorporate The Lethbridge, N. W. T., Cooperative Company, to trade as merchants, the capital slock to be $10,000.

The Butter Manufacturers' Association of Montreal are considering the formation of a board to dispose of the surplus butter sent in to the Montreal market by farmers.

The three-storey brick tobacco and cigar factory at the corner of Wellington and Liverpool streets, Montreal, was badly gutted by fire about 7 o'clock on Monday last week.

Wm. G. Gardner, who, for some years, has been cheesemaker in the Mississippi Pride factory, Ramsay, Ont., has bought a half interest in M. K. Everett's butter and cheese factories at Easton Corners, Ont.

J. E. Knapp, cheesemaker, Plum Hollow, Ont., salesman on the Brockville board, has made an assignment to H. H. Arnold, of Athens, Ont., for the benefit of his creditors. His liabilities are said to be in the neighborhood of $15,000. The amount of his assets is not definitely known.

Large shipments of apples have been forwarded from the Annapolis Valley to London during the past two weeks, according to a despatch. Up to date this season the shipment of apples to the English market is nearly 150,000 barrels ahead of the shipments for a corresponding period last year.

The annual meeting of the Dairymen's Association of British Columbia will be held on Jan. 26 and 27 at Ladner, B.C. At the same time an exhibition of dairy produce will be held under the auspices of the association. Prizes will be given for creamery butter, dairy butter, home-made and factory cheese, dairy utensils and packages, and for feed, such as roots of various kinds, hay and ensilage.

During the past season there were received at the Rideau Valley, Ont., cheese factory 2,543,482 lb. of milk from which were manufactured 239, 012 lb. of cheese which brought, on an average, 8.26c. per lb. The average quantity of milk required to produce a pound of cheese was 10.64 lb.; the patrons realized $13.48 per ton for their milk. The gross receipts of the factory for the past season amounted to $19,752.68, of which $17,132.55 went to the patrons

A. A. Logan's cheese factory, at Dunbar, Ont., has been pronounced by Peter Macfarlane, Dominion Government cold storage inspector, to be one of the best equipped he has ever seen. The floor of the cheese-making room is of cement. There are three large vats, which have a combined capacity of 20,000 pounds of milk, or nearly 700 gallons each. There are two improved Reid's cream separators, and a pasteurizing machine. There is a fine large ice house; and there is a cold storage chamber, which is 12 feet square, finished in first-class style, and which was built according to the plans recommended by the Department of Agriculture. The entire plant and buildings cost about $5,000.

TRAIN THE CLERKS.

Much fault is found with clerks because of their inability, whether natural or affected, to always realize their opportunities in the selling of goods, says Stoves and Hardware Reporter. In the majority of cases, the merchant has failed to instruct them as he should, and give them explicit directions in regard to the disposal of goods which it is deemed advisable to sell before others. It is granted that all clerks are not capable of being taught, nor would they desire to benefit by the instruction. There are numskulls everywhere. But, before the merchant commences to rail out at them for their shortcomings, he should first ask himself whether he has given them due information which will assist them in carrying out his wishes and instructions. It is especially important at this period that the sales-force should be conscientiously trained, in order to attend carefully and industriously to the acceleration given to trade by the holiday season. Urge upon them the necessity and importance of being quick-witted, expeditious, zealous and yet conscientious. People are universally in a buying mood throughout this entire month, and it would be unfortunate to lose any good opportunity to increase sales and profits. Give the clerks some inducement to encourage their zeal at the same time. They will be more desirous to please and to develop their executive ability to the highest possible pitch, if they have a tangible object in view.

THE NORTHWEST COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS' BALL.

THE Northwest Commercial Association added another to the long list of their social triumphs with the annual ball last Wednesday evening. The drawing-rooms of the hotel Manitoba were made beautiful with palms and flowering plants, bright fires gleamed in the open grates, while the lights were not too brilliant to leave delightfully shadowy corners, where softly cushioned seats invited quiet tete-a-tetes.

In the small dining-room and large triangular corridor were the supper tables. bright with silver and gay with fragrant blossoms; here too were hugh blocks of ice with wells of delicious lemonade in their icy depths. The great dining-room was devoted to dancing, and made a most delightfut ballroom with its decorations of evergreens, flags and colored lights. The tall spruce trees in the corners afforded easy vantage ground from which to view the dancers. The evening opened with a brief but choice concert programme in which the following Winnipeg artists took part :

PART I.

1. Overture..... Orchestra
2. Song....."Outlaw"..... Field
   Dr. Smith
3. Song...."There May be Eyes"..... Geisha
   Miss Barrett
4. Recitation.."A True Story of the Battle of Waterloo" Mr. S. Brodie

PART II.

5. Duett....."Estudiatana"..... Miss Barrett Miss Anderson
6. Song....."Gay Hussar"..... Field
   Mr. O. H. Day
7. Song....."Swallows"..... Cowan
   Miss Anderson
8. Violin Solo..... Mr. Mollord
9. Quartette.."Sweet Day so Cool"..... Holden
   Misses Barrett and Anderson
   Messrs. Day and Smith

After the concert, while the room was being cleared of chairs, the guests strolled through the drawing-rooms, and engagements for dances were made. Promptly at 10.30 the orchestra struck up the first lancers, and in a moment the floor was crowded with dancers.

There were a noticeable number of pretty gowns, and pretty girls for that matter. That plain skirts are the best and most elegant for street wear no one will deny, but for a ball the frilled and rippled skirts are a decided success. The number of white frocks was very marked, confirming the rumor that white is the color of the coming season. Next in popularity was white over a colored slip. There were also many dainty gowns in pink, pale blue and lavender. Among the younger matrons black seemed in special favor, and some of the toilettes worn were strikingly handsome. Altogether, the room, viewed from the gallery during the basket figure of the lancers, looked very much like a gay garden of flowers tossed in the wind. The travelers are ideal hosts, and there were no wallflowers but voluntary ones at their ball.

At midnight, supper was announced, and proved not the least delightful part of the night's enjoyment.

Dancing was resumed at one o'clock and kept up gaily until four a.m., when the notes of "God Save the Queen" brought the happy night to a close.

The committee who had charge of the the ball, and whose exertions were crowned with such success, was composed of : F. J. Cox, Jas. Mundie, Fred. W. Drewry, Wm. Hargreaves, L. C. MacIntyre, J. M. O'Loughlin, A. L. Johnson, K. McKenzie, A. P. Jeffreys, G. F. Bryan, R. M. McGowan, M. Healey, F. Agnew, A. McAllister, Frank Morgan, J. M. Lamb, E. L. Thomas, Geo. Wilson.

Among the guests from outside points were noticed : Alderman and Mrs. Halpin, and Miss Bertrand, Brandon ; W. J. Arnott, Toronto ; B. Limoges, Whitewood, and Miss L. Boyd, Carberry. There were some 250 guests in all.

SUBSTITUTION.

We don't blame the grocers or druggists on moral grounds for substituting certain proprietary brands for others, remarks Merchants' Review, but we do blame them when they allow themselves or their clerks to become positive nuisances to customers with their parrot cry of "Here's something just as good," or "We can recommend this." Why not give customers what they ask for ?

The stores that allow clerks P.M.'s for selling the store's own brands, or who fine them for selling outside brands, are just fooling away their chances of success, When a customer wants one thing, it is not good policy to give him or her another.

There is one grocer in Brooklyn who thought differently, until a couple of weeks ago, when a lady remarked to a clerk, in the hearing of the proprietor, "See here, I've been buying groceries here for two years, and never once in that time have you neglected to urge some goods on me that I didn't want. Now, if this doesn't cease at once it will be more than two years before I buy anything else here."

The lady was mad clear through, and the grocer couldn't avoid hearing her.

As soon as she had left the store, the order went forth, "Cease pressing customers to take 'something else.'"

PEANUT CULTIVATION.

THE peanut is a native of Brazil, but, early after the discovery of that country, it was introduced into Africa and other tropical parts of the Old World, where it became a staple article of food. The varieties grown are the Virginia, running and bunch ; the Tennessee and Georgia, white and red ; the North Carolina, and the Spanish.

The Virginia varieties, being most widely known and popular with the trade, are the ones commonly planted. There is little difference between the Virginia and Tennessee nuts, both being sold as "Virginia hand-picked" peanuts.

The Spanish nut has a small kernel of fine quality, and is in demand as "confectioners' stock," being worth several cents per pound more than any other shelled stock.

While an open, sandy soil which does not stain the shell is the ideal one for the peanut, it thrives on any friable soil that contains a sufficient quantity of lime and humus. The presence of lime is necessary for the development of the nuts, as without lime there may be luxuriant vines bearing nothing but pods.

Peanut oil is used for lubricating and soap-making, and is a good substitute for olive oil for salalds and other culinary purposes, and as a substitute for lard, cottolene and butter in cooking. The residue from oil-making, known as "peanut cake," is a highly-valued cattle food in the countries of Europe, and is also ground into fine flour and used as human food.—Fruit Trade Journal.

The several stores in Perth, Ont., resumed early closing on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings at 6 o'clock, commencing on Wednesday, January 4.

The "Salada" Tea Company received eighty orders from Toronto grocers on Tuesday, the first business day of the year. Fifty-one of these were taken by A. Irving in the west end of the city, twenty-four by F. Marmion in the east end, and five were taken over the telephone, making, in all, eighty orders from Toronto city grocers in one day—a record for "Salada," and certainly not bad for the first day in the year.

AMONG TORONTO RETAILERS.

A Unique Customer.

I heard of a new kind of credit customer the other day. J. F. Morrish, Yonge street, is not fond of "charging" goods, but is willing to put on his books all the customers similar to this one that come along. A gentleman went into his store lately, and, after purchasing 80 or 90 cents' worth of goods, threw down a $5 bill on the counter, and remarked: "Keep that, Mr. Morrish, and when I come or send for anything, charge it to me. I believe you are a fair-dealing man, and, if you treat me right, when I get the value of that bill, I will send you another one."

This is undoubtedly a new way of asking a man to "please, charge it." How fortunate there are not many men who desire to do business with their grocer that way. If there were, we should all want to be grocers. Nevertheless, such customers will find a welcome in any grocery store I have ever yet been in. Here's to more of them!

FOR $1,000 I can place a 35-line advertisement, every other day for one year, in fourteen of the leading papers in the eleven largest cities in Canada.

This is merely to give an idea of how far money can go in this country.

Never have failures been fewer, never has trade been better, never has there been better prospects for the shrewd advertiser.

I know the papers best suited for different businesses, I know their rates, I am in a position to help all who want to share in Canada's prosperity. Write stating who you want to reach, and I will gladly submit list and figures.

HALIFAX WHOLESALE GROCERY TRADE.

THE wholesale grocery trade has been, on the whole, prosperous during the year, more so perhaps, than almost any other. Profits have been even and fairly maintained through the year. Early in the season prior to and concurrently with the Spanish-American war came advancing prices in a great many articles. Flour rose to figures higher than had prevailed for years, and Halifax merchants shared in the money that was to be made. The season opened early, nearly a month ahead of the average. There have been no pronounced or sudden declines. To the grocer this meant steady, everyday profits, rather than the ups and downs that sometimes come. It is the general remark in the grocery trade that bad debts are remarkably small. An agent of a Montreal house made a couple of trips through Nova Scotia and for a brief period caused a flutter in the trade, but these men now have small terrors for the Halifax men. As one merchant remarked to The Herald, in speaking on this subject: "Such men can smash prices, but they can't sell goods at a profit and beat Halifax." Considerably more goods were sold this year than last, by some firms, and all claim to have had a good season. One thing is unsatisfactory. The retail trade through the country are constantly calling on the wholesale men to protect them by buying as much as possible at home and by refusing to sell to any except those in the trade. This had been adhered to by the wholesalers, but, on the other hand, when a strange traveler comes from Montreal, offering some inducement to abandon an old home house, without a moment's hesitation, many customers give him their orders. This is not as it should be. "Home trade for the home people, and as much foreign as possible" should be our motto. But, as has already been stated, the Montreal grocery people cannot undersell the Halifax merchants and make anything.—Herald.

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND PRODUCE FOR BRITAIN.

A press despatch from Charlottetown, P.E.I., says: "The steamer Gaspesia took the following cargo for Milford Haven: 1,500 sheep, shipped by Carvell Bros., E. Wheatley, city, and Mr. Munn, of Marshfield; 100 cattle, shipped by Mr. Wheatley; 500 boxes butter, shipped by T. J. Dillon; 100 tons bacon, by B. & M. Rattenbury; 135 bbls. apples, by Senator Ferguson; 101 bbls. apples by John Robertson, Inkerman; 500 tons hay, 10,000 bushels oats, and a large amount of other sundry articles. Carrying such an extensive shipment so late in the season, direct to the Old Country, speaks highly for the promoters, and all interested in the inauguration of the service. P. E. Island has reason to-day to feel proud of the fact that so great and successful efforts have been made to gather up and export such large quantities at this hour. It was the best Christmas present that the Province could be honored with, and it will certainly meet with the appreciation of the public generally."

CATALOGUES, BOOKLETS, ETC.

"AT IT AGAIN."

Such is the title of the bright, pithy booklet The Sherwin-Williams Co., paint and varnish makers, Montreal, have just issued. This title hardly describes the energy of this firm, for they keep so everlastingly at it that "Always at It" would be nearer to the mark than "At it Again." The mission of this booklet is to tell the trade that the Canadian branch of the firm's business is rapidly extending. Their business last year was three times as large as that of two years ago. New buildings have been erected, and the equipment of the Montreal branch has been generally improved, and more additions are anticipated. The closing suggestion is worth considering, for it is emphatic in the statement that "now" is the time for dealers considering accepting an agency to secure a stock of the Sherwin-Williams paints.

A MILITARY CALENDAR.

Webster Bros., grocers, Vancouver, do not intend to allow their names to be forgotten in the homes of that city this year. They have issued a brightly lithographed calendar, with two scenes of military life which hold the moral that it is not wise to "jolly" a sentry on duty, lest the utility of the sentry's bayonet be painfully manifested. Webster Bros. are not likely to be forgotten as long as they send out such humorous and gaily-printed calendars as this one.

The strike of the Paris, France, grocers' employes has collapsed, many of the strikers obtaining their demands.

THE MINES OF BRITISH COLUMBIA.

(From The Economist, London, Eng.)

A FAIRLY comprehensive inspection of the leading mining districts of British Columbia—that is to say, of Rossland, Nelson and the Slocan, together with an odd mine here and there—has fully convinced me that the country may be included amongst the great mineralized areas of the world.

I refer, of course, principally to the Kootenay district, throughout large areas of which gold, silver, lead and copper, either by themselves or in association, are found in great, though not necessarily payable, quantities. The rich mineral area continues south over the United States border into the State of Washington, where a number of remarkable discoveries, principally of gold, have been recently made, and it is quite probable that, progressing equally with the adjacent Kootenay district, the State of Washington may become the headquarters of gold mining in the United States. Kootenay, a district of fir-clad mountain chains, on the sides or peaks of which the mines are poised, and of narrow deep blue lakes, has been, and is being, wonderfully well opened up by railways and steamers. Next year will witness the advent of the railway to several important districts at present lying stagnant, owing to want of transport facilities, while the benefits already derived from the now existing railways are incalculable. The outlook for the country for the next two or three years is, indeed, a bright one.

But there is much to be said, especially in an English financial paper, to detract from this theoretically pleasing outlook. In the abstract, the country certainly has a great future before it as a mineral producer, but how that future is in practice going to benefit the English financial or mining world is, to the writer, somewhat of a mystery.

To begin with, the great majority of the mines and prospects in the country are owned and entirely controlled by Canadian and American shareholders. However prosperous, therefore, the mining industry here, English capital will never benefit to the same extent as it did in South Africa or West Australia or India. This important fact greatly detracts from the interest in the country and its development which English mining people and investors would otherwise take, and equally acts as a check against the financing of sound British Columbian exploration and finance companies, and in general the spending of money in miscellaneous ventures. Again, the English floated British Columbian companies to date are a poor selection.

Take first the long list of exploration and finance companies. These, many of them floated with large cash working capitals, have been almost uniformly unsuccessful. The only two which the writer could hear of as having acquired some valuable assets are the British America Corporation and the London and British Columbia Goldfields, both of which will be fully dealt with in due time.

Then, again, individual mines floated in London; what is their record?

The Hall Mines, floated some years ago, paid a dividend or two, and is now shut down. The Athabasca and Ymir, two promising mines recently flooted, are absurdly over capitalized. The group of hydraulic worked placer mines in Cariboo and Lillooet—Golden River Quesnelle, Cariboo, Lillooet Fraser and Carlboo, New Fraser River, Fraser River Consolidated, and Big Valley Creek—all are disappointments. Equally disappointing are such mines as the Tangier, Waverley, Duncan and Galena mines; in fact, there are hardly any London floated British Columbia companies which have been successful, and it can be but poor consolation to the shareholders in these failures to know that, on the whole, the prospects for the country are very promising.

Several other unfavorable features in connection with British Columbia mines remain to be noticed. The population, as is usual with a new mining country, has an exceedingly hazy and exaggerated view of the value of any given mine or district. These hazy utterances and opinions find their way by the hundred into the local press, where they are again magnified and written up out of all recognition. From here all this rubbish finds its way to England, where it no doubt does a lot of harm, and the actual facts about the country and the mines are totally lost sight of. Even the local papers that profess to be of a semi-official nature, and devoted entirely to mining, fill half their columns, issue after issue, with pure hearsay and irresponsible gossip. The American methods of share speculation in vogue in British Columbia do not tend to introduce financial soundness. The absurd tendency to capitalize the least prospect with a capital of 1,000,000 $1 shares gives everyone an exaggerated idea of true mining values; so much so, that many of the more soundly-balanced engineers representing exploration and mining corporations advised their companies to have nothing to do with the country until people there have come to their financial senses.

Another serious drawback to the prosperity of the industry is the highly refractory nature of many of the ores. The metallurgical and chemical study of their treatment is extremely primitive as yet, and offers splendid chances to the chemist and metallurgist. The only solution of the difficulties so far has been to smelt the ores. The process, as now organized, is extremely costly, and the mining companies are, in addition, mulcted by the smelters in a dozen unnecessary ways.

THE VARIOUS MINING DISTRICTS.

A summary of the different mining districts in British Columbia is as follows :

In the northern districts of Lillooet, Cassiar and Cariboo practically no reef mining has been undertaken as yet. There are, however, a number of hydraulic sluicing mines in different localities, most of which are owned locally. The English floated hydraulic mines in these districts comprise the Golden River Quesnelle, Cariboo, Lillooet Fraser and Cariboo, Big Valley Creek, New Fraser River and Fraser River Consolidated. These mines have practically all been unsuccessful, and it may be accepted as a safe axiom not to invest in hydraulic or alluvial mines of any sort in this country. No doubt there is plenty of alluvial and placer gold to be found, but it lends itself more to the operations of private individuals than to those of a limited company. The district of Yale, immediately west of Kootenay, will probably become an important mining centre; at present all development there is at a standstill, on account of lack of roads and railways. A branch is now being laid to the Boundary Creek district in Yale, which will be completed next year. Many people consider that Boundary Creek will become the most important mining district in British Columbia. A great deal of ground is held here, and the advent of the railway next year will introduce great activity in development. Dotted along the coast, in the district of New Westminster, and on Vancouver Island and other small islands, there are here and there small mining camps, although no deposit of permanent value has yet been found in any of them. The last and most important district is, of course, Kootenay. In East Kootenay there are signs that all the minerals exist, and several mines have been developed to a small extent, but here, as in Yale, the district is awaiting railways. The Canadian Pacific Railway is building a branch from the east over the Crow's Nest Pass, in the Rocky Mountains, which next year will largely open up the East Kootenay district, and at the same time will admit of the excellent coal found near Crow's Nest being made into coke, and furnished at a greatly reduced price to that now ruling to the smelters in West Kootenay. In West Kootenay the principal districts are : Rossland, producing gold and gold and copper ores; Nelson, producing gold and gold and silver and silver and copper ores, and the Slocan, producing silver lead ores. These districts are excellently served by railways and lake steamers, while new branch lines are continually being built. Further north in the Pront Lake district, stagnant till a railway penetrates it, which will probably be next year. This, then, is a rough summary of the mining districts of British Columbia at present, but it is more than likely that in a few years the whole of the northern part of West Kootenay, and perhaps Yale, will be one large and important mining centre.

THE BRITISH AMERICA CORPORATION AND THE LE ROI MINE.

In my previous article I mentioned the fact that of the numerous exploration and finance companies floated in connection with British Columbia, the British America Corporation and the London and British Columbia Goldfields appear to be the only ones which have acquired assets of any real value.

The British America Corporation, floated a year ago with a working capital of £1,000,000, appears to have been conducted in that extravagant manner peculiar to the big London company promoters, who understand more about market manipulation than they do about even the rudiments of mining or finance. The trump card held by the corporation was the controlling interest in the Le Roi Mine, one of the great mines of the world. The directors of the British America Corporation, knowing that it was imperative to the success of their company to secure the remaining Le Roi shares, knowing, also, that the acquisition of these was only a question of negotiation, and knowing, moreover, from their experience that the Le Roi was vastly improving month by month, and as depth was attained, neglected the very rudiments of finance, and showed the utmost folly in allowing the money necessary for this most important and inevitable purchase to drift through their fingers. How it disappeared they probably do not know themselves. One property after another, showing indifferent prospects, was secured at a good round price. Work was started on six or eight of these, and others acquired at the flotation of the corporation. A magnificent suite of offices was erected—half the population of Rossland was secured to act in some capacity or other on the staff of the corporation. The managing-director gave several newspaper interviews a day, and columns of all the papers were devoted to eulogies of the company, its extravagance and fatuousness being glossed over.

Now, what is the result? In the last month or two the corporation has had to considerably restrict its operations for want of cash; on the head of that the negotiations for the purchase of the remaining Le Roi shares were completed, and reveal the fact that the corporation can only pay $1 a share in cash, the rest being paid by bills. The debt must now be very considerable, severely depreciating the value of the shares, and yet the fact remains that had the management possessed the least knowledge of mining or finance there need have been no debt.

Now, as to the assets possessed by the company. It must be frankly admitted that the possession of the Le Roi mine, or at least of 480,000 out of the 500,000 shares, is an asset of extreme value. When I visited the mines I was greatly surprised at the great width and value of the reef in the lowest workings, at the large quantity of high-grade ore blocked out, and at the immense reserves of low grade, but nevertheless payable ore, in the mine. If the British America Corporation will be content to concentrate its energies on this mine, to pay off the debt it has incurred in its purchase, and to run it on scientific lines, I am convinced that before long the Le Roi will be found to be worth the whole capital valuation at par of the British America Corporation. Of the corporation's other assets one cannot speak with much certainty. Until its debt is paid off all expenses on the eight or ten properties being developed should cease. I would make an exception in the case of the Columbia and Kootenay mine. This property, two miles from Rossland, has a reef 40 feet thick, proved already for 1,500 feet in length and 400 feet in depth. Usually the ore is very low grade, but in several places, recently, patches of high-grade ore of considerable area have been met with. On a reef of such great width a few of these patches, especially if found to continue in depth, would soon make the basis of a fine mine. This mine then should be pushed on, but, failing funds, such properties as the No. 1 Josie, Nickel Plate, etc., should be closed down. Several of these are promising prospects, but not assured successes, and the corporation is not justfied in running into greater debt on their account. The technical staff of the British America Corporation is sound, I consider, but showed supineness in not protesting against the extravagance of the management.

THE LONDON AND BRITISH COLUMBIA GOLDFIELDS, LIMITED.

The London and British Columbia Goldfields Company have secured three assets of considerable value. These are:

(a) The controlling interest in the Ymir gold mine. This is a genuinely good mine. Low-grade, but a wide reef, and with 120,000 tons in sight. A profit of 15s. a ton, or, say, £20,000 a year, should be available for dividend.

(b) A controlling interest in the Whitewater (silver-lead) mines. This mine has a good deal of galena ore in sight, and will restart to work almost immediately. The life of the mine will probably not be a long one, but, as the profits will be good, the shares may be valued intrinsically at par.

(c) A third interest in the Ruth (silver-lead) mine. This mine has been making profits for some time, and will, no doubt, continue to do so for some years to come. On the whole, London and British Columbia Goldfields shares, considering that these three assets will all be producing profits during next year, are, I consider, an excellent speculation at present prices.

NOVA SCOTIAN GOLD.

Nova Scotia is a comparatively old gold mining country. A quarter of a century ago the production had fallen off to less than half what it had been in the sixties. But it has been impressed on investors that the Nova Scotian gold fields have not been half explored, and within the past two years the industry has been greatly revived. The production of gold in 1898 not only exceeded that of recent years, but beat the record of the boom period of thirty years ago. The member of the Dominion Geological Survey staff who has worked most in this field, is of the opinion that there is a great future for gold mining in Nova Scotia, and that this will be realized when intelligent work is done in the lower levels.—Herald, Halifax.

A NEW TOBACCO COMPANY.

Goldstein Bros. have secured the premises Nos. 80 to 84 Papineau avenue, Montreal, lately occupied by The Michael Lefevbre Co., where they will soon commence the manufacture of Canadian tobaccos, and will pay particular attention to plug smoking and chewing. The name of the firm is to be The Dominion Co.

Wholesale Grocers TORONTO

AMONG TORONTO RETAILERS.

Noted in a Storm.

During the blustery storm on Friday last I took a good walk along two of the principal business streets of Toronto. To say that I was surprised at the way goods were exposed in many of the stores would but poorly express my feelings when I saw in front of one store after another cases and boxes of fish left with no covering except from one to three inches of snow, turkeys, and geese lying in rows, frozen stiff and dark, and partly buried in snow, and even cases of cranberries exposed to the elements.

It is true that the larger portion of the dealers exposing their goods in this way were small merchants who have little or no family trade, but there were enough of the larger grocers in the number I noticed to make the subject worth, at least, a passing reference.

What possible benefit can accrue from the exposure of any class of goods on a day like Friday last, or, in fact, on any day which is stormy? The answer might be made that people pass one's store on stormy days as well as on fair-weather days, and that they may be attracted to buy on a stormy day as on a fair-weather day.

The fact of their passing by, I grant, but I most decidedly disagree with the assumption that because they see boxes in which are mixtures of snow and fish or snow and cranberries, or because they see a row of frozen fowl, they are likely to be attracted to purchase either the goods exposed or anything else.

Contrasted with these displays, I noticed quite a number of windows which were undoubtedly of value, even on a stormy day. It was not the manner in which they were dressed that struck me, but the air of brightness and cheeriness within contrasted so with the blustering storminess outside, and the cold appearance of many of the neighboring stores, that one could not fail to notice the window.

The best, the most attractive displays I noticed were those where the window panes were clear from frost, and where one could see the inside of the stores, which were warm and attractive in appearance. Therefore, the impression of warmth and comfort in a store is, I believe, more valuable than an excellently arranged display of goods, which does not create that impression.

My attention was also drawn to the advisability of looking after the sidewalks immediately in front of the store, during and after a storm. A good many merchants follow an excellent plan in this matter.

They keep from four to six feet of the sidewalk nearest to their windows well cleaned up, thus making a good path for passers close by their windows and door. The advantage of keeping this portion of the walk free from snow, over allowing about four feet of untrodden snow to lie between the path beaten by passers and the door, must be apparent to all. The trouble of keeping a path this width clean is very slight, and will stop the likelihood of the snow becoming packed on any part of the walk, as it is bound to do unless a path be cleaned.

Keeping the walk in front of one's store clean may be a minor matter, but it is one of the "little things that count," and is worth looking after. I don't see any reason why a merchant should not see that there is at all times a good path in front of his store. This could be done so much more easily if the walk was granolithic instead of wood, that I believe it would pay to put down a granolithic walk for this reason if for no other.

Grocers' Ratings.

I was talking to a veteran grocer who has long been a reader of THE CANADIAN GROCER, one day recently. The conversation turned towards the retail grocery business and the probabilities of making money at the business. He doubted if, among the 800 grocers of Toronto, a dozen could be rated as being worth $20,0000, and expressed a desire to know just how the grocers of the city were rated. Since that talk, I took the trouble to go through the last report of one of the large commercial agencies and get the rating of each grocer in the city. The result is instructive. In the list I prepared from this report, I do not include grocers who are also liquor dealers, for the reason that their money may be more heavily invested and their profits more largely derived from the liquor than from the grocery department. Nor do I include wholesale dealers. It is strictly a list of the retail grocers of Toronto. From it, I find one firm rated at between $75,000 and $100,000; another at between $35,000 and $50,000; two at between $20,000 and $30,000; eight at between $10,000 and $20,000; 13 at between $5,000 and $10,000; 16 at between $3,000 and $5,000; 32 at between $2,000 and $3 000; 38 at between $1,000 and $2,000; 41 at between $500 and $1,000; 64 below $500. Thus, we find that out of the 850 grocers in Toronto only 216 are credited by authority as worthy of any rating whatever, and 64 of these are rated at from nothing to $500. But even more significant is the fact that, out of the big total mentioned, only 25 are reputed to be worth over $5,000. Of course, no commercial agency can tell to $1 or even $100 the wealth of any business man, but these figures may be fairly taken as a basis of calculation. I do not intend to draw a large number of conclusions from these facts, but it strikes me that a good many people enter the grocery business with more hope in their hearts than either cash in their pockets or knowledge of the business in their heads. Hope is a very beneficial thing, but, when left to fill the place of either cash or experience, failure is the most likely result.

GOODS TO BE ADVERTISED.

ANY goods in the least way essential to humanity are worth advertising. If one should start to make a terse definition of civilization, I think it would read something like this :

"Civilized people are those who require a great many changes of food and drink and raiment and housefurnishings to make them comfortable."

Some of the smallest articles in use in the house are the most necessary : the lack of which cause the most inconvenience. One instance is the little, shiny black knobs fastened on tin pot lids. It is only lately that these extra knobs have been for sale ; at least I heard one woman say to another : "I didn't know you could buy those. I have thrown away lots of lids because the knobs were lost."

These, and many other small necessaries, lie in their boxes or baskets, in stores, gathering dust and making their owners wonder what to do with them.

The first and last and best thing to do is to advertise them, always remembering that the more highly civilized a woman is, the more intricate is her work, and the more she needs the little conveniences.

It is most advisable for any business house to have, occasionally, or maybe periodically, a day of small things. Fill your advertising space with lists and prices of all notions or little housekeeping conveniences. They need not necessarily be marked down. That point may always be left to the dealer. But these small articles, though sold at a profit, must move either steadily or in rapid, occasional spasms, to make the handling of them interesting. A "notion day" at a store, I am very sure, would prove a good and profitable institution, and it may be inaugurated in any business under the sun.—C. A. Bates.

A DRUMMER'S TALE.

"I was traveling through the mountains of West Virginia last week," said a drummer to a reporter, "and, driving up to a store, I opened up conversation with the merchant, on politics, before introducing any goods.

"'What do you think of this expansion fever?' I asked.

"'Wall, now, I sure am glad yo' axed me about thet thing. Mebbe yo' can give me some points. Do yo' all hev it in Washington?'

"'Oh, yes, we have it bad,' I replied, wondering what the man meant.

"'Wall, we hain't got but one case. Thet's my wife. Thar ain't no doctor 'ceptin' a hoss doctor hyar, an' he 'lowed it might be dropsy. But her fut has expanded tell thar ain't room for much else under the table, and' I'm pow'ful glad yo' all know somethin' 'bout it. Do yo' all know any cure fer it?'

"When I explained what I meant he was so angry that I could not have sold him gold dollars for 50 cents each."

A HIGH OPINION OF BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Mr. Alex. Jardine, president of The Pure Gold Manufacturing Co., Toronto, has returned from a trip to the Pacific coast. Two months of his time was spent in various parts of British Columbia, during which he called on the firm's customers, in company with Mr. Gartshore, the recently appointed representative in that part of the country. He visited Vancouver, New Westminster, Victoria, Rossland, Kaslo, Kamloops and other places in the Province.

It was Mr. Jardine's first trip to the Coast, and he was very much impressed with what he saw of British Columbia. "It promises to be one of the richest and most important parts of the Dominion, with its mining, lumbering, fishing and shipping industries," he said.

A FORMER LONDON GROCER DEAD.

William Ward, who for many years conducted a grocery and liquor store at the corner of Simcoe and Maitland streets, London, Ont., dropped dead on Sunday last while on the way to the barn to feed his horse. He was 75 years of age, was twice married and leaves a widow and grown-up family. The sons are Fred, of that city, and George, of the Northwest Territories. Mr. George Moon, a stepson, and one daughter reside at home.

EARLY CLOSING FRUITMEN.

The following fruit commission firms in Toronto have decided to close their places of business at 1 o'clock on Saturday until the end of April : Clemes Bros.; The Dawson Commission Co., Limited ; S. K. Moyer, Charles Kimpton, J. Coutts & Co., Vance & Co., W. H. Smith, H. J. Ash, White & Co.

NEW STRIKE AT THE KLONDYKE.

Joseph Mueffeleau, a French-Canadian who has been in the Klondyke region for some time, recently stated in Vancouver that a new strike of gold has been made at Thistle Creek, about 90 miles from Dawson. In the claims he and his partner staked out every hole yielded results. From one of them they took $48 in gold.

FIRE LOSSES IN 1898.

During the month of December, the fire losses throughout Canada and the United States amounted to $12,712,100. The largest of the month was the Greenshields fire, in Montreal, the loss of which was placed at $1,116,000.

During the whole year, the loss from fire in these countries is placed at $119,650,500, against $110,319.650 in 1897, and $115,-655,500 in 1896. The greatest loss of the year was the Westminster, B.C., conflagration, which was placed at $2,500,000.

There were five other fires which caused a loss of $1,000,000 or over. These were a cold storage plant and other buildings at Pittsburg, Pa., a grain elevator and other buildings at Chicago, Ill., hotel and stores at San Francisco, Cal., various buildings at Prescott, Ariz., and the Greenshields fire, Montreal.

FIRM TONE IN FISH MARKET.

There is a strong feeling among the Halifax fish merchants that the prospects for a profitable season are bright. The shore catch off Nova Scotia was short, but that on the banks was about up to the standard. But, as there is a general shortage in the catch this year, good prices are looked for.

There is a remarkably healthy demand from Brazil at present, with prices high. The demand from Europe is good, and though prices are not as good as in Brazil, they are steadily stiffening.

Codfish are especially scarce, stocks in St. John's, Nfld., being fully 20 per cent. less than a year ago. The price ex store has advanced 25c. per quintal at Halifax within the last few weeks.

The pork-packing by-law has been carried in Napanee, Ont.

The by-law to guarantee $15,000 bonds of the Chatham, Ont., Cold Storage Co. has been defeated.

The Moose Jaw, N.W.T., creamery made 38,000 lb. of butter the past season. This sold for $7,600, an average of 20c. The farmers received $6,080, or 16c. per lb. A comparison of this with the price they formerly received for their own butter, 7 to 15c. per lb., gives a good idea of the value of the creamery in the Northwest.

FOR $1,000 I can place a 35-line advertisement, every other day for one year, in fourteen of the leading papers in the eleven largest cities in Canada.

This is merely to give an idea of how far money can go in this country.

Never have failures been fewer, never has trade been better, never has there been better prospects for the shrewd advertiser.

I know the papers best suited for different businesses, I know their rates, I am in a position to help all who want to share in Canada's prosperity. Write stating who you want to reach, and I will gladly submit list and figures.

AN EARLY CLOSING MOVEMENT.

AT the last meeting of The Retail Grocers' Association, of Toronto, it was decided to inaugurate another early closing agitation.

It is not the purpose to confine the movement to retail grocers alone, but to solicit the cooperation of hardwaremen, dry goods dealers, and all other merchants. With these all interested, the idea is to secure the adoption of the early closing by-law, which the Ontario Legislature, a dozen years ago, empowered municipalities to pass.

This is nor the first time there has been a movement in Toronto to introduce the early closing by-law. Eleven years ago, a movement was inaugurated by The Retail Grocers' Association for the application of the by-law to the grocery trade. The necessary signatures were secured and presented to the city council, and that body forthwith passed and put into operation the by-law.

But the by-law was destined to be short-lived. No sooner was it in operation than a cry went up against it, for those who were desirous of observing it found that those

WHAT IS CATSUP?

A DIFFICULTY confronts the pure food authorities, and it has to do with the definition which is to be given to the word "catsup," or "ketchup," says Grocery World. In their investigations of the purity of catsup, the inspectors have recently gotten several samples which contain pumpkin—a favorite adulterant for catsup. But, while pumpkin is used solely to fill up and to cheapen, it is a question whether a charge of adulteration for its use would or could be sustained by the courts.

The trouble is that there is no official definition for either catsup or ketchup. That is to say, there is no one to say exactly what the ingredients shall be, and no two manufacturers have the same formula. Webster's definition is "a table sauce made of mushrooms, tomatoes, walnuts, etc." Who is to say that that "etc." doesn't mean pumpkin? No one holds that pumpkin is at all harmful, and there seems to be no other line to go upon. Salicylic acid and other preservatives or harmful coloring are, of course, directly in violation of the law.

There are several generic terms like this which can mean a dozen things, which will, probably, be elucidated by an amendment to the pure food law. "Mince meat" is another. There is no official definition for mince meat. Some manufacturers leave out the meat, and answer all charges that they are thus cheapening the product and deceiving the public, by the claim that the usual idea of mince meat must contain meat could just as well mean the meat of nuts as the flesh of animals.

OUR INTERESTS NEGLECTED.

THE CANADIAN GROCER has been urging for years the necessity of a commercial representative for Canada in London, and the appointment of Canadians to fill all vacancies in the Canadian Government offices there. Chances to turn trade into Canadian channels, amounting to hundreds of thousands of dollars annually, are neglected.

Any wide-awake business man visiting England will verify this. Lord Strathcona verified it in an interview a few days ago, when he said :

Tbere are also great possibilities of developing a profitable trade in fruit pulp, produced from the crushing of small fruits, such as raspberries, used extensively in the manufacture of jams, which is a large industry in Great Britain. Tbe demand for this article is enormous, and there is no doubt that Canadians would find a market, at profitable prices, for all they could produce. The normal price of raspberry pulp is from £18 to £21 sterling per ton, and it bas risen as bigb as £30 per ton. The annual crop of wild raspberries in Canada is so large that much of it goes to waste for lack of profitable uses to wbich it may be put.

But tbe fruit pulp trade, if cultivated, offers an outlet wbich must yield bandsome returns. Some enterprising canners have already gone into tbe trade, and, at 36s. per case of 12-gallon tins, it bas been found a paying proposition The Canadian product bas been pronounced, by British jam makers, to be of excellent quality, flavor and color.

This is a subject to which attention was first directed by THE CANADIAN GROCER. The managing-editor found, at Manchester, a large importer of raspberries, who had been told, in the Canadian offices in London, that he could not get raspberries in Canada. They looked up statistics for him and found that Canada imported the jam, hence they inferred she could not grow raspberries.

THE CONDENSED MILK ANALYSIS.

SOME time ago, the analyst of the Inland Revenue Department of Canada examined a number of samples of condensed milk, and several makes were criticized, including that of The New York Condensed Milk Co. Word now comes from New York that this company are preparing to take action against the Canadian Government for publishing the analysis.

The reports of this Department, while honestly prepared, are often unfair, misleading and unpractical, as was the case a year or so ago, when they showed that all mustards were adulterated.

As THE GROCER pointed out at the time, an absolutely pure mustard will not keep. There is plenty of good work for the public analysts to perform, but they go about their work in a theoretical, instead of a practical, way. They seldom touch articles that are so adulterated that they seriously injure those who consume them, or take steps to punish those who compound and sell them.

Much of the drunkenness in Canada is due to adulterated spirits, adulterated by the saloonmen themselves, but we never hear of the Department punishing these people. The public are beginning to realize that if they want unadulterated drinks of any kind they must buy them in the original packages at their grocer's.

AN EARLY CLOSING MOVEMENT.

AT the last meeting of The Retail Grocers' Association, of Toronto, it was decided to inaugurate another early closing agitation.

It is not the purpose to confine the movement to retail grocers alone, but to solicit the cooperation of hardwaremen, dry goods dealers, and all other merchants. With these all interested, the idea is to secure the adoption of the early closing by-law, which the Ontario Legislature, a dozen years ago, empowered municipalities to pass.

This is nor the first time there has been a movement in Toronto to introduce the early closing by-law. Eleven years ago, a movement was inaugurated by The Retail Grocers' Association for the application of the by-law to the grocery trade. The necessary signatures were secured and presented to the city council, and that body forthwith passed and put into operation the by-law.

But the by-law was destined to be short-lived. No sooner was it in operation than a cry went up against it, for those who were desirous of observing it found that those who refused to do so were not interfered with.

The by-law was consequently paraylzed at its birth, and at the very next meeting of the council it was buried.

One of the weak spots in the by-law which was, eleven years ago, in operation for a few weeks, was, that provision and confectionery dealers were not included in its operation, and as many of these sold certain goods appertaining to the grocery trade this naturally gave offence.

If the present movement to rehabilitate the early closing by-law is to be effective, it is obvious that its application should extend to at least the provision dealer. Any attempt to gain the cooperation of the confectioners will probably be abortive.

But, if the grocers cannot secure the co-operation of the other branches of trade, why should they not, independent of the by-law, have an understanding among themselves in regard to early closing?

There are individual merchants who, for some years, have closed their stores at six, seven, or eight o'clock, without even consulting their neighbor, and their measure of prosperity has not decreased, while life has been a little more worth living.

CONDITION OF THE TORONTO BOARD OF TRADE.

A FEW days hence the members of the Toronto Board of Trade will be called upon to elect officers for the ensuing year. More than ordinary judgment should be exercised. The conditions demand it.

The board has of late years become a sort of effete institution. It is true that it sometimes talks and throws its arms about, and passes resolutions. But it very seldom does anything.

The word "trade" is practically a synonym for activity. Therefore, when we think of trade we think of something being done, of something in action.

There is a possibility, however, that the Toronto Board of Trade may some of those days be recognized as a synonym having a meaning the very opposite.

Ask a member of the board what is the cause of its present comparative passiveness, and if he does not swear and say he does not know, he will probably blame some prominent official or vow that some particular influence is holding the board by the throat.

The board is not popular among business men, and even a great many of its own members are by no means in love with it.

The trouble with the board is not that it lacks among its members men of ability, the very cream of the commercial community is included in its membership.

What it wants above all else is that its members shall be innoculated with new energy and baptised with the spirit of independence.

Some of the progressive spirits of the board have doubtless become discouraged because of their failure to induce the spirit of action into the body as a whole. This is natural, but it is none the less improper.

Reforms are only won by keeping up the energy. And if those who are energetic will keep in motion, they will, eventually, attract kindred spirits, even if they fail to galvanize the passive with new life.

It is urged that the chief hindrance to forward movement of the board is the railway interests. And the experience of the past few years is certainly not of a character that would tend to disabuse one's mind of this.

The railway interests and the commercial interests of the country should go hand-in-hand. True, they are at present one ; but it is the wrong kind of oneness: The commercial interests have been swallowed by the railway interests, just as the tiger swallowed the lady.

Of course, the Toronto Board of Trade has done some protesting. But the commercial interests are still within the railway abdomen. And there they will be until the board of trade works up enough energy to lead the way out.

But it is not only the railway magnate that exerts his sway over the Toronto Board of Trade ; the politician is not without his influence in the same body.

The board meets and passes resolutions calling upon the Government for certain reforms or remedies. But of what effect are these resolutions ? Most times none at all.

Be the Government of Conservative or of Reform complexion, it is well aware, that while in business matters they may protest as their conscience dictates, the members of the board, as a rule, vote as their political conscience dictates.

Mr. E. Kemp is likely to be the president during the next term. As first vice-president he has proved himself to be an energetic officer, while the rapid development of his own business has shown him to be a business man of more than ordinary ability. If he puts these qualities into operation, should he be the next president, we may expect the Toronto Board of Trade to become of some value to the commercial interests of the "Queen City" in particular and of the Dominion in general.

The difference between a dude and a well-dressed window is this : The one dresses to be admired, and the other is dressed to sell, as well as to be admired.

YOUNG HYSON TEAS.

The Young Hyson season in China closed earlier than usual, and with a heavy deficit.

Cabled orders to China could not be executed, the market for these teas having been cleaned out, and no shipments of consequence are to be expected for the next eight months.

Stocks in Canada are not heavy, while trade is fairly good.

THE BUSY MAN'S DICTIONARY.

ABILITY means "the quality, state or condition of being able," according to the dictionary. The word has reference to the active exercise of our faculties. It implies not only native vigor of mind, but that ease and promptitude of execution which arises from superior training. It always supposes something to be done and the power of doing it. It is distinguished from capacity, in that capacity is the power to acquire and retain knowledge, while ability is the power which puts knowledge into execution, makes use of knowledge acquired.

To be successful in any line of business, or, in fact, in any walk of life, a man must need have ability nowadays. Capacity is not enough, just as knowledge is not sufficient to build railways, run a business or grow grain. Ability is necessary, just as execution is indispensible.

He who would build a railway must survey the route, must set contractors at work constructing the line, and lastly, must at once secure bonuses from all sources possible.

He who grows grain must in the right season prepare his ground, and put therein his seed if he is to have a harvest. He who would conduct a business must not only have a knowledge of the business, but must put his knowledge of that business into execution.

It is not sufficient to fill one's store with goods, and sit down by the stove at the back of the store waiting for customers, as the frog sat on a stump with its mouth open waiting for a fly to come in, but one must at once commence to make it known that the store has been opened, and to have one's windows, counters and shelves so attractive that customers will be induced to come in and see.

And after one is started and has a goodly number of customers he cannot yet take possession of that chair near the stove if he would have ability associated with his name. He must be up and doing—putting into execution the knowledge which he has derived from experience and observation.

A THOUSAND SQUARE MILES OF GOLD.

SO much has been said in regard to the Klondyke that it would be almost impossible, one might think, to say anything further that would be either new or interesting.

Whatever may be one's views, however, in regard to this, the preliminary report, which has been issued by the Department of the Interior, bearing on the gold deposits and mining in the Klondyke, can scarcely fail to arrest attention, especially when it is known that the report is based upon the surveys of J. B. Tyrrell and R. G. McConnell, of the Geological Survey staff.

The report is particularly interesting in that it gives the area of the gold district, the situation of the gold, and its probable sources.

The area of the gold district covers no less than 1,000 square miles. We can gather some idea what this means when we imagine a district enclosed on each of its four sides by a line reaching from Toronto to Halifax.

Of course, not every foot or every mile within this area contains gold, but this area is traversed by a multitude of gold-bearing streams flowing in deep trough-like valleys.

The creeks which have so far been found to be rich are four in number. They are El Dorado, Bonanza, Hunker and Dominion. The proved portions of the four producing creeks have an aggregate length of about 30 miles.

The gold occurs in the gravel flooring in the bottom of the valleys, in stream terraces lining the lower slopes of the valleys, and in a remarkable moraine or glacial deposit which forms a southern slope of the El Dorado and Bonanza creeks for some miles, and which was also found north on the latter creek for some distance above its junction with El Dorado.

The gravels have a thickness of from two to eight feet, and these everywhere are more or less auriferous, that is, gold-bearing, with the yellow metal increasing in quantity towards the bottom. The greater part of the pay is found within 18 or 24 inches of the bottom. The gold is fine, but nuggets valued at $1.35 have been found.

As to the original habitation of the gold found in the gravel beds of the streams, the Government geologists say it was no doubt in quartz, and north of El Dorado creek they found gold in a thick quartz vein.

From another source it is learned that there are 40,000 people in the Klondyke, all of whom are depending, directly or indirectly, on the gold industry for a livelihood. But extensive and rich as the gold-bearing area is, it is only the few who are likely to draw the rich prizes, while the many would have been better off had they remained in the civilized parts of the country and labored for a moderate wage. But it it after all the spirit of adventure that has led to the amassing of wealth and to the opening up of new markets.

CHEESE STILL STRONG.

Cheese maintains its strength, and as high as 10c. per lb. has been obtained in Toronto this week for goods of poor quality indeed, while, for good cheese of September and October make, 10½c. per lb. is being obtained.

The outlook is for a firm market.

The chief strength-giving factor is the shortness of supplies, the make last season being estimated at 25 per cent. less than the year before.

Owing largely to the low prices prevailing, the make of very late fall cheese in 1897 was small, and in the early spring make of 1898, largely from the same cause, a great many of the factories made butter instead of cheese.

This was a decided advantage, as far as the quality of the general make was concerned, for it is the very late fall makes and the early spring makes which are the source of supply for the great bulk of the poor cheese on the market, and this is some compensation for even the light output for the year.

It will be interesting to give in this connection the following table, compiled by R. A. Simister, butter and cheese exporter, Ingersoll, Ont., showing the estimated stocks of cheese in England, Canada and the United States on January 1, compared with the same date 1898:

Point of Distribution.	1899. Boxes.	1898. Boxes.
London	175,000	280,000
Liverpool	79,600	138,900
Canada	155,000	480,000
New York City	70,900	95,000
New York State	50,000	100,000
Chicago	50,000	60,000
Totals	580,500	1,153,900

INDIAN TEAS DEARER.

The season for Indian teas is drawing to a close in Calcutta, and the market is showing decidedly strong features.

A cable received in Toronto this week, from Calcutta, advises an advance of 1c. per lb., with a strong demand for the lower grades.

The opinion is becoming general in India that exports to the United Kingdom will not exceed those of last season.

Autumnal flavored teas bring full figures, and a strong market is looked for in these teas from now on.

Importers in Canada are beginning to purchase Indian teas more freely, although those in some cities are operating more extensively than those in others.

CENTRAL AMERICAN COFFEES.

Advices indicate a strong market for Central American coffees. The condition of the crops in all the countries of production in that part of the world, and especially in Costa Rica, is bad, and a small yield is, in consequence, looked for. A higher range of values is also anticipated.

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

GROCERY QUOTATIONS BY WIRE.

Occasionally, just as THE GROCER has gone to press, changes in prices are made in staple lines of goods, which a good many in the trade hear nothing of till the next issue of the paper. Should, therefore, any of the readers of this journal desire to ascertain, between regular issues, the prevailing quotation on any staple line, it will, on application, be furnished by return mail or by telegraph; if by the latter method, at the cost of the person seeking the information.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

TORONTO, Jan. 12, 1899.

GROCERIES.

NO particularly striking features have developed in the market during the past week, as far as the volume of business is concerned. Naturally, at this time of the year, business is quiet, but it is not so much so as is usual. No complaints are heard, and a great deal of satisfaction is expressed in regard to the future. Canned goods are beginning to attract more attention, although there are not many transactions reported. Prices rule firm, particularly in regard to corn, and some of the wholesalers have, this week, marked their prices up to $1 per dozen, while from 90c. to $1 is the range. Tomatoes are firm at last week's quotations, although not much business is being done. The coffee market is steady, and wholesalers report that the demand is beginning to open up. Sugars are quiet and easy, with granulated at 5c. per 100 lb. lower than last week. Yellow sugar, on the other hand, is 5c. per 100 lb. dearer. Syrups are scarce, and there is not much doing, on account of the short supply of the dark article. Molasses is meeting with a fair demand. While, still quiet, the tea market is beginning to take on a little more life, both jobbers' agents and wholesalers reporting a little more business doing. The market for Indian and Ceylon teas is strong. In foreign dried fruits the market is without any special feature.

CANNED GOODS.

The canned goods market remains firm at last week's quotations. The wholesalers' prices are still 85 to 90c. There is not much business, however, being done, although, for this time of the year, a fair quantity is going forward. It is the general opinion that there are very few tomatoes left in the hands of the packers, and it is estimated that, in regard to corn, there are less than 1,000 cases in the packers' hands. Several of the wholesale houses are this week, demanding $1 per dozen for corn, but this price is so high that no business of any importance appears to have been done. The general range for corn is from 90c. to $1, but those who are asking the former figure are in the minority. Some of the wholesale houses are, it appears, looking for corn, but they refuse to pay $1, which some of their confreres are asking. Some of the wholesale houses, however, supplied those whose stocks had become exhausted with corn at 90c,, but they state that they would not again sell at this figure. Peas are unchanged and quiet at 75c. upward. In canned fruits there is scarcely anything being done. Canned salmon remains quiet and unchanged. There is a little more being done in lobsters, but it is, no doubt, on account of the cheapness of some of the lines which are being offered.

See pages 29 and 30 for Toronto, Montreal, St. John, and Winnipeg prices current.

COFFEES.

Wholesalers report that the demand for green Rio coffee is steadily improving at prices quoted. The outside markets rule steady, although there is not a great deal of business being done.

SUGARS.

While the demand is still light, there has been an improvement during the past week, both the refiners and wholesalers reporting a little better business. Since our last issue, there have been some changes in prices. Granulated has been reduced 5c. per 100 lb., being now quoted at $4.53 per 100 lb., Toronto, for standard, and $4.48 for Acadia. Yellow sugars, on the other hand, are 5c. per 100 lb. dearer. Supplies of raw sugars, suitable for making yellows, are very scarce at present, and prices which have been ruling for this description of sugar have left no margin of profit for the refineries, hence the justification for the advance. There is an impression in some quarters that prices must improve. The chief reason ascribed for the decline in granulated is the offering of United States granulated on the local market. In the United States, there are buyers of centrifugal sugars at 4 5-16c., the lowest price paid, although only a limited quantity was sold at that price. Sellers, however, are holding for 4⅜c., and there is only a small supply available at that. The European markets have been fairly steady during the past week.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

There is very little business being done in syrups, on account of the scarcity of the low-grade article. Molasses, on the other hand, is in good demand. The market for New Orleans molasses remains steady, and advices state that receipts at the primary market are largely of the low-grade description.

TEAS.

Both wholesalers' and jobbers' agents report that the demand for teas this week is a little better, although the volume of business is still small. Shippers' agents report a good demand for flavory Ceylon teas at from 18 to 24c. per lb., whether these teas be on spot or for importation from London. During the week the transactions have cleaned up spot stocks, while it is difficult to secure these teas from London, on account of the scarcity there. Supplies of these teas are coming forward very slowly. There have been some sales during the week in hard twisted Japan teas at from 15½ to 17c., and these have been pretty well cleaned up, and, as a consequence, some attention is now being given to low-grade teas at from 12½c. to 13c. In other lines of teas there is no special feature to note.

SPICES.

Mail advices from London, England, report a good demand for cloves and white pepper. Both black pepper and cloves, according to these advices, had risen in price during the past couple of days, and quotations are firm. Locally, there is nothing of special interest to note.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS — Stocks of provincial and Filiatra currants are scarce in Greece, and advices state that the market is firm and that a good demand is expected during the next two or three months. Stocks of currants in Greece are estimated at 35,000 tons, which is small, considering the fact that there are yet nine months of consumption to be provided for. The local demand is of an average character at the moment.

VALENCIA RAISINS — The local wholesalers report that there is still a few moving, chiefly of the selected kind, at from 5½c. per lb, up.

FIGS—There is little doing in tapnet figs at 4½c.

DATES—There are a few going out. In fact, the demand is a little better than usual at this time of the year, the late arrival of dates this season having caused people to extend their buying later into the season than they would under ordinary circumstances. We quote: Hallowees at from 6 to 6½c., and Sairs at 5½c. per lb.

SULTANA RAISINS—Advices from Smyrna state that the market is strong, and that unshipped stocks are low.

GREEN FRUITS.

The extreme cold of the past week has greatly affected the demand for oranges, bananas, Malaga grapes and apples. Valencia and Mexican oranges have declined 25c. as offerings are large. Lemons are in fair demand, with prices firm. Onions are moving nicely. Prices of all fruits but oranges are unchanged.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—The demand for strictly fresh laid, for boiling stock and for pickled eggs is excellent. The price of pickled is ½ to 1½c. dearer. Some dealers are quoting as high as 17c., but from 15 to 16c. is the general figure. Boiling stock is firm at 22 to 24c. Cases bring from 14½ to 16½c. f.o.b. point of shipment.

POTATOES—There is a fair movement of carload lots reported at 55 to 60c. The local demand is moderate. From 60 to 65c. is asked for small lots on the market.

POULTRY—There is little doing, with prices unchanged throughout.

DRIED AND EVAPORATED APPLES—The situation is unchanged. Little business is reported. Dried apples are steady at 5 to 5½c. at outside points, and at 5½ to 6c. in a jobbing way for No. 1 stock. Evaporated apples are steady at 8¼ to 8½c. outside, and 8½ to 9c. in a jobbing way locally.

VEGETABLES—There is no change. We quote: Spinach, 75c. to $1 per bush.; green onions, 10 to 15c. per doz.; cauliflower, 50 to 75c. per doz.; celery, 50 to 75c. per doz.; lettuce, 20 to 30c. doz. bunches; radishes, winter, 15 to 25c. doz. bunches; cabbage, per doz; 75c. to $1; parsley, 10 to 12½c. per doz. bunches; turnips, 25 to 30c. per bag; beets, 50 to 60c. per bag; parsnips, 60 to 75c. per bag; carrots, 50 to 75c. per bag; onions, Danvers, $1.25 to $1 50 per bag; butter squash, $2 to $2.50; pumpkins, $1 to $1.50; Hubbard squash, $2.50 to $3; red cabbage, 40 to 50c.; egg plant, 50 to 90c. per basket.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—There is a good demand for dairy rolls, prints and tubs. Prices are steady. Creamery is moving well locally, but the export demand has fallen off somewhat, and an easier tone is noted. We quote at outside points: Dairy tubs, 12½c.; prints, 13 to 14c.; large rolls, 13 to 13½c.; creamery prints, 18½ to 19½c.; tubs and boxes, 18½c.

CHEESE—The movement is not very large, but a decidedly firm feeling is noted at from 9½ to 10c. for early, and 10 to 10½c. for late makes.

PROVISIONS.

The receipts of dressed hogs continue large, yet the market is so firm in tone that an advance of 10 to 15c. has taken place. Meats are in good demand, with prices steady and unchanged.

FISH.

There is a good movement in all frozen and salted fish. Receipts are liberal. Prices are unaltered throughout. We quote as follows: Fresh salmon trout, 7½ to 8c.; fresh whitefish, 7½c.; steak trout, 8c. lb.; fresh perch, 4c. per lb.; fresh herring, 4c. per lb.; Labrador herring, $5.75 per bbl. and $3.25 per half-bbl.; Digby herring, 55c. per bundle of five; Halifax herring, $2 per 100; split herring, $5 per bbl. and $2.75 per half-bbl.; cod, in 1-lb. blocks, 6½ to 7c. per lb.; boneless fish, 4 to 4½c. per lb.; boneless fish in 1-lb. blocks, 5½ to 6c.; fresh-water herring, 60c. per basket; ciscoes, 60c. to $1.25; haddies, 7 to 8c. per lb.; fresh haddock, 6c. per lb.; oysters, $1.25 to $1.35 per gallon, or $6.25 per large pail.

down 25 to 50c. below last quotations. The range in alsike values is large, from $2.25 to $4 being quoted, the latter figure only being paid for strictly choice lots. Red clover, also, shows a big range in value, from $2.75 to $3.75 being paid, the top price only for extra choice, large grain, rich purple seed.

SALT

A good steady movement is reported. Prices are unchanged, though a correction is made in the cost of sacks f.o.b. at wells, which are now quoted at 50c. We quote: Carload lots, $1.05 per bbl., and 65c. per sack; less than carload lots, $1.10 per bbl., and 70c. per sack. At the wells we quote F.O.B., barrels, 75c.; sacks, 50c.

MARKET NOTES.

Cured hides have advanced ½c.

Pickled eggs are ½ to 1½c. dearer.

Dressed hogs have advanced 10 to 15c.

Potatoes, in carload lots, are 5c. dearer.

Valencia and Mexican oranges are 25c. cheaper.

Alsike and red clover seed have declined 25 to 50c.

Granulated sugar is 5c. cheaper, and yellow sugar 5c. dearer.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

MONTREAL, Jan. 12, 1899.

GROCERIES.

THERE has been little improvement in the volume of business in the wholesale grocery trade since our last review, consequently, we have to report the market quiet, with few changes in values to note. The activity anticipated last week in some of the leading lines has not materialized yet, but the general impression is that it has to come in the near future. The only noticeable feature in the trade has been the further weakness in granulated sugar, which is due chiefly to the keen competition on the part of American refiners, and the very unsettled state of that market at present. On the other hand, the local market for all grades of yellow has been stronger, and refiners marked up prices for the same at the end of last week. All other lines are quiet and without change.

SUGAR.

The feature of this market during the week has been a decline of 5c. per 100 lb. in the price of granulated and an advance of 5c. per 100 lb. in yellows. The decline in granulated, as we have already stated, is due to the keen competition on the part of American manufacturers, and some lots have come in on western Ontario account, but refiners here state that local buyers do not want to handle this grade of sugar, as long as prices are kept on a par. The situation at present is somewhat unsettled, consequently, buyers are afraid to operate freely, and this fact alone is tending to check business considerably. Granulated is quoted at $4.35, and yellows at $3.75 to $4.25 per 100 lb., as to quality, at the factory. The foreign market for the raw article is reported quiet, with little demand. Beet is firmer and improving slowly: January, 9s. 5¼d., and February, 9s. 6d.

SYRUPS.

The demand for syrups is still limited, but the tone of the market is firm at 1¾ to 2¼c. per lb. in wood.

MOLASSES.

It was anticipated among the trade that the wholesale grocers, by this time, would have advanced prices for Barbadoes molasses, but, up to the present, they have not taken any such action, as car lots are still quoted at 30c.; single puncheons at 31c., and barrels at 32c. In round lots, little business is doing, owing to the fact that the stock is held in few hands, and, as it is comparatively light, holders are not anxious sellers at present figures.

DRIED FRUIT.

There has been no improvement in the dried fruit market. The demand is slow, owing to the fact that buyers have ample supplies on hand yet, consequently, little business of importance is doing, and prices show no change. We quote: Layers, 5¼ to 5½c.; fine off-stalk, 4c., and off-stalk, 3½c.

NUTS.

The demand for all lines of nuts is limited, which is usually the case after the holidays, and the market is quiet, with no new feature to note.

CANNED GOODS.

An easier feeling prevails in this market for tomatoes, but in the absence of any large transactions it is somewhat difficult to quote prices. Corn and peas are firm, but business quiet.

SPICES.

The tone of this market is firm, but the volume of business has been small owing to the fact that buyers stocked up previous to the holidays.

COFFEE.

There has been some demand for Maracaibo, and sales of some fair-sized lots have taken place within range of quotations. We quote: Maracaibo, 9½ to 13½c.; Santos, 7 to 10c., and Rio, 7 to 10c.

TEA.

The duty question has created a somewhat unsettled feeling in the tea market, but buyers in a great many instances take little stock in it, and therefore are not anxious to load up. The demand is still slow, but some business has been done in Japans at 15 to 16½c., and in dust at 6½c. There is a fair inquiry for blacks, and low-grade Pingsuey gunpowders are in demand.

GREEN FRUIT.

The demand for all lines of green fruit has continued slow, and until buyers dispose of present supplies little activity is anticipated. On the whole, the market is very quiet with few changes to note. A weaker feeling was developed in Valencia oranges, owing to lower values, and prices here show a further decline of 50c. per box, but other grades are unchanged. We quote: Valencias, $3.25 to $5.50; Jamaicas, $2.50 to $3; Californian Jaffas, $3 to $3.25; navels, $3.50 to $4; and Floridas, $4.75 to $5 per box. There is a fair movement in lemons at prices ranging from $2.25 to $3 per box. Cranberries are slow at $7 to $9 per bbl. Almeria grapes range from $4.50 to $7 per keg. Bananas are scarce and dear at $2.25 to $2.75 per bunch.

APPLES.

The demand for apples has been better, but prices show no change, sales being made at from $2.75 to $4.50 per bbl., as to quality.

FISH.

All lines of fish are in fair supply, but the demand is chiefly of a small jobbing character. Stocks of fresh fish are large. In consequence the market has ruled weaker, and prices generally are lower. We quote: Haddock and cod at 3½c.; salmon, 10c., whitefish and dore, 6¼ to 6½c.; pike, 3¾ to 4c.; tommy cods, $1.10 to $1.50 per bbl.; fresh herring, $1.65 to $1.75 per 100, and smelts, 4 to 6c. per lb.

In salt fish trade has been quiet. Green cod and No. 1 hake have ruled weaker, and prices are 25 to 50c. per barrel lower. We give quotations this week as follows: No. 1 herrings, $4.25 to $4.50 in barrels, and in half-barrels, $2.10 to $2.25; No. 1 green cod, $5.75; do. large, $6; No. 1 hake, $4; B.C. salmon, $12.50 to $13, in full barrels, and $7 in half-barrels, and No. 3 mackerel, $18 per barrel.

Smoked fish are in small supply. We quote: Haddies firm at 6½ to 7c.; bay bloaters at 85c. per box, and smoked herring 9½ to 10c. per box. Dried codfish, $3.65 to $3.75 per 100 lb.; boneless, 5 to 5½c., and dressed boneless cod, $4.25 per 100.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—Owing to the continued good demand from American buyers for eggs, and the light stock on spot, a stronger feeling has developed in the market, and prices have advanced ½ to 1c. per dozen all round, and the prospects are they will go still higher. On the whole, an active trade is doing, there being a good demand from local buyers. We quote as follows : No. 1 candled, 17c.; No. 2 do., 14c.; Montreal limed, 16c.; western limed, 14 to 15c. ; western cold storage, 13 to 14c., and culls, 10 to 11c. per doz.

POULTRY—The feature of the poultry market was the improved demand for turkeys, and, as supplies were small of good stock, prices advanced ½c. per lb. Other lines were fairly inquired for, and prices show little change. We quote : Turkeys, good to choice, 9½ to 10c.; scalded, 8½ to 9c.; chickens, good to choice, 6 to 8c.; fowls, 4 to 5c.; ducks, 7 to 8c., and geese, 5 to 6½c. per lb.

GAME—Receipts of partridge were fair, for which the demand was good, and prices were unchanged at 55 to 65c. for firsts, and 40 to 45c. for seconds per brace.

BEANS—In beans, the trade was quiet and the market featureless. We quote : Choice hand-picked, 95c. to $1 per bushel ; primes, 85 to 90c.

HONEY — There was nothing doing in honey, and values are unchanged. We quote: White clover comb, in 1-lb. sections, 7 to 7½c.; dark, 5½ to 6½c.; white extracted, 6 to 6½c., and dark, 4 to 5c.

POTATOES—The demand for potatoes was fair, and sales of car lots were made at 54c. per bag.

DRESSED HOGS AND PROVISIONS.

The feature of the local provision market has been an easier feeling in Canadian short and long cut mess pork, and packers, in some cases decided to reduce prices 50c. per barrel. In other lines there is no change to note. Trade is still quiet and chiefly of a jobbing character. We quote : Canadian pork, in barrels, $15 to $15.50 ; pure Canadian lard, in pails, 7¼ to 7½c. per lb., and compound refined at 5 to 5½c. per lb. Hams, 10 to 12c. and bacon, 10½ to 11c. per lb.

There continues to be a good demand for dressed hogs in a jobbing way, and prices rule steady at $5.65 for light weights, and at $5.40 for heavy per 100 lb.

FLOUR, GRAIN, ETC.

GRAIN—Business in grain on spot has been quiet, but, notwithstanding this fact, the market is not altogether featureless, as private cables received from London reported stocks of oats heavy, with the market weak and depressed and resellers offering No. 2 white at 16s., which figure shows a decline of 6d. to 1s. on previous sales. Owing to the above shippers here held off ; in consequence, an easier feeling prevailed and spot prices were fully ½c. lower at 32½c. ex store, with few buyers even at this figure. Peas were firm and quoted at 71½ to 72c. ex store. For Manitoba No. 1 hard wheat 68c. was bid January, and 71½ to 72c. May delivery afloat Fort William. Ontario No. 2 red winter wheat sold at 69½ to 70c. west.

FLOUR—There was little change in the situation of the flour market. The demand was slow and only for small lots to fill actual wants. We quote : Winter wheat patents, $3 75 to $4; straight rollers, $3.55 to $3.70; in bags, $1.70 to $1.80 ; Manitoba patents, $4.25; strong bakers', $3.75 to $4.

FEED—In feed, business continues fairly active, and prices rule firm. Ontario white wheat bran, in bulk, sold at $14.50 to $15, and shorts at $15 to $16 per ton. We quote : Manitoba bran, $15; shorts, $17, and mouille, $19 per ton, including bags.

MEAL—In regard to oatmeal, there seems to be a considerable difference as to values of the same. One dealer declared that he had sold rolled oats at $3.75 to $3.85 per bbl., and at $1.75 to $1.85 per bag, while another stated that he found it difficult to make sales at $3.60 per bbl. and at $1.75 per bag.

HAY—In baled hay trade was quiet, and the market was without any new feature. We quote as follows : No. 1, $6 to $6.50 ; No. 2 extra, $4.50 to $5 ; No. 2, clover mixture, $4 to $4.50 ; clover, $3.50 to $4.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—The butter market was quiet, business for export account being somewhat limited. Finest creamery in boxes sold at 20c., and in tubs at 19½c. The receipts were 563 packages.

CHEESE—There was no new feature in the cheese market. The demand is still slow, in consequence, business is quiet, with holders of finest western colored asking 10¼c, and eastern good, 10 to 10½c.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER,
ST. JOHN, N.B., Jan. 10, 1899.

MERCHANTS are busy either taking stock and finding out the results of the past year's business or preparing to do so. A fairly satisfactory year is reported. There has been little chance to make money in staples, though molasses business has been more generally satisfactory than for years, and shows very good results. Canned goods have, of course, shown a large margin, but the quantity handled is not enough to tell very largely in the net results. While staples may not have shown large profits, they have not shown large losses. There has been some loss from bad debts. To a few this has been considerable. Since the first of the year payments have been quite good. In markets during the week flour has had considerable attention. Millers show quite a range in price. Oatmeal, particularly, is higher. Sugar has tended lower.

OIL—The matter of chief interest is the drawing together of the representatives of the Standard Oil people and those of the Imperial Oil Co., between whom in the past the competition has been most keen. There is but a quiet business even in burning oil, and in this line there is no change in price. Paint oils, particularly turpentine, incline higher.

SALT — Arrivals have not been large during the past few weeks. The Manchester steamers, coming, as they do, from the nearest port to the point of production, are inclined to get the business rather than the Liverpool boats, as in the past. Particularly in Liverpool coarse salt, business during this month is likely to be active, as at this season, steamers needing it for ballast, quote the lowest freights, and importers, rather than store it, quote very close figures to the consumers. In other lines there are but light sales. We quote : Liverpool coarse, 40 to 45c. ; English factory-filled, 90c. to $1; Canadian fine, $1 per bag ; cheese and butter salt, bulk, $2.50 to $2.60 per bbl.; 5-lb. bags, $3 to $3.25 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $2.85 to $3 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 20c. each; 10-lb. wood boxes, 12c. each; cartons, $2 per case of 2 doz.; English bottled salt, $1.25 to $1.30 per doz ; mineral rock salt, 60c. to $1 per 100 lb.

S. H. EWING & SONS - MONTREAL.

CANNED GOODS -- There is little doing. Vegetables are firmer in price, particularly corn and tomatoes. There are fair stocks held, though not equally divided among the dealers. Salmon are firmly held, but there is no large local sale. Lobsters, as reported last week, are rather easier, the canning season being about here, and the past year showing that prices were higher than the demand would warrant. Blueberries are scarce and higher figures are asked. In fruits, peaches have the best sale. Pineapples show a steady demand.

GREEN FRUIT—Business has been somewhat quiet, even oranges moving slower. Retailers are still supplied with Christmas stock. Many of the smaller dealers buy a case at that season who never think of buying that quantity at another time. Larger buyers do about the same, but on a larger scale. Prices are easy. Jamacias are still the best oranges offered. In lemons easier prices rule. There is a steady sale. Bananas showing light business, and to wholesale dealers no profits. Apples hold their price, and there is a fair movement. Stocks are light. Malaga grapes are out of the market; at least in a wholesale way. Cranberries are high.

DRIED FRUIT—Since the holidays, the bottom is largely out of this line. In raisins, Valencias are easy, but other lines of dried fruit are firmer, and should be higher. A fair stock of Californians are held. Currants are in light supply, and are firm. Dates move but slowly. Prunes show a fair business, prices tending high. A car of Californians are daily expected. These are favorites, particularly the 25-lb. box. A few apricots and peaches are in the car. The former are high. Figs have but light sale. Stocks are small. In evaporated apples, there is some inquiry, but dealers are backward about paying prices asked by western holders. Dried apples light sale. Onions are showing a fair profit to holders. Prices firm. Peanuts higher, particularly extra hand-picked.

SUGAR—The price is rather lower, chiefly because of American competition. Some American granulated which has been received is of particularly fine quality. Importations have been light, as the Acadia refinery cut their prices to meet the competition. There is but a fair business doing.

MOLASSES—Stocks are getting very low. There is but little change in price, although higher figures are expected. Such lots as have been offered from American points continue to be quoted higher and to lessen in quantity. Some New Orleans has been offered, but dealers do not like to pay the price asked. Some that is here should, however, show them that it is not well to push prices too low, as it is bound to tell in the quality. In syrup there is but little sale; prices rather higher.

PRODUCE—Cheese shows considerable strength, and better prices are obtained. Stocks are not large. Local business is light. In local markets a further advance is expected. Prices have been too low. Eggs have but fair sale. No large stocks are held. Buyers are particular about quality. For hennery eggs high prices are asked, but for case eggs there is little change. Butter is but of fair sale; little change in price. Good butter would sell freely at quotations.

FISH—Lack of fresh fish makes business quiet. The outlook for frozen herring is poor. Fresh haddock are bringing a higher price than cod, which is unusual. This has advanced finnan haddies, for which there is a good western demand. Smelts are still a large business in the northern part of the Province. A few small lobsters have been received. In dry fish, there is but a fair business. Codfish hold firm, owing to the quiet demand. Pickled herring are light supply; prices unchanged. Large herring are difficult to get. Smoked herring keep low. Bloaters are about out of the market. We quote as follows: Large cod, $3.60 to $3.65; medium, $3.55 to $3.60; pollock, $1.70 to $1.80; Grand Manan PROVISIONS — There is a light business doing. Barrelled pork shows little change. Mess is rather firmer than clear. Local packed is more freely offered. Beef holds rather higher, but there is little doing. In lard, western packers have reduced prices, so local market is lower.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL—Flour has had considerable attention, though dealers are not large buyers. Ontario millers show quite a range in price, but all tend higher. There is little change in Manitoba. Oatmeal is quoted higher. Local prices are about the same as millers ask, but if oats hold their advance it means still higher prices. Cornmeal holds its advance; there is large sale. Beans are quiet, and dealers are inclined to shade offers. Feed is still high, but hay shows no improvement. Holders through the country have increased the number of their cattle, and are feeding their hay rather than sell at prices offered. There is some inquiry for barley and split peas, but buyers hate to give prices asked. We quote as follows: Manitoba flour, $4.70 to $5, best Ontario, $4 to $4.15; medium, $3.65 to $3.75; oatmeal, $3.85 to $3.95; cornmeal, $2.20; middlings, $19 to $20; bran, $17 to $18; oats, 37 to 43c.; hand-picked beans, $1.10 to $1.20; prime, 95 to $1; yellow eye beans, $1.75; split peas, $3.80 to $3.90; round, $3.25 to $3.40; pot barley, $3.60 to $3.75; hay, $7 to $8; timothy seed, American, $1.75 to $2.15; do., Canadian, $2 to $2.40; mammoth clover, 7 to 7½c.; alsike, 7¾ to 8½c.

ST. JOHN NOTES.

Mr. Fisher, representing J. W. Windsor, Montreal, called on THE GROCER this week.

So far, the shipments of apples from the Annapolis Valley have exceeded those for the same period last year by 150,000 barrels.

The Nova Scotia Pork-Packing Co., Middleton, has increased its capital stock to $40,000. The factory will be capable o handling 25,000 to 30,000 hogs per year.

THE GROCER had the pleasure this week of seeing the particularly handsome gold medal, given by the Windsor Salt Co., for the best exhibition of cheese at the St. John exhibition, last fall. The Maritime agents for the salt, Smith & Tilton, having received it from the company to forward to the winners, The Alberton Dairying Association, of Prince Edward Island.

L. G. Crosby was a passenger by the steamer Taymouth Castle for the West Indies this trip. Mr. Crosby represents here a number of the leading houses on the Islands.

With the New Year comes the report of a number of new manufactories to be started in the Province. Among them are a new biscuit factory for St John, a canning factory for Sussex and a candy factory in Fredericton.

For the first time for many months the deposits exceeded the withdrawals at the St. John branch of the savings bank and agencies during December. At St. John alone the deposits for the week ending Dec. 31, were $21,459.

At the annual meeting of the St. John Hardware Association this week, R. B. Emerson, of Emerson & Fisher, was elected president; Wm. Kerr, of Kerr & Robertson, vice-president, and John J. Barry, secretary. The annual banquet will be held on Jan. 19.

Few realize the extent of the fishing industry of St. John County. The following figures are given for the past year: Twelve vessels of 222 tons, employing 53 men, valued at $4,400, and 403 boats, employing 806 men, valued at $27,790. The total catch was valued at $192,731.90.

TRUE TO LIFE.

We heard a pretty good story of a woman who spent nearly all of last Sunday in reading the department store ads, and on Monday went in to see what bargains she could get. She hired a girl to come in and tend her baby, and started off for the Hub. She spent all the forenoon looking 'round, and when she was quite tired out went home. She found the baby had been about choked during her absence, and that the cat had eaten up her valuable canary. But she brought home her bargain; a two-cent bunch of envelopes! This is a fair sample of what the women frequently accomplish when they start out bargain hunting.—The Germ.

J. E. Fisher, Burlington, Ont., shipped 135 cases of pears to Glasgow this season. For them he received £72 above all charges, including freight, commission, etc., a net return of $2.60 per case. The case used was basswood, 20 x 13 x 19 inches in size, and cost about 10c. each. A barrel of pears would fill four of them. The fruit was wrapped in tissue paper, and was shipped in ventilated compartments, not cold storage.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 9, 1899.

THE cold weather, mentioned in my last report, has continued and intensified, and Winnipeg has experienced some real old-time January weather, such as we used to hear stories about after boom days. This has had a tendency, along with the natural lull after the holiday trade, to make business quiet. Very few changes mark the history of the week.

CEREALS—Are all firm. Rolled oats have stiffened, and are now quoted at $1.90 for 80's, with prospect of higher prices. It seems to be caused by a combine rather than a shortage of stock. Split peas are firm, and are quoted at from $2.45 to $2.50. Barley is the same, and is quoted at $2.35. Beans are higher. Prime hand-picked are worth $1.45.

CANNED GOODS—No change in price is noted in these goods. It would seem that corn is quite as scarce as was anticipated during the fall. From all that can be learned here it would seem that there was a decided shortage in the eastern market. Tomatoes, corn, beans and peas show a steady demand.

SUGARS—Have declined from 5 to 10c. per hundred, owing to the slight slump in raw material. Syrups remain the same.

FISH—Haddies and bloaters are scarce, and many merchants are much disappointed at non-fulfilment of orders. From the present outlook, there seems small hope of improvement. The heavy weather on the Atlantic coast seems to have played the mischief with this trade.

DRIED FRUITS—Apples still continue so high that the demand is light. The great consumers of this fruit are mining and lumber camps, and, at 8c. per lb., they are a luxury. Exaporated are almost as bad, being 10½c. per lb. Apricots continue at 16½c., so that the chief business is being done in peaches and nectarines.

RICE—Japan is slightly easier, but not enough to make a change in price.

CURED MEATS—Are moving very slowly and with no change in price. Lard is fluctuating, one day a quarter cent up and the next a quarter down.

Tea, coffee, spices and dried fruits all show a dull market without change of price.

The Dyson Gibson Co., manufacturers of "White Star" pickles, baking powder, "Health" coffee and the like, inaugurated a new feature in their business last week. The enlargement of their premises was commemorated by a dinner to the employes. The officers and employes number 45. Alderman Dyson, head of the company, started the business eight years ago with two assistants only. The dinner was a delightful affair and was followed by toasts, speeches and songs.

CREDIT NOW AND THEN.

"THERE is a heap of difference," said a commercial agency man to a writer in The Retail Grocer's Advocate, "between the credit system now and the system of only a few years ago. When I started in business it was the fashion for the out-of-town merchant to come to the market to make his purchases. He visited the merchant he wanted to buy goods of, and, whether he knew him or not, the merchant in five minutes had made up his mind whether he wanted to sell goods to him or not, and just the amount and just the length of credit he wanted to give him. In very few cases was there any investigation of a man's record. The merchant simply sized his man up and then acted on his judgment. The system wasn't bad, either, for those days, for it was seldom that a merchant who had had experience in dealing with men made a mistake. You could tell then what a man was, after a five-minute talk.

"But to-day, good heavens! you talk to a man five minutes and you probably know less about him than you did before you saw him. I mean, of course, in the matter of business standing. The merchant who tried to do business on that plan to-day would probably be bankrupt in a month if he was worth millions to start with. The man who comes in looking for credit to-day gets just as good a reception as he did in the old days; but after he has given his order and goes away his record is gone over with a fine-tooth comb before he gets a cent's worth of credit. I don't know whether human nature has changed so that it is impossible to tell whether a man is honest now and will keep his word or not, but certain it is that you can't size a man up to-day by talking to him, as you used to be able to size him up. More trouble is taken to-day to find out the trustworthiness of a man who wants $100 worth of credit than was taken 20 years ago to look up the trustworthiness of a man who wanted $20,000 worth of credit."

NUTRIMENT IN RICE.

It is not generally known that a large part of the nutriment in rice is thrown away before the grain is in shape to be effered to consumers, says N. Y. Commercial. The rice, in fact, has three parts—the husks, the inner cuticle and the grain itself, as it is ordinarly offered. The inner cuticle is cuticle in fact, as well as in name, growing fast to the grain. It has to be worn off by friction, and forms a residue, which is utilized as cattle feed. The cuticle is rich in gluten, or protein, and in China is eaten with the rest of the grain. The possibilities of awakening the general public to a realization of the nutritive value of rice without this cuticle removed have not been considered by millers and rice men hitherto, but the man who makes the shredded whole wheat biscuit in Worcester is now considering the chances of success that a corresponding product made of rice would have, and, if the experiment proves a success, a new article of food may be added to the grocers' trade.

The inner cuticle of the grain, while it is very hard, and grows quite tightly on the grain itself, splits away without much difficulty when subjected to an end-to-end pressure, leaving the white grain perfectly clean. If the whole rice were to be offered for general use, it would have to either go through this breaking process, or would have to be partially steamed, as the outer portion cooks much more slowly than the inner, a difficulty which the ordinary cook, often unsuccessful with rice, might not be able to overcome.

W. B. Perrin, of Chicago, visited Woodstock, Ont., recently in connection with the proposal to establish a pork-packing factory in that town. He states that $45,000 would build a packing-house sufficient to handle 2,000 hogs a week.

THE FREAKS THAT A GROCER MEETS.

"A GROCER meets some queer people," said an old retailer to me.

"I used to sell to an old maid we called 'Short-weight Maria,'" he went on. "She weighed everything on her own scales. And if it was a hair under weight, she'd bring it back and give the clerk that sold to her a laying out."

"We got the best of her once, though. She used to buy lots of dried beef. She almost lived upon it. One day she bought a quarter of a pound. Soon she came running back, and demanded that the beef be weighed. I weighed it, and found it was half an ounce short. Old Maria pointed out the clerk who sold it, and I called him over and showed him the short weight.

"While I was telling him, I noticed the clerk smiling, and I wondered why. When I finished, the clerk said :

"'That beef is short weight because Miss Jackson ate a lot of it before I wrapped it up.'

"The old lady got very red in the face. That was the last time she ever bought anything of me, and I was glad of it, because she was a nuisance. Why, I've known her to come back with a pound of crackers that took the scales down just so they were on the balance. She thought the scale ought to drop all the way down, and I had to give her one more cracker to get her out of the store.

"Another nuisance I used to sell to was a preacher. He was a clever fellow, but I've always said he was a thief. This fellow would insist on one of the younger clerks waiting on him, and I couldn't understand it, except on the ground that he liked the boy.

"But one day I saw why he had a boy wait on him. I saw the lad measure a quart of lima beans one day, while the preacher stood by.

"The boy piled the quart measure up, and emptied the beans into the basket. The preacher grabbed up a big handful and added 'em to the quart in the basket.

"'The Lord loveth a cheerful giver, my boy,' he said in a fatherly tone.

"I didn't interfere just then. I didn't know but that it might be an isolated case. Well, the next time the preacher came in I went up to him myself.

"'What can I do for you, Dominie?' I asked.

"'Why, thank you,' said the preacher, politely, 'I'll wait till James is through, I guess. He usually waits on me nicely.'

"'Darned nicely,' I thought to myself.

"The boy got through with his other customer, and I heard the preacher ask for half a peck of sweet potatoes.

"The half peck was measured out, and heaped up at that. After it was emptied in the basket, the preacher leaned over, picked up three great, big potatoes and tossed 'em into his basket.

"The Lord loveth a cheer—.' He got just about that far when I stopped him. I was hot.

"'But he doesn't love a thief!' I said, right like that. I oughtn't to have said it, but it was thieving all the same.

"The preacher got hot, and threatened to have me arrested. He put on an indignant front, and walked out, but he never did anything. I'd have made it too warm for him. I calculate I lost lots of money through that fellow."

"Well, there was one more freak. He grew sort of crazy over the microscope.

"This fellow got an idea that the food he ate was impure. He'd take little bits of everything he bought and look at 'em with his microscope. He found something to kick over in almost all of 'em. He came down one day and swore that the vinegar I'd sold him was swarming with little bugs. I got quite worried over it, until I found out that they ought to be there—were really part of the vinegar.

"And that's the way he worried me. This was impure, or that was, or the other. I was trying to sell good stuff, and it sort of made me hot under the collar. So I told him one day to clear out. He left me, and the next grocer he went to took him by the scuff of the neck and shot him out the door when he went there one day to tell him some cheese was bad. I believe that ended the microscope business.

"Yes," ended the old grocer, "in cases like that, I believe in getting rid of these freaks as soon as you can. They ain't worth the sleep they cost you."

And, on the whole, I believe he's right.—The Stroller, in Grocery World.

LAGNAPPE STORES.

"New Orleans grocers and marketmen and dealers in fruits and confectionery, all know that lagnappe is required, and they lay in a goodly store of articles to be given away," writes Julia Truitt Bishop in the January Ladies' Home Journal. "A little handful of something goes with every purchase, and it is astonishing how rapidly the barrels of gingernuts and the buckets of candy will melt away. An expensive custom, one would say, but so firmly established that no one dares to resist. Once in a while, one finds a grocer who complains rather bitterly to his confidential friends, but he will not set the fashion of rebelling. If he did, he would lose his trade, and his customers would seek out the lagnappe stores without delay."

HOW HE BROKE HIS CHRISTMAS-GIFT HABIT.

I HAD a melancholy tale of woe poured into my ear last week. Perhaps it may interest some of your readers, so here it is. I can't give even the faintest idea of the name or address of the hero, because he thinks The Grocery World is a Bible, and reads every word of it. He'll read this, too, and the only way I can square myself with him is by the plea that nobody'll know who is meant.

Last Tuesday we sat in this grocer's store talking. The first thing I had said to him was the conventional "Merry Christmas!" salutation.

"Oh, darn Christmas?" he rejoined, irritably. "I don't want to hear any more about the measly thing! I'am sick of it! A whole lot of worry an' feasin', an' all for nothing?"

This was so out of tune with the predominant happy holiday spirit that I looked the old fellow over with surprise.

"What in the name of goodness ails you?" I asked.

The grocer was bristling like a turkey cock.

"Oh, there ain't nothing the matter with me," he said disgustedly, "except that I'm a-doing business with a lot of pigs, that's all! People that don't appreciate what you do for 'em! I'm sick of the whole gol-darned business! I won't be in it next Christmas, I'll tell you that!"

"See here," I said, you evidently want somebody to unload on. I'm here for that purpose, if you say so, so just go ahead and let it out. You can lay your old bald head on my gentle bosom while you tell your sad story, if you want to."

"I'm afraid to say anything about it," he said, "for fear I'll get so mad I'll bite. That's the way I feel whenever I think about it. Howsomever, I'll tell you if you'd like to hear. Tain't much, maybe, but it makes me most bustin' mad, all right.

"Last year I gave Christmas presents to all my customers. I was feelin' me oats pretty well last year. I had a splendid year, an' the business had increased full 20 per cent. So I was a-feelin' pretty good, and thought I'd do meself proud. Everybody got a Christmas present, an' a good one, too. I don't mean that I give 'em gold watches or anything like that, but I gave something better than cards or calendars. Every child got a picture book, an' I had a lot of leather card cases and postage stamp boxes, and things like that.

"Well, I was a blamed fool! I forgot that I was a-settin' the pace for myself. You see, your customers are just like hogs. The more you give 'em the more they want, an' the less thanks you'll get for it. About a month before Christmas this year I made up my mind not to give any Christmas presents. I ain't had a very good year. Oh, I've got along, but it ain't like last year, for all the times was so hard then.

"I was fool enough to think that my customers wouldn't notice anything about it. But they seemed to expect something even better than I gave 'em last, and they began to hint like sixty about a week 'fore Christmas. There's Mrs. Bixby; she deals with me steady. Keeps a boardin' house down on Rutger street. Her trade 'mounts up, and I wouldn't like to lose it. I did think I'd give her something, but I argued that if I did it would get out, an' I'd be in worse trouble than ever. So I decided to stick to me rule, an' give 'em to nobody.

"On Wednesday before Christmas, Mrs. Bixby come in the store—something she very seldom does. She had a great, big, happy grin on, an' I began to suspect something right away, because she's a kicker, and don't usually grin much while she's a-buyin' goods.

"'Good morning, Mr. Jones,' she said, just like that, as sweet as thunder.

"'Good morning, Mrs. Bixby,' I says.

"'We're getting over near Christmas again, aren't we?' she said.

"'Yes, ma'am.' I says, 'an' I guess we're a-goin' to have good Christmas weather for it, too. I don't like warm weather this time a year, do you?' I was a-gittin' on the weather so as to switch her off, you see. I knowed what the old cat was a-hintin' at.

"But it wasn't any go. She seen what I was a-tryin' to do, so she pushed the thing right along bold.

"'Do you know, Mr. Jones,' she says, 'I've got that very delightful Christmas gift you gave me last Christmas on my bureau yet. I appreciate it among my very best presents.' Them was her very words. An' all the time with that great, big grin on. It was the grin that made me hot.

"'Is that so?' I says, kind of short, 'it looks 's if it might snow, don't it?'

"But I might as well a tried to switch off a brick house. She was there to hint, an' I couldn't stop her.

"'Do you know, Mr. Jones,' she went on, just as sweet as molasses, 'few of us realize how much money we spend in the course of one year for mere food. I've taken the trouble to figure up, just for my own satisfaction, what I have paid you for groceries between last Christmas and this. What do you think it is?'

"I didn't know, an' I wasn't pertickler about knowin', so I just sort of grunted.

"'I find that it foots up to just about $600,' she says, with her Christmas grin a-gittin bigger all the time. 'Quite a sum of money, isn't it?'

"That made me sort of huffy. Just as if it was charity.

"'I hope I've give you good value, ma'am,' I says; 'I'm sure I've tried to.'

"'Oh, you have,' she says, 'but there are other grocers, you know, Mr. Jones."

"See what she was after? Plain as the nose on your face. But I got stubborn, an' made up my mind I was a-goin' to stick to me rule, so I didn't give her a thing. The order boy went around there as usual this morning, an' he tells me just before you come that she wouldn't give him no order—first time she's missed for two years. It's simply because she didn't get any Christmas present; that's all.

"An there's a lot more of 'em, too," he said, dejectedly. "A whole lot of the darn pigs threw out hints right along. None of 'em got anything from me, an' I don't know whether the'll drop me or not. I oughtn't never to have started it," he said, irascibly.

"Will you get Mrs. Bixby back?" I said.

"I don't know," he answered, "she's a muley old rip, pretty set in her ideas. I hate like the mischief to lose her, for she buys good stuff an' lots of it."

"Why don't you give some New Year's presents?" I suggested.

He grabbed at the idea like a toad grabs a fly.

"I'll do it!" he said, in great excitement. There's no use a losin' your trade, rule or no rule!"

And that's how one grocer "broke" his Christmas-gift habit. Beware of this habit, it's hard to break.—The Stroller, in Grocery World.

STILL ANOTHER EGG PRESERVER.

It is stated, according to a contemporary, that an entirely new process has been recently discovered for arresting the deterioration of eggs by a New York man. The method employed is very simple and inexpensive, and consists in heating the inner lining of an egg by chemical vapor through the pores of the shell, making it perfectly air-tight. At the age of even ten months it is claimed that no egg tester or candler can detect eggs so treated from fresh laid, either in appearance or by using, no matter what tests may be used.

SCRIBBLING BOOKS WITH TEA.

T. B. Escott & Co. are shipping with every pound of Grand Mogul tea going out during January a school children's scribbling book, with their advertisement on the cover, so that merchants can hand out a nice scribbling book to the children of their customers free of charge. As there is only a limited quantity of these books, it is necessary for merchants to send their orders at once, as those already received this month have been unprecedently large, and additional orders are coming in rapidly.

FREE TOOTH-PULL WITH TEA.

If there is any truth in the following extract from a communication to a London newspaper, the grocers must have plumbed the utmost depths of competition in Great Britain:

A few days ago I was purchasing some tea at a west end grocer's, when the young woman serving said that if I liked to make up my order to a pound weight, I could step into the parlor and have a tooth drawn free of expense. I wonder how long at this rate it will be before grocers have a physician in their back parlors to give away prescriptions with a pound of tea, or surgeons to perform operations under similar circumstances.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Major Chas. A. Smylie, of Young & Smylie, Brooklyn, N.Y., was in Toronto this week.

Mr. C. R. Dixon, who represents Lucas, Steele & Bristol in the Northwest and British Columbia, has been at headquarters in Hamilton during the week. His friends in the "Ambitious City" were glad to see him. The Alberta Hotel, Calgary, is his western address, and, from his account of their Christmas dinner, it is not a "half-bad" sort of a place to put up at.

Stratford, Ont., has carried the by-law guaranteeing the debentures of the Whyte Packing Co., who propose starting a pork-packing factory in that city.

TORONTO RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION.

THE annual meeting of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association was held on Monday evening, in St. George's hall, Elm street.

Owing to the prevalence of grippe among the members of the association, there were not enough members present to constitute a quorum when 8 o'clock, the opening hour, arrived. By means of many telephone messages, a few absentees were prevailed upon to appear, and the meeting was called to order shortly after 9 o'clock. The president, W. H. Marmion, occupied the chair.

The secretary read a reply from His Worship Mayor Shaw, in reply to the request of the association for representation on the executive board of the Industrial Exhibition. The mayor merely stated that the request would be placed before the council in due order.

A communication was received from Jeremiah Burns, secretary of the Toronto Travelers' Association re the proposal that the grocers and travelers hold a joint concert in Massey Hall. The reply stated that the Travelers' Association did not consider itself financially strong enough to take such a risk.

Officers were then elected for the ensuing year. For the presidency, F. W. Johnson, vice-president during the past year, was elected by acclamation.

The election of the vice-president was interesting, for, as a general rule in the association, the vice-president succeeds to the chair. Messrs. A. G. Booth, T. Holmes, B. Panter, D. J. Kelly, and D. Bell were nominated. Messrs. Booth and Holmes withdrew and D. J. Kelly was elected.

Other officers were elected as follows: Treasurer, D. Bell; secretary, Edward Hawes; inside guard, R. Davies. Executive committee—T. Holmes, J. A. Johnson, B. Panter, and J. Nolan. Trustees—J. S. Bond, A. White, and F. S. Roberts. Auditors—J. G. Schoales and R. Van Loan.

The advisability of the association holding a concert in Massey Hall without the assistance of the Travelers' Association was brought up, and it was decided to drop the matter for the present.

On motion of A. White and J. Nolan, it was resolved that the association would make a determined effort to have early closing introduced into Toronto, and that a committee be appointed to visit the Retail Merchants' Association and endeavor to secure their cooperation in the matter.

The discussion on the motion brought out the fact that there is a strong and growing feeling regrading early closing among the members, and, in fact, among grocers generally throughout the city.

A. White was appointed to act with the executive committee, who were empowered to do what they considered most likely to secure early closing.

QUEENSLAND COFFEE GROWING.

The important industry of coffee growing has been, according to an exchange, for some years carried on in Queensland, where there are considerable areas of tropical coast lands suitable for the cultivation of the coffee plant. A quantity of unhusked coffee berries has recently arrived from the colony, and will shortly be offered for sale in Mincing-lane. Half a dozen leading firms of brokers have reported upon this Queensland coffee, which they state to be well cured and dried, and to compare well with the Central American article in general quality. They advise that the industry should be briskly followed up in Queensland.

GROCERS WITH NERVE.

Grocers, as a rule, have less nerve than some other classes of business men, remarks The Ohio Merchant. And nerve is one of the prime essentials to success. Many grocers are convinced that they should change their system of doing business from credit to cash, but they lack the nerve and will-power to put their conclusions into practice. Many believe in advertising, but they are short of "sand" when it comes to spending the necessary amount of money. It has been truthfully said that that which entails no risk usually brings little profit. It is those who strike out from the shoulder and cast adrift from established customs and worn-out methods who achieve success.

A GOOD TEA YEAR.

"Yes," said P. C. Larkin, of The Salada Tea Company, "our increase during the past year has been marvelous, amounting to more than our whole output in 1896. In our opinion, the sale of package tea will go on increasing until there will not be any tea sold except in registered packets, as Ceylon is destined to supply the whole tea consumption of Canada. There are hundreds of grocers in Toronto who have handled "Salada" for years, who state that they prefer handling packet tea for very many reasons. There is the handiness of it, the scarcity of complaints as to quality, and, above all, to the grocer, the smallness of stock it is necessary to carry, thereby saving interest and many other charges."

OFF TO NEW ORLEANS.

H. W. Dawson, manager of The Dawson Commission Co., Limited, Toronto, is away to New Orleans, where The American Fruit Commission Men's Association is now in session. Mr. Dawson, who is accompanied by his wife, met at Buffalo a party of fellow fruitmen and their wives. From this point, the journey was made in a special Pullman. He will be away about a fortnight.

A large food manufacturing concern in Battle Creek, Mich., is looking for a site on which to start a branch factory in Canada. Ottawa, and London, Ont., have both been visited by a representative of the company. The food the concern makes is made from all kinds of nuts, and is said to have all the nutritious qualities of beef, without any of its deleterious effects. If started, the branch will give employment to 50 men.

CANADIAN CANNED GOODS FOR THE ADMIRALTY.

A REPRESENTATIVE of THE CANADIAN GROCER called upon the several canners of Montreal in reference to supplying goods for the British Admiralty. Whilst all had heard of the new order, they expressed very much the same opinion, namely, that more specific information should be procured before Canadian manufacturers could take advantage of it.

Mr. Wm. Clark said: "Yes, I heard something about it, but paid little attention to it."

"Will it in anyway benefit you?"

"If you can give me more information as to what they require there I can tell you better what I can do. The British Admiralty are very particular in their requirements. They know what the want, and nothing else will do. If you can give me a copy of their contract so I can see the quality, sizes, and style of packing, then, I will see if I can pack to suit, and, if so, I will certainly have a try for it.'

"I am informed an American firm having sold the American Admiralty a large quantity of pork and beans, have sent a representative to interview the British authorities on the same matter. What do you think will be the result?"

"I do not think there can be much success in this line. The British Admiralty are vere particular in this matter, and, unlike the American authorities, know the values of different qualities of goods, and then they are also unlike the Americans in that they alway prepare to feed their men before they send them out on a cruise. And then, again, anyone with sufficient pull could sell the American Admiralty about anything he had. But I do not think the British Admiralty would require pork and beans, but if they do, I guess Canadian firms can supply them. The principal aim of the British authorities, as far as I know it, is to get the greatest amount of food in the least bulk."

"I see you are putting up pork and beans, how do you find them taking?"

"During the past two months we have sold over 100,000 cans, and that shows the people must like them. We are putting them up in three sizes, the smallest of which sells at 5c. per can."

"How have you found Canadian business during the past year?"

"Splendid, our goods are now in better demand than ever before, and it is fast coming to that point where Canadian meats are monopolizing the Canadian market. Besides canning meats, I am doing a large business in plate beef in barrels, and am so rushed with orders that I have to add another storey to my building."

The Lefebvre Co. were also seen, but the only article they thought they might sell would be pork and beans, but said they: "If we find that there are other articles in our line that will be required, we will be in it sure."

Mr. J. W. Windsor said he had not yet paid much attention to the matter, but thought there ought to be a good opening for several of his lines. He could supply evaporated vegetables and canned fish. He ships now the principal portion of his canned lobsters to Great Britain, and finds it very profitable. He said that he would be pleased if he could get fuller particulars.

Speaking of business generally, he said he had had a good season, but that his pack was very short, especially in certain lines.

PORK-PACKING IN NOVA SCOTIA.

At a special meeting of the Nova Scotia Pork-Packing Co., held in Middleton, recently, it was decided to increase the capital stock to $50,000, of which $40,000 is to be made immediately available. Thus far $25,000 has been subscribed. At that meeting the shareholders present increased their subscriptions $1,570. It was stated that it would cost $20,000 to build and equip a factory capable of handling 25,000 to 30,000 hogs per year. About $15,000 would be required for general running expenses. Discussing the question of hog supply, several farmers declared their belief that they could raise hogs for 4c. per lb. dressed. One said he could do it for 3c. in summer, and 4 to 4½c. in winter.

MANITOBA'S FIRST GOLD BRICK.

Mr. Robert Rogers arrived from Rat Portage yesterday, and had in his possession a gold brick from a Manitoba mine, situated six miles from Ingolf. This is understood to be the first bullion ever produced by a Manitoba mining property.—Free Press, Winnipeg.

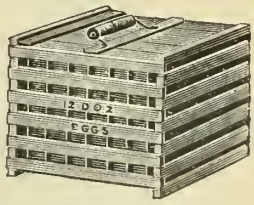
Humpty Dumpty Folding . . . Egg Crates



FARMER JOHN.—"Isn't it annoying, after bringing these eggs so far to find them in this condition?"

MERCHANT.—"True, it is, but you can avoid both the disappointment and loss by using the new Egg Crate; they call it the Humpty Dumpty, and it is the finest thing I have seen for carrying eggs. You never lose any, and you always know exactly how many you have."

FARMER JOHN.—"It does look like a good thing, but times have been rather bad lately and baskets are cheaper."

MERCHANT.—"That's where you are mistaken, 'a penny saved is a penny gained,' and you are out just about the value of one crate on this damaged lot; take my advice and use them in future."

- Nothing to equal them for farmers' use.
- Light and Durable.
- Breakages and miscounts out of the question.
- Handy for carrying anything when fillers are removed.

VOL. XIII. TORONTO AND MONTREAL, JANUARY 20, 1899. NO. 3

A CHAT WITH A BRANDON MERCHANT.

MR. E. B. SMITH, of Smith & Burton, wholesale and retail grocers, Brandon, Man., has been spending a week or two visiting old friends in Ontario. As he was formerly on the road for the old firm of Stewart & McPherson, of Hamilton, he has, of course, a large number of friends and acquaintances. The firm, while the name remains unchanged, is composed of Mr. Smith and his son, F. W. Smith, Mr. Burton having died about seven or eight months ago. The firm does a particularly large retail business, and what is more, does a cash business. In addition to five clerks in the retail department, there are also two or three packers in the shipping-room.

"My clerks," said Mr. Smith, "seldom wrap up a parcel. I have found that it pays for them not to do this, as one clerk who does no wrapping of parcels can do as much work as three who have to tie up their own parcels."

Mr. Smith stated that customers come into Brandon from a radius of 200 miles, frequently, while 60 miles is quite common.

"And," said he, "the business up there is done a great deal differently from what it is done here, as a farmer will come in and buy a 50 or 25-lb. sack of sugar and probably 25-lb. of tea, and other goods in proportion."

"They pay cash all the time, do they?"

"Yes, they do for what they get from us. The farmers up in that part of the country are all pretty well-to-do, most of them having substantial accounts at the bank. I was greatly amused with an incident, some time ago, which illustrates this: One of the farmers in our neighborhood had some litigation in regard to an account which he had paid, and was being sued for again. One day, he came to me greatly worried, and wanted to know what he could do. He said that they were threatening to sue him, which would prevent him from going on with his harvesting. I asked him what the amount was, and he said $100. I told him not to let that bother him, that I would advance him the money, and he could give me a note for 30 or 60 days. 'Oh, it is not the money,' he said, 'I could give them a cheque for $1,000, but I want to know what I should do to get the matter settled; how I could get the matter speedily settled by the courts.' That was all he wanted. He simply wanted my advice, as he was perfectly ignorant of legal procedure."

Mr. Smith explained that the sugar now coming into Brandon was from the British Columbia refineries. "They bring it in in barrels and 50 and 25-lb. sacks. These sacks" he said, "are very convenient. There is a cotton sack on the inside and a jute sack on the outside, and the farmers, as I have already told you, buy their sugar from us in this way. These sacks cost us only from an eighth to a quarter more than sugar in barrels. Yes, we formerly did get sugar from Montreal, but we do not now." Speaking of the trade conditions up there, he said that in the neighborhood of Brandon the rain had caused the threshing to be delayed about five weeks, which resulted in a great deal of damage.

"You know," he said, "from about July until the snow flies we have no rain as a rule in our part of the country, but this year was an exception, some days the rain falling as much as three inches. This, of course, has not helped trade matters, but, notwithstanding this, payments, I understand, from what other merchants say who do a credit business, have been fairly good. Only about 20 per cent. of the wheat in our neighborhood has been marketed, the rest being held in the elevators by the farmers. Of course, when this is sold more money will go into circulation. Yes, the farmers in our part of the country are going a great deal more extensively into mixed farming and cattle raising, although ours is not a ranching country."

The business men in Brandon have become very much displeased of late at the lax way in which the town affairs were managed.

"Shortly before the last election," explained Mr. Smith, "we had a sort of indignation meeting and resolved to put forward certain candidates of our own. Councilmen in our town are elected for two years. There are eight in the council, and one-half are elected every year. We put forward four candidates and elected three of them, which was not bad, was it? I must confess that, until recently, I, like a good many other business men, had taken no interest in municipal matters. I felt I was too busy to bother with such things. However, the finances of the town got into such a bad condition that it was absolutely necessary that the business men should take an interest."

Mr. Smith is a business man with ideas, and the chat I had with him was most interesting.

NEWFOUNDLAND HERRING EXPORTS.

The herring exports for the year, from St. John's, amount to 4,237 barrels, against 2,227 barrels last year. Beside these figures, Placentia Bay sent out 50,000 barrels last winter, and Bay of Islands about 40,000 barrels this fall. The Labrador herring—that is the plump and toothsome fish of old times—seems to have disappeared for the last few years, but will, no doubt, turn up again in time. The whole herring export of 1897 did not exceed 70,000 barrels while the figures for 1898 will reach 100,000 barrels. The Newfoundland Fisheries Co., Limited, perceive a big thing in the herring industry, and when they are in trim, will develop this branch to the fullest extent.—Trade Review, St. John's, Nfld.

TRAVELERS DINE IN VANCOUVER

THE first annual dinner of the Northwest Commercial Travelers' Association, held at Hotel Vancouver, in Vancouver city, was a success, such a decided success that the officers of the association well deserve the many congratulations they have received on the outcome of their initial attempt at a festive spread.

As will be seen from the following list of those who were present, the interest taken in the affair embraced almost every branch of commerce: A. O. Campbell, of Vancouver Hardware Co.; G. R. Maxwell, M.P., C. E. Tisdall, M.P.P., Allan Cameron, E. J. Coyle, Harry Watson, of McDowell, Atkins, Watson & Co.; P. Egan, of W. Braid & Co.; Fred W. Mitchell, of F. W. Mitchell & Co., brokers; W. Telegraph; S. Oppenheimer, of Oppenheimer Bros.; W. Taylor, of B. C. Canning & Coffee Co.; F. R. Douglas, of Kelly, Douglas & Co.; Geo. Ramsay, of Ramsay Bros.; Ed. Gerstir, of Creed, Slater & Co.; H. A. Slater, of T. Dunn & Co., Ltd.; A. F. Rolph, O. H. Dingman, of Parsons Produce Co.; W. W. Moore, of J. H. Anderson & Co.; T. J. Stephens, of John Leckie & Co.; G. A. McIntyre, of The G. R. Gordon Co., Ltd.; W. H. Leckie, R. J. Leckie, of J. Leckie; E. Turtayne, of Rice Lewis & Son, Toronto; A. B Erskine, S. B. Snider, of The Ames Holden Co., Ltd.; Geo. R. Gordon, of The G. R. Gordon Co., Ltd.; G. W. Phipps, of Thos. Dunn & Co., Ltd.; Geo. W. Adams, of W. Strachan Co., and Radnor Water Co.; J. E. Elliott, buyer for McLennan, McFeely & Co., Ltd.

After the assembled guests had shown by deeds their appreciation of the excellent repast provided them, the chairman of the evening, A. O. Campbell, vice-president of the association, followed a bumper to Her Majesty by a short address of greeting to those present. In regard to the determination to hold an annual dinner, he stated that the first meeting of the British Columbia branch of the Northwest Commercial Travelers' Association was held on Saturday, the 24th December, and it was decided that an entertainment of some kind should be given. After discussion a dinner was decided on, and as most of the travellers would be leaving the city immediately after the New Year, to-night was selected as being the best night suiting the majority present. The committee had but three days to make all the arrangements, and, as they were all inexperienced at preparing such affairs, they would be all the more gratified if their efforts were to be crowned with success.

In regard to the affairs of the association Mr. Campbell was most hopeful. He claimed that with loyalty on the part of Vancouver's traders success was bound to be ours. He spoke of the expansion of the banking industry as an indication of the way the business of the city was growing. The great firms of Canada were all small a few years ago, and he was proud to be a pioneer of Vancouver, and to be a citizen of no mean city, which every day was showing brighter prospects.

H. Watson proposed "Our Guests," and in doing so showed the advantage of improving friendly relations between the association and its friends, commercial and political. In reply, G. R. Maxwell, M.P., said that it gave him a good deal of satisfaction to be present. He had always been ready to do anything he could to bring trade to the city of Vancouver. He hoped among other things to soon see another railroad right into the heart of Vancouver. He appreciated the difficulties that commercial travelers had to face. No one was better fitted for the business than healthy, bright young men such as he saw before him. The city was only in its infancy, and the fulfilment of some of its brightest prospects depended on its commercial travelers. No city and no Province filled so much place in the eyes of the people of Canada, and in the eyes of her statesmen at Ottawa. He hoped that as a result of their efforts the year just opening would be marked by bright achievements.

C. E. Tisdall, M.P.P. was pleased to be present, though he could no longer call them fellow-travelers. He had been a member for four years but not having had any trips to make last year he had allowed his ticket to lapse. He would not make a political speech, but, as a supporter of the Local Government, he would say that the platform that they had gone to the people on would be carried out. He spoke of the need of a good, workable insolvency act. He wished them all a very prosperous New Year.

the C. P. R., hoped that next year the Hotel Vancouver would need two annexes to accommodate them. They had spoken of the vicissitudes of a commercial traveler's life. There was another side, as the laymen sometimes found out, when the commercial traveler who got in late, got the bridal chamber and had the best waiter in the hotel rushing to wait on him. He hoped to always continue happy relations with the commercial travelers' associations.

E. J. Coyle, district passenger agent, made one of his characteristically genial speeches, showing how the commercial got much the worst of it. To any of them who had any cold platform waits he advised that they could avoid anything of that kind by studying the C. P. R. time tables and making their arrangements accordingly.

F. M. Black, proposed "The Press." He referred to the cordial relations existing between the press and the commercial world. which, he hoped, would continue. The commercial interests were safe in the hands of the press of the Province. Replies were made by Messrs. Robb and Burde.

John Prentice, in a happy speech, the apt hits of which were much enjoyed, gave "The Ladies." Geo. Buscombe and W. Braid, two of the gay young bachelors, made reply but the other bachelors were too bushful.

The happy gathering came to a conclusion with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne" and "God Save the Queen," and three cheers for the chairman.

HE LIED ABOUT CANADIAN BEEF.

A GROSS fraud is being daily perpetrated upon the British consumer. Go into almost any retail butcher's shop—West End or East End—and ask for "best Canadian," or any other kind of imported meat, and you are sure to be met with the reply, "Wouldn't sell it, sir; nothing but the best English in this shop." And yet the Board of Trade returns tell us that during the eleven months ended November, we imported 527,133 head of live cattle, value £8,707,402, and 2,790,543 cwt. of fresh beef, value £5,336,075. Have all these imports vanished into thin air? Fourteen million pounds' worth of good beef have disappeared, without getting any nearer to the consumer than Smithfield and the slaughter-houses. Perhaps the salesmen have eaten it all themselves; perhaps it has been made into extract; perhaps it has been salted——.

But the London correspondent of The Toronto Telegram cruelly dispels these pleasant theories. After conversing with one of the leading wholesale butchers of Smithfield Market the other day, he writes:

I asked him if he knew a butcher over Lambeth way—mentioning the name of my family butcher. "Oh, yes; very well, indeed. He is one of my best customers."

"Does he buy much Canadian beef?" I asked.

"Why," said my friend, "he sells almost nothing else. I just had a small bill against him made out for my collector who calls his way"

I induced my wholesale friend to allow me to present the account for payment. I called, and, before presenting the account, directed my butcher to procure for me a sirloin of Canadian beef.

"All right, sir; I'll have to order it, as you know I keep only English."

"Well," I replied, "before you order it, I have a small bill to collect from you," and I presented the Smithfield butcher's bill. My butcher has not now to order Canadian beef especially for me; he keeps a full stock—ribs, roasts and rounds—always on hand, as formerly.

So the £14,000,000 worth of beef does not evaporate after all. Instead, the British public is being handsomely defrauded, and the retail butcher is making illegitimate profits that well deserve another and a harsher epithet. There are inspectors whose duty it is to minister to these gentry. These can no longer plead ignorance as an excuse for failing to earn their emoluments.—The Outlook, London, Dec. 17.

CHEESE FIRMLY HELD.

HE LIED ABOUT CANADIAN BEEF.

A GROSS fraud is being daily perpetrated upon the British consumer. Go into almost any retail butcher's shop—West End or East End—and ask for "best Canadian," or any other kind of imported meat, and you are sure to be met with the reply, "Wouldn't sell it, sir; nothing but the best English in this shoo."

one of the leading wholesale butchers of Smithfield Market the other day, he writes:

I asked him if he knew a butcher over Lambeth way—mentioning the name of my family butcher. "Oh, yes; very well, indeed. He is one of my best customers."

"Does he buy much Canadian beef?" I asked.

"Why," said my friend, "he sells almost nothing else. I just had a small bill against him made out for my collector who calls his way"

I induced my wholesale friend to allow me to present the account for payment. I called, and, before presenting the account, directed my butcher to procure for me a sirloin of Canadian beef.

"All right, sir; I'll have to order it, as you know

DISCRIMINATING AGAINST MONTREAL.

IT is a threadbare complaint with traders and exporters in Montreal that the railways discriminate against them and in favor of dealers at points in the west.

Perhaps the sorest set of men over this grievance are the produce exporters, who allege that throughout the past season dealers at Ingersoll, London and other points in Ontario were given greatly lower rates to Montreal than the Montreal men could obtain.

A difference of this extent naturally gave the western dealers a great advantage in catering for trade, decidedly handicapping Montreal dealers.

While the latter admit that they are also at a disadvantage in the matter of through rates to British ports, they recognize the fact that the subject in this latter respect is a difficult one to regulate, but they believe that if they want to bring produce from say, Ingersoll to Montreal, they should be given precisely the same rate as a shipper in Ingersoll obtains.

A committee of the Montreal Butter and Cheese Association has the matter in hand, and one of its members stated the other day that the association had considerable proofs in its possession of many cases of this flagrant and unfair discrimination, and that it was going to institute inquiry as to whether legal recourse could not be obtained in the matter.

It will be interesting to see whether there will be any definite results in the present instance.

Previously, beyond a lot of talk nothing was done, the railway companies continuing to do as they saw fit irrespective of what the Montreal shippers might say. Many believe that history will again repeat itself.

HAVE STOPPED GIVING TRADING STAMPS.

THERE are two merchants in the east end of Toronto who do a larger trade than any others in the same line, and they are keen competitors of each other. Several months ago one of them began giving trading stamps. The other felt he must follow suit, and he did so.

Both soon realized that the stamps were cutting a big swath in their profits; a bigger swath in fact then they could afford. But each continued to give trading stamps because the other did.

Eventually one approached the other with a view to a mutual discontinuance of the practice.

Rusult: Each has now a placard in his store with this announcement:

NO MORE TRADING STAMPS GIVEN HERE

There are scores upon scores of merchants giving trading stamps who declare they wish they could discontinue doing so, but they lack the courage, fearing they may drive customers to the stores of competitors.

But if they have not the courage for individual action they should have the common sense to approach each other and act in unison, as did the two merchants cited.

He who is careful in business maketh dollars; but he who is parsimonious loseth them.

CHEESE FIRMLY HELD.

THERE is a lull in the export cheese trade just at present, but the fact is not causing any anxiety among holders of cheese in Canada.

The latter are confident that every box of the small stock of cheese held on this side will be wanted before the new season opens. The present dullness they attribute to the fact that the trade in England is digesting what it has on hand, and that, when this process is over, demand will be renewed, and at much higher prices than those ruling at present.

Mail advices from Great Britain certainly bear them out in the stand that they are taking.

Well informed dealers, at such leading cities as London, Liverpool and Bristol, all state that, while business is quiet for the moment, they look for improvement toward the end of the present month. In fact, some of the correspondence was quite sanguine in respect to cheese for a "long deal," that is, holding the goods well on into the spring, one enthusiastic trader predicting that the price would go to 60s. before new cheese made its appearance.

This may be an extreme view, but a comparison of the situation with that ruling in the spring of 1897 is interesting.

At the close of January of that year there were 215,000 boxes of cheese in Montreal and 109,446 in New York, or, in other words, the visible supply in North America was 324,000 odd boxes. As the same time there were shipped between January and April some 500,000 boxes, yet, despite these heavy shipments, the price in Great Britain rose from 52s. to 59s., or, in other words, 11½ to 12c. was realized for cheese.

This season, on the contrary, an extreme estimate would only give 400,000 boxes of cheese in Canada. At the same time the stock in Great Britain, as well as on this side of the water, is smaller than it was in 1897.

Taking Bristol, London and Liverpool as the three chief centres, the stock in January, 1897, was 417,000 boxes, whereas this year it is estimated not to exceed 400,000 boxes. Altogether the cheese situation is a healthy one.

WILL THERE BE A DUTY ON TEA?

THE CANADIAN GROCER has been asked to express its views in regard to the possibility of a duty being placed upon tea by the Dominion Government at the next session of the Dominion Parliament.

Certain of the daily papers have already declared that the Government has decided to do so. If the Government has come to any such decision, no one outside the particular papers in question appear to know it. And, as the papers which are declaring a duty is to be placed upon tea are not in the confidence of the Government, it is scarcely likely they have been given information which is denied others.

Frankly, we have no hesitation in saying that we do not believe a duty will be placed on tea.

When, some two years ago, it was first mooted that the Government contemplated a duty on tea, the argument was advanced that it was necessary to do so because of a threatened decrease in revenue.

At present the Government cannot advance any such plea. The revenue is not decreasing. During the past six months the Customs revenue has increased over $2,500,000, and during the five months ending November, the Inland Revenue receipts gained over one and one-third millions. Then, the Government has asserted that it has a substantial surplus of receipts over the expenditures. This may be termed the business aspect of the matter.

Now, as to the political aspect. A duty of five or ten cents per pound on tea would mean an increase in the laid-down price of the article. Does anyone mean to say that this would not be used by the Opposition papers as an argument against the Government? Certainly it would. In fact, already lengthy articles and pithy paragraphs have been written pointing out that, with a duty on tea, would come increased taxation. "The workingman's breakfast table is being taxed" is, in effect, the cry.

Governments may not hesitate to do an unbusinesslike thing, because they know that business men, though offended, are, as a rule, amenable to party discipline, but they will hesitate a long time before doing that which would be considered bad politics.

Of course, THE CANADIAN GROCER is not in the secrets of the Government. It does not, therefore, say positively there will be no duty on tea. The conditions, however, are strongly against any such supposition, and these we have no hesitation in pointing out.

GROCERS AND CIGARS.

PERHAPS no better proof is wanting that the handling of cigars is profitable to grocers than the steady increase in sales to this class of trade, which is shown so plainly by a careful canvass among some of the leading Canadian manufacturers. The point is made, and we think it is a good one, that there is no "side line" which can be handled with so little trouble and expense, and yet yield such large profits per day as cigars, because the majority of smokers consume a steady average during a certain period, and that average can be figured down practically to a cent. In other words, a grocer can depend upon a fixed profit from day to day, provided, however, that he does not fall into the error of overlooking quality—manifestly, he must suit his trade or he will lose it.

Another point, which has proven to be of great practical value, lies in the fact that the grocer who gets nearest to the heart of the family, by centering the interest of both man and wife to his store, increases the inclination of the family to keep on trading with him, and this point, we believe, is one that deserves careful consideration by all grocers, because it is the "family trade" that pays the best profits.

It is surprising how many little expenses about the store can be generously provided for with the profits which cigars yield a grocer, and we are told by some of the most successful retail grocers in Canada that they would now think as seriously of giving up the carrying in stock of some of their most staple lines as of giving up the sale of cigars. This is natural, for one does not willingly give up a sure thing, especially when he thinks of his competitor, who may be carrying an attractive line of cigars with which to entice trade away from his neighbor.

There is one thing, though, that we notice in this connection, and that is, that the grocer who seems to have the largest trade on cigars is the one who not only displays them attractively in a well gotten-up showcase, but who makes it a point to keep in stock brands that are widely advertised and which have the name of a reputable maker back of them. Smokers, as a rule, dislike to experiment on untried brands, and are more or less apt to pin their faith to the cigars that their attention has been called to in newspapers or magazines or by other forms of publicity.

And, again, the smoker likes to trade with a progressive grocer—one that is up-to-date, so to speak, and who keeps abreast of the times, by refusing to put on sale groceries which will pay him the largest profits, but which will eventually lose him trade. It is just the same with cigars as with groceries, —quality wins trade and keeps it. Prices alone will often sell an article once, but unless there is true merit in it, the first sale is usually the last one.

Some lines of 10c. cigars, that is the cigars that the grocer sells for 10c., will be more likely to drive trade away from the store than they will be to gain trade, and it will be wise for the grocer who is thinking of stocking up, to investigate the standing of the manufacturer carefully before he orders. The same statement will apply to cigars that retail for 5c., and on which the grocer thinks he must make 100 per cent. profit—it would be better for him to count on making a 50 to 60 per cent. profit on a 5c. line than to sacrifice quality for price.

The grocer who is worrying about little expenses should put himself in communication at once with some one of the few reliable cigar manufacturers whose goods are tolerably well-known on the Canadian market.

TEA AND COFFEE IN NEWFOUNDLAND.

Newfoundland is increasing as a tea and coffee consuming country.

The importation last year was 727,942 lb., or 40,485 lb., more than in 1897. Taking the population at 200,000, this is about 3⅔ lb. of tea for each inhabitant.

The people of Newfoundland are not coffee drinkers, but they imported 94 cwt., which was an increase of 74 per cent. compared with the previous year.

A LUKEWARM BOARD OF TRADE.

FOR many of the things which to-day are a drag on the commercial progress of Toronto, the board of trade of that city must share a great deal of the responsibility.

If there is anything a board of trade should do it is to have a keen eye for those things which are conducive to the commercial welfare of the community in which it is situated.

The politicians who may represent it in Parliament are too busy grinding axes, or trimming their sails to catch favorable political breezes, to bother their heads about such matters, while the members of the average city or town council are either so lacking in business ability that they cannot do anything practical, or are so consumed of self interest that they have not the desire to do anything unless it happens, at the same time to be compatible with their own comfort and welfare.

If, then, the board of trade in a community is not in the watch tower, what body else can be expected to be there? None, certainly. At any rate, when a board of trade is not alive to the commercial interests of a municipality it is certain that municipal councils or representatives in Parliament will not be.

If the heart is sluggish the circulation cannot be otherwise.

The Toronto Board of Trade has not been active. It has been sluggish. Like unto the church of the Laodiceans, it is "neither hot nor cold." It is lukewarm, and anything that is lukewarm will not raise enough steam to work a midge's wing.

The men, who, as a rule, conduct the business of Toronto, are about as little fitted for the duty as a mule is to run a steam engine. They are either elected because of their prominence in some society, or in this or that political party. Rarely is it because of their business ability,

Had the Toronto Board of Trade not been lukewarm in regard to municipal affairs, there would not now be in the city council such a dearth of men of business ability.

The board of trade did, some seven or eight years ago, essay to take an active interest in municipal matters. Its candidate, however, was defeated by a couple of hundred votes, and, although the people have again and again repented that they rejected Mr. Osler, the business men's candidate, yet the board has never since been able to muster enough courage in the way of securing municipal reform.

Just now a great deal of concern is being expressed at the shallow condition of Toronto harbor, and the board has begun to pass resolutions in regard thereto. But it has been known for years that the harbor basin was being filled up with sediment from the Don river and other sources. It was also known that the St. Lawrence canals were being deepened. But it is only when the deepening of the canals is practically completed and it is found that vessels drawing even twelve feet of water would experience some difficulty in getting into the harbor, that the board wakes up. Now it is all flustered.

It is a pity it had not got flustered at least five years ago, for possibly by this this time some practical remedial work might be on the point of being begun.

Then in regard to the railways. Toronto has by no means been fairly treated by them. It is asserted, somewhat facetiously, it is true, but, nevertheless, not without reason, that the "Queen City" has been side-tracked. The board of trade is becoming alarmed about that, but the city was on the side-track before the board became alarmed.

A lukewarm board of trade is not, however, a dead one. And while there is life there is hope. In a few days the board will elect its officers for the ensuing year. If the members will take that interest in the affairs of the board that they should, and elect to the various offices bright and energetic men, it may become a live instrument in advancing not only the interests of the city, but those of the country as well.

There are signs that the board is waking up. Let it be seen to that it is made wide awake.

NEWFOUNDLAND LOBSTER CATCH.

The amount of canned lobsters shipped from Newfoundland during 1898, is placed at 50,000 cases, as compared with 60,000 cases in 1897, and 51,000 cases in 1896. The reason for the reduction in the catch, compared with 1897, is that the waters round the Island have been over fished for some years past. Those in the business state that to preserve the industry, fall fishing will have to be stopped.

Though the catch last year was smaller than the previous year, the price, $10.50, was so much higher than that of 1897, $9, that the value of the catch was slightly greater.

SUGAR UNSETTLED.

By a decline of 5c. in granulated sugar, decided upon on Saturday last, the price of that staple has recorded an aggregate drop of 20c. per 100 lb. since the middle of December, and now, allowing for the usual discounts, refiners state that granulated at its new basis does not net them over 4c. per lb. at the refinery.

The decline is due to the weakness in raws, and the unsettled feeling on refined in New York, owing to the keen competition between refiners in that market, where they have been cutting prices right and left.

The easiness is also a reflection of the declining tendency in the raw article in Europe. Cables from London state that the market for beet is weak and lower, owing to largely increased crop estimates, and cables on Monday quoted the range ¼d. lower, at 9s. 3¾d. for present and 9s. 3d. for next month's delivery.

In Montreal, granulated is now quoted at $4.30 per 100 lb., while yellows are unsettled at $3.75 to $4.25 per 100 lb. at the refinery.

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

GROCERY QUOTATIONS BY WIRE.

Occasionally, just as THE GROCER has gone to press, changes in prices are made in staple lines of goods, which a good many in the trade hear nothing of till the next issue of the paper. Should, therefore, any of the readers of this journal desire to ascertain, between regular issues, the prevailing quotation on any staple line, it will, on application, be furnished by return mail or by telegraph; if by the latter method, at the cost of the person seeking the information.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

TORONTO, Jan. 19, 1899.

GROCERIES.

THE feature of the wholesale grocery trade this week is a further decline of 5c. per 100 lb. in the price of granulated sugar. Yellows remain as before. The sugar market has developed a great deal of weakness during the past few days, and the volume of business is only moderate. In regard to canned goods, the situation is much as before, prices ruling firm. There is a little more doing, however, in canned goods, on British Columbia account. There is, on the whole, a fair business being done in green coffees, at steady prices. The tea trade is one of the features of the market, there being a brisk demand, with prices ruling firm in the primary markets. There is a little business being done in syrups, and a fair demand is experienced for molasses. The spice market rules firm. Prunes are in fairly good demand, and prices are a little higher for both French and Bosnia prunes in the primary markets. The currant market is rather firm, but local business is only of a moderate character. Valencia raisins are receiving very little attention.

CANNED GOODS.

Nothing particularly new has developed in the canned goods market during the past week. Business is, however, beginning to set in on British Columbia account, and we understand that some of the packers have secured orders within the last few days for shipment to that part of the Dominion. Tomatoes remain firm at from 85 to 90c. with most people asking the outside figure named. There are a good many people who are willing to speculate in corn if they can secure it at 80 to 85c., but there is no one willing to accept even the maximum figure named. Wholesalers are quoting all the way from 90c. to $1 for corn. There has been a little more inquiry this week for canned peas, and some business has been transacted at from 75c. upwards as price to retailers. There is a little demand for canned peaches, strawberries and raspberries, the last named of which are scarce. The idea as as to price is as follows: Peaches, $1.50 for 2's; $2.50 to $2.75 for 3's; strawberries, $1.50. Raspberries are quoted up to as high as $1.75. Only an odd case or so of canned salmon is going out, and the ruling price of sockeye, of brands which are not well known, is $1.40 to $1.45 per dozen.

COFFEES.

The coffee market rules steady to firm on all descriptions. The price which is being asked for Rio coffee for importation is about ⅝c. per lb. more than was ruling a month ago. Business in coffee is fairly good, particularly in the Rio kind, for which an active demand is being experienced, by the wholesalers. Representatives of shipping houses do not, however, appear to be doing a great deal, as the higher prices are causing importers to defer placing orders. It is worthy of note that a good many of them, by deferring orders some time ago, have had to pay higher prices when they came to purchase. Some fresh shipments of good quality Maracaibo coffee are on the market, and these are going out fairly well at 12 to 14c. per lb.

See pages 27 and 28 for Toronto, Montreal, St. John, and Winnipeg prices current.

SUGARS.

The sugar market has again taken a decidedly weak turn, largely due, it is claimed, to the fact that the former estimates of the beet crop were much less than those which are now being made by Mr. Licht, the expert in these matters. It seems that a mistake was made from the very first, the amount of beet sown having been underestimated. As a result of the lower markets outside, together with the foreign competition in the home market, a further decline of 5c. per 100 lb. has taken place in the price of Canada granulated sugar. Yellow sugars remain unchanged. Cables from London the early part of the week note a decline of ¾d. to 1½d. in beet sugar. In New York, refiners are indifferent buyers. In regard to refined sugar, the Trust and one of the independent factories are guaranteeing prices from 30 to 60 days; but, in spite of this fact, there is very little business being done.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

There has been a little more business done during the week in syrups, but it is nearly altogether in the bright descriptions, from the simple fact that there are practically no other kinds to be had. Wholesalers report some good sales of syrup ruling at 40c. per gallon. There is a moderate business being done in molasses, and advices from New Orleans state that the receipts there are still showing poor assortments, the lower grades being almost exclusively offered.

SPICES.

Cable advices indicate that the price of pepper is still tending upward. It is significant that during the first half of January no shipments of pepper was made from Singapore to the United States.

TEAS.

The strong condition of the Indian tea market noted last week has been maintained, and there is some talk of a further advance of one farthing having taken place in low grades. However, we have been unable to confirm this rumor. Advices which have been received from India this week state that there is no possibility of prices going lower, and that shipments to the United Kingdom are now falling off, and that exports will not, therefore, exceed those of last year. There is nothing desirable in Indian or Ceylon Pekoe Souchongs under 13c. in the hands of shippers' representatives on the spot. Everyone here is asking for Indian and Ceylon Pekoe Souchong teas in the neighborhood of 13c., but there are none to be had under 13½c., and there are practically no teas of the desirable class offered. Good flavory Ceylon teas at from 17 to 18c. are also scarce. There has been some inquiry for Japan teas at about 16c., bat they are scarce. During the past week a good many orders have been taken for future delivery of next year's crop of Japan tea. One of the features of the week, as far as the tea trade is concerned, is a rather good inquiry for Young Hyson teas at all the way from 15½ to 26c. per lb., and there have been a few transactions. Wholesalers are experiencing a good demand for teas, and it is the general verdict that teas are at the moment the most active in the wholesale grocery trade.

ST. STEPHEN, N.B.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS—The market is quiet and unchanged. At the port of shipment some transactions have been made during the past week on Canadian account, after unsuccessful efforts to buy at 6d. below current quotations had been made. The wholesalers are experiencing only a moderate demand for currants.

VALENCIA RAISINS—Cables from Denia show that selected fruit would cost slightly more to lay down to-day than the figures now ruling on the local market. Consequently, nothing has been done for importation.

PRUNES—The market will now be better supplied with European prunes, as the steamer William Storrs, now due at New York from the Mediterranean, brings about 6,000 boxes of "Anchor" brand prunes on western Canadian account. Foreign prunes have advanced about 3f., or equal to about ⅜c. per lb., while Bosnia prunes have advanced, during the last month, 1s. per cwt., or equal to ¼c. per lb.

GREEN FRUITS.

The receipts of oranges continue large, Jamaicas coming in liberally, and Mexicans arriving in greater quantity than usual. The arrivals of Navels are also fairly large. The quality of the Navels and Jamaicas is uniformly excellent; the demand on Monday and Tuesday was the greatest since the end of the holiday trade, yet, the receipts have been so large that there has been a decline of 25 to 50c. for all varieties. The demand for lemons is good. Bananas, cranberries, and, in fact, all fruits except oranges and lemons are quiet, with a reduction of 25c. for Valencia onions, and an advance of 50c. for the best qualities of cranberries.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—There is little, if any, export business being done, as the home demand is sufficient to absorb offerings. Held eggs are firm. Some dealers are selling at 17 to 18c., but 16 to 17c. is the general figure quoted. Boiling stock is steady at 23 to 25c. per doz. As the quality of cases arriving varies much, the price of eggs arriving ranges all the way form 14 to 16½c. f.o.b. point of shipment.

POTATOES—None too many are coming in, and shippers are holding firmly at 58 to 60c. f.o.b. cars at Toronto. The market is steady at 60 to 70c.

POULTRY—There is a good, healthy tone in market for all poultry, but especially chickens, which are in excellent demand. Prices are firm throughout, with an advance of 5c. noted for chickens.

DRIED AND EVAPORATED APPLES—Stocks of dried apples are pretty well cleaned up, and, as the demand continues fairly good, an advance of ¼c. is noted. We quote at 5¼ to 5¾c. at outside points, and at 5½ to 6c. in a jobbing way for No. 1 stock. Evaporated apples are in good demand, and prices are steady at 8¼ to 8½c. outside, and 8½ to 9½c. in a jobbing way, locally.

VEGETABLES — Rhubarb and greenhouse radishes are now on sale. We quote as follows: Rhubarb $1 to $1.50; greenhouse radishes, 50 to 70c. per dozen bunches; spinach, 75c. to $1 per bush.; green onions, 10 to 15c. per doz.; cauliflower, 50 to 75c. per doz.; celery, 50 to 75c. per doz.; lettuce, 20 to 30c. doz. bunches; radishes, winter, 15 to 25c. doz. bunches; cabbage, per doz; 75c. to $1; parsley, 10 to 12½c. per doz. bunches; turnips, 25 to 30c. per bag; beets, 50 to 60c. per bag; parsnips, 60 to 75c. per bag; carrots, 50 to 75c. per bag; onions, Danvers, $1.25 to $1.50 per bag; butter squash, $2 to $2.50; pumpkins, $1 to $1.50; Hubbard squash, $2.50 to $3; red cabbage, 40 to 50c.; egg plant, 50 to 90c. per basket.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—There is an active demand for large rolls and prints. Tubs are quiet. Prices are firm, with an advance of 1c. for large rolls. Creamery is easier in tone, as the competition of Australian butter in the British markets makes buyers very cautious. We quote at outside points: Dairy tubs, 12½c.; prints, 13 to 14c.; large rolls, 13 to 14c.; creamery prints, 18½ to 19½c.; tubs and boxes, 18½c.

CHEESE—A steady trade is reported. The price of late make cheese is well maintained, but there have been indications of anxiety on the part of holders of early makes to clear out their stocks at a figure below the ruling price. A couple of cars have been

GRAIN, FLOUR, BREAKFAST FOODS.

GRAIN—Wheat is active, with an advance of 2c. noted. Red and white are now quoted at 71 to 72c. at middle freight stations. On the street market oats and wheat are arriving liberally. Other grains are not coming freely. Wheat has advanced 2 to 3c.; rye, 4 to 5c.; peas, 1 to 2c.; oats, 1c. We quote:

HIDES, SKINS AND WOOL.

HIDES—An excellent demand continues, with prices firm and unchanged. We quote cow hides as follows: No. 1, 8½c.; No. 2, 7½c.; No. 3, 6½c.; cured, 9 to 9¼c. Steer hides are worth ½c. more.

CALFSKINS—We quote nominally: No. 1 veal, 8-lb. and up, 10c. per lb.; No. 2, 8c.; dekins, from 30 to 35c.; culls, 15 to 20c.

SHEEPSKINS—An advance of 5c. is noted for sheepskins and lambskins, which are now worth 85c.

WOOL—No change. Market weak. We quote fleece at 15c. and unwashed at 10c.

SEEDS.

There is little doing. An occasional sale of red clover for domestic consumption is reported at $3 to $3.50 aboard outside for good to choice seed. Alsike is also moving quietly at all the way from $2.50 to $4. As no timothy is offering locally, some shipments have been imported from western United States markets.

SALT

No change is noted. Prices are firm and unaltered. We quote as follows: Carload lots, $1.05 per bbl., and 65c. per sack; less than carload lots, $1.10 per bbl., and 70c. per sack. At the wells we quote F.O.B., barrels, 75c.; sacks, 50c.

Manitoba frozen whitefish, perch, pickerel and pike are now on the market. Haddies have declined ½ to 1c.; oysters 5c. per gal.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

MONTREAL, Jan. 19, 1899.

GROCERIES.

TRADE in groceries has continued quiet in the main during the past week, but within the past day or so wholesalers report some improvement in their orders for general groceries. The most prominent fact of the week has been the continued easiness in refined sugar, which is a reflection of the decline in raws and the unsettled situation of the refined article in New York. On Saturday refiners put granulated 5c. per 100 lb. lower, but so far have not touched yellows yet. In syrups and molasses firmness continues the rule, especially in the latter staple. Inquiry from Ontario jobbers for Japan teas has been quite noticeable here also during the week, and has led to some fair sized sales from first hands. Tea values generally are quite firm, as these transactions demonstrate. Dried fruits are quiet, and green fruits, especially oranges, have been unsettled, owing to the highly unseasonable weather. In fact, with good country roads an improvement in business generally is expected.

SUGAR.

The sugar market continues unsettled, the week being characterized by a further decline in the price of granulated of 5c. per 100 lb., which was decided upon by the local refiners at noon on Saturday. Yellows are unaltered from last week. This action of the Montreal refiners is a reflection of the highly unsettled condition of affairs in New York, where the refiners are cutting prices right and left. London cables report a weak and lower market for raws, beet being easy, owing to increased crop estimates, prices being ¼d. lower at 9s. 3¼d. for present and 9s. 3d. for next month's delivery. Cane, also, was dull and declining in London at 11s. 6d. for Java and 10s. for fair refining.

SYRUPS.

Business in syrups is small, but the market is quite firm as to values at 1¾ to 2¼c. per lb. in the wood.

MOLASSES.

While Barbadoes molasses continues strong in tone, the long expected advance fails to materialize and consumers are getting the benefit of the difference of opinion between the jobbers and the speculators. The former, however, have modified their attitude somewhat lately, as a consequence of declining stocks, and are disposed to ask a shade more money on new business. They have also been in the market as buyers during the past ten days or so, and have paid 31c. for 25 and 50 puncheon lots, but now it is claimed that holders have refused to accept less than 32c. Advices from Barbadoes regarding the coming crop are somewhat conflicting, some correspondents being more sanguine of a good yield than others.

DRIED FRUIT.

There has been no change in dried fruits, Valencia raisins ruling steady, as last quoted, with demand light.

Californian raisins continue steady, and jobbing prices range from 5½c. on 2-crown up to 7½c. on 4-crown fruit, with a moderate demand.

Currants continue steady, inquiry being largely for provincials here which are selling at 4⅛ to 4¼c. per lb. Other descriptions are steady.

Prunes are quiet and steady, and the same remarks apply to figs and dates.

NUTS.

There is no change in these, business ruling quiet and prices generally steady.

CANNED GOODS.

There have been some large transactions in this market in canned vegetables and fish for northwestern account, and the fact has contributed to impart a much steadier tone to values, though the latter are not quotably changed. Stocks of tomatoes here, however, are by no means plentiful, and some jobbers refuse to part with their best brands under $1. In canned salmon, also, a very firm tendency is manifest, and corn is quite strong.

SPICES.

The spice market is firm outside, but business on spot has been so quiet that the effect on this market could not be gauged.

COFFEE.

Coffee continues steady on all grades. Business has been confined chiefly to Maracaibo, which has sold in straight invoice lots at 9¼ to 9¾c. for the green bean. Santos have been moved in the same way at 8 to 9½c., and Rio at about the same figure.

TEA.

Western jobbers have been quite free purchasers of tea in this market during the past six days or so, their operations centring chiefly in Japans around 15c., at which basis several 300 and 400 package lots have changed hands. Inquiry has also been noted for blacks, and they are quite firm in tone, and it is doubtful if any could be had from first hands here under 12c. per lb. Young Hysons are steady to firm also, and we note business in thirds at 12c. Some low prices on gunpowders have been talked of here, but we cannot come across any actual transactions at the low figures named, and it is considered that nothing really desirable can be had under 12c., while lots have been sold all the way up to 20c. Altogether, the tea market rules quite firm.

GREEN FRUIT.

The rainy weather has not been favorable to green fruit, and the week has been a disappointing one in several lines, for the first half of January is usually characterized by a slack inquiry, and the unseasonable weather has tended to accentuate this influence. Oranges have, perhaps, been the most unsatisfactory line of all, the demand being so poor that several carloads of Jamaica and Mexican were withdrawn at the Monday sale. Valencias sold at this sale from $2.45 down to 65c. for wet or wasty cases. Cables quote Valencias higher at Liverpool, but with large stocks here and free offerings of Jamaica and other fruit, the fact will not affect values in Canada. Jamaicas have sold from $2.50 to $3 per box, $4.50 to $5.50 per bbl., and Mexicans, $2.75 to $3 per box. Florida oranges range from $4.75 to $5 per box for russets, and $5 to $5.25 for brights ; Californian navels, $3.50 to $4, and ditto budded $2.50 to $3. Lemons remain unchanged $2.25 to $3 per box. Cranberries are selling at $7 to $8 per bbl. Almeria grapes are in limited supply, and 50c. per keg higher at $5.50 to $7. Only a few pineapples are offering at 23 to 35c. each. Bananas are steady at $2.25 to $2.75. Grape fruit show no change at $5.50 to $6 per box.

APPLES.

The apple market rules steady to firm at $2.50 to $4.50, as to quality. Stocks are light.

FISH.

In some lines of fish, the receipts are in excess of the demand ; in fact, stocks are ample in all lines, while the demand continues fair. With ample supplies, values on fresh fish are rather easier, and we quote haddock and cod at 3¼ to 3½c.; salmon, 9 to 10c.; Manitoba whitefish, 6½c.; dore, 5½ to 5¾c.; pike, 3¾; smelts, 3 to 6c. per lb.; tommy cods, $1.10 to $1.25 per bbl., and herring, $1.65 per 100.

Pickled fish have ruled about the same. No. 1 N.S. herring are a little firmer at $4.50 per bbl. and $2.10 to $2.25 per ½-bbl. Other pickled fish are rather easier, as follows : No. 1 green cod, $5.50 to $5.75; do. large, $5.75 to $6; No. 2 ditto, $4 to $4.25 ; No. 1 haddock, $4 to $4.25, and No. 3 mackerel, $18 per bbl.

Smoked and prepared fish are steady. We quote : Haddies firm at 6½ to 7c.; bay bloaters at 85c. per box, and smoked herring 9½ to 10c. per box. Dried codfish, $3.65 to $3.75 per 100 lb.; boneless, 5 to 5½c., and dressed boneless cod, $4.25 per 100.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS — There was an improved demand for small lots of eggs, and the market is more active, with a firm undertone. We quote : No. 1 candled, 17c.; No. 2 do., 14c.; Montreal limed, 16c.; western limed, 14 to 15c. ; western cold storage, 13 to 14c., and culls, 10 to 11c. per doz.

POULTRY — A fair trade was done in poultry, the demand being fair for small lots at about steady prices. We quote : Turkeys, good to choice, 9½ to 10c.; scalded, 8½ to 9c.; chickens, good to choice, 6 to 8c.; fowls, 4 to 5c.; ducks, 7 to 8c., and geese, 5 to 8½c. per lb.

HONEY—There is nothing new in honey. Stocks are small and prices nominal. We quote : White clover comb, in 1-lb. sections, 7 to 7½c.; dark, 5½ to 6½c.; white extracted, 6 to 6½c., and dark, 4 to 5c.

BEANS—In beans business is only of a jobbing character, and prices rule steady. We quote : Choice hand-picked, 95c. to $1 per bushel ; primes, 85 to 90c.

POTATOES—The undertone to the market for potatoes is firm, owing to supplies of choice stock being small, and prices for such are 54 to 55c. per bag in car lots.

ONIONS—Continue steady at $1.75 to $2 per barrel for red and yellow.

DRESSED HOGS AND PROVISIONS.

The provision market continues quiet and without any new feature of note. The demand is principally for small lots to fill actual wants. We quote : Canadian pork, in barrels, $15 to $15.50 ; pure Canadian lard, in pails, 7¼ to 7½c. per lb., and compound refined at 5 to 5½c. per lb. Hams, 10 to 12c. and bacon, 10½ to 11c. per lb.

An easier feeling was developed in the dressed hog market, owing to the more liberal receipts and soft weather of late. The demand is good for small lots of choice, selected light weights, which are selling at $5.50 to $5.65, and heavy at $5.25 to $5.40 per 100 lb.

FLOUR, GRAIN, ETC.

GRAIN—There was no improvement in the demand for grain. Manitoba No. 1 hard wheat, afloat Fort William, January delivery, was offered at 68½c., but buyers showed no disposition to operate. At points west of Toronto oats sold at 29½c. and peas at 66½c. Locally, oats were quoted at 32¼ to 32½c. ex store.

FLOUR—In flour, millers report business up to the average for the season, but Ontario dealers say that trade is only of a jobbing character at steady prices. We quote : Winter wheat patents, $3.75 to $4; straight rollers, $3.55 to $3.70; in bags, $1.70 to $1.80 ; Manitoba patents, $4.10 to $4.20 ; strong bakers', $3.75 to $4.

FEED—The demand for millfeed continues good, and, as supplies are still short, values are firmly held. Ontario white wheat bran, in bulk, sold at $14.50 to $15, and shorts at $15 to $16 per ton. We quote: Manitoba bran, $15; shorts, $17, and mouille, $19 per ton, including bags.

MEAL—In meal, business is quiet, the demand being only of a small jobbing character, and prices for rolled oats are unchanged at $3.60 per barrel, and at $1.75 per bag.

HAY—The market for baled hay is quiet. Supplies are ample, and values rule about steady. We quote as follows: No. 1, $6 to $6.50; No. 2 extra, $4.50 to $5; No. 2, clover mixture, $4 to $4.50; clover, $3.50 to $4.

CHEESE AND BUTTER.

Business in cheese is dull at the moment, for the very good reason that buyers and sellers are apart as to value. The latter believe that they have only to hang on long enough to get their own prices, and as a result trading is light. On the whole, the conditions furnish fair warrant for the stand that holders take. Nominally the range is 10 to 10⅜c., as to grade.

The butter market is quiet, and exporters are not as free purchasers as they were a fortnight ago, but with light stocks sellers show a disinclination to concede the decline that buyers stipulate for. Recent transactions in finest late made creamery have been at 19½c. and a fraction more, but it is doubtful if these prices could be realized today, and we quote 19 to 19½c. Little or nothing is doing in dairy butter.

MONTREAL NOTES.

Montreal refiners marked down the price on granulated sugar 5c. per 100 lb. on Saturday last.

Pickled Nova Scotian herring have been rather firmer this week, but all other pickled fish are lower than they were.

The unseasonable weather has been unfavorable for green fruit, and oranges, especially, have been a drug upon the market.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER,
ST. JOHN, N.B., Jan. 17, 1899.

THIS is the season when the wholesale grocery business is the quietest and there is the least to report regarding markets. Except in staple lines, wholesale grocers here do little buying during January, and no large quantities in these lines, except where the market may show signs of quickly turning higher. A few years ago, the quiet season extended well over the first two months of the year, and travelers did not go out till the first of February. Keen competition has, however, somewhat changed this, each year seeing the travelers start out earlier. This year travelers started out immediately after the New Year. Markets show little change. Sugar is weak, and there have been further importations of American.

OIL—In prices there is but little new. Lubricating oil tends higher. The fact that there is less competition, no doubt, is the cause. Orders for spring are already being taken. In paint oil, demand is still quiet and prices firm. Burning oil shows no change in price. There is fair business.

SALT—Quiet. Large shipments have been received during the week of English salt, but it is very largely coarse. The shipments came both via the Manchester and Liverpool boats. The importers are more largely than ever supplying the outside trade, as was formerly largely the case when much of the outside demand was supplied by wholesale grocers who bought from the importers. Prices are cut finer, and hardly admit of two profits. In fine salt, present business is light, though there is a fair, steady demand. Prices show no change. We quote: Liverpool coarse, 40 to 45c.; English factory-filled, 90c. to $1; Canadian fine, $1 per bag; cheese and butter salt, bulk, $2.50 to $2.60 per bbl.; 5-lb. bags, $3 to $3.25 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $2.85 to $3 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 20c. each; 10-lb. wood boxes, 12c. each; cartons, $2 per case of 2 doz.; English bottled salt, $1.25 to $1.30 per doz; mineral rock salt, 60c. per 100 lb.

G. F. & J. GALT 42 SCOTT St TORONTO. PACKERS OF THE CELEBRATED BLUE RIBBON TEAS

CANNED GOODS—With the present light business the strength in canned goods is not noticed, but prices are firm, and higher figures, particularly in vegetables, are expected. Prices are rather lower here than at other Canadian points. Peaches, the only fruit with much sale here, are firmer. Lobsters show but a limited business, and rather lower prices are expected. The late high prices have curtailed the demand. Salmon is not as high here as at other points. Later in the season, higher prices are looked for. Kippered herring and finnan haddies are firm, at rather higher figures. In local market sardines show little sale.

GREEN FRUIT—The very cold weather affects outside business. This is the quiet season. There is but little to sell, particularly in a wholesale way. Oranges, lemons, and apples about complete the list. In the first named there is an active business. Valencias are improving in quality, but for best stock Jamaicas are still in demand. Lemons, which are rather lower, have a fair sale. Apples are held firm, but show large local sales. Bananas move only in a retail way. Malaga grapes are higher ; very little doing.

DRIED FRUITS—There is more inquiry for prunes. A car of Californian fruit is to hand this week, including prunes, peaches and apricots. Prunes are firmer, and everything points to higher figures. In raisins, sales are small ; range in quality tends to low prices. Some very fine 4-crown loose muscatels were received this week. In Malaga raisins, rather more were carried over from the old year than dealers need, which tends to easy figures. Currants are light stock ; no change in price. A few Californian figs in pound bricks are to hand ; sale is limited. Evaporated apples are light stock, and prices tend higher. Dried have little sale. Onions are very firm at the advance. In peanuts, extras are nearer the price of fancies than usual. All grades are higher.

SUGARS—There have been further arrivals of American granulated sugar, and there are further large lots bought to arrive. Quality is particularly satisfactory. Importers are much surprised at being asked to pay duty on the barrel. Prices on the other side are, however, above local refineries, so that for the present further sales are stopped. In local markets, prices are easy and rather lower than a few weeks ago. Foreign sugars have practically no demand.

MOLASSES — While stocks are light, dealers are not buyers, not being inclined to pay prices at which outside lots could be bought. Prices locally show little change, and are low when the light stocks are considered. Some sales could be made at low prices, but large sales will not be in order till new goods arrive. Little is being done in New Orleans, dealers having killed the demand by buying cheap goods. Syrup is very quiet.

PRODUCE—Eggs are firmer, with light supply. Held stock, where quality and appearance are good, command full figures, while for hennery stock, in a retail way, high prices are asked. Butter improves slowly, and must be good to command full prices. Demand for poor is light. Cheese is rather higher, and further high prices are expected. Local sales are not large.

FISH—Weather is much against best results. A large wholesale dealer said to THE GROCER this week that he had never seen as bad weather for the business as during the past fall and early winter. All prices are firm, though dry pollock, if receipts were more ample, would fall off some. Frozen fish are in light receipt. Herrings are too high for large business. Haddock is still higher than codfish. Finnan haddies are firm at the late advance. There is a good demand. Pickled herring is rather firmer ; very light stocks are held here. There is no improvement in smoked herring. Frozen smelt is plentiful. In lobsters, while a few are being received, western demand and the canners take the bulk. We quote · Large cod, $3.60 to $3.65; medium, $3.50 to $3.60 ; pollock, $1.70 to $1.80 ; Grand Manan pickled herring, $1.85 to $1.90 ; ½-bbl. ; Canso, pickled, $5 per bbl. ; boneless fish, 3½ to 5c. ; cod, 7 to 7½c. ; finnan haddies, 5 to 5½c. ; smoked herring, 6 to 7c. ; spring shad, $3.75 to $4 ½-bbl. ; fall do., $4.75 to $5 ; ½-bbl. ; alewives, $3 per bbl. ; bloaters, 50 to 60c. ; Shelburne, $3.75 per bbl. ; Grand Manan herring, $3.40 to $3.50 per bbl. ; quoddy, $3.50 per ½-bbl. ; frozen smelt, 5 to 6c. ; frozen pollock, 1¼ to 1½c. ; frozen cod, 2¼ to 2½c. ; frozen haddock, 2½ to 2¾c. ; frozen herring, $1 per 100.

PROVISIONS—In barreled pork and beef, there is really no business doing. Beef is quite firm, and holders of pork are hopeful. In lard, prices keep low and a fair demand is noticed.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL—The interest in flour is rather less noticed. Opinions are divided, but the tendency to higher figures is rather less marked. Manitobas have shown but little change at any time. Oatmeal keeps firm, with a further advance promised. Oats are high ; only fair sale. Cornmeal maintains its advance, and is firm. Beans show little improvement ; stocks are light. Buyers are doubtful if now is the time to buy. Feed is still high and scarce, with hay low and no sale. Rather better inquiry for barley is reported, but the high price affects the sales. Seedmen are beginning to look for orders. We quote : Manitoba flour, $4 65 to $4 85, best Ontario, $4 to $4.15 ; medium, $3.75 to $3.85 ; oatmeal, $3.80 to $3.85 ; cornmeal, $2.20 ; middlings, $19 to $20 ; bran, $17 to $18 ; oats, 38 to 42c. ; hand-picked beans, $1.10 to $1.20 ; prime, 95 to $1 ; yellow eye beans, $1.75 ; split peas, $3.80 to $3.90 ; round, $3.25 to $3.40 ; pot barley, $3.60 to $3.75 ; hay, $7 to $8 ; timothy seed, American, $1.75 to $2.15 ; do., Canadian, $2 to $2.40 ; mammoth clover, 7 to 7½c. ; alsike, 7¾ to 8½c.

ST. JOHN NOTES.

Campbell Bros. have opened a large retail grocery store at McAdam Junction.

A. L. Goodwin received this week a car of Californian fruit—prunes, peaches and apricots.

Warren Fairweather has been appointed local agent by a number of the houses represented here by the late Wm. Hatheway, thus adding a new name to the list of local brokers.

Robert Jardine, representing Pure Gold Manufacturing Co., and other western houses, has returned from a pleasant western trip, during which he called on many of those whose interests are so well looked after by him when at home.

It is with deep regret that THE GROCER reports the sudden death of Arthur L. Calhoun, formerly of Fowler & Calhoun, oatmeal millers, of this city, but who recently started a mill at Wolfville, Nova Scotia, where he was working into a nice business.

The Imperial Oil Co. is a thing of the past. The manager here, Harry Drury, has taken an office in The Eastern Oil Co.'s building, and will look after the lubricating oil branch of the amalgamated business, while the Canadian and American burning oils will be looked after by The Eastern Oil Co.

SAIGON RICE CROP.

Wm. G. Hale & Co., in their circular dated Saigon, December 6, say of rice : "The weather seems settled fair, and should remain so ; there is now every reason to expect a good harvest. Exports since 22nd ult. for Europe have been 9,600 tons ; now loading, 14,000 tons, a very exceptional thir at this stage of the season, and there are still one or two more cargoes to go forward. Contracts for new grain hang fire, not unnaturally ; still, something has been done. As far as is known 8,000 tons early February delivery at equal to 4s 8d per cwt. f. o. b. delivered weight ; altogether, so far, 11,000 tons February-March delivery."

TRADING STAMPS IN BRANTFORD.

AT a meeting of the Brantford, Ont., grocers held in the American Hotel the other day, those present resolved in a body to stop dealing in trading stamps after the expiration of their agreements. An Expositor reporter had a talk with a leading grocer on the subject.

"How do you find the trading stamp work in your business?"

"It works fine for the trading stamp manufactory."

"How about your customers and yourself?"

"That is an involved question. You know in trade the cost of goods, duty, expenses of selling, trading, stamp discounts, Christmas boxes, etc., are all added to the price of the goods, and in the long run the customer pays it all, either by receiving an inferior quality of goods, or paying an increased price."

HOW THE CUSTOMER FARES.

"We understand that a customer buys goods at ordinary rates and receives stamps to the value of $3 on each $100 purchased."

"So they think; but, while they receive $3 in stamps on each $100 purchased, they must take it out in trade at the stamp office, and, as a rule, they get what they don't require, and what could be bought anywhere for cash at less money, while the merchant has to pay $5 in hard cash to the stamp company for the supposed $3 worth of stamps or goods secured. So, you see, even if the customer got the full $3 worth on his $100 purchases, the merchant pays $5 for it in cash. The stampman says: 'Stand and deliver to me $5 on each $100 you sell, and get it out of your customers the best way you can'; and you know what human nature is—it either adds it to the selling price or depreciates the quality."

"Is there no benefit to the merchant?"

"Yes, it enables him to secure some customer that is trading at some other store, which is not right.

"Customers who ran accounts and paid monthly leave their balances unpaid, start the trading stamp business, and cost the merchant five per cent. on what they buy."

"Then you don't think it is a success?"

"No. I pay $50 per annum tax on my store, and condemn the city council for their extravagance, fight to put them out and get more economical aldermen in, and then pay toll to the extent of 5 per cent. on $100 to the stampman on my trade. What do I get for it? Fire protection, police, free library, electric lights, and other city benefits that my taxes bring me? No. I pay twice as much and receive nothing, unless it is to steal away a customer from some other trader, and then start paying out 5 per cent. on his purchases to the stamp company."

A QUESTION OF TRIBUTE.

"I see you are not struck on it?"

"No; why should I be? Why should I pay tribute to the man who neither sows nor spins? I would not mind the loss if it went into the pocket of my customers. They would become more productive, but, as it is, at the end of a $100 purchase, they have a lamp they don't need or have lost their book, or given up the whole business, and I am $5 worse off, or worse still, some of them buy what they don't require to fill up their book quickly. As soon as my contract expires I am going out of the stamp business, as I find four courses open to me: 1, raise my prices 5 per cent.; 2, depreciate my goods; 3, lose 5 per cent., or 4, do an honest trade in a legitimate way.

"I understand the grocers are going out when their contracts expire, and so I am, as I neither want the sheriff to get hold of me, to trade on the credulity of my customers, to injure my brother merchants, or to become crooked."

Daniel Scotten proposes to erect a large tobacco factory in Windsor, Ont.

A LEAGUE OF FRUITMEN.

MR. HARRY DAWSON, manager of The Dawson Commission Co., Limited, Toronto, returned on Tuesday from his trip to New Orleans, where he went, with his wife, as a guest of a delegation from the Buffalo branch of the National League of Commission Merchants of the United States, the annual meeting of which was held in New Orleans last week.

When seen by a representative of THE CANADIAN GROCER, Mr. Dawson was enthusiastic in his praise of the reception he and his wife received while in New Orleans.

"We were," said he, "the only Canadians present, and they, especially the ladies, seemed determined to convince us that they were in favor of good fellowship between the two Anglo-Saxon bodies on the continent. Between seeing sights by carriage on the land, and by boat on the Mississippi, they kept us fully engaged."

"Was there anything done at the meeting which will affect the Canadian trade?"

"No. You see, it was purely a National gathering. I was merely a guest."

"Would it be of advantage to the trade in Canada to have it made International?"

"We could form a Canadian league, and have it affiliated. Branches could be established at Toronto and Montreal, and Victoria and Vancouver could combine to form another."

"Why not have branches in other centres?"

"Well, if we desire to affiliate with the United States organization we would have to have five reputable commission houses in each league, and in the smaller centres there are not that many fruit commission houses."

"Would it be of advantage to the fruitmen to form leagues in Toronto, Montreal and the two V's?"

"Most decidedly; to belong to the league a firm must be honest and above board. If a charge of crookedness or dishonesty is proved against a firm its name is dropped. This rule makes it practically safe to ship on commission to any house in the league; thus, the firms in the league find it easier to get fruit on commission than they might otherwise be able to do. It helps to give a house a continental standing."

SELL YOUR DRIED APPLES.

An authority on dried and evaporated apples said to THE CANADIAN GROCER the other day: "You will do your readers a good turn to advise them strongly to sell all their dried apples before the present season is over. The present price for this class of apple is abnormally high, and, though it will continue at about the present figure for some time, there is not much chance of any advance, and when the present season is over a decline is almost certain, as it is altogether improbable that such high prices will continue through two successive seasons. I anticipate a drop of 2c. when the present season is over."

TORONTO BOARD OF TRADE OFFICERS.

TUESDAY was nomination day at the Toronto Board of Trade. The president, vice-presidents and treasurer were all elected by acclamation, as follows:

President..... A. E. Kemp.
First Vice-President... A. E. Ames.
Second Vice-President. W. E. H. Massey.
Treasurer ..... J. L. Spink.

The following were nominated, 15 to be elected: Jas. D. Allan, A. A. Allan & Co.; Hugh N. Baird, Crane & Baird; C. W. Band, Jas. Carruthers & Co.; Wm. Christie, Christie, Brown & Co.; A. R. Clarke, leather and glove manufacturer; F. W. Cockshutt, general merchant, Brantford; Barlow Cumberland, vessel owner; R. A. Donald, Pure Gold Mfg. Co.; John F. Ellis, The Barber & Ellis Co.; W. G. Mr. A. E. Kemp, the new president, is to be congratulated upon his elevation to the highest office in the gift of the board. In the less important offices which he has hitherto filled in the board he has proved himself to be an energetic and painstaking officer. He was elected to the second vice-presidency, when it was felt that a man like he was needed in the councils of the concern. He was elected by acclamation. His experience was the same in regard to the first vice-presidency, and now, again, with the presidency, he has been elected without opposition.

PRESIDENT A. E. KEMP.

OVERBUYING.

The tendency to overbuy seems to be one of the greatest difficulties that the retail merchant of the period has to overcome, writes J. H. Parnell in an exchange. Many a merchant goes to the market, and, as it would seem, buys with the idea that he is purchasing something that cannot be duplicated. When buying, he does not seem to look into the future, realizing that the bills he is making are to mature. How much better, on the other hand, would it be for him to buy a bill, say to-day, and in 60 days duplicate it, thus spreading the payments, than to buy the whole amount at one time, making it all fall due at one time. How much discount could he save upon this plan? Many times he could discount his bills by splitting them up, whereas, by making them large at the beginning of the season, he is driven to the necessity of letting them run to maturity, or even worse, he finds it necessary to take them up by notes.

The retail merchant should realize that by cautious bnying he almost entirely eliminates the chance of being overstocked. The moment a merchant gets into the condition of being overstocked he wants an extension. For the most part he attributes the cause of his embarrassment to the weather, or to the condition of the crops, whereas the true reason is that he has been carelessly overbuying.

The condition of business to-day is such that it is only a matter of a very few days after an order is given until the goods are in the store of the merchant. This justifies frequent purchases in comparatively small amounts. How many times are letters received by the wholesaler and the jobber from a retail dealer, saying: "I cannot possibly send you a cheque at present. Much to my regret, I find my stock very little broken. I am afraid I am overstocked." Then it became evident that had the merchant bought lighter, he would have been in better shape to meet his bills.

Almost any house would prefer an account that is active—that is, where purchases are made frequently, with the bills maturing at different dates—to an account in which the purchases are made only two or three times a year, in large amounts, at the maturity of which it is necessary to close the account by notes. Every merchant has felt, at one time or another, the ill effects of being overstocked. The chief trouble is that they do not profit by experience.

My advice to all is this: At the opening of the season, buy a good assortment, and then duplicate the goods as you find you need them.

By adhering to this plan you will find that at the end of the season you will be in a position to purchase an entirely new line of goods, without finding it necessary to sell off at a loss what you would otherwise carry over at a considerable cost, and at the same time find yourself overstocked.

TAXES IN ST. JOHN.

At a meeting of a joint committee representing the board of trade and the city council of St. John, N.B., the following resolution was adopted:

Resolved: That the present system of taxing personal property and income be abolished, and that the common council be respectfully requested to consider the adoption of a measure based on the principles of the Montreal system of assessment and that proposed in Halifax, so far as these may be applicable to the peculiar circumstances of St. John.

Frank L. and L. J. Gleeson have bought out T. B. Willis, general merchant, Brougham, Ont., and have opened up under the style of Gleeson Bros., with a clean, new stock of all kinds of goods. Mr. Willis is opening up a general business in Markham, Ont.

TRANSCONTINENTAL MAILS.

DURING the last few days many of the newspapers across the line have devoted much space and lavish eulogy to the feat recently accomplished of transporting mails from New York to San Francisco, a distance of 3,347 miles, in 107 hours and 10 minutes, in accomplishing which over 12 hours was clipped from the then existing record for mail trains. A Chicago paper, commenting on the rapid run, remarked that "the Canadian Pacific has been anxious to get the plum, but cannot make the time." The plum referred to is the carrying of the transcontinental mails.

In that connection a C.P.R. official tells about the run made by the C.P.R. in 1891, when, at 1 p.m., on August 29, a train left Vancouver, carrying mails from S.S. Empress of Japan. It took this train just 77 hours and 9 minutes to reach Brockville, 2,802 miles distant. The mails were then taken across the St. Lawrence river to Morristown, N.Y., where a New York Central flyer took them on board at 9.45 p.m., Sept. 1. The 353 miles to New York were covered at the rate of 54 miles an hour, in 6 hours and 58 minutes, making the total for the transcontinental trip exactly 84 hours and 7 minutes, or 23 hours and 3 minutes quicker than the trip made over the United States roads.

It was confidently stated that "the C.P.R. cannot make the time," and yet more than seven years ago it is seen that this road beat the present performance by within a fraction of 24 hours, and this, too, with a road-bed greatly inferior to that of the present day. The two roads side by side are as follows :

	Miles.	Hours.
New York to San Francisco..	3,347	107.09
Vancouver to New York....	3,155	84.07

The American route is thus seen to be 192 miles longer than the Canadian, but the difference in the time is very much more than the increased distance would represent under similar conditions.—Star, Montreal.

LONDON COFFEE AND SPICE CO., LIMITED.

The business of I. M. Mayell & Co., manufacturers of spices and coffee, London, Ont., has been purchased by The London Coffee and Spice Co., Ltd., which has been incorporated with a capital stock of $25,000, and which will continue the manufacture and sale of all goods carried by the old firm.

The new company is composed of the following practical men, well known to the trade : A. T. Cleghorn, who has for the past few years represented the largest firm of coffee importers of New York, Hard & Rand, also Hanson, Son & Barter, spice dealers, of London, England ; Alf. E. Connor, late representative of Gorman, Eckert & Co. in Western Ontario ; H. Kenzie McCormick, late with I. M. Mayell & Co., and D. J. McLeod, formerly with Edward Adams & Co., wholesale grocers, London, and Balfour & Co., wholesale grocers. Hamilton.

As will be seen from the list of members, the new company is a strong one, and, as they intend devoting their energies to the production of goods of high quality, they should meet with certain success right from the start.

AMONG TORONTO RETAILERS.

Makes the Difference.

Any person who takes an interest in window dressing must soon notice that some windows always attract the attention, while others, though they may contain the same goods as the attractive ones, yet never seem to draw one's attention. The cause of this is not found in a few hours' study, but there is a cause, all the same. This was strikingly manifested to me recently by comparing a display which was exhibited in the windows of two different stores. The display was an unusually interesting one. Some ingenious carpenter or woodworker had built an excellent model of a suburban street, with fine houses, grounds, etc. Along this street, and, in fact, around the whole model, a fine representation of a trolley car and trailer was perpetually moving. The power to drive the trolley was derived from a thin copper wire connected with the electric lighting system in the store. The first place I noticed this model was in a Yonge street grocery store window, where it was placed to set off a display of soap. In front of the window was a table on which were arranged a couple of rows of fowl, and, I think, a couple of boxes of fish. Whether it was that passers-by looked at the fowl and fish and not into the window, or whether it was that the window was an ordinary one in point of size and outside appearance, it caught comparatively little attention, for while I was in the store watching the effect of the display, at no time were there more than three or four looking at it, and, as a rule, it was not noticed at all, though there were many people passing.

A short time after, the same model was exhibited in another Yonge street dry goods store. A special sale of white goods was being made by the various dry goods houses in the city at the time, and this window was devoted to a display of linen goods. I opened this paragraph by calling this the same model as that in the first window, but, in appearance it was not the same. In the trolley car there were now quite a number of passengers—gaily dressed dolls. On the side of the rear platform a card drew attention to the white goods sale now on. In many other places timely cards made the display more interesting and lifelike.

In front of this window there were on an average from six to ten persons, and sometimes a small crowd watching the movements of the trolley, and, of course, having their attention directed to the linen display.

There were two reasons why this display attracted greater attention in the dry goods store than in the grocery store. The model was unquestionably more attractive, with the many little cards about it, and with the many passengers in the trolley. But the principal reason was the window. The grocery window was an ordinary one in size and shape, and was partly obscured by the displays outside ; the dry goods window was a fine, large, modern one, with a low floor which set off the goods to advantage, and with large mirrors, which gave the ladies stopping to see the exhibit an opportunity to see if their hats were on straight.

A CURE FOR GRIPPE.

A great many of the readers of THE CANADIAN GROCER are probably suffering or peradventure may suffer from the la grippe scourge. Here is a recipe which is warranted, by those who have tried it, to cure: Pour a kettle of boiling water into a basin. Into the water put a sponge or cloth. Of the two a sponge is probably preferable. Upon the sponge pour half an ounce of laudanum. Then inhale the steam for half an hour. It is claimed that this will place la grippe hors de combat in a night.

CANADIAN PRODUCTS IN BRITAIN.

THE year 1898 was more than satisfactory to the producers and shippers of Canadian agricultural products. Though prices have not been unusually high, there has been a steady tone maintained for all goods, except wheat and flour, and, possibly, cattle, the prices of which were manipulated by speculators.

As will be remembered, the year opened with a surplus of cheese on the British market, a surplus sufficient to cause the price to fall from 44s. per cwt., the January figure, to 40s. in April. Early in May a stronger feeling developed, and an advance of 6s. was maintained for some weeks. A reaction ensued, however, and, by the first of July, when the new cheese arrived, it sold on the London market at 37s. to 38s. From that time until the end of the year a steady rise in values brought the price to 50s. in the second week of December, which figure was maintained till the end of the year. Thus, the year closes with cheese 6s., or 13½ per cent. dearer than it opened.

The large increase in our shipments of butter to Great Britain does not seem to have depreciated prices to any serious extent. The year opened with butter on the London market at 96s. per cwt. This price rose till 104s. was reached in March. The lowest figures of the year were touched in June, when 82s. was received. From that time till October, there was a steady appreciation, when 100s. was quoted. During the last three months of the year over 100s. was noted every week, except that ending Nov. 26, when 96s. was quoted. The highest figures were received in the weeks ending Oct. 15, Dec. 3, and Dec. 10, when 108s. was noted. The year closed with prices steady at 102s. per cwt.

No Canadian eggs were placed on the British market between January and July. Those arriving during January sold at 9s. 6d. per long hundred on the Liverpool market. In July the market opened at 6s. 6d., and from that date a steady improvement brought the price to 9s., early in December. This was maintained till the end of the year.

The feature of the year 1898 was the increase in our shipments of hog products, though the figures relating to this increase are not to be had. Bacon opened the year on the London market at 52s. per cwt., and appreciated slowly, but steadily, till 60s. was received in and maintained throughout the month of August. The receipts on the London market, however, were too heavy for the maintenance of such prices, and, from August till December a steady decline brought the price to 42s. The last week of the year witnessed an improvement which brought the price up to 46s. The price of hams at the opening of the year was 54s. per cwt. This figure was only maintained a couple of weeks, when a decline of 2s. took place. In April, the lowest figure of the year, 48s., was noted. From this month till September a steady appreciation brought this price to 62s., where it remained till the third week in October, when it broke, and declined slowly to 54s. in December, thus ending the year as it opened.

NEWFOUNDLAND CODFISH.

The codfish shipped from this port since Aug. 1 amounts to 445,736 quintals, against 416,770 quintals last year. A difference in favor of this year of 28,916 quintals. Portugal, Italy, Brazil, and England took more of our fish than last year, Spain, the British West Indies, the Dominion of Canada and United States took less. Scotland, which honored us by taking a small quantity last year, didn't take a cod's tail from us this year. Brazil is our biggest customer again this year, she having taken about three-fifths of our entire shipments. The Brazil market is growing year by year, as the following figures will show :

Year.	Quintals.
1893	150,000
1894	125,000
1895	133,000
1896	130,000
1897	230,000
1898	273,000

These figures were compiled before the end of the year, and it is safe to put the Brazil figures. from August to the end of year, at 280,000 quintals.—Trade Review, St. John's, Nfld.

THE ART OF WINDOW DRESSING.

By E. W. Taylor.

A WELL-DRESSED window that will draw customers must be a most valuable help to a business, whilst a badly-dressed window will detract and prove a hindrance, for it may almost be said: "Show me the window and I will tell you what manner of man the owner is," for, if the outside is dirty and untidy, it will generally follow that the interior is in accordance therewith. For the sake of obtaining ideas in designs, a walk around the principal streets of the city or town in which you are located may be beneficial, or when visiting another town notice how the windows are dressed, and, if you see a novel idea or a smartly written card or circular, just make a note of it. It does not necessarily follow that you should confine your attention to the windows of establishments in your own particular business, for it is possible to gather one or two ideas from others which, on being adopted, may make an improvement in the design you have fixed upon for your dressing. Manufacturers can also render great assistance in the matter of having their packages, etc., made of uniform size and shape, so that when placed in stacks or pyramids they can be built more compactly and give greater effect.

STUDY THE SEASONS.

Then, again, a window dresser should, as far as possible, study the seasons, and endeavor to make his display attractive and up-to-date, and sufficiently striking to arrest the attention of the passers-by. For instance, there is the time when the housewife sets about the spring cleaning. What would be more appropriate in the window than a display of various cleaning requisites, such as soaps (the Chiswick soft soaps are put up in very attractively enameled tins suitable for the window). "Buttercup" metal polish, different furniture creams, black leads, etc. Another time, an attractive window can be made of boxes of tea, interspersed with a few samples of fancy teas in show tins and decorated canisters. If you should wish to make a show of some butter, don't place it in a solid lump, but have it made into a few pretty shapes, placing between them a few sprigs of green or small plants; these make it look more tempting.

Many assistants are under the impression that if a window is full of goods, that is sufficient; but this is not the case, as nothing looks worse than a window indiscriminately filled with placed articles, and in this connection I would venture to throw out a few hints. The first thing to be considered is to have the plate glass thoroughly cleaned, as the least dust or dirt may obscure a purchaser's view of the article he wishes to look at, causing uncomplimentary remarks and the supposition that a similar state of affairs obtains inside, ultimately tending to loss of trade. It will now be necessary for the window dresser to settle in his mind the class of goods he wishes to show, and how he will best display them. Some assistants think it easier to sketch a design of the window before commencing operations, but in many cases this is of very little avail, and turns out to be a waste of time. After a man has had some little practice at window dressing, he generally develops a particular style or design, which he works out as he goes along, according to his space and the articles at his command.

COLOR AND BRIGHTNESS.

Care should be taken whilst giving color and brightness to the window to avoid placing two similar colors together, and the stacks and pyramids should be as varied in size and shape as possible. A great deal depends on how a window is commenced, and if careful thought and judgment is used at the beginning in the arrangement it will be found much easier to finish and make a better display. Do not commence with large or heavy articles at the bottom of the window, but rather goods of medium size, so as not to hide those you wish to display behind. In nearly all neighborhoods it is advisable to let the price of each article be shown by a neatly written or printed ticket so that customers can see before entering, the cost of what they want to purchase. In order to give relief to packet or tinned goods, a few loose samples of tea, coffee, sugar, etc., can be judiciously interspersed, and these will afford a good break and will also show the other goods off to advantage. Too much pains cannot be taken in seeing that all the packets and canned goods have been well dusted prior to being placed in position, also that the labels are clean and not torn or in any way damaged, as this gives a very bad appearance, and is liable to make the public think old stock is being put before them. It is far the better plan not to use the same goods twice over for exhibition, as it is liable to deteriorate the appearance and value of the goods.

HIGH AND LOW WINDOW DISPLAYS.

Some prominent window dressers argue that it is a mistake to make the display high in the window; others hold a different view and think it is possible to set up the goods in such a manner that the whole can be seen at a glance by the passer-by, who would then stop to critically examine the articles; but the high-dressed window has the advantage of preventing those outside seeing the customers already in the shop, and this has a great weight with some who object to being the observed of all observers. Then, again, one of the best advertisements that can be obtained is, undoubtedly, that from a well-dressed window, and it is a means of often securing a chance customer, who should at once be offered a seat; ladies, especially, appreciate this little bit of civility, and our chance friend, if satisfied and treated courteously, may become a more and more regular customer in the future.

Equally as much care and attention should be given to the setting-out of the goods in the interior as to the window dressing, cleanliness and the tasteful arrangement of the counters, etc., being important considerations. The remarks about butter for the window also apply to that part of the counter devoted to dairy produce. Be careful not to cut up too much cheese—just enough to attract, and no more—as cut pieces soon become dry, and a few fancy cheeses placed about, and a small busket or two of eggs, will improve the general effect. The shop should be fitted-up in the best way possible—looking-glass, brass rails and ornamental work give style and brightness—and see that the fittings are arranged so that the articles may be placed where they catch the customer's eye on entering.

SPECIALTIES.

Stacks of specialties can be put on the counter at such intervals as not to interfere with the transaction of business, and these often lead a customer to buy, when, had they not been on view an order might have been missed. Shelves and glass cases showing off the proprietary articles should be placed so that an assistant can readily supply what is asked for, and thus expedite business. No matter how well a shop is arranged, light is a great essential, and a few mirrors reflect and show off the goods to much better advantage. Glass facias, artistically written, advertising any leading article, are also of great benefit, and form no little attraction, and give a smart, business-like appearance.

[The above article is reprinted from a booklet issued by an English soap firm, and the author has been winner of some prizes for articles on window dressing.—Editor CANADIAN GROCER.]

TRADING STAMPS IN OTTAWA.

TRADING stamps are about as unpopular in Ottawa as they are in the rest of the Canadian cities into which they have been introduced.

A representative of The Ottawa Citizen called on some of the largest merchants of the city. Some of the opinions expressed by the latter are interesting.

C. Ross, of The C. Ross Co., Limited, said: "The giving of trading stamps enables someone to make a living easily. It is not the merchant who makes money out of trading stamps, neither is it the purchaser. The trading stamp company makes the money; they live like parasites on the people."

Fred. J. Graham, of Bryson, Graham & Co., were reported to say: "The whole thing is a farce. It is only another way of gulling the public; putting on five per cent. to take it off. Profits are cut as close as possible now. The stamp feature cannot be carried out legitimately the way profits are at present. A merchant in Ottawa advertised a sale, the other day—20 per cent. off; 5 per cent. less if you take stamps. So that is undoubtedly the way the thing is done. The only correct way of doing business is to mark the goods as close as it is possible to sell them and then stick to the price."

Stewart McClenaghan, of the "Two Macs" tailoring establishment adopted trading stamps some time ago. He said: "My regular customers take advantage of them as they do of any special sale: others are also attracted, but I cannot say that my increased business, if any, repays the outlay."

Ald. H. H. Lang said: "I disapprove of the whole system, but while such exists we are forced, in order to retain certain customers, to adopt one of the systems or the other."

The other merchants interviewed were unanimous in the opinion that the principle of trading stamps was wrong. S. A. Luke thought them "a humbug pure and simple"; A. J. Stephens stated: "To my idea the trading stamp scheme in promising something for nothing is not above suspicion"; M. M. Pyke declares that he was of the opinion that any institution which steps in between the buyer and the seller, offering any inducements whereby they may reap a profit which someone must pay for, is a pernicious system, and ought not to be tolerated in Canada.

FIVE GENERATIONS IN THE FIRM.

The second annual house dinner of Hanson, Son & Barter, was held at the Holborn restaurant, W.C., London, recently. Sir Reginald Hanson, Bart., M.P., who occu the chair, was supported by his partners, Messrs. F. G. Ivey, T. C. Tanner, and F. S. Hanson, and the staff was numerously represented.

The toasts included "The Firm," proposed by Mr. W. Goodman, and responded to by the chairman; "The Town and Country Travelers," submitted by Mr. Ivey and acknowledged by Messrs. A. Sly and G. E. Martin; "Staff, London and Liverpool," proposed by Mr. Tanner, and to which Messrs. T. Bollam, W. G. Parker, A. H. Warren, and R. Brambleby replied; "The Dinner Committee," and "The Chairman."

Sir Reginald, in his remarks, referred to the fact that five generations of his family had carried on the business firm at 47 Botolph lane, now forming part of the larger premises in Eastcheap occupied by the firm. Mention was also made of the fact that Sir Reginald had studiously declined to act as chairman on the boards of joint stock companies, or to take any part in them, a line which the firm had followed.

Good cheer, good music, and good humor reigned supreme, and the gathering afforded another proof of the feeling of mutual identity of interests which animates those connected with the firm.

A word of commendation is due to the committee and to the hon. sec., Mr. J. Lovegrove, for the manner in which they discharged their duties.

At the present time we are able to offer the trade a carefully selected stock of TEAS much below their real value.

WE MUST AND WILL have a share of your trade. When you are in the market send for samples. We are good correspondents and are pleased to answer inquiries.

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND TRADE.

THE following is taken from the report of President Horace Haszard, at the annual meeting of the Charlottetown Board of Trade :

The direct steamship service asked for by the board was inaugurated by the ss. Lake Winnipeg in September last, and she made a second trip in November, and after that the Canadian Steamship Co. were induced to send the Gaspesia, which sailed hence on December 25. Following was the value of the three cargoes :

Lake Winnipeg, first trip	$35,148
Lake Winnipeg, second trip	60,000
Gaspesia	50,756

Detailed statements were given of these cargoes and of other shipments from ports of Queen's and King's counties to foreign markets. From the port of Charlottetown and outports in King's and Queen's the foreign shipments during the year totaled $1,073,496, while the imports at same ports made a total of $416,440, paying duties of $121,016.92.

From Summerside and outports of Prince the shipments of the year were :

Products of fisheries	$62,341
Products of forests	597
Animals and their products	95,096
Agricultural products	93,517
Total	$251,551

The imports at Summerside and its outports totaled $50,829, of which $30,960 were dutiable, and $28,869 free goods. The duties collected were $10,944.

The total exports for the Island were $1,325,047, and the dutiable imports $296,775, paying $131,960.92 in duties. The free imports were $180,494.

Reviewing the agricultural business of the year it was mentioned that the wheat crop had largely failed, oats were light in yield and quantity, potatoes a short crop, but hay was abundant and of excellent quality. There was a fair demand for all products, and the importance of larger shipments of live stock than formerly was realized. Praise was accorded the Fruit Growers' Association for the interest taken in securing apples for shipment.

In regard to the dairying industry, T. J. Dillon was quoted to show that in handling milk, raising fodder of the right kinds, feeding and caring for stock, etc., the advance since 1892 has been enormous. Thirty-four factories made cheese during 1898, and of these 15 made butter also, and, in addition, there were 6 creameries. The output is estimated at 46,000 boxes of cheese, while 14 butter factories show 172 tons of butter. Eight butter factories were not heard from.

The number of cases of lobsters packed during the year were as follows :

Prince county	16,000
Queen's county	11,000
King's county	15,112
Total	41,112

The oyster catch amounted to 29,800 barrels; mackerel, 3,149 half-barrels, valued at $44,037 ; codfish, haddock and hake were plentiful, and a limited quantity of salmon were taken at Tignish and St. Peters.

CURRANTS IN LIVERPOOL.

The Liverpool statistics of currants for the past season, compared with previous years, were as follows, arrivals of new crop beginning in September : Old fruit carried over when new commenced—1897-8, 422 tons ; 1896-7, 1,069 tons ; 1895-6, 3,003 tons ; 1894 5, 686 tons. Arrivals from new fruit supplies to new fruit in year following—1897-8, 21,587 tons ; 1896-7, 19,365 tons ; 1895-6, 17,869 tons ; 1894-5, 22,741 tons. Stocks in bond on arrival of new fruit—1897-8, 941 tons; 1896-7, 422 tons; 1895-6, 1,069 tons ; 1894-5. 3,003 tons.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 25, 1899.

THINGS are quiet in all lines of trade just now, and there is not much likelihood of any marked change for a month to come. Sales are slow and consist chiefly of staples at well established figures.

Wheat is still being held, comparatively few having availed themselves of the large drying plant at Fort William. It is expected, however, that the amounts sent forward will increase from this time on.

Among the business events of the week was the assignment of H. A. Holman, confectionery. This was one of the old established houses, and the failure will be a shock to many. Nothing is yet known as to the assets and liabilities.

Among the few changes for the week is the reduction of 10c. per 100 lb. on sugar. There has been a rather unsettled state of this market for the past 10 days, on account of the big fight among the large factories on the American side. Many are offering sugar in Winnipeg, and the freight from New York is 18c. less per 100 lb. than from Montreal. To-day's quotations are: Granulated, 5c.; bright yellow, 4⅝c.

EVAPORATED FRUITS—Dried apples are practically out of the market, owing to the high figures asked. The sales of evaporated at 10 to 10½c. for fancy stock are small. Apricots at 16½c. are slow sellers also.

FIGS—Very few fancy table in the market, and stocks will not be increased, owing to the high price, which places them out of the reach of the ordinary buyer.

CANNED GOODS—No change, excepting that corn seems to grow scarce in the east. As offerings are small, tomatoes have not varied for a month.

FISH—It is seldom in the history of Winnipeg that the supply of smoked fish is so low, and there is no immediate prospect of matters mending, owing to the very small catch. Finnan haddies, 8½ to 9c.; smelts, 8c.; bloaters, $1.25 to $1.50 per box, according to size; pure cod, 7c.; boneless fish, 5½ to 6½c. Gold-eyes are out of the market just at present.

RICE—Market as to Japan is easier, though there is no actual change in price. Quotations are: "B," 4½ to 4¾c.; Japan, 6 to 6½c.; No. 1 China, 5¾c.

COFFEE—Market is dull. Rios, 8½ to 9c.; fancy green Java, 28c.; fancy green, 26c.

NUTS—New Grenoble walnuts not yet arrived.

CURED MEATS—Market continues very steady. Dry salt, 8c.; smoked, 9c.; hams, 11c.; breakfast bacon, 11 to 12c., according to the cut.

CANNED MEATS—Are a little higher. This seems to be the natural reaction from prices that were too low to allow of a sufficient profit to the packers.

CHEESE—Continues 9½ to 10c., and is very firm at those figures. According to outside markets these prices should be even higher.

BUTTER—Is without change, except that dairy, though dull, is coming in in considerable quantities.

HE LIKES CANADIAN FISH.

William Stewart, for ten years one of the large fish-curers of Aberdeen, Scotland, has lately come to Montreal, and commenced the curing of haddies, kippered herring, and silver bloaters. All his fish are brought from the Maritime Provinces in frozen condition. They are then thawed, cured, and smoked with hardwood sawdust.

Speaking of the quality of Canadian fish, he said he had never seen any finer in the world. He is putting up a fine grade of haddies called "Aberdeen Awa'," and already his premises have proved too small for him. His silver bloaters are something new on this market and are certainly fine looking. As soon as his output will allow him, Mr. Stewart intends extending his trade to outside points, but for the present he is busy supplying the Montreal market.

Why buy foreign made goods, when, by supporting your own manufacturers in Canada, you can get the best goods made on earth from them.

THE RISE IN SPICES.

GREAT strength is being exhibited by the spice market, the most notable example being pepper. Advices from primary points tend to accentuate the upward tendency, advices from Lampong stating that the crop has all been gathered, and that it is 96,000 piculs less than last year, being less than 25,000 piculs, as against 121,000 in 1897.

The rise in pepper throughout the past year was steady, the advance up to the turn of the year being fully 33 per cent., and during 1897 and 1898 it equalled 90 per cent.

Since the first of the year there has been a further material appreciation in values. In fact, it is beyond question that the crops of Singapore, Tellicherry and Lampong are heavily short of normal, and, while the stocks in England and Europe are still large, a leading authority estimates that the total crop of 1898 will be found to be, conservatively speaking, about ten thousand tons, or 30 per cent., short of the world's consumption for the year.

In the United States, according to a well-known New York broker, the stocks consist almost wholly of Singapore pepper ; grinding grades, Acheen, Lampong, and Tellicherry, have never been so scarce, and the European and Oriental markets are estimated to be from 5 to 10 per cent. above the parity of New York.

Broadly speaking, therefore, allowing for existing conditions, the best informed men in the trade say there is no probability of any important reaction during the first half of 1899.

Prices are well held in all markets and the tendency is rather to still further rise, than decline.

A comparison of prices at different periods at leading Canadian centres makes the advance quite plain.

Two years ago, Singapore pepper sold in Montreal as low as 5 to 5½c., and now it is impossible to obtain any under 10½ to 11c. Acheen, during 1897, was purchased as low as 4½c., but it is doubtful if a buyer could supply his wants in Montreal at present under 10½ to 11c.

The rise in Pimento in the same period has been equally marked, as the cost price has almost doubled since 1897.

In that year the inside price on it was 5c., and last year, 7½c., whereas at present it is quoted at 10c. for the inside price. Of course, these prices are for straight wholesale lots.

A UNIQUE WINDOW DEVICE.

A Toronto clothing and furnishing house has a window display which is attracting a great deal of interest, and which might be imitated by merchants in other lines.

Fastened to the inside of a window pane is a piece of cotton about eight feet long by four or five deep. The cotton is cut in the shape of a side elevation of a house, and is painted to represent a brick wall. The whole is roofed over, in order that the light may be excluded. A "brick" has been removed from two or three places, and, underneath each aperture, is a ticket with the words : "Take a Peep."

Of course, nearly everybody takes a peep, and, by the aid of the electric lights which are inside, one sees various articles appertaining to the men's furnishings trade tastefully arranged.

This is a display that any merchant in any town can imitate, and, if he has not electric lights to place inside the miniature house, he has, at least, a few candles.

THE CANNED GOODS SITUATION.

ALTHOUGH there has been no further change in the price of canned vegetables, the market has, by no means, lost any of its strength. On the contrary, it is, if anything, stronger.

The low prices which have ruled so far this season have resulted in the consumption of a large quantity of canned tomatoes, peas and corn. And, from the sorting-up orders which are being received by the wholesalers, it may be gathered that stocks in the hands of retailers are not large.

It is probable there may not be anything approaching the same demand for canned goods on Klondyke account that there was last spring ; but, while this is so, there will, in all likelihood, be a large influx of people to the Atlin Lake district. In fact, the stream heading in that direction is, already, by no means insignificant. On this account there will, therefore, certainly be a good demand for canned goods.

On the Coast a good demand is evidently expected for canned vegetables, and during the past week or so some transactions for round lots have been consummated in the east for shipment there. One operator has booked an order for 4,000 cases each of tomatoes and corn, and another reports having taken one for 1,500 cases.

Whether or not we shall see the maximum figures of 1898 touched, remains to be seen. One thing, however, seems certain : When the demand becomes active, we may expect to see prices appreciate. This is particularly probable in regard to canned tomatoes.

He who is blown about by every wind, like the weathercock, makes no headway.

ADVANCE IN BROOMS.

Brooms have been advanced 15 to 20c. per dozen. This appreciation in value is due to the high prices ruling on broom corn. The Broom Manufacturers' Association in the United States advanced its prices 25c. per dozen some weeks ago.

The strength which has developed in the broom corn and broom market during the last month or so is due to two causes : (1) the crop of broom corn is about 50 per cent. short, and (2) what of the crop there is has been largely cornered by certain persons in the United States.

ANOTHER CHAPTER IN THE PICKLE QUESTION.

A NEWSPAPER that is independent and outspoken is frequently misunderstood, and often stirs up the enmity of those it aims to benefit, to the financial loss of the journal that undertakes the task.

As the readers of THE CANADIAN GROCER are well aware, this journal has for some months been vigorously urging the manufacturers of vinegar and pickles in Canada to improve the quality of their goods.

The sole object has been to awaken the manufacturers in these lines to a recognition of their opportunities. How these efforts have been appreciated by those whom they were specially designed to benefit may be gathered from the following note, which was received at this office a few days ago :

Editor CANADIAN GROCER,—Please discontinue our advertisement, as it is not satisfactory to us to advertise Canadian pickles in a paper which is continually condemning them in its editorial columns.

Yours truly,

T. A. LYTLE & CO.

We are not only sorry that Lytle & Co. have seen fit to take offence at the articles in question, but we are surprised. Lytle & Co. have for some time stood as the champions of good pickles and vinegar. Naturally, we might, therefore, have expected their cooperation. But, if they could not accord us that, surely they did not think, because they were advertisers of ours, that we must refrain from criticizing Canadian pickles generally.

We have in mind communications, oral and written, received by us from Mr. Lytle, a few years ago, in which the bad condition of a great deal of the vinegar and pickles turned out by Canadian factories was pointed out in no mild terms. These communications were not only published, but, in order to help along what we deemed to be a good cause, they inspired us to editorial effort.

Then he was pleased ; now he is displeased, and discontinues his advertisement.

Ten times over would we have rather praised Canadian pickles than have condemned them. But, when the poor quality goods that were being turned out by the average pickle factory were so much in evidence, how could we be expected to commend ? It was impossible to do so and tell the truth.

It is not that Canada cannot produce the vegetables for making pickles ; it can without any doubt. And it can produce the vinegar, too, if it will.

The great desideratum is not materials ; it is men ; men with enterprise and skill.

Those who go into the pickle industry appear to be consumed with the idea that imported goods can be combated with cheap goods. And cheap goods they have made, until grocers, wholesale and retail, thoroughly despise Canadian pickles, while, in spite of a handsome protection under the tariff of 35 per cent., the importation of foreign pickles is steadily increasing.

This protection is not of recent date. It has been enjoyed for years, but it is becoming a question well worthy of serious consideration as to whether or no a high tariff should be maintained in the face of the persistent neglect of the pickle manufacturers of this country to take advantage of the opportunity which it offers them to build up a healthy industry.

An industry, like an animal, that will not thrive, after a long period of pap-feeding, should be left to itself. If it possesses any merit it will "grub" for itself ; if it does not it will die.

MR. KEMP ON TRANSPORTATION.

AT the annual meeting of the Toronto Board of Trade, on Thursday last, the burden of President Kemp's inaugural address was the transportation problem, especially in its relation to the "Queen City."

During the last few years Mr. Kemp has taken a lively interest in transportation matters, and since becoming an officer of the board, they have come within his special purview. The mass of information contained in his speech shows that he has not allowed to go unimproved his opportunities for collecting information in regard to what is not only a live and interesting question to the people of Toronto, but to the people of the greater part of Canada as well.

At present about five out of every six bushels of wheat exported from Canada go by way of Buffalo, and Mr. Kemp urged that the building of an air line railway from Lake Ontario to Georgian Bay would tend to divert a larger proportion to Canadian ports for shipment. "The route, if owned by the Government, could be considered as part of our canal system," he said.

He quoted from the report of the special committee of Senate in regard to transportation, in which it was stated, in effect, by an expert who gave evidence that on the great lakes could be carried for $1 what it costs the best situated railways in the United States to carry for $27. However, in view of the great difference in the cost of construction, Mr. Kemp favored a railway from Georgian Bay to Lake Ontario as a substitute for a canal.

"If you are going to divert an appreciable amount of the grain business to Canadian channels, and thereby build up ocean ports like Montreal and Quebec, the short railway haul between Georgian Bay and Toronto, and the utilization of the canals, must be the important factor."

An exaggerated opinion may obtain in the minds of some as to the ability of the proposed air line railway to produce the effects desired, but whether that be so or not, it is certain that the construction of such a line would add another outlet to those already in existence for the produce of the great Northwest, which is now only in the initial stages of its development, for merchandise, like water, follows the channels of least resistance.

Mr. Kemp's request for prompt action was timely and not without reason, for promptness has not, for many years, been one of the peculiarities of the Toronto Board of Trade. Inaction is what it has become noted for.

The president may suggest schemes or call for cooperation, but, unless there be a willing response, he is like the commander of a vessel with a crew that will neither reef, sail nor steer. It is to be hoped that the board of 1899 will inaugurate a new order of things. It is not likely to be the president's fault if it does not.

There are skeptics in religious matters, and it is only to be expected that there will be unbelievers in the efficacy of advertising.

A MISREPRESENTATION OF THE DESIRE FOR RECIPROCITY.

THE particular policy of The New York Sun is to persistently misrepresent Canada and Canadian affairs. And its Montreal correspondent is a faithful servant.

In a recent issue this correspondent remarked that unless Sir Wilfrid Laurier "returns from Washington with some very liberal concessions to the hard-pressed farming industry of Canada, his race may be considered as good as run."

Anyone reading the above extract, who was not conversant with the facts, could come to no other conclusion than that the Dominion of Canada was so much in need of a reciprocity treaty that the failure of its Commissioners at Washington to successfully negotiate one would result in the overthrow of the present administration.

THE CANADIAN GROCER has no brief to defend the Government. Neither has it any desire to do so. All this journal is concerned about is good government. And as long as it is good, this paper does not care whether it is administered by Liberals or Conservatives. But it is concerned when false statements regarding the country are published in such an influential journal as The New York Sun.

As we have, time and again, stated, a fair measure of reciprocity would be acceptable to a majority of the business men of this country.

But there is by no means any danger of a Government being hurled from power if its representatives return from Washington without a treaty in their pockets.

If there is any hurling from power done, it is more likely to be on account of a treaty than because not of one.

Any fair reciprocal arrangement whereby the Canadian farmers could get their produce, such as grain, potatoes, beans, eggs, apples, etc., into the United States under less onerous conditions than now obtain; lumbermen their coarse lumber, and miners their coal, would undoubtedly be acceptable.

Canada never enjoyed greater prosperity than it is at the moment enjoying. And never in the history of the country were the prospects so bright as they are now. There is no doubt about that.

Then, in spite of the adverse influences of the McKinley and Dingley tariffs, the foreign trade of the country is developing rapidly.

The year the McKinley tariff went into operation, 1890, the aggregate foreign trade of the Dominion was valued at $209,514,735; last year it was about $300,000,000, or an increase of over 43 per cent. in eight years, notwithstanding the marked depreciation in market values, to say nothing of the adverse United States tariff.

In 1890 the exports of the Dominion were $96,749,149; in 1898 they were $159,485,770, a gain of over 64½ per cent.

The following abstract statement of the exports to Great Britain and the United States, respectively, for the years 1890 and 1898 will be read with interest:

EXPORTS OF CANADIAN PRODUCTS TO GREAT BRITAIN AND THE UNITED STATES.

	1890.		1898.
	G. B.	U. S.	G. B.	U. S.
The mine	$ 630,815	$ 3,963,257	$ 2.2,301	$13,838,833
Fisheries	2,207,442	2,850,528	4,822,688	2,979,314
Forest	14,098,865	10,247,640	15,638,045	9,348,877
Animals and their produce.....	18,578,722	5,966,474	39,634,662	4,278,214
Agricultural products....	3,661'826	7,519,253	37,688,272	1,136,475
Manufactures	1,816,147	2,667,282	4,900,484	2,781,885
Miscellaneous	5 357	76,773	6,443	51,562

It is true the above table shows a falling-off in the exports to the United States of all the things in which the farmer is directly interested, namely, in products of the forest, animals and their products, and agricultural products, but the decline, roughly speaking, $8,000,000, is more than made up by an increase of about $66,000,000 in the exports of the same products to Great Britain.

Then, as to the hard-pressed farming industry of Canada, The Sun's Montreal correspondent could scarcely have been seized of the facts or he never would have deigned to make such a statement.

During the period of depression the farming industry in Canada suffered as well as the farming industry in United States although not to the same extent. But to-day the farmers of the Dominion are anything but hard pressed. They are doing well, and the outlook was never probably as bright. They have better buildings, better and more valuable implements; more live stock; a a much greater output of dairy products. Farm lands in the older Provinces have depreciated in value, but that is characteristic of farm lands the world over.

If Canada is to have a reciprocity treaty with the United States it must be on a fair business basis. On such a basis Canadians are quite prepared to enter into a treaty. On any other they are not. And as far as anxiety goes, this quality was never so little in evidence since reciprocity between the two countries came within the sphere of practical politics. In fact, no sign of it can be discovered in the press, in the speeches of politicians, or in the conversations at the clubs, in the hotels or in the streets.

CANNED GOODS PACK OF 1898.

AT the annual meeting of the Canadian Packers' Association, held in Toronto the latter part of last week, the reports received from the various factories showed the pack of tomatoes to be slightly in excess of former years. The quantity of corn and peas, on the other hand, was slightly less than usual. More strawberries than usual were put up, but in peaches, pears, plums, etc., the pack was on the light side. It was demonstrated that the packers have very little stock left, and are better cleared up than is usual at this time of the year.

"I believe," said one of the packers, "that all the canned goods packed last year will be wanted before the next pack comes in, provided the prices are not held so high as to limit consumption."

The daily papers, in their reference to the meeting, stated that a combination was being formed to handle the output of the different factories in the association. This has occasioned a great deal of talk among the trade, and the question is heard on every hand, "Is it true?" From what THE CANADIAN GROCER can gather, a proposition was made to form a joint stock company, but no action whatever was taken in the matter.

President Ferguson, in his report, stated that, in some lines, there appeared to have been packed quite as many canned goods as the country required, while the prices of these particular lines were the lowest in the history of the packing business. He held, therefore, that it was not opportune to start new factories.

When he urged members not to sell their goods before they were packed, he urged wisely.

Referring to the export trade in canned goods, President Ferguson declared that freight rates absorbed all the profit, and he pressed upon the executive the necessity of trying to secure more favorable rates.

The officers of 1898 were reelected.

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

GROCERY QUOTATIONS BY WIRE.

Occasionally, just as THE GROCER has gone to press, changes in prices are made in staple lines of goods, which a good many in the trade hear nothing of till the next issue of the paper. Should, therefore, any of the readers of this journal desire to ascertain, between regular issues, the prevailing quotation on any staple line, it will, on application, be furnished by return mail or by telegraph; if by the latter method, at the cost of the person seeking the information.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

TORONTO, Jan. 26, 1899.

GROCERIES.

THE wholesale grocery trade, while not what might be termed active, is decidedly good for this time of the year. Ever since the New Year opened business has been rather better than is usual at such a period. Practically every line of goods, with perhaps the one exception of sugar, rules strong as to price. Canned goods are going out fairly well for the month of January, and the feeling in regard to price is decidedly one of confidence. The coffee market is steady and there is a fair business being done by local wholesalers. The sugar market has continued unsettled, although no change has been made in the price in Canada, but cables, the beginning of the week, were more satisfactory. Syrups and molasses are in fair demand. Spices rule firm, particularly pepper. Teas are still the most active line in the wholesale grocery trade, and the condition of the market is decidedly strong, particularly for Indian and Ceylon descriptions. Foreign dried fruits are not receiving much attention.

CANNED GOODS.

The condition of the canned goods market continues favorable. The demand is steady for small sorting-up lots, although a few good sized orders have been booked during the week by local wholesalers, and business is gradually increasing. Of course, this is not yet the season for an active trade. It is reported on good authority that one firm alone has booked, within the last few days, an order for 4,000 cases each of tomatoes and corn, for shipment to the Klondyke, while another packer has secured an order for 1,500 cases of tomatoes during the last few days. The idea of wholesalers as to price to retailers is still 85 to 90c. as quoted a week ago. Corn rules at from 90c. to $1, and peas are still quoted at 75c. upwards.

There is still very little doing in canned salmon, but prices remain firm and unchanged. Advices from the Coast state that there are likely to be a few new canneries put up in time for next season's work. In canned lobsters there are still a few first-class brands being offered. In canned fruits the demand is moderate.

COFFEES.

Local wholesalers report a good trade doing in green Rio coffees. Advices from Rio and Santos state that the crop movement is small. This has had the effect of helping to steady the market. The market is also steady for mild grades of coffee.

SUGARS.

The outside markets continued weak until early in the present week, when the cables unexpectedly announced an advance of 1½d. in the price of beet. In New York, up to the end of last week, raw showed a decline of 1-16 to ⅛c. per lb. The market for refined sugar continues demoralized there, owing to the cutting of prices between the Trust and the independent refineries, and the latest advices this week state that soft sugars are still being shaded. There is not a great deal doing in Canada. Business is of a hand-to-mouth character, and refineries say that prices are now getting down to a basis at which they are likely to lose money, owing to the unsatisfactory condition of affairs in the United States. The Canadian market is without change as to price, standard granulated still being quoted at $4.48 for Montreal and $4.43 for Acadia sugar, Toronto. Yellows rule at from $3.93 upwards.

See pages 29 and 30 for Toronto, Montreal, St. John, and Winnipeg prices current.

RICE AND TAPIOCA.

Local wholesalers report a better movement in rice than is usual at this time of the year. The principal kind wanted is "B" rice at from 3¾ to 3⅞c. per lb. Tapioca is still moving well at from 3¾ to 4c. per lb. The outside markets are steady and unchanged.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

There is a fair demand for syrups for table use, and a better business is looked for next month. At the same time, the difficulty of getting dark syrups is causing the trade to be of less volume than it otherwise would be. The refineries have little or no syrups of any kind to offer. There is a good demand for molasses at from 25 to 28c. per lb.

SPICES.

The feature of the spice market is a further advance in the primary markets in pepper. The cable received early in the week from the east states that the prices are ⅜c. higher. All other spices are steady.

TEAS.

The tea market is in a decidedly healthy condition. Brokers report a good demand for hard-twisted polished Japan teas at from 16 to 16½c. per lb., and some transactions have taken place, but these teas are scarce. Teas, however, ranging from 12½ to 14c. per lb. are reported to be in good supply, but not much wanted.

There has been some inquiry for Young Hyson teas, and a few transactions are reported by brokers. The price is still strong for Young Hysons, owing to the shortage in Japans, and there seems to be further indications that low-grade Young Hysons will be in active demand at stiff prices.

A cable from Colombo, Ceylon, states that low-grade teas are from ½ to 1c. per lb. dearer. There is a demand here for both low-grade and fine flavored Ceylon teas. Good flavory teas are scarce. The demand on the local market for these teas is reported to be more active.

Low-grade Indian orange Pekoes at from 15 to 16c. are scarce. A scarcity is also to be noted in low-grade teas of this growth. The market is firm, and there is every indication that a large business will be done. The market in India is almost closed, and it will, therefore, be at least eight months before new crop teas reach this market.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS—While quotations being received from the primary markets are a little lower than they were a month ago, yet the price is steady at present figures. Advices from Greece state that lower prices are not looked for. The local demand for currants is rather light.

VALENCIA RAISINS—The local market is quiet, with prices nominally unchanged.

PRUNES — Advices received indicate that prices in the primary market are, if anything, higher for Bosnia prunes. Californian prunes are quiet and unchanged. The volume of business in prunes on the local market has so far not been up to expectations.

FIGS—Some further shipments of tapnet figs have been received during the week, and local wholesalers are quoting 4 to 4¼c. per lb.

CALIFORNIAN DRIED FRUITS—Advices from the outside markets report a scarcity of both apricots and peaches, and with an upward tendency in prices. A few peaches that had been held by dealers in the Eastern States have been brought upon the Toronto market, but practically no business has been doing from the Coast.

GREEN FRUITS.

Business is picking up nicely. The demand for oranges and lemons is now fair. Receipts are plentiful, so prices keep steady. Some Sevilles are now offered at $3 for 200's and $4.75 for 500's. The latter size are also sold at $1 per 100. Some Sorrentos are offered 50c. below last week's figures, so the quotation is now $1.50 to $2. The amount of cranberries in store is now large, but is considered fully sufficient for requirements. Almeria grapes are advancing, an increase of $2.50 being noted for best qualities this week.

POTATOES——The situation is unchanged. Offerings are liberal in quantity, but are held firmly at 58 to 60c. f.o.b. cars at Toronto. The street market is steady at 60 to 70c.

POULTRY — Chickens are in great demand, and are 10 to 20c, dearer; ducks are also firm at an advance of 25c. Turkeys and geese are selling well at an advance of ½c. per lb.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—If the warm weather of the past week or so continues there will be quite a break in the price of eggs, as receipts are already increasing. Held eggs are steady at 16 to 17c., and some are still asking 18c. Boiling stock is down 2c., and is now quoted at 22.

DRIED AND EVAPORATED APPLES — A fair jobbing trade is noted for dried stock at 5½ to 6c. Stocks outside are pretty well cleared up, and continue steady at 5¼ to 5½c. in a jobbing way. Evaporated apples are moving well, with prices steady at 8¼ to 8½c. outside, and 8½ to 9½c. in a jobbing way, locally.

VEGETABLES—No change. We quote as follows: Rhubarb $1 to $1.50; greenhouse radishes, 50 to 70c. per dozen bunches; spinach, 75c. to $1 per bush.; green onions, 10 to 15c. per doz.; cauliflower, 50 to 75c. per doz.; celery, 50 to 75c. per doz.; lettuce, 20 to 30c. doz. bunches; radishes, winter, 15 to 25c. doz. bunches; cabbage, per doz; 75c. to $1; parsley, 10 to 12½c. per doz. bunches; turnips, 25 to 30c. per bag; beets, 50 to 60c. per bag; parsnips, 60 to 75c. per bag; carrots, 50 to 75c. per bag; onions, Danvers, $1.25 to $1.50 per bag; butter squash, $2 to $2.50; pumpkins, $1 to $1.50; Hubbard squash, $2.50 to $3; red cabbage, 40 to 50c.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—There is a good fair demand for dairy rolls and prints. Tubs are quiet, there being no fresh offering. Prices for all makes are firm. Creamery is easier in tone, though an excellent local demand is reported. Creamery prints and squares, labeled, are worth 20 to 21c. in Toronto. The few tubs and boxes offering are quoted at 19 to 19½c. at factories.

CHEESE—A good demand is reported, and a strong feeling is manifested, especially for late makes. A couple of cars of early makes are offered at 8¾c., but 9 to 9½c. is the general quotation. Late makes are worth 10 to 10½c.

PROVISIONS.

Receipts of dressed hogs are still large, and another decline of 5 to 10c. brings prices down to $5 to $5.10. Long clear is moving fairly well, but is ¼c. cheaper. Smoked meats are moving freely at prices ¼c. below those of a week ago. Barreled pork has declined 50c. Shortening is ½c. per lb. cheaper.

FISH.

Halifax herring in half-bbls. are 20c. cheaper, and splits are 25c. less. Otherwise no change is noted. We quote: Frozen salmon trout, 7½ to 8c.; Man. whitefish, 6½c.; Man. perch, 5c.; Man. pike, 5c.; Man. pickerel, 6c.; fresh whitefish, 7½c.; steak trout, 8c. lb.; fresh perch, 4c. per lb.; fresh herring, 4c. per lb.; Labrador herring, $5.75 per bbl. and $3.25 per half-bbl.; Digby herring, 55c. per bundle of five; Halifax herring, $2 per 100; split herring, $5 per bbl. and $2.75 per half-bbl.; cod, in 1-lb. blocks, 6½ to 7c. per lb.; boneless fish, 4 to 4½c. per lb.; boneless fish in 1-lb. blocks, 5½ to 6c.; fresh-water herring, 60c. per basket; ciscoes, 60c. to $1.25; haddies, 6 to 7½c. per lb.; fresh haddock, 6c. per lb.; oysters, $1.20 to $1.30 per gallon, or $6.25 per large pail.

GRAIN, FLOUR, BREAKFAST FOODS.

GRAIN—The situation is unchanged. Red and white are now quoted at 71 to 72c. at middle freight stations. The street market is steady, with good deliveries of wheat and oats. Prices are unchanged. We quote: Wheat, white, 73c.; red, 72½c.; goose, 71c.; peas, 62 to 66c.; oats, 34c.; barley, 47 to 48c.; rye, 54 to 55c. No. 1 hard Manitoba is steady at 80c., Toronto freights.

FLOUR — There is no change. We quote: Manitoba patents, $4; Manitoba strong bakers', $3.70; Ontario patents, $3.80 to $3.90; straight roller, $3.25 to $3.35, Toronto freights.

BREAKFAST FOODS—A good business is reported, but no change in prices is noted. We quote: Standard oatmeal and rolled oats, $3 90 in bags and $4 in bbls.; rolled

HIDES, SKINS AND WOOL.

HIDES—Cured hides are ¼c. dearer. Otherwise there is no change. The demand is brisk. We quote cow hides as follows: No. 1, 8½c.; No. 2, 7½c.; No. 3, 6½c.; cured, 9¼c. Steer hides are worth ½c. more.

CALFSKINS—We quote nominally: No. 1 veal, 8-lb. and up, 10c. per lb.; No. 2, 8c.; dekins, from 30 to 35c.; culls, 15 to 20c.

SHEEPSKINS—The market is firm for sheepskins and lambskins at 85c.

WOOL—No change. Market weak. We quote fleece at 15c. and unwashed at 10c.

SEEDS.

There is a more liberal offering of red clover. The market is dull, in sympathy with a decline in the United States market. Prices here continue at about $3 to $3.75 aboard outside for good to choice seed. There is very little doing in alsike, which is quoted at $2.50 to $4 outside. An occasional small lot of timothy is offered. Machine-threshed is worth $1 to $1.30; bright, unhulled, $1.60 to $1.75 outside. It should always be remembered that the price quoted is what buyers are paying outside, not what they are selling at in Toronto. The expense of freight, recleaning, handling, etc., is considerable, so there is a fair margin between the prices paid at outside points and the prices asked at Toronto for recleaned seed.

SALT.

There is no change in prices noted. The large offerings of English salt are causing considerable uneasiness among Canadian dealers. We quote as follows: Carload lots, $1.05 per bbl., and 65c. per sack; less than carload lots, $1.10 per bbl., and 70c. per sack. At the wells we quote F.O.B., barrels, 75c.; sacks, 50c. English salt is quoted at 48¾c. per sack. These sacks range 13 to the short ton.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

MONTREAL, Jan. 26, 1899.

GROCERIES.

THE general grocery market recorded considerable activity during the past week, and there was no lack of interesting features. In the first place, a much steadier feeling has been exhibited in sugar lately, as a result of a rather sharp advance in raw beet abroad, while the prevailing uncertainty did not check the movement from refiners here to any great extent. Molasses and syrups have ruled steady. Local jobbers have been buyers of Valencia raisins to a considerable extent during the past 10 days, and advices from Denia have continued very firm in tone. The same feeling is exhibited by currants, while the approach of Lent is likely to lead to a better movement in such lines as prunes and other dried fruits. Canned goods have again demonstrated their firmness in both vegetables and salmon, as will be noted in the appended market reports. Spices are very strong abroad, and the feeling is reflected here. Coffee and tea are steady, and there has been considerable movement in the latter from first hands, particularly in Japans and Ceylons. Unseasonable weather has seriously interfered with trade in fresh fish and green fruit.

SUGAR.

This staple, which, until very recently, has exhibited a very unsettled feeling, has assumed a steadier tendency as a result of a firmer feeling in beet abroad. Despite the uncertainty also the movement here has been quite fair during the past eight days. Recent cables from London reported cane steady, with Java 11s 3d., and fair refining, 9s. 9d. Increased demand has induced a firmer feeling in beet, and present month was quoted 1½d. higher on Monday, at 9s. 3d., with a similar rise for next month's delivery at 9s 3¾d. In New York raw was quiet, fair refining, 3¾c., and centrifugal 96 test, 4¼c. Refined was quiet in that market lately. Local quotations at this writing are as named last week.

SYRUPS.

The steady feeling is fully maintained in Canadian syrup at 1¾ to 2¼c. per lb. in the wood.

MOLASSES.

There has been no important change in the molasses market, the trade being quietly supplied with Barbadoes molasses by the wholesale houses at 31c. in lots and 32c. in small quantities. If it was the question of moving a round lot, however, a buyer would have to pay these figures, as the action of the jobbers is due to the fact that they are determined to keep outsiders from interfering with their customers. How long they can afford to follow this course is difficult to say. Private advices from Barbadoes state that the weather of late has been favorable, and a fair average crop is expected, but it is predicted that the first deliveries will be fully two weeks later than they were last season.

DRIED FRUIT.

There has been more activity in Valencia raisins during the past ten days, as local jobbers have been buyers to a considerable extent. This was not due to the fact that their supplies were not ample, for they were well assorted, but simply that they considered many of the lots offering a purchase. As a result, several commission men here have been entirely cleaned out of stock. Cables from Denia have been firm lately, some quoting an advance of 2s., and firm offers of 17s. cabled last week for selected were refused, sellers asking 19s. there, which is equivalent to 5¼c. laid down here.

Californian raisins are rather lower, as a result of further arrivals, and new 3-crown fruit are offering in a jobbing way at 6¾ to 7c., with 2-crown 5½ to 5¾c.

There has been no change in currants, but primary markets are quite firm, and it would cost more money to replace stock now here. Values, accordingly, are steadily held.

There is a fair inquiry for prunes, and the demand from this Province will increase for these goods as the time for Lent approaches. Quotations are steady.

NUTS.

Business has diminished very materially during the past fortnight, but prices rule steady.

CANNED GOODS.

There is little business doing in canned goods. In round lots, tomatoes have been offered at 90c. per dozen, and, naturally, with this cost in mind, jobbing values are firmly held. Corn is very firm, and jobbers here have paid $1 f.o.b. at the factory, so that an advance on this figure is asked here. Offers of peas are noted at 80 to 85c. There has been inquiry for canned salmon, and sellers are firm, as bids of $3.70 were refused for round lots of 500 cases on the Coast, packers asking $3.75 to $3.80 f.o.b. Coast.

SPICES.

Firmness is a conspicuous feature of the spice market. Black pepper is especially so both for Singapore and Acheen. Pimento and Jamiaca ginger are also firmly held. The crop of pepper is said to be 96,000 piculs short of last year's.

COFFEE.

This staple continues quiet but steady, and prices are unchanged as a rule. Maracaibo is about the only kind moving and straight invoice lots of unroasted, in bags, have changed hands at 7½c. for 50 and 75 bag lots. Santos and Rio are also very steady.

TEA.

There has been considerable inquiry for tea during the week, principally for low-grade Japans and Ceylons, and the demand has resulted in a fair volume of business. Importers also have cabled quite a few orders to Ceylon for prompt shipment. A few small lots of good Japans have been placed at 16 to 17c., and one buyer bid 14 to 14½c. for an entire lot, but the offer was refused. Young Hysons have also been inquired for quite freely on western account and several 100-package lots have been moved at 16 to 16½c.

GREEN FRUIT.

The green fruit market has ruled quiet, on the whole, the unfavorable rainy weather having continued to the detriment of business. Oranges are still a drug on the market, except the larger sizes of Californian fruit which are held firm, owing to scarcity. Lemons remain unchanged with a moderately good inquiry. Cranberries meet a very slow sale. Almeria grapes continue scarce and firm with the strong possibility of still higher prices. There is only a very limited inquiry for pineapples. Bananas have a slow sale, and there is a limited call for grape fruit. Tangerines are strongly held, but inquiry is very light.

APPLES.

The apple market reflects a somewhat better feeling, but prices are not quotably altered.

FISH.

The continued mild, rainy weather has played the dickens with the fish market, supplies especially of fresh haddock being large and values easy. We quote haddock and cod at 3 to 3¼c.; salmon, 9 to 10c.; Manitoba whitefish, 6 to 6¼c.; dore, 5½ to 5¾c.; pike, 3¾; smelts, 3 to 6c. per lb.; tommy cods, $1 to $1.25 per bbl., and herring, $1.60 to $1.65 per 100.

Supplies of salt and pickled fish are not considered as excessive, owing to the fact that Lent commences on Feb. 15. Pickled herring have continued firm, as noted last week, and stocks are very light. No. 1 N.S. herring. $4.50 to $4.75 per bbl. and $2.25 per ½-bbl.; No. 1 green cod, $5.75; do. large, $5.75 to $6; No. 2 ditto, $4.25; No. 1 haddock, $4.25; No. 3 mackerel, $18 and B.C. salmon $12.50 to $13 per bbl.

Prepared and smoked fish were unchanged. We quote: Haddies firm at 6½ to 7c.; bay bloaters at 85c. per box, and smoked herring 9½ to 10c. per box. Dried codfish, $3.65 to $3.75 per 100 lb.; boneless, 5 to 5½c., and dressed boneless cod, $4.25 per 100.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—A more active trade was done in eggs, there being a better demand from local buyers for small lots. Receipts were nil, and stocks are steadily decreasing. We quote: No. 1 candled, 17c.; No. 2 do., 14c.; Montreal limed, 16c.; western limed, 14 to 15c.; western cold storage, 13 to 14c., and culls, 10 to 11c. per doz.

POULTRY—There was a good inquiry for fresh killed poultry, and all offerings met with a fair sale at firm prices. Other grades were quiet. We quote: Fresh killed turkeys, 10¼ to 10½c.; frozen, 9½ to 10c.; assorted choice, fresh killed chickens, 9c.; western frozen, mixed stock, 5 to 6c.; ducks, 7 to 8c., and geese, 4½ to 6c. per lb.

GAME—Receipts of partridge were small, for which the demand was good, and prices ruled firm at 60 to 65c. for firsts, and at 45 to 50c. for seconds, per brace.

HONEY—There was nothing doing in honey, and prices were unchanged. We quote: White clover comb, in 1-lb. sections, 8 to 8½c.; dark, 6½ to 7c.; white extracted, 7 to 7½c., and dark, 5 to 6c.

BEANS—Demand for beans is slow, and the market rules quiet and steady. We quote: Choice hand-picked, 95c. to $1 per bushel; primes, 85 to 90c.

POTATOES—The demand for potatoes is good, of which the offerings are small, and prices rule firm at 55 to 57½c. per bag, in car lots.

ONIONS—There has been more activity in onions, and inquiry for Ontario has been a feature of the week. As a result, prices are higher at $1.85 to $2.25 per bbl.

DRESSED HOGS AND PROVISIONS.

There was nothing new in the local provision market. The demand is still slow and trade quiet, whith no change in prices. We quote as follows: Canadian pork, in barrels, $15 to $15.50; pure Canadian lard, in pails, 7¼ to 7½c. per lb., and compound refined at 5 to 5½c. per lb. Hams, 10 to 12c. and bacon, 10½ to 11c. per lb.

Receipts of dressed hogs to-day were 1,013. The market was quiet and easy at the recent decline, the demand being only fair for small lots $5.45 to $5.60 for light, and at $5.15 to $5.40 for heavy, per 100 lb.

FLOUR, GRAIN, ETC.

GRAIN—Business in grain was exceedingly quiet, and the market in consequence was without any change to note. Locally, peas were quoted at 71c.; buckwheat at 51c., and oats were ¼ to ½c. higher at 33c. ex store.

FLOUR—There was no improvement in the flour market. The demand continues of a jobbing character, with no change in values to note. We quote: Winter wheat patents, $3.75 to $4; straight rollers, $3.55 to $3.70; in bags, $1.70 to $1.80; Manitoba patents, $4.10 to $4.20; strong bakers', $3.75 to $4.

MEAL—The meal market was firm at the recent advance in prices. The demand today for small lots was fair at $3 70 to $3.75 per barrel, and at $1.80 per bag for rolled oats.

FEED—A fairly active trade continues to be done in feed, and prices are fully maintained. Ontario white wheat bran, in bulk, sold at $15 to $15.25, and shorts at $15.50 to $16 per ton. Manitoba bran, $15; shorts, $17, and mouille, $19 per ton, including bags.

HAY—The local demand for baled hay is still very limited, owing to the large offerings of loose. We quote as follows: No. 1, $6 to $6.50; No. 2 extra, $4.50 to $5; No. 2, clover mixture, $4 to $4.50; clover, $3.50 to $4.

CHEESE AND BUTTER.

CHEESE—Cheese continues almost motionless, as holders are not anxious to realize, while buyers are disposed to hold off. For really finest fall made western cheese, it is practically impossible to quote a price, as holders of it will not think of accepting what they are offered at present. In finest eastern cheese 10 to 10¼c. is a fair range, with a fraction more possible in the case of strictly finest white cheese, which color is at a premium. There has been some inquiry over the cable for undergrades, but there is little or no cheese answering this description here, the lowest price goods that are offering being held at 9¾ to 9⅞c. Accordingly, the inquiry has been diverted to New York, where some summer makes have been obtained for a good deal less money. Mail advices state that finest selections are firm in price in Great Britain, but that inquiry is not so active for them as for lower grades worth from 44s. to 48s., but good values in summer makes are getting scarce and relatively dear owing to this fact.

Butter is quiet and prices range about the same, viz., 19 to 19½c., the outside being obtainable only in a local jobbing way. According to mail advices, the extremely mild weather in Great Britain is generally unfavorable to the butter market, and has a depressing influence in London and Bristol. Those of the 14th from London state that there is a considerable movement reported in Australian, but holders are content to go on selling at late rates, as the quantities now landing are large, although the cable advices of what is now on the water indicate a decided falling-off in the future. Prices range from 98 to 102s. for finest; 90 to 99s. for fine.

MONTREAL NOTES.

Diminishing stocks have induced a still firmer feeling in Almeria grapes in this market.

The crop of pepper is reported to be 96,000 piculs short of last year, in the Straits Settlement.

Large offerings of fresh fish and the rainy, unseasonable weather have lead to further declines in values.

As a result of demand from the west, truck dealers are asking 10 to 25c. per bbl. more for domestic onions.

The only oranges to exhibit any steadiness here are the larger sizes of Californian fruit, which are rather scarce.

Firm bids made over the cable to Denia for selected Valencias have been refused, an advance of 2s. on the prices named being asked.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER,

ST. JOHN, N.B., Jan. 25, 1899.

WHILE there is but light business, sales are fully equal to expectations. Winter export business is good, though the promised direct London boat is much missed. There is no doubt another season will see it. Freight boats cannot successfully call at two ports, both because of time and perishable goods. This is particularly a cause of complaint with the present West India service, as the goods shipped are largely perishable. With the quickest despatch the steamers are all adapted for the business. With a direct boat, built for the conditions of the trip, a much larger and more profitable business could be done. There is much dissatisfaction, particularly on the part of wholesale flour dealers, with the new Intercolonial freight tariff, owing to the bid they have made for the up bay Nova Scotia points, the goods having formerly been shipped via St. John. In market, prices show little change, and buying is light.

OIL—There is still but little to note that is new as far as values go, but the change which has been going on in other parts of Canada has been at work here as far as the management of the business is concerned. The office of the Canadian branch has been closed, the business being taken over by the representatives of the Standard Oil Co., formally known as the Eastern Oil Co., but which is to be in future known as the Imperial Oil Co., the name of the late Canadian company and the name under which all the Standard's Canadian business will henceforth be done. The local agent of the late Canadian company takes charge of one branch of the consolidated company's business, and a number of the employes are also retained by the new concern. There is no change in the personnel of the former Standard Oil Co.'s representatives. They have simply taken over the other business including the name. There are still one or two outside dealers in oils here, but it is doubtful if the change will affect them. Prices of burning oil is unchanged. Lubricating and paint oils are firm. Cod oil is dull.

SALT—Importers are pushing sales, and are supplying consumers and retail dealers direct rather than through the trade. Prices, particularly, of English coarse salt, are lower at this season than at any other, and as orders can be filled from ships' side, often on through bills of lading expense is saved which the competition largely gives to the consumer. We quote as follows: Liverpool coarse, 40 to 45c.; English factory-filled, 90c. to $1; Canadian fine, $1 per bag; cheese and butter salt, bulk, $2.50 to $2.60 per bbl.; 5-lb. bags, $3 to $3.25 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $2.85 to $3 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 20c. each; 10-lb. wood boxes, 12c. each; cartons, $2 per case of 2 doz.; English bottled salt, $1.25 to $1.30 per doz; mineral rock salt, 60c. per 100 lb.

CANNED GOODS—Vegetables move freely, and prices are firm, with an upward tendency. Corn is particularly strong. Salmon have no large business, but season is early, and firmer prices are looked for. It is a matter of surprise how the high prices have affected the local market for lobsters. The limited demand has resulted in rather lower prices. Haddies and kippered herring are firmly held, and the spring is expected to show a material advance in price over last year. Fruit moves slowly.

GREEN FRUIT—There is not the expected sale for Valencia oranges, even with the low prices. Quality, as yet, has hardly been up to standard, and Jamaicas are still leaders in quality, though some nice Californians are to hand, and will be arriving more freely, crop being large. There will also be more Floridas than for a number of years. In Valencias, the small sized fruit is not brought here. Lemons have a good sale, prices keeping low. In cranberries, a few Cape Cod berries sell; prices high. Apples sell slowly, but prices are firm.

DRIED FRUIT—There is but limited business. Prunes have most attention, chiefly Californian. Prices are firm. Apricots and peaches find some sale, but prices are too high for much business. The sale here was never very large. Evaporated apples are scarce and high. Western packers offer slowly. Dried apples are light stock, and business is quiet. Raisins are quiet. Currants are but a fair sale. There is a light stock. Onions are higher, and feeling favors a further advance. Dates and figs are quiet, although for the former there is a steady sale in a small way.

SUGAR — The week has shown little change. The slight American advance and an increased tendency on the part of our own refinery to meet competition has stopped the sale of American sugars, though some lots bought continue to arrive.

MOLASSES—Market is firm. Some nice new Orleans in 40 gallon barrels has arrived during the week. This sized package is particularly a favorite at this season. Stocks of all lines are light, and low-priced goods are in demand. Dealers will buy only from hand to-mouth till new goods arrive.

PRODUCE—Eggs are easier, owing to freer arrivals. Fresh-laid are, however, high, and are confined to country market receipts. Butter keeps low. There seems to be considerable in the country. There is difficulty, however, in getting satisfactory quality. Still, it is difficult to get the price asked for creamery, except in a small way. Cheese is firm and rather higher, but local sales are light; stocks not large.

FISH—There is a fair movement. Dry fish is firm. Fresh fish is scarce and high. This affects the finnan haddie business, the demand for which cannot be met. Pickled fish is scarce and high, with a fair sale. Smoked herrings are dull. A few small bloaters are still offered. Frozen herrings are scarce and high. Smelts find a limited sale here. Lobsters are high. Nova Scotian catch is large, and high prices are being obtained in America for the large sized ones. We quote as follows: Large cod, $3.60 to $3.65; medium, $3.50 to $3.60; pollock, $1.75 to $1.80; Grand Manan pickled herring, $1.85 to $1.90; ½-bbl.; Canso, pickled, $5 per bbl.; boneless fish, 3½ to 5c.; cod, 7 to 7½c.; finnan haddies, 5 to 5½c.; smoked herring, 6 to 7c.; spring shad, $3.75 to $4 ½-bbl; fall do., $4.75 to $5; ½-bbl.; alewives, $3 per bbl.; bloaters, 50 to 60c.; Shelburne, $3.75 per bbl.; Grand Manan herring, $3.40 to $3.50 per bbl.; quoddy, $3.50 per ½-bbl.; frozen smelt, 5 to 6c.; frozen pollock, 1¼ to 1½c.; frozen cod, 2¼ to 2½c.; frozen haddock, 2½ to 2¾c.; frozen herring, $1 per 100; fresh cod, 2½c.; lobsters, small, 3 to 4c.; do., large, 16 to 18c.

PROVISIONS—There is a firm feeling in the pork market, though in barreled goods business is light. Round hogs bring good, full figures, from 5½ to 6c. In barreled beef the price is firm. Lard keeps low.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL—There is but a fair business, and values are firm. Some local mills are grinding good flour. The quantity of local grown wheat was quite large last season, and where millers are importing they are turning out a good article at a low figure. Feed is high and scarce, many mills having none to offer at a price that will sell in this market. Oats and oatmeal are higher. Cornmeal is firm at the advance. The high price has affected the sale of barley and split peas. Hay finds a rather better sale, but the price is still low. Beans are dull, and western shippers show quite a range, some offering below the market price. We quote as follows: Manitoba flour, $4.65 to $4.85, best Ontario, $4 to $4.15; medium, $3.75 to $3.85; oatmeal, $3.80 to $3.85; cornmeal, $2.20; middlings, $19 to $20; bran, $17 to $18; oats, 38 to 42c.; hand-picked beans, $1.10 to $1.20; prime, 95 to $1; yellow eye beans, $1.75; split peas, $3.80 to $3.90; round, $3.25 to $3.40; pot barley, $3.60 to $3.75; hay, $7 to $8; timothy seed, American, $1.75 to $2.15; do., Canadian, $2 to $2.40; mammoth clover, 7 to 7½c.; alsike, 7¾ to 8½c.

Geo. Mitchell, M.P.P., has been elected president of the Halifax Board of Trade.

J. H. Davidson has withdrawn from the retail grocery firm of Davidson & Worden. Mr. Worden continues the business.

Solid jelly squares find the competition of jelly powder very keen. "Pure Gold" jelly powder finds a very much increased demand here.

At the annual meeting of the Charlottetown Board of Trade, Horace Haszard was elected president, W. H. Aiken vice-president, and S. W. Crabbe secretary-treasurer.

Leonard Bros. are finding it difficult to supply the western demand for their finnan haddies; in fact, find it impossible, but are doing their best. Fresh haddock are very scarce.

Prince Edward Island shippers are much pleased at the returns received from apples shipped last month to London, Eng. This is a new departure for the Island, and promises to be a profitable one.

Mr. Laing, of the Laing Packing and Provision Co., Montreal, was in the city this week, and called on the trade. J. C. Bowman, who formerly represented the company, is again acting as their agent.

Nova Scotian fruitmen are not behind in feelings of pride in reference to their apples, as at the exhibition of United States and Canadian fruit at Omaha, Neb., the Nova

CAUTION.

Similar goods to those manufactured by J. & J. THE LATE THOMAS TODD.

THOMAS TODD, flour-miller and produce and commission merchant, Galt, Ont., whose death was noted in these columns last week, was, for many years, one of the most conspicuous figures in Galt business circles.

The following sketch of his life, from The Galt Reporter, gives a good insight into the characteristics which resulted in a farmer-lad working his way to a position of responsibility and honor :

"The late Thomas Todd was born in Thurlstone, Ettrick, Scotland, on October 14, 1831. The family emigrated to Canada when he was three years old, but on the way out his mother was taken ill and died from the cholera, that dread disease having broken out on board the ship. The remainder of the little family, amidst much sorrow, proceeded westward after landing at Montreal, and took up farm lands on the Brock road, near Aberfoyle, where Thomas Todd, the father, continued farming for many years. He married a second time, as a result of which union two sons and three daughters were born. The sons are Peter Todd, of Walkerton, and Mitchell Todd, of Guelph, and the daughters all reside in Guelph, two being married. The subject of this sketch grew up on the farm, but, when he was about fifteen years of age, he determined to launch out into business life, and was apprenticed to James Kay, wagon-maker, whose shop was situated in what is now Cowan & Co.'s yard, on North Water street. There Thomas Todd learned his trade, but his mind seemed to be always looking forward to the time when the world would open up to him as a vaster sphere.

"No sooner through his trade is he than we find him accepting a situation as foreman of Wm. Robinson's wagon and carriage-works in a building where George Bernhardt's block is now located, and in a short time going into a partnership with that gentleman, which lasted three years, when Mr. Robinson retired and a new partnership was formed, with Walter Brydon and Alex. Walker in the commencement of a carriage making and blacksmithing establishment at the head of Main street, which Mr. Brydon subsequently owned and carried on himself for many years. Only about two years did he remain in this firm, however, and then he joined John Davidson in putting up a wagon and carriage-shop where the Victoria Wheel Works now stands. Mr. Todd erected the initial buildings of the latter now extensive industry. About this time he was married to Sybella Nichol, a sister of George Nichol, of Beverley, by whom he had three children, two of whom died in early youth, and Martin N. Todd, of Thomas Todd & Son, surviving. He had built the handsome stone house on the corner of Main and Shade streets, where Robert Scott now lives, and resided there for quite a number of years. Not having a great liking for his trade, however, Mr. Todd remained in it but a short time and then, with Alex. Carter (now of Elora) rented the brewery across the road, which is now Elliott's Soap Works, and went into brewing. They were not, however, successful in this enterprise, and selling out to Mr. Arnold, started business as produce and commission merchants. That was in the year 1873, and from then until November of 1886 he continued in that field of mercantile life. An untiring man, his energies seemed at times phenomenal. His capacity for business was unlimited. His information on all subjects was large, and he handled, during those years, more produce of any kind and did a larger business than any other one man in this country outside the large centres.

"In 1886, with his son Martin and John Scott, he bought their large mill from Aitken & Waddell, of Glasgow, and started as flour-millers, under the firm name of The Todd Milling Co. Then his ideals of expansion were somewhat realized, for he could devote his whole energies to the development of a great business. When the fact is mentioned that from July, '97 to July '98, The Todd Milling Co. exported to Great Britain alone, an amount equivalent to 100,000 barrels of flour, it gives a partial idea of the immensity of the overturn of this mill. He several times crossed the Atlantic on business bent, the last occasion being in the fall of '97. Besides all this, in a business way, Mr. Todd for several years owned and carried on the Preston hop yards, now in the possession of John D. Moore, ex-M.P.P.

"The amount of money which passed through Mr. Todd's hands in these many years was truly something enormous. It was done through the instrumentality of the Merchants Bank of Canada, and his record as an upright business man is a legacy alone. The bank learned to trust his every statement, and his word was found to be absolutely correct. When he was a commission merchant, his export business amounted to about $1,000,000 a year.

"In 1888, Mr. Todd and his son purchased the malt-house on the corner of Kerr and and Shade streets from the Peck estate, and have continued to manage it with much success ever since.

"Mr. Todd was a man who recognized that, as a good citizen, he must take an interest in the welfare of the community in which he lived, and we find him participating prominently in all branches of social, municipal and religious life. The statement may be somewhat exaggerated, but it is the unvarnished truth, nevertheless, that little has gone on in the growth and history of Galt during the last 35 years that he was not more or less interested in, and few, if any, of the principal enterprises have not had a word of counsel and advice, at least, from him in some direction. An electric railway, connecting Galt with Preston and Hespeler, was for years a hobby of his, and he has been, almost since the inception of that road, the active president of The Galt, Preston and Hespeler Street Railway. Messrs. Todd, Spiers, Lutz, Cox and Capt. Dickson were the promoters of this splendid enterprise, but Mr. Todd was the watch-tower, as it were. He did not believe, as many business men do to-day, however, in opening his individual daily life with a door-key and closing it with a letter for the late mail. He comprehended fully his responsibility to use his talents for the welfare of his fellow-citizens. For many years he was the aggressive chairman of the board of managers of the (now) Central Church, it being owing to his influence on the board, largely, that the magnificent new church, next Main street bridge, was built. He was always a warm supporter of that congregation since his connection with it. For a number of years he sat at the council board ; he was the county's representative on the board of directors of the Credit Valley Railway, since merged into the C.P.R.; he was for several terms the president of the Galt Board of Trade ; he was on the Collegiate Institute board for many years, and at the time of his death was chairman of the property committee ; he was an honorary director of the Economical Insurance Co., of Berlin ; one of the charter members of the Imperial Hotel Company, he was president of the company since its inception ; and was a member of the Toronto Board of Trade. He was, besides, in touch with every department of local public life. He also was one of the charter members of Waterloo Lodge, I.O.O.F. In politics, he was a staunch Conservative.

"Mr. Todd was twice married, the first marriage having been already referred to. His second wife, whose maiden name was Margaret Carter, survives. Mrs. Dr. Lowe, of Regina, an adopted doughter, and Martin Todd, are also survivors of the family."

THE TRAVELING SALESMAN.

THE delusion that the traveling salesman is a useless luxury is as seldom met with nowadays as the notion that no man can be a successful merchant and a true Christian, says Merchants' Review. Both notions in their day formed more or less fruitful topics for discussion in trade papers and elsewhere, and both have been proved thoroughly fallacious.

As for the salesman—may his tribe increase—his services are in greater demand than ever before, and their value was never more thoroughly recognized than to-day. The manufacturer and wholesaler depend upon the salesman in direct ratio to the extent of their trade, the wider its extent the greater the number and skill of their traveling representatives, and this, too, notwithstanding the remarkable growth of the influence of the trade press and the increased use of the trade journals by advertisers who would reach the retailers.

The retailers, also, are not less indebted to the knights of the grip than the firms they buy from. This is obvious to everybody who has kept track of the progress of the distributive branches of business.

If the salesman was a useful member of the grocery guild a generation ago, he is doubly so to-day, owing to the multiplication of brands, the increase of the lines handled by grocers, and the practical impossibility of the average retailer becoming an expert in all the multifarious articles that the catholic taste of the public compels him to keep in stock.

The trade paper can help him to some extent, yet the competition for advertising must always prevent a close investigation of the matter of quality, when a "reading notice" is asked for or volunteered, and, therefore, the salesman's verdict will always have due weight with the over-driven merchant who is in doubt as to the selling qualities of some new brand. This, of course, with the proviso that the salesman has earned the confidence of his customer, and it goes without saying that the salesman of experience, the successful salesman, will soon gain the dealer's confidence, for that is the prime object of his endeavors, just as it is the principal ambition of the newly-established merchant to win the confidence of the public.

The concentration of capital in the form of trusts or department stores does not appear to affect the demand for the traveling salesman's services, and the proposal of a commercial daily, that dealers in want of goods shall advertise their needs in the same manner as the sellers have been accustomed to advertise their readiness to sell, would, probably, intensify the demand for the intermediary offices of the accomplished salesman. Thus, whatever shape the distributive movement is likely to take in the future, it is unlikely that the traveling man will be in less request than to-day.

Certainly, the trade press, to which the salesmen have proved such useful friends, must ever wish well to the gentlemen who keep the different sections of the country in close touch with each other, prevent gluts at trade centres, and take so modest a recompense for their toil.

REMOVING WALL PAPER.

To remove varnished paper from a wall is not so easy as it appears at first glance. One of the simplest and most practical methods of doing it is to take a fairly sharp chisel, of narrow width, and to score the paper across, rapidly removing, with the sharp edge, strips of the paper. If one or two applications of water are then made, it will soak through and allow the whole of the paper to be scraped off without a great deal of trouble. It is better to use the water hot, and in cases of extreme difficulty one or more coats of paste of an average consistency may be applied. The paste holds the water and permits it to soak through the paper more effectively than would water ordinarily applied.

A Vancouver paper says: "Mr. May's new grocery store at the corner of Pender and Howe streets is a model of completeness. A prominent feature is his complete stock of 'Hondi' Ceylon tea."

J. N. Wigle, Amherstburg, Ont., recently left for England, sailing from Halifax on the 9th by the steamer Parisian. Mr. Wigle is taking samples of tobacco grown in South Essex, and possesses letters from the Dominion and Ontario Agricultural Departments to their European agents. He will endeavor to find a permanent market for the Essex product and learn conditions of packing. The Essex Tobacco Growers' Association are subscribing to a fund to pay expenses. Mr. Wigle may extend his trip to Holland, Belgium and Germany.

THE PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU . . . .

Reads every paper in Canada and clips therefrom all articles of a business or personal nature of interest to subscribers in this department.

Politicians can obtain from it everything the papers say about themselves on any subject in which they are interested. Business men learn of new openings for trade, pointers to sell goods, addresses of people likely to become buyers, tenders wanted, stocks for sale or wanted, reports of new industries or stores, etc.

TERMS—$5 per hundred clippings; $40 per thousand, payable in advance; but a yearly contract will be found the most satisfactory.

VOL. XIII. TORONTO AND MONTREAL, FEBRUARY 3, 1899. NO. 5

AN INTERESTING PURE FOOD DECISION.

(Reported by Peers Davidson, Esq., of the Montreal Bar, for MacLean's Trade Journals.)

IN view of the recent agitation in this city (Montreal) in favor of pure milk, and, on account of several seizures having been made, the following judgment of the Chief Justice of England, Lord Russell, of Killowen, is of interest, as showing the extent to which they go in England in this respect.

THE ENGLISH LAW.

The English law provides that: "No person shall sell to the prejudice of the purchaser, any article of food or any drug which is not of the nature, substance and quality of the article demanded by said purchaser," under a penalty. A further Act provides that any inspector of milk may procure any sample of milk at the place of delivery or sale and have the same analyzed, and proceedings taken, and penalties enforced, under the above provision of the law. In the case in question, defendant entered into a contract with the Metropolitan and Suburban Milk Supply Association for the delivery of milk, prepaid, to them at Paddington Terminus, London, and in express terms it was provided by this contract that only the amount of pure milk received was to be paid for. The purchaser took delivery of the milk at Paddington Station only. It was put on the railway at a station some distance from London, and the freight was paid by defendant. The defendant did not, and practically could not exercise any control over the churns while on the railway to London. It was proved that when the churn from which the sample was taken was handed to the railway company, the milk contained in it was pure, and that the water, subsequently found by the analysis to have been added, was so added unlawfully by some person a stranger to the defendant, during the transit to Paddington, without the knowledge or authority of defendant, or any servant of the defendant, or any person employed by him in his general business of a dealer in milk. The method of adding the water, therefore, remained a mystery, as far as the proof was concerned. In rendering the judgment of the court, Lord Russell, in part, said :

MORAL INNOCENCE OF THE DEFENDANT.

"Taking it that the defendant was morally innocent of the offence, that he was no party to the adulteration, and admitting that he had not even the means of protecting himself, ought the law to be construed in such a way as to protect him? I am of opinion that any such construction would open a wide door for its total evasion. And when it is considered that an innocent vendor is liable in such a case as this for the act of his servant—see Brown vs. Foot—the moral innocence of the defendant in the present case can make no difference. To go one step further : In the face of this stringent provision, there can be no material difference whether the adulteration has been committed by the servants of the innocent vendor or by strangers ; for in neither case could he have prevented it. On the whole, therefore, I am of opinion that, looking at the policy of the Legislature, and considering the object of the statute, there can be no doubt that an offence has been committed by the defendant, for, in the course of carrying out his contract for sale, the milk has been adulterated. At the same time, I think, that upon facts coming to the knowledge of the magistrate, which go to extenuate the offence in cases of this kind, it is right and proper that the penalty should be mitigated in the degree which appears to him to meet the exigencies of the particular case, or he may act under the provisions of section 4 of the Summary Jurisdiction Act, 1879. Full effect must be given to the object the Legislature had in view in passing the statute. The case will be remitted to the magistrate to convict."

INTENDED TO BE DRASTIC.

Mr. Justice Wills also said : "I am of the same opinion. I was party in the judgment in Brown vs. Foot, and see no reason to doubt that it was correct. The Act was intended to be drastic, and I can see no real distinction between the case of a sale by a morally innocent vendor of an article which has been fraudulently adulterated without his knowledge, by his servants, and a similar one where the article has been adulterated fraudulently and without his knowledge, by strangers. I entirely agree with what has fallen from my lord as to the mitigation of the penalty where it appears to the magistrate that an innocent vendor is the victim of a fraud practised by a stranger, but I also agree that full effect must be given to the Act, and that there must be a conviction."

This decision goes pretty far, but it exhibits a laudable determination on the part of both legislators and judges to have pure milk at any cost. (Parker vs. Alder, 66, L.J., Q.B.D., page 7.)

A FORTUNATE INVESTMENT.

A reader of THE GROCER who is receiving numerous congratulations just now is Mr. Cummings, of James Johnston & Co. He bought War Eagle shares at 80, and to-day they are worth 320, and he has, besides, been getting an 18 per cent. dividend. Just how much he has invested no one knows, for Mr. Cummings is a very canny Scotchman. Some say $10,000, but Mr. Cummings says it was only a few dollars, and not worth making any fuss about. The $10,000 is probably not far out. There are few men with so many friends who will feel just as pleased as he is himself in his fortunate investment.

INDIAN TEA PLANTERS AND THEIR SYSTEM.

IN an article on "Indian Tea Planters and Their System," The Produce Markets' Review says:

"The various kinds of tea, apparently supplied from one estate at one time, are really grown on the same plants at the same time; Pekoes, Pekoe Souchongs, Souchongs, Congous, dust, and so on, are simply different sized leaves sifted out by the coolies after they have been roasted, with the result of a considerable addition to cost. The Pekoes and so on, of course, fetch more than the larger leaves, but the lower price of the residual dust created by the siftings must go far to neutralize this gain. The separate sizes continue to be so badly mixed that they have to be compulsorily reblended in the London public tea warehouses. The cost of this operation is ¼d. per pound, and in addition to this the tea can never be improved in the operation, and is often materially injured. Finally, all the various Pekoes so elaborated, sifted out, and at such great cost are, as the lawyers say, brought into hotchpot, and once more mixed together either by wholesale or retail blenders, showing, in any case, how little the tea trade appreciate all these careful and expensive divisions. So far as the planters are concerned the original sifting and the reblending here must one way or another cost them ½d. per pound, a charge of about £300,000 a year on 140,000,000 pounds of tea.

"Quite apart from the cost of the sifting process, it forms the main reason of the small breaks which go far to prevent the rational sale of tea in Mincing Lane. The present system of separate sized leaves is certainly a lamentable one, and accounts to some extent for the most unsatisfactory position. The question arises whether, if the Indian planters do not adopt a more sensible system, some very drastic remedy will not have to be found as the trade increases, to enable the parcels offered to be sampled and valued. No doubt when the produce of the various estates is being blended at the public warehouses here, it would be a simple and effectual cure to forcibly blend all the different sizes together again, in order to produce decent sized lots, but it would, of course, be far better if this were done on the estates, and in addition that the blending there should be so conducted as not to call for reblending here prior to the sales. It surely ought to be a simple matter on all the larger estates to make, say, 200 chests at a time of an even quality, and not differing from chest to chest as is often now the case. If the Chinese can, and do, properly blend 500, or even a 1,000 chests in a single 'chop,' where is the difficulty in India with much smaller lots? The difficulty of the irregular size of chests, which necessitates the turning out of each chest for taring, is simply a proof of imperfect appliances. Tea chests can surely be cut to scale as they are in China, or if not the ready-made iron chests can be substituted, or some of the new light patent packages now being made and freely used in this country.

"The small breaks are not only a source of expense and loss to the planters, but they prevent a considerable number of buyers from properly tasting and valuing the sales—for it requires a large staff to taste hundreds of samples a day. This is an injury both to the producer and to the home trade. The small breaks also inflict immense cost and inconvenience on the wholesale houses, which mainly distribute their tea through travelers, and the cost of supplying them with samples of trivial lots is just the same as if the parcel consisted of hundreds of chests. Then, both they and their travelers, as well as the retail buyer, have to do at least five times the amount of tasting and valuing as used to be the case for a similar weight of China tea. Large breaks would, therefore, be most advantageous for these reasons both to the producer and to the distributer, and we pointed out last week how the present system discourages the larger buyers and tends to bring prices to a dead level, to the injury of all concerned."

ADVERTISING CEYLON TEA IN GERMANY.

John Hagenbeck, whose recent pushing of Ceylon tea in Germany was such a pronounced success, is forwarding to the Thirty Commitee some specimens of the advertisements that he lately employed in his Berlin campaign. They are all original and are well worthy of imitation. One advertisement is a sheet of plate glass, framed in tin, and bearing a representation of a mahout with an elephant laden with chests of various brands of Ceylon tea. The advertisement gives the Berlin prices of the different teas Mr. Hagenbeck sells, and, as our planting readers may be interested therein, we quote them as follows:

Selected Pekoe, 1 lb	3 mks.	50 pfgs.
Orange Pekoe, 1 lb.....	3 "
Pekoe, 1 lb	2 "	50 pfgs.

Besides this panel, Mr. Hagenbeck has shown us, and is sending to the Thirty Committee, some very choice tin cases in which he sells his tea by the lb., the ½-lb., and the ¼-lb., to German tea-drinkers. They are not mere packages, but each one is a veritable tea-caddy, of the good old grandmother's sort, fitted with a hinged lid and bearing painted on its four sides, first, Mr. Hagenbeck's own design of the mahout and elephant; secondly, a Tamil boy serving the hospitable cup on a tray; thirdly, a Tamil cooly-woman plucking a tea bush, and, fourthly, a Sinhalese bullock cart, with driver. Each tin also has in printed characters on the lid, the words "Unter den Protectorat der Planters' Association, Kandy, Ceylon," while on the face of each are instructions in German for brewing the tea. The caddies are curiosities that many a Ceylon planter would be glad to keep by him, either in his bungalow or in his English home.—Times of Ceylon.

"THE SIRDAR'S MOCHA."

THE ACME SPICE MILLS have done a very large business during the past season in seeded raisins. After a series of extensive experiments they have succeeded in discovering a process whereby this fruit is preserved with the original flavor and conditions, thus producing a most useful and presentable form of the fruit for domestic use. The main difficulty they have had to contend with has been preventing raisins from "candying" after the skins have been broken. This they claim they have now completely overcome.

Their raisins are packed in tasty 1-lb. cartons, packed in 24 and 50 lb. cases. They seed both Mediterranean and Californian fruits with equal results. Besides seeding raisins they also do an extensive business in cleaning and cleaned currants. They have the best and most improved machinery procurable at present, and are constantly looking for the newest appliances. The currants are packed in similar cartons to the raisins, and are put up in 50-lb. cases, or can be had loose in 50-lb. boxes.

They are also now putting on the market an extra fine brand of Mocha coffee, called "The Sirdar's Mocha." This is made of the finest grade of Mocha. The coffee is packed in one-pound tins, and, already, they have a good demand for it. Considering the short time this brand has been on the market, the sales are very encouraging.

DRIED FRUIT IN ENGLAND.

In their annual review of the dried fruit market in England, J. C. Houghton & Co. say of figs: "It is many years since so great a scarcity in the Smyrna crop was known, and this has caused an exceptionally eventful season in our markets. The total supplies fall far short of an average year, even giving due consideration to the considerable quantities of Spanish and Portuguese growths, which, in part, compensated for the shortage in Smyrna fruit. But these substitutes could only be set off against the dearth of 'natural' figs, and did not, of course, make less appreciable the want of fine layers. Small quantities of Smyrna layers first arrived on September 12, but, as not infrequently happens with the earliest supplies, they were defective in condition. Good, sound fruit followed shortly afterwards, and was firmly held for high prices, which traders felt no inclination to pay, and only by considerable firmness on the part of importers were they finally secured and maintained almost to the end. The following figures embrace the quotations generally ruling throughout the season: Smyrna layers, common fruit, 45 to 50s.; fair to good, 55 to 70s.; fine, 75 to 90s.; out of condition fruit, 25 to 40s.; Loucoums, 80 to 130s. Whatever 'naturals' and 'pulled' came in evidence were so completely inferior in quality that prices result merely nominal. Such fruit would not in an ordinary season have been packed for these markets A great deal of inconvenience was caused by the unsound condition of many parcels of Malaga figs, the want of keeping quality in Valencia and other descriptions also rendered these substitutes unmunerative to our traders here.

TORONTO GROCERS TO DANCE.

A special general meeting of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association was held on Monday evening, this week, to receive a report from the executive committee regarding the annual entertainment.

The committee reported in favor of a conversazione, to be held in St. George's hall, Elm street, on Tuesday evening, the 21st inst. The programme they suggested s similar to that of last year, except that, instead of the light lunch provided then, a good supper will be given this year.

RETIRING FROM BUSINESS.

H. W. Wright, grocer, Alliston, Ont., has been succeeded in his business by John Scheifle. Mr. Wright has for some time been agent for several important fire and life assurance companies, The Canadian Express Co., etc., and is issuer of marriage licenses for Alliston, and this work has so grown that, in order to give proper attention to it, he has sold out his grocery business.

THE DEADLOCK IN CHEESE.

THE battle between holders of cheese in Canada and buyers in Great Britain is still a drawn one, though in some isolated cases the latter have been compelled to concede what the former demanded. That this state of affairs can continue much longer is doubtful, for one side or the other will have to give way, and since the middle of last week indications have been more favorable to sellers.

Notable in this connection has been the demand for underpriced goods, for buyers, when they found that finest quality was held too firm, turned their attention to the former, and bought seconds pretty freely both in Montreal and New York, paying 9¼ to 9½c. In fact, the quantity of these goods now available is extremely limited. This being so, shippers will either have to buy finest to supply their customers with, or let them do without, for it is certain that holders are determined to carry their goods until March in preference to accepting a decline.

They feel confident that before that time shippers who paid 9¼c. for seconds, will concede that finest fall makes are worth 1 to 1¼c. per lb. more.

Within the past day or so private cable advices, while they have not led to any appreciable movement of cheese, have afforded more encouragement. They, one and all, indicate that the tone is stiffening in Great Britain, and, in contrast to those of a fortnight ago, exhibit anxiety to find out what holders will accept.

Already some trading has been done this week at 10¼c. for finest fall colored, which shows an advance of the fraction on what was possible a week ago.

Stocks are small at distributing centres, both on this side and in Great Britain, and men in the trade, who have the means of securing the information, state that there is a still stronger influence at work, viz., that retailers in Great Britain have restricted themselves to actual requirements throughout the entire fall. If this is correct, they will want a steady supply of cheese, which the movement from this continent since January 1 does not afford.

During December, the weekly exports from Montreal and New York were quite heavy, but since the first of the year they have averaged about 10,000 a week from Montreal and less than 8,000 from New York, or 70,000 boxes in the aggregate. This quantity represents about one month's consumption in the Liverpool market alone.

It would seem, therefore, with small stocks in Great Britain, that fresh supplies would be wanted in the near future to meet the actual daily demand, and holders argue that the better inquiry experienced since the middle of last week is an indication that will develop into a positive demand before the ensuing month is ended.

If they are right, it will not take long to exhaust the available supplies in Canada and the United States.

Estimates vary regarding this quantity, but the most extreme do not place it above 200,000 in Canada and 60,000 in New York, and allowance has to be made out of the latter for the home demand there.

Taking the imports into the United Kingdom for five years, the weekly consumption of colonial and foreign cheese was considerably over 70,000 boxes per week, so that, if the stocks are as light as they are represented to be, it will only be a matter of weeks before the supply in North America is exhausted, always providing prices do not appreciate to such an abnormal extent as to kill the demand.

DECIDED ADVANCE IN BUTTER.

A DECIDED advance has been established in finest, late-made creamery butter during the past ten days.

During the first half of January exporters were out of the market, the poor demand from Great Britain being due to rainy, unfavorable weather; and the extreme price that they would concede was 19c.

Since the beginning of last week, however, they have been keen competitors for finest creamery, and it has been established that there has been practically no accumulation at all in Montreal since the first of the year.

While exporters were talking 19c., the home demand was steadily absorbing the daily receipts in small lots at ½ to ¾c. per pound above what the former would pay.

As a result, the latter have been compelled to advance their bids a full cent per pound, and, even at 20c., have found it difficult to procure any large quantity of stock, as receivers in Montreal can work off their receipts in jobbing parcels at higher prices, and are doing so.

Exporters, also, want 56-lb. boxes, and there are few of them coming in, so that if the demand continues in its present volume, still higher prices are inevitable.

Dairy butter, too, has been more inquired for by exporters, who are bidding 14½c. per pound for it quite freely in the Montreal market.

It is worthy of remark in connection with the small accumulation, that receipts of all sorts of butter at Montreal, since the close of navigation, have been 10,000 packages in excess of these for the corresponding period last year. This, however, has been more than counteracted by an increase of fully fifty per cent. in the exports to Great Britain as compared with 1898.

ADVANCE IN TAPIOCA.

Quite an advance has developed in tapioca, and, according to a recent cable received in Toronto, it would cost something like $3.30 to import. This means an appreciation of about ¾c. per lb.

When it is realized that tapioca has been selling on the local market as low as 3.25c., the significance of to-day's values in the primary market is evident.

LOWER THE DUTY ON PICKLES.

THE avowed purpose of a protective tariff is the upbuilding of home industries. This was the doctrine laid down when, 20 years ago, the Dominion of Canada adopted what was popularly known as the National Policy.

Some industries to which protection was applied have failed to thrive, and it is worthy of note that among those which failed to thrive were those which were the most highly protected. These were of two kinds: (1) Those whose promoters were lacking in skill or enterprise; and (2) those which were so unnatural to the country that all the tariff encouragement in the world would not make them grow and multiply.

All this has been learned after 20 years' experience.

Pickle-making is one of the industries that has not thrived in Canada. There does not appear to be any sound reason why it should not. THE CANADIAN GROCER has, time and again, pointed out that the country was capable of producing the vegetables. But there is one thing the country is not producing, and that is men with sufficient skill and enterprise to make the industry anything more than a poor weakling and as unpopular as if it were illegitimate.

The fact of the matter is: The pickle-makers in Canada have got into a rut. The majority of them do not appear to care either what the quality of the vegetables or of the vinegar is that they put into their bottles.

In spite of the lessons that have been taught them, they still seem to think that the highway to success is to be opened by cheap pickles.

Cheap goods may establish a cheap name, but they will never create a reputation for first-class goods, which is the foundation upon which all successful business superstructures must be built.

Were there no market for good pickles in Canada, the manufacturers in this country might, with some semblance to reason, persist in their policy of putting up cheap, poor-quality goods. But experience teaches that there is. If there was not, people would not so persistently reject Canadian-made pickles and select those imported.

Lying before us at the moment is a letter from S. J. Mathewson, of J. A. Mathewson & Co., the well-known wholesale grocers and importers, of Montreal. This letter reads:

> Editor CANADIAN GROCER: I cannot refrain from thanking you for your editorial remarks re Canadian pickles.
> As a Canadian buyer, I have for years tried to get hold of a satisfactory Canadian-made pickle in bottles to compete with English goods, and, so far, without success. It is not to be believed that they cannot be made here, but, I think, the experience of many merchants is like my own, viz., that, so far, they have not, and, at present, do not, seem likely to be made, though quality, with reasonable price, can be largely sold.
> Yours, etc.,
> S. J. MATHEWSON,
> Of J. A. Mathewson & Co.

Judging from the temper of the manufacturers, it does not seem likely that first-class pickles are to be put up in this country. Why, then, should the present high duty on imported goods be maintained?

Since 1890, and up to June 30, 1897, there were imported into the Dominion $559,370 worth of pickles, upon which duty to the amount of $205,520.36, or 36.73 per cent. was paid. And the importation is increasing, as the following table shows:

	Value of Imports.	Duty Collected.
1890	$ 68,332	$ 28,366.89
1891	67,514	26,624 08
1892	67,436	24,831.50
1803	68,208	24,896.36
1894	74,058	26,622.22
1895	65,001	22,768.71
1896	68,569	23,999.65
1897	80,252	27,430 95
	$559,370	$205,520 36

These figures show that the people of Canada have in eight years been taxed $205,000 in order that an industry might be developed that will not develop.

In fairness to the people of this country, therefore, it seems to us that the Government has no other alternative than either to remove the duty altogether, or, if it is required for revenue purposes, to place it upon that basis. On a protective basis it has signally failed to accomplish its purpose, viz., to build up a home industry.

THE SUGAR SITUATION.

For a week or more the sugar market has been steadily developing a healthier tone, and the effects of the blow which the increased estimates of the beet crop administered seems to have about disappeared.

The cables from day to day note a favorable market in Europe, while the visible supply of raw sugar in the United States is, this week, less than 750 tons, an abnormally small quantity. The refiners are, therefore, at the moment, practically dependent upon supplies afloat. The peculiarity about this is that it deprives the refiners of an argument to persuade holders of raws to make concessions in price.

Mr. Licht's new estimate of the European beet sugar crop shows only an increase of 70,000 tons, and this has doubtless had its influence in imparting a better tone to the market.

The world's sugar crop is estimated to be about 7,900,000 tons, taking Licht's estimate of beets at 4,860,000 tons and Willett & Gray's estimate of cane at 3,049,260 tons.

A FIRMER TEA MARKET.

Teas, generally, are developing a stronger tone. Spot teas of Indian and Ceylon growth on the Canadian market are pratically exhausted, and brokers are, in some instances, asking a cent per pound more than they were a week ago.

The exhaustion of the stocks of these teas is alone sufficient to give the local market a firmer tone, as prices here have, for some time, ruled much lower than in London, Eng. But the tendency of the outside markets is still upward.

Advices from London, under date of January 20, stated that prices were then fully ½d. per lb. higher than three weeks before for Indian teas below 7d., and ¾d. to 1d. dearer on the better grades. In Ceylon teas, good liquoring descriptions, as well as some of the lower grades, showed higher prices.

China green teas, which have been firm for some time, are also dearer, holders refusing to accept less than an advance of one cent per pound, over the figures at which they were sellers a fortnight ago.

Local jobbers are also firmer in regard to Japan teas, and an advance of ½c. per pound is demanded in some instances.

SIXTEEN-SHILLING TEA.

A small consignment of tea was received the other day by J. Wilson, Toronto, representative of the Indian and Ceylon Tea Co., the counterpart of which was recently sold at auction in London, England, at 16s. per lb. It is an Indian golden-tipped pekoe. It is a decidedly pretty tea.

NECESSITY FOR AN INSOLVENCY LAW.

A RECENT press despatch stated that it was the purpose of the Government to introduce an insolvency law at the ensuing session of Parliament. It has neither been confirmed or denied, and until one or the other is done a good many will fear it is too good to be true.

The business men of this country asked time and again for an insolvency law, but while no refusal was ever made, neither was the desideratum forthcoming. Successive Governments have merely played with business men in this respect, or, to use a slang phrase, have "jollied" them.

When the deputation of British exporters waited upon Finance Minister Fielding in London, and pointed out the disabilities under which they labored in doing business with Canada, the hopes of those in the Dominion who were advocating an insolvency law were somewhat elevated, only subsequently to be dashed to the ground.

We have, therefore, the importing class in Canada and the exporting class in Great Britain asking for the desired law and yet it has not, so far, been enacted.

It is all very well for the argument to be advanced that if people did not give credit there would be no need of an insolvency law, but people do give credit, and a greater part of the world's business is done on credit and so it will continue to be.

Credit is a transgression of no law. It is the abuse of it that is a transgression, and it is because it has been so much abused that a great many retailers have wisely adopted the cash system. But the application of the cash system, while possible to the retail trade, is not possible to the wholesale trade or to the exporting trade. Some time must elapse between the time the goods leave the warehouse or factory before the money is received in payment therefor.

This being so, efficient laws for the protection of those engaged in business, either of a wholesale or exporting character, are decidedly necessary. Their absence entails a restraint upon trade.

The Provinces have power to enact laws governing assignments, and, while there has been an improvement in the measures of this nature of late years, yet, they are far from perfect, to say nothing of their lack of uniformity.

The power to enact bankruptcy legislation is reposed in the Dominion Parliament, and it is to be hoped that, at the ensuing session, the Government will take upon itself the responsibility of introducing and passing the desired measure, and particularly one which will do away with the iniquitous system of preferences.

The business men's organizations should take the matter up, and again impress upon the Government the necessity for the measure.

A YEAR OF CEYLON TEA SALES.

The weekly tea sales in Colombo, Ceylon, last year, aggregated 27,197,810 lb., out of 36,175,644 offered.

The yearly totals of tea sold in Colombo since 1890, according to a table published in the Times of Ceylon, were as follows :

	Lb.
1890	5,961,902
1891	9,599,024
1892	11,425,251
1893	14,246,440
1894	15,788,343
1895	19 668,116
1896	25,412,624
1897	26,512 099
1898	27,197,810

An increase of over 356 per cent. in eight years is most extraordinary.

A London, Eng., tea circular to hand shows that the exports of Ceylon tea from Great Britain increased over previous years. In 1895, the quantity of Ceylon tea exported from Great Britain was 7,147,086 lb.; 1896, 8,496,663 lb.; 1897, 10,683,885 lb.; 1898, 11,522,434 lb.

ORANGE FLAVORED TEA.

A couple of years ago, tea brokers in Canada were annoyed a great deal by the samples they received from London being flavored with oranges.

Representations were made to the postal authorities in England, with the result that greater care was promised in the future. Up to quite recently this promise was carried out. Now, however, the same trouble has again cropped up.

The contamination is caused by the mail bags containing the samples of tea being put in proximity to the shipments of oranges in the holds of steamers crossing the Atlantic.

The matter will again be brought to the attention of the proper authorities in England ; but, in the meantime, the brokers will have to await new samples of tea before they can do business, which means loss of money as well as loss of time.

DRESSED HOGS CHEAPER.

Within the last four weeks the price of light dressed hogs has fallen 25 to 40c., being now quoted at $4.75 to $5.

The cause of this decline is the remarkable increase in the receipts and offerings. Buyers of live hogs throughout the Province have recently been unwilling to pay the prices they had been quoting, and this caused many to dress their hogs. This, added to the natural increase in offerings, due to the increased production of hogs in the country, has so stocked the market that packers are able to secure all they want at the reduction noted.

HOW TO KEEP CURED HAMS.

A Berlin, Ont., subscriber writes : "Can you find out for me the best way for keeping cured hams for the summer trade, so that they will not shrink so much in weight nor mould? We used to pack them in rock salt, but it seems to me they draw some salt."

[Remarks : Inquiries have been made among the pork-packers, and the general opinion is that cold storage is the best way, while a dry, cool place will fairly well serve the purpose. If our readers can supply any information in regard to the matter it will be most thankfully received. — Editor THE CANADIAN GROCER.]

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

GROCERY QUOTATIONS BY WIRE.

Occasionally, just as THE GROCER has gone to press, changes in prices are made in staple lines of goods, which a good many in the trade hear nothing of ti l the next issue of the paper. Should, therefore, any of the readers of this journal desire to ascertain, between regular issues, the prevailing quotation on any staple line, it will, on application, be furnished by return mail or by telegraph; if by the latter method, at the cost of the person seeking the information.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

TORONTO, Feb. 2, 1899.

GROCERIES.

FOR this time of the year a good wholesale trade is being done. It is the general opinion that the volume of business during the past month has exceeded that of the corresponding month of last year, and a general confident tone as to the future is in evidence. There has been no change in prices during the week, values ruling much as before. Whatever tendency there is to changes is in the direction of a higher range of values. Canned goods remain firm at last month's quotations, and there is a fairly good business being done. Coffees are firmer, and in good demand from the retailers. There has been a readjustment of the price of four grades of yellow sugars, a reduction of 10c. having taken place, but this was not due to any influence of the market, being simply to put prices on a better parity. The strongest feature of the market at the moment appears to be tea, all kinds being firm, while Japan and Ceylon growths are quoted higher. Pepper and ginger are also firmer in the primary market. In foreign dried fruits, the demand is generally for prunes, which are firm, and in some instances quotations are higher to the retail trade than they were a week ago. In other lines of dried fruits nothing particularly new is to be noted.

CANNED GOODS.

Nothing partlcularly striking has developed on the canned goods market during the past week. While there has been no further change in quotations on vegetables, the confidence has increased rather than decreased, and it is now looked upon as being a matter of time before higher prices will rule on tomatoes, peas, and corn; 85 to 95c. is still the ruling price for tomatoes; 90c. to $1 for corn, and 75c. upwards for peas. The demand for canned salmon is just moderate, and prices remain much as before. The prevailing idea as to cohoes is from $1.05 to $1.15, according to quality, although even slightly lower prices than the minimum figure noted can be obtained. Brokers report an improvement in the demand for lobsters, and they look for a better business next month. Prices rule firm. During the past week wholesalers have been experiencing a moderate business in canned fruits, particularly such lines as plums, pears and peaches. Quite a little canned poultry has been picked up on Klondyke account. Already a good deal has been taken. and the scarcity which was experienced for at least some packs last year, threatens to be repeated again this season.

COFFEES.

The coffee market is stronger, and there has been a little business done for importation. Quotations for Rio coffee on the outside market are now at about their highest point. Wholesalers report a good demand for the better grades of Rio coffee at from 8 to 10c. per lb. There is also some business being done in Santos coffee at 10 to 10½c., and in Maracaibo coffee at from 12 to 14c. per lb.

See pages 27 and 28 for Toronto, Montreal, St. John, and Winnipeg prices current.

SUGARS.

The feature of the local market is a decline of 10c. per 100 lb. in the prices of Phœnix, Cream, Extra Bright, Bright Coffee yellow sugars. Phœnix and Cream are now quoted at $4.33; Extra Bright at $4.23, and Bright Coffee at $4.13. This change is not due to any weakness in the market, but is made in order to readjust the prices on a better parity with granulated sugar, Phœnix and Cream sugars being quoted at the same price as Acadia granulated. Refiners are experiencing a little more inquiry than they were a week ago, and wholesalers report business fairly good for this time of the year.

The outside sugar markets have continued to develop more strength. It is believed that the invisible supply in the United States is small, while importers state that it is abnormally light, being less than 750 tons, which prevents the refineries beating down the price, as they are now practically dependent on sugar afloat. There is a feeling that there will not be any further increase in the estimate of the European beet sugar crop, and the general opinion is that the worst has now been seen. The open weather which has prevailed on the European continent has caused deliveries of sugar to be pretty free, thereby making the situation easier.

RICE AND TAPIOCA.

The improvement noted last week in the demand for rice has been maintained, although the volume of business does not amount to a great deal. The tapioca market is decidedly strong, and, according to cables received in Toronto this week, it would cost $3.30 to lay down foreign supplies of this commodity. What effect this must have upon the future of the market is obvious. The advance is about equal to ¾c. per lb.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

The syrup market is strong, in sympathy with an advance of 2c. per lb. in the United States. While there is not a great deal of business being done in syrups at the moment wholesalers are looking for a good business in this line shortly. Advices from New Orleans state that the market is firm for desirable grades of molasses, but easier for the poorer grades. It appears that offerings of strictly desirable molasses are light.

SPICES.

The pepper market is firm at last week's prices. Advices from the primary market state that prices have advanced for Cochin ginger, owing to a reported shortage in the crop. Advices from London state that it is believed a turning point has been reached in regard to nutmegs, and higher prices are consequently looked for.

TEAS.

The market is fairly active for Ceylon and Indian teas. The London, Eng., market is still above the parity of values on spot in Canada. Consequently, most of the business being done by brokers now is in the latter goods. Only an occasional transaction for importation from London is being reported. A cable from Ceylon states that, as long as the present strong condition of the market prevails, there are not likely to be any shipments made. Local brokers are asking as high as 1c. per lb. more for both Indian and Ceylon teas than they were a week ago. During the week, there have been some inquiries from Chicago grade Indian teas. Samples have been forwarded, but whether any business will result therefrom has yet to be determined. Local brokers report that the demand for Ceylon teas from wholesale houses is still chiefly for those ranging in prices from 16 to 17c. There has been a decidedly strong feeling in regard to Japan teas, and some of the brokers are asking ½c. per lb. more than a week ago. Desirable teas are scarce in Canada, and jobbers are holding for firm prices. There is still an inquiry for Japan teas at from 15 to 16c., and some business has been done at these prices. There has been some business done during the week in China green teas for importation and in spot goods. The feeling is decidedly stronger, and holders have refused to accept less than 1c. per lb. advance on the figures which they were willing to take a fortnight ago. China blacks have also been inquired after, the demand particularly being for low grades. No transactions are, however, taking place, as better prices can be obtained in the United States than in Canada.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS—The currant market remains much the same as it did a week ago. There is not a great deal of business being done, either for importation or on retail account. The demand for currants is almost altogether for the cleaned description, it being estimated that for one box of uncleaned sold, fifty boxes of cleaned are sent out.

VALENCIA RAISINS—The market is dull and featureless, with quotations purely nominal.

PRUNES—A cable received in Toronto on Monday, noted an advance of 1s. 3d. in Turkish prunes. The prune market generally is strong, and in some lines local wholesale houses have advanced their prices ¼c. per lb. The demand for prunes is just fair. A shipment of "Anchor" brand prunes reached the Toronto market this week.

DATES—The market is quiet and the ruling quotations are 5½c. for Hallowee dates and 5c. for Sairs.

GREEN FRUITS.

The cold snap has created quite a lull in the fruit trade, but yet the demand, considering the weather and the time of the year, is better than usual. Stocks of Mexican and Jamaica oranges are becoming well cleaned up. Californian navels are still plentiful, but have advanced 25 to 50c. in the last week, and are now selling at $3.50 to $3.75. Lemons are moving steadily at stiffening prices. Cranberries are quiet. A reduction of $1 brings the price quoted to $6.50 to $7.50. There is a good demand for onions. Valencias in 160-lb. cases are 25c. dearer, and are now worth $2.75 to $3. There is no change in the price of apples, bananas, or Almeria grapes, which are all moving quietly but steadily.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS — Notwithstanding the colder weather the receipts of eggs are increasing. Strictly fresh eggs are in good demand at 22 to 23c. Stocks of limed eggs are moderate, and will likely be well cleared up before the season is over. They are steady at 15 to 16c.

POTATOES—The situation is unchanged. Offerings are liberal, but are still held firmly at 58 to 60c. f. o. b. cars at Toronto. The street market is steady at 60 to 70c.

POULTRY—There is a good demand for bright, fresh-killed stock. Chickens are steady at 35 to 70c.; ducks at 40 to 80c.; fresh-killed geese have advanced 1c., and are now worth 6 to 7c.; bright-looking turkeys are 2c. dearer, now being quoted at 10 to 11c. Dark frozen stock is not wanted at 3 to 4c. less than this.

DRIED AND EVAPORATED APPLES — A fair jobbing trade is doing in dried stock at 5½ to 6c. The movement at outside points is moderate, with the old price, 5¼ to 5½c., still holding good. There is a good demand for evaporated apples at 8¼ to 8½c. outside, and 8½ to 9½c. in a jobbing way locally.

VEGETABLES — A fairly good trade is reported at unchanged prices. We quote as follows: Rhubarb $1 to $1.50; greenhouse radishes, 50 to 70c. per dozen bunches; spinach, 75c. to $1 per bush.; green onions, 10 to 15c. per doz.; cauliflower, 50 to 75c. per doz.; celery, 50 to 75c. per doz.; lettuce, 20 to 30c. doz. bunches; radishes, winter, 15 to 25c. doz. bunches; cabbage, per doz; 75c. to $1; parsley, 10 to 12½c. per doz. bunches; turnips, 25 to 30c. per bag; beets, 50 to 60c. per bag; parsnips, 60 to 75c. per bag; carrots, 50 to 75c. per bag; onions, Danvers, $1.25 to $1.50 per bag; butter squash, $2 to $2.50; pumpkins, $1 to $1.50; Hubbard squash, $2.50 to $3; red cabbage, 40 to 50c.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—A good, healthy tone is reported. Choice dairy prints and rolls are in excellent demand, but inferior stuff is dull. An advance of ½c. brings the price of choice large rolls to 14 to 15c. Choice pound prints are worth 15 to 16c., and some fancy lots have been sold at 17c. Creamery butter is firm, especially prints and squares, which are quoted at 20 to 22c. in Toronto. Tubs are worth 19c. in factories.

GHEESE—A good jobbing trade is noted. The lightness of stocks is causing a steadily growing firmness in tone. Choice early makes are quoted at 9½ to 10c., choice late makes at 10½c. A couple of cars of early cheese are offered at 8¾c., but the general opinion is that they are not up to the standard.

PROVISIONS.

The steady increase in the receipts has resulted in a further decline in the price of dressed hogs this week. The general figure quoted is $4.85 to $5, but some cars have been sold at $4.75. An excellent demand is reported for all meats, the prices of which are unchanged throughout.

FISH.

There is no change. We quote: Frozen salmon trout, 7½ to 8c.; Man. whitefish, 6½c.; Man. perch, 5c.; Man. pike, 5c.; Man. pickerel, 6c.; fresh whitefish, 7½c.; steak trout, 8c. lb.; fresh perch, 4c. per lb.; fresh herring, 4c. per lb.; Labrador herring, $5.75 per bbl. and $3.25 per half-bbl.; Digby herring, 55c. per bundle of five; Halifax herring, $2 per 100; split herring, $5 per bbl. and $2.75 per half-bbl.; cod, in 1-lb. blocks, 6½ to 7c. per lb.; boneless fish, 4 to 4½c. per lb.; boneless fish in 1-lb. blocks. 5½ to 6c.; fresh-water herring, 60c. per basket; ciscoes, 60c. to $1.25; haddies, 6 to 7½c. per lb.; fresh haddock, 6c. per lb.; oysters, $1.20 to $1.30 per gallon, or $6.25 per large pail.

GRAIN, FLOUR, BREAKFAST FOODS.

GRAIN—The situation is practically unchanged. Red and white are steady at 71 to 72c. at middle freight stations. The street market is active. Goose wheat,

HIDES, SKINS AND WOOL.

HIDES—A slightly weaker feeling is noted, but no change in prices has yet ensued. We quote cow hides as follows: No. 1, 8½c.; No. 2, 7½c.; No. 3, 6½c.; cured, 9¼c. Steer hides are worth ½c. more.

CALFSKINS—We quote nominally: No. 1 veal, 8-lb. and up, 10c. per lb.; No. 2, 8c.; dekins, from 30 to 35c.; culls, 15 to 20c.

SHEEPSKINS—The market is firm for sheepskins and lambskins at 85c.

WOOL—No change. Market weak. We quote fleece at 15c. and unwashed at 10c.

SEEDS.

The market is demoralized. Alsike is uneasy at a decline of 50c., which brings the price to $2.50 to $3.50. Good to choice red clover has also declined 25c., and is now quoted at $3 to $3.50. Scarcely any timothy is offered, except an occasional lot of machine-threshed, which is quoted at $1 to $1.25. No flail-threshed is offering, but bright unhulled stock is worth $1.60 to $1.75.

SALT.

No change. The demand is good; prices firm. We quote at Toronto: Carload lots, $1.05 per bbl., and 65c. per sack of 200 lb.; less than carload lots, $1.10 per bbl., and 70c. per sack. At the wells, we quote F.O.B., barrels, 75c.; sacks of 200 lb., 50c. English salt is quoted at 48¾c. per sack of 154 lb.

MARKET NOTES.

Cornmeal is 10c. dearer.

Tapioca is cabled ¾c. per lb. dearer.

Dressed hogs have advanced 10 to 25c.

Alsike has declined 50c.; red clover is 50c. cheaper.

Choice dairy rolls have advanced ½c., choice prints, 1c.

A cable notes an advance of 1s. 3d. in the price of Turkish prunes.

China green teas, and some grades of Ceylon teas, are held 1c. per lb. higher by shippers.

Fresh-killed turkeys have advanced 2c., geese, 1c. per lb.; frozen stock is in poor demand.

Californian navels have advanced 25 to 50c. Lemons are 25c. dearer. Valencia onions are 25c. dearer.

A private letter received from London by the "Salada" Tea Co. states that after March or April next there will probably be a much better supply of flavory Ceylon teas, which are now so scarce.

"Phœnix," "Cream," "Extra Bright," and "Bright Coffee" yellow sugars are all quoted 10c. per 100 lb. lower.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

MONTREAL, Feb. 2, 1899.

GROCERIES

THE general grocery market exhibits a satisfactory degree of activity for the season. Sugars, with the exception of the brighter grades of yellows, which are slightly lower, rule firm, and there has been a good turnover in them. Syrups are firm, with a rather better inquiry than last week, while wholesale grocers are now asking more money for jobbing parcels of Barbadoes molasses. Canned goods are firm in all staple lines. Dried fruit has shown more life, and prices generally are firm in their tendency. Spices are strong as last noted, and there would be a freer movement in tea if buyers and sellers could only come together in regard to prices.

SUGAR.

The refined sugar market here has, with one exception, ruled firm, the only change of importance this week being a slight modification in the price of the better grades of yellow sugars. Demand during the week has been good, a large turnover being reported of both yellows and granulated. In New York, also, the refined market has been firm, and the stiffness has been accentuated by the position of the raw article, which has ruled strong at 3¾c. for fair refining and 4¼c. for 96 test centrifugal. London advices also state that the raw market was firmer and improving slowly for cane, with Java quoted at 11s. 3d., and fair refining at 9s. 9d. Beet sugar was firmer in tone, but not quotably higher, present and next month's delivery being quoted at 9s. 7½d.

SYRUPS.

The demand for these has been fair during the week, and supplies in first hands continue limited. In the wood, Canadian sells steady at 1¾ to 2¼c.

MOLASSES.

The wholesale grocers have at last marked up prices on Barbadoes molasses, as a result of steadily diminishing supplies, and, now, no single puncheons are obtainable under 32c. Offerings of Porto Rico are made at 28½c. Reports from Barbadoes with regard to the new crop state that it will be late, as planters do not expect to be able to cut their cane before March. Inquiries for round lots have been more numerous here, and 200 puncheon lots have changed hands at 31c. The bulls predict that stocks in first hands here will be nil before there are any new crop offerings.

CANNED GOODS.

This market has ruled rather quiet, but values generally are fully maintained. Salmon has been moved in 150 case lots during the week at $3.75 f.o.b. Coast, and more is offering at the same figure. A fair inquiry is experienced for corn, with supplies small, and $1 per dozen has been freely bid f.o.b. at the factory within the past eight days. Peas are quiet at 75 to 85c., and tomatoes 90c., these figures, of course, being for straight wholesale lots.

RICE.

The rice market is quiet at present, but more business is expected with the opening of Lent. Prices are steady, and at the mills quotations are: B Standard, $3.40 to $3.50; Patras, $4 12½ to $4.75; Japans, $4.50 to $5, and Carolina, $6 to $7.

DRIED FRUIT.

There has been a fair demand for Valencia raisins lately. Holders of round lots of 12,000 packages off-stalk and fine sold out lately to jobbers at full figures. Advices from Denia continue firm.

Californian raisins continue steady, as last quoted, and demand has been better this week.

Currants are quiet and without change, but prices are firmly held.

Prunes have met a fair inquiry, and values generally are steady, both on Californian and European sorts.

Figs and dates continue as last reported.

SPICES.

The firm feeling in spices is strongly maintained, and pepper points to still higher prices.

COFFEE.

While not active, a fair business has been transacted in green bean coffee on this market. Maracaibo has been in most request at 9 to 10½c., while some Santos and Rios have been moved at 7 to 9c.

TEA.

Inquiry for all grades of teas, but particularly Japans, has been active during the past week, but the fact that buyers and sellers are apart interferes with the volume of trade, to a certain extent. The latter now demand an advance of 1½c. per lb. on Japan teas in large lots, and though it has not yet been realized they expect to get it before this week is out. A feature has been the demand from Chicago houses for pingsueys, but no business has as yet resulted on this account. In blocks, Ceylons have moved at 17½c. for fine, and medium at 15c. These prices are not, of course, for jobbing parcels, but for wholesale lots.

GREEN FRUIT.

There has been little change in the green fruit market since last report. Large varieties of Valencia oranges are offering at $3.75 to $5.50, as to size, while Jamaicas are steady at $2.50 to $3 per box, and $4.50 to $5.50 per bbl. Californians and Floridas continue much the same. Florida tangerines in limited quantities have sold at $6.25, and Japanese ditto at $3.50 to $4 per box. There is a fair trade in lemons, and prices are steady. Cranberries are only meeting a slow sale. Almeria grapes are still scarce, and prices are firm at $5 to $7 per keg, as to quality. Pineapples meet a very slow demand at 23 to 35c. each. Supplies of bananas are small, but more than equal to the demand, and prices are easy at $2 per bunch. There is only a limited inquiry for grape fruit at $4.50 to $5.50 per box.

APPLES.

The improvement in apples continues, but prices remain unchanged at $2.50 to $4 per bbl.

FISH.

There has been no change in fresh fish, though the cold weather has been more favorable for holders, and demand is better. We quote as follows: Haddock and cod at 3 to 3¼c.; salmon, 9 to 10c.; Manitoba whitefish, 6 to 6¼c.; dore, 5½ to 5¾c.; pike, 3¾; smelts, 3 to 6c. per lb.; tommy cods, $1 to $1.25 per bbl., and herring, $1.60 to $1.65 per 100.

Pickled and salt fish are distinctly firm in tone, though there has been no quotable change. We quote as follows: No. 1 N.S. herring, $4.50 to $4.75 per bbl. and $2.25 per ½-bbl.; No. 1 green cod, $5.75; do. large, $5.75 to $6; No. 2 ditto, $4.25; No. 1 haddock, $4.25; No. 3 mackerel, $18 and B.C. salmon $12.50 to $13 per bbl.

Prepared and smoked fish continue steady. We quote: Haddies firm at 6½ to 7c.; bay bloaters at 85c. per box, and smoked herring 9½ to 10c. per box. Dried codfish, $3.65 to $3.75 per 100 lb.; boneless, 5 to 5½c., and dressed boneless cod, $4.25 per 100.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—A fairly active trade was done in eggs to-day, there being a good demand for small lots at firm prices. We quote: No. 1 candled, 17c.; No. 2 do., 14c.; Montreal limed, 16c.; western limed, 14 to 15c.; western cold storage, 13 to 14c., and culls, 10 to 11c. per doz.

POULTRY—There was no change in the situation of the poultry market. Supplies of fresh killed and good frozen stock are not large, for which the demand is chiefly for at quotations. We quote: Fresh killed turkeys, 10¼ to 10½c.; frozen, 9½ to 10c.; assorted, choice, fresh killed chickens, 9c.; western frozen, mixed stock, 5½ to 6c.; ducks, 7 to 8c., and geese, 4½ to 6c. per lb.

HONEY—In honey, business was quiet and prices unchanged. We quote: White clover comb, in 1-lb. sections, 8 to 8½c.; dark, 6½ to 7c.; white extracted, 7 to 7½c., and dark, 5 to 6c.

BEANS — The demand for beans in a jobbing way was fair. We quote: Choice hand-picked, 95c. to $1 per bushel; primes, 85 to 90c.

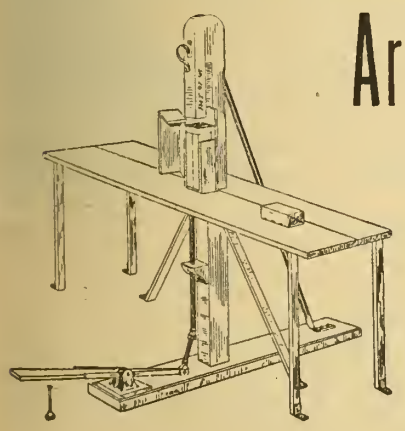
POTATOES—The tone of the market for potatoes is firm and prices are fully maintained. The demand is good and any choice stock offering meets with a ready sale at 55 to 57c. per bag in car lots.

ONIONS—The active demand in this market from Ontario buyers has continued, but holders are less anxious to sell and business has been smaller. We quote $1.75 to $2.25 per bbl.

DRESSED HOGS AND PROVISIONS.

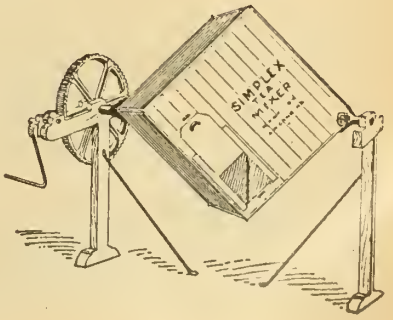
The provision market was featureless. Trade continues quiet and of a small jobbing character, at easy prices. We quote as follows: Canadian pork, in barrels, $15 to $15.50; pure Canadian lard, in pails, 7¼ to 7½c. per lb., and compound refined at 5 to 5½c. per lb. Hams, 10 to 12c., and bacon, 10½ to 11c. per lb.

Receipts of dressed hogs are not heavy, but the market was quiet and easy, the outside figure for car lots now being $4.75.



Armeda Tea Packer and Simplex Mixer

Mr. Hellyer, of the firm of Hellyer & Co., Hiogo, Japan, called to see the Armeda Tea Packer, and at once ordered one shipped to Japan. Mr. Hellyer was delighted with it.



A. H. Canning & Co.
Wholesale Agents,
57 Front Street East, TORONTO, ONT.

The demand for small lots was fair, and sales were made at $5.25 to $5.50 for lightweights and at $5 to $5.15 for heavy, per 100 lb.

FLOUR, GRAIN, ETC.

GRAIN—The feature of the grain trade today was the weakness in Manitoba wheat, and prices show a decline of 1½c. per bushel since Saturday, No. 1 hard being quoted at 73c., January delivery, afloat, Fort William. Business in coarse grains on spot was quiet, there being little demand from shippers. Oats in store sold at 32¾ to 33c.

FLOUR—There was a good demand from local and country buyers for Manitoba grades of flour to-day, and the market was more active with a large volume of business doing. The tone is firm, but values show no actual change yet. We quote: Winter wheat patents, $3.85 to $4.10; straight rollers, $3.60 to $3.70; in bags, $1.80; Manitoba patents, $4.10 to $4.20; strong bakers', $3.75 to $4.

MEAL—A fair amount of trade is doing in rolled oats, in a jobbing way, and prices are unchanged at $3.70 to $3.75 per barrel, and at $1.80 per bag.

FEED—The demand for bran and shorts continues good, of which supplies are limited, and prices in consequence firmly held. Ontario white wheat bran, in bulk, sold at $15 to $15.25, and shorts at $15.50 to $16 per ton. Manitoba bran, $16; shorts, $18, and mouille, $20 per ton, including bags.

HAY—In baled hay trade was quiet, and the market is featureless. We quote: No. 1, $6 to $6.50; No. 2 extra, $4.50 to $5; No. 2, clover mixture, $4 to $4.50; clover, $3.50 to $4.

CHEESE AND BUTTER.

CHEESE—There has been more inquiry for this product than last week, but the firm attitude of holders tends to restrict business. As a result, only a moderate quantity of seconds have been moved at 9¼ to 9½c., and a few isolated lots of finest at 10¼c., and it will take very little movement to entail an advance on these prices.

BUTTER—Has advanced as a result of an active competition between domestic jobbers and exporters for the small quantity of finest late-made creamery offering here. At this writing 20c. is being freely bid for it, and, before the week is out, still higher prices are predicted. This price is for 56-lb. boxes, 70-lb. tubs being obtainable at slightly less money. Western dairy has been more inquired for also, and exporters have bought several good-sized lines at 14½c. Offerings of it up to the present have been light.

MONTREAL NOTES.

Demand from Chicago for green teas has been one of the features of the week in this market.

Creamery butter has advanced over 1c. per lb. in an export way and points stil. higher.

Wholesale grocers here are asking more money this week for Barbadoes molasses in jobbing parcels.

Refiners have reduced their prices on cream and bright coffee grades of yellow sugars. Others are all firm.

Advices from Barbadoes state that no reaping is expected until March, which will make new molasses later than last year.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER,

ST. JOHN, N.B., Feb. 1, 1899.

LIMITED business is about the best that can be said, as far as movement in groceries during the past week is concerned. In tea, receipts are quite large. Dealers are not over-enthusiastic in their expectation of a duty. The drygoodsmen have made January a much more busy month than formerly by pushing white goods. Consumers now buy largely for their year's needs in these lines at this time. The result has been most satisfactory. In bicarb. soda, two size kegs are now quoted, which explains some of the low prices that are given.

OIL — Business is active. Burning oil moves freely, and sales of lubricating are large for future shipment. The new order of things is now in good working shape, and competition, at least as far as a Canadian company and an American company is concerned, is at an end. The latter have full control. While there is no change in price, the market is firm, and an advance not unexpected.

SALT—Imports continue large, chiefly English coarse. There is a large sale, little, if any, being stored here. That arriving is promptly shipped from steamer side to point of consumption. Prices are low, so this is the time to buy. It is difficult to think of anything cheaper than salt. One would look for the freight to be more than the salt is selling for. We quote: Liverpool coarse, 40 to 45c.; English factory-filled, 90c. to $1; Canadian fine, $1 per bag; cheese and butter salt, bulk, $2.50 to $2.60 per bbl.; 5-lb. bags, $3 to $3.25 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $2.85 to $3 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 20c. each; 10-lb. wood boxes, 12c. each; cartons, $2 per case of 2 doz.; English bottled salt, $1.25 to $1.30 per doz; mineral rock salt, 60c. per 100 lb.

CANNED GOODS—There is a steady sale, largely of vegetables. Prices show no change, but are firmly held. Corn is the most likely to advance, stocks being not as large in proportion to sale as in tomatoes, and local price has never been as high as that noted by western holders. Salmon are firm, but supply is equal to demand. Lobsters are still held firm in this market. Fruits have but a limited sale. Oysters are firmer, and higher prices are looked for. Canadian packers are actively pushing canned meats.

GREEN FRUITS—Oranges move freely, and dealers find the demand is for good grades. Californian navels are selling more freely, and prices tend lower, though still quite firmly held. They are gradually taking the place of Jamaicas. Floridas are selling, but lightly. Valencias have the large sale, and prices hold low. Lemons are rather firmer, with steady sale. Apples show a range in prices, but for best stock full prices are asked, and values tend higher. Except in a retail way little else is offering.

DRIED FRUIT—Prunes have chief attention, while local demand is not large, season being early. Prices at point of shipment, both for French and Californian, are higher and tending upward. This has caused our wholesale men to buy quite freely. Californians are preferred. In raisins, there is but light sale. A car of ungraded Californian arrived this week, but though stock was good and price low, there was limited sale. Currants are light stock with prices unchanged. A few Californian figs in pound bricks are to hand. Evaporated apples are scarce and high. Dried are also higher, and but in limited supply. Evaporated apricots and peaches are high, and sale is much below last year. Dates hold firm with light demand.

SUGARS—There is but little to say. The market shows little change. Local demand is light and low prices rule. There is, however, a firmer feeling.

MOLASSES — Prices, while firm, are no higher. Some Demerara arriving by last West India steamer was sold quite low, and was of good quality. Dealers do not desire large stocks, as each week brings us nearer new goods. Barbadoes would sell at a price, but dealers would not give big figures. New Orleans, of a particularly nice quality, is now offered in small packages, and there is a good demand.

PRODUCE—In eggs, prices are tending easier, though there is no change. In fact, our next report may be the reverse of the above. Butter, for best, is rather firmer, but there is little change in price. Cheese is scarce, but, as yet, prices have shown but slight advance.

FISH—There have been rather better arrivals of fresh fish during the week. In cod, haddock and herring, prices keep high, which affects the demand. Dry fish hold high, with but fair stocks held. Pickled fish have a steady sale, at full figures, and are very firm. Smoked herring do not improve. Shad move slowly, and prices are easy. Smelt are still a large catch. Finnan haddies keep high. In lobsters, local receipts are light, though catch is fair. They, like the smelt, go to Boston and New York. We quote as follows: Large cod, $3.60 to $3.65; medium, $3.50 to $3.60; pollock, $1.75 to $1.80; Grand Manan pickled herring, $1.85 to $1.90; ½-bbl.; Canso, pickled, $5 per bbl.; boneless fish, 3½ to 5c.; cod, 7 to 7½c.; finnan haddies, 5 to 5½c.; smoked herring, 6 to 7c.; spring shad, $3.75 to $4 ½-bbl.; fall do., $4.75 to $5; ½-bbl.; alewives, $3 per bbl.; bloaters, 50 to 60c.; Shelburne, $3.75 per bbl.; Grand Manan herring, $3.40 to $3.50 per bbl.; quoddy, $3.50 per ½-bbl.; frozen smelt, 5 to 6c.; frozen pollock, 1¼ to 1½c.; frozen cod, 2¼ to 2½c.; frozen haddock, 2½ to 2¾c.; frozen herring, $1 per 100; fresh cod, 2½c.; lobsters, small, 3 to 4c.; do., large, 16 to 18c.

PROVISIONS—There is but a limited sale. Pork holds its price. Packers are finding that dealers demand a good barrel as well as good pork. Beef tends easier. Lard shows quite a range in price. There is a good sale.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL—Flour has been a matter of interest, and, while dealers have bought quite freely, they have but little more than supplies needs. Feeling in reference to higher prices is somewhat divided; while Ontario millers are higher, there is as yet no change in Manitoba. Beans tend lower; demand and stocks both light. Packers show a range in price. Oats and oatmeal are again firmer. The price of oatmeal is about the same as that of Ontario flour. Cornmeal is firm but our prices are well below western millers. Barley and split peas are high. We quote as follows: Manitoba flour, $4.65 to $4 85, best Ontario, $4 to $4.25; medium, $3.75 to $3.85; oatmeal, $3.80 to $3.95; cornmeal, $2.20; middlings, $19 to $21; bran, $17 to $18; oats, 38 to 42c.; hand-picked beans, $1.10 to $1.20; prime, 95 to $1; yellow eye beans, $1.75; split peas, $3.80 to $4; round, $3.25 to $3.40; pot barley, $3.75 to $4; hay, $7 to $8; timothy seed, American, $1.75 to $2.15; do., Canadian, $2 to $2.40; mammoth clover, 7 to 7½c.; alsike, 7¾ to 8½c.

ST. JOHN NOTES.

Halifax will have another big exhibition next fall.

A cargo of potatoes cleared from Canard, N.S., for Havana this week. Price paid was $1.20 per bbl.

Edward Kennedy has bought the retail grocery business formerly conducted under the name of Scott Bros.

THE GROCER returns thanks for a handsome pocket rule, received from The Pure Gold Manufacturing Co. The rule, like the goods of this house, is first-class.

THE GROCER learns that G. W. Cooke, of Dunlap, Cooke & Co., furriers, Amherst, N.S., is in Victoria, B.C., buying sealskins, anticipating higher prices because of the expected withdrawal of Canadian fishermen from the business.

THE GROCER had the pleasure of a call this week from W. B. Rankin, of Erb & Rankin, brokers, Halifax. Mr. Rankin is an old St. John boy. The firm of which he is a member is one of the most successful in their line in Halifax.

W. Clark, the well-known meat canner, of Montreal, was in the city during the week, and, with the local agent, W. S. Clawson, called on the trade. The St. John business is a large and growing one. Mr. Clark sells only to the wholesale trade.

Halifax is much pleased with the Customs regulations which take effect in Porto Rico Feb. 1, as there will be no preference given to American products. The importance of this is seen when it is remembered that Nova Scotia ships rather over $1,000,000 worth of fish there annually, and a quality it would be rather difficult to find another market for. The fact, however, that these schooners will not be allowed to take return cargoes to American ports, as formerly, will very much affect the profit of the business.

NEW FIRMS COMMENCING.

A. W. Russell has started business as confectioner in Ottawa.

Mrs. Ira A. Byce is opening a general store in Kars, Ont.

H. V. B. Farnsworth has opened up a general store in Aylesford, N S.

TO THE PUBLIC.

TAKE NOTICE that in an Action, entitled as above, pending in the High Court of Justice for Ontario, Canada, the Honorable Mr. Justice Meredith on the 2nd day of June, 1898, directed that a Judgment should issue containing a PERPETUAL INJUNCTION restraining the above named Defendants, their Servants, Workmen or Agents, from infringing the Plaintiffs' Trade Marks registered in pursuance of the Trade Marks Act of 1868, or from selling any Mustard not manufactured by the Plaintiffs in any tin, package, or wrapper (label), having printed thereon any imitation or colourable imitation of the Plaintiffs' Trade Marks or any word or words so contrived as to represent or lead to the belief that the Mustard contained in such tin, package, or wrapper, was the manufacture of the Plaintiffs. AND FURTHER TAKE NOTICE that by the said Judgment the said Defendants were enjoined to destroy or deliver up to the Plaintiffs all labels, wrappers, blocks, dies, or plates which offend against the said Injunction ; and to pay certain damages therein fixed together with the costs of the Action.

CAUTION.

Similar goods to those manufactured by J. & J. Colman, Limited, of 108 Cannon Street, London (England), occasionally make their appearance on the Market, displaying a Trade Mark liable to be confounded by the Public with their well-known Trade Mark of a Bull's Head and also closely resembling J. & J. Colman's goods in get up, presumably with the intention to deceive the buyer and consumer. Such goods are generally of an inferior quality. J. & J. Colman, Limited, would be grateful to members of the trade having any goods brought to their notice which appear to them infringements on J. & J. Colman's rights if they would at once communicate with them. Traders may rely upon their communications being treated in the strictest confidence.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 28, 1899.

TRADE of all kinds is dull, and as the weather has been very severe with a heavy blizzard in the middle of the week it is not much to be wondered at. Manitoba has not experienced such continued cold in five years at least.

The wheat market has been a little more active during the past week owing to the rise in the Chicago market. As high as 62c. has been paid on standard rate of freight (that is 17½c. per 100 lb.). The receipts, however, have been extremely light, owing a good deal to the weather. Little hauling can be done while the cold is so extreme and the roads heavily drifted. A great deal of damp and tough wheat has gone forward to Port Arthur. In fact, the yards there are crowded with cars, and they have as much as they can possibly handle at the dryers. The amount of grain in elevators is not so large in proportion to the amount in the farmers' granaries. Farmers are holding very tenaciously in the hope of high figures in the spring. The drying of the wheat is very satisfactory, and the samples in the possession of the grain exchange are very fine.

The Ogilvies are putting up a very attractive package of rolled oats. The price of rolled oats has advanced slightly, being now quoted at $1.80 to $1.85 for 80's.

BUTTER AND CHEESE—The market is dull. Little dairy is being received just at present, but the feeling of the market is still easy. In creamery, little movement has taken place, and prices from wholesale jobber to retailer are still 21 to 22c. per lb. The output of the Government dairy school is finding a ready market in the city, at a uniform price of 30c. per lb. Other creamery retails at 25c. Cheese is not moving.

EGGS — Are very quiet. Receipts are almost nil, and will be so until the present cold snap lets up.

CURED MEATS—Market slow and steady with no change in price. Hams, smoked, 11c.; breakfast bellies, 11½c.; ditto backs, 11c.; shoulders, 8½c.; long clear, 9½c.; dry salt, long clear, 8½c.; shoulders, 8¼c.; short clear, 8c.; backs, 9c.

FISH—The market is liberally supplied with all kinds of frozen fish. Large loads of whitefish, pickerel and pike are always a feature of the market at this season.

SUGAR—Market is without change for the week. Granulated, 5c.; German granulated, 4⅞c.; bright yellow, 4½ to 4⅝c.

EVAPORATED FRUITS—Market is firm and price high. Peeled peaches, 17 to 18c.; unpeeled, 13 to 14c.; apricots, 16½ to 17c.; dried apples, 7½ to 8c.; evaporated, 11c.

GREEN FRUIT—Apples are firmer. Really good apples are scarce. Spies are held at $5 per barrel, and may go higher. Bananas are arriving more freely at $3 to $3.50. Oranges are slightly lower, running from $3.25 to $4 per case, according to variety. Lemons, $4.50.

A. & W. Johnston, general merchants, Orangeville, Ont., intend retiring from business in the near future.

MAKING MATCHES.

The E. B. Eddy Co., Limited, Hull, Que., has now got its new match factory in thorough working order. This factory is equipped with the latest and most modern type of match-making machinery, and the company is now devoting extra time and attention to this particular line of its business, with a view to not only increasing the output, but also of putting on the market new brands and new styles in sulphur, parlor, safety, wax and advertising matches. And all this is going on while the paper mills of the company are running full time, with more orders than they can well handle.

AFTER 40 YEARS IN BUSINESS.

James Craig, Brock street, Kingston, has sold out his stock to James Waugh, of Hillsdale, Ont. Mr. Craig has had a business experience of over 40 years, both wholesale and retail. His store had the reputation of being one of the finest and most attractive in the trade. His many friends in Kingston express their regret that he has decided to retire from business.

SOAP ADULTERANTS.

Soap is adulterated with a much longer list of articles of a varying nature than the average consumer of this useful commodity imagines, according to an exchange. Many insoluble mineral matters are added to hard soap of poor quality. Among the soluble vegetable matters used in adulterating both hard and soft soap may be mentioned glucose, when it is not too expensive.

J. J. ROBERTS.

J. J. ROBERTS, of the advertising firm of Roberts & Co., Winnipeg, is one of the two new men on the present school board, and somewhat of the esteem in which he is held by his fellow members is seen in the fact that although a new man he has been elected to a position on the school management committee—the most important and largest of the board's committees. He is an old countryman by birth, but a thorough Canadian in spirit, and takes the deepest interest in matters pertaining to the education of our youth. Being a man of large experience gained by travel in Europe and Africa, his breadth of view on any subject is a most noticeable feature. Mr. Roberts was born in Corwen, South Wales, his father being a member of a real estate firm. He was educated in a private school and then in the national schools of the country, afterwards attending the University of Edinburgh. He thus became familiar with the school systems of the three countries.

After leaving the university, Mr. Roberts entered the Merchant Trading Service of West Africa, where he had the advantages of much travel. His health failing, he came to Manitoba 15 years ago and traveled over the different parts of the Province, serving in the militia forces in the Rebellion of 1885, under Col. Irvine. During most of the time he had charge of the hospital at Fort Carlton, for it must be remembered that Mr. Roberts is an undergraduate in medicine. He is prominently known in fraternal societies, being the grand high priest in the I.O.O.F., and secretary of St. John's Lodge A.F. and A.M. From his prominence in The Waghorn Guide he is known to many as Mr. Waghorn. He was appointed for three years by the Provincial Government as immigration agent to Wales, during which time he traveled much and delivered many addresses in the interest of his adopted land. He is a representative of ward two, Winnipeg, has no pet schemes to advocate, but being a man in touch with the people will always consider their views and interests first. He believes fully in adapting our system to the needs and requirements of the various classes that form our population, while a strong hand is kept on the extravagant tendencies of those entrusted with this great work.

Mr. Roberts was prominently connected with the inception of Manitoba's new magazine, The Great West, and is the western representative of the MacLean trade journals.

THE CANADIAN GROCER

VOL. XIII. TORONTO AND MONTREAL, FEBRUARY 10, 1899. NO. 6

RETAILERS' VIEWS ON CANADIAN PICKLES.

THE fact that the discussion regarding Canadian pickles is exciting interest and attention was manifested the other day when a representative of THE CANADIAN GROCER found W. H. Marmion, the retiring president of the Toronto Grocers' Association, talking over the matter with a commercial traveler. "THE CANADIAN GROCER," said Mr. Marmion, "has done the Canadian pickle manufacturers a good turn in advocating that they should produce a higher quality of goods. It has aroused them, too, and one, at least, of them is now putting on the market the best Canadian article ever put there." In speaking to THE CANADIAN GROCER regarding the matter, Mr. Marmion said there was still room for improvement in the Canadian product. Though one Canadian brand is a fair pickle, it can be improved a great deal. "And many of the brands cannot fail to improve, as they are not likely to be much worse," he concluded.

A. R. Williamson, Esther street, was of the opinion that THE CANADIAN GROCER'S first article on the subject was too strong, for, as he put it, "the Canadian manufacturers are placing on the market as good a pickle as the public demands from them."

"But," he was asked, "don't you think they should reach for the best trade the public demands from anyone?"

WOULD REACH FOR THE BEST TRADE.

"Well," I do in my own business, and I think I would in theirs. They would get the trade of some they now miss, if they put up better pickles. But, remember, they do now put up a good pickle, better than they used to—at least, one or two firms do."

A FAIR CRITICISM.

W. H. Morgan, of The Morgan Supply Co., Queen street east, had followed the articles regarding Canadian pickles closely and considered they had been quite fair. "They," said he, "seemed to me to be suggestions given to the Canadian manufacturers in a friendly way, and, if the suggestions were heeded, would undoubtedly do them good. Any person or firm should be able to take a friendly criticism in a friendly way."

At Michie & Co.'s branch store, Spadina avenue, domestic pickles are just beginning to find a place. Where one bottle was sold a few years ago, many are sold now. But there are not yet nearly as many of the Canadian sold as there are of foreign, as they are not up to the standard of the latter. Domestic pickles have yet to be greatly improved.

BAD VINEGAR.

D. Bell, Yonge street, considered that Canadian pickles, as a class, were inferior to the imported article, but, during the last two summers, one Canadian brand had so improved that he thought it would compare favorably with the best on his shelves. The trouble with most of them seemed to be that they did not use good vinegar, for they were generally soft and did not keep well.

J. W. Sanderson, Dundas street, stated that the sale of Canadian pickles was about up to that of the imported article. "But," said he, "the best trade ask for the foreign goods in preference to the Canadian. There seems to be something the matter with the vinegar in which the latter are put up in, for they do not keep well; and until very recently their vegetables have been larger and rougher than the best imported. But they are improving, and I expect will, some day, hold their own with the best of them."

SUPERIORITY OF IMPORTED PICKLES.

R. Barron, Yonge street, said his sale of Canadian was not anything like as large as his sale of foreign. The reason he assigned for this was that the imported pickles were of superior quality to the domestic, and his customers knew it, and would have nothing but the best.

Henry Swan, of Swan Bros., was visited on a Saturday, and, though very busy, found time to express an opinion on the pickle question. "It is difficult to judge accurately how the quantity of Canadian pickles sold compares with the amount of foreign, but there is no question but that the best trade asks for the imported article. There is really no comparison between the two as to quality. Though the domestic pickle (or, at least, some brands) are improving, there is still great room for improvement. If, as you suggested in your last issue, the was lowered, there would soon be few, very few Canadian pickles sold."

W. Binnie, Adelaide street west, stated that his sales of Canadian pickles exceeded that of his sales of all others. The reason he gave for this was his customers were nearly all in moderate circumstances, and they could not afford to pay a higher price for their goods if they could get a fairly good article at a moderate price. The Canadian pickles seemed to be put up for just such customers as his, and there was between the different makers to see who could sell the cheapest.

A. White, College street, has a good family trade, which, he states, calls for the foreign pickle in preference to the domestic. "The foreign pickles must be better," he reasons, "or my customers would not want them, for they have no prejudice in favor of a foreign article which would not be overcome by Canadian goods of similar quality at the same price."

W. J. Coutts, Sackville street, has long been thinking about the merits of Canadian pickles. "For years," said he, "I have enough to carry out the suggestion I have made, that they start a farm and grow their own vegetables, like the Heinz people do. No; they would rather import their vegetables than go to such trouble. They have improved, but will never be as good as their competitors till they produce their own vegetables. I rank the British pickles as best. There are several lines which are superior to any others we get. Then, one or two United States brands come before the best Canadian. Some of the Canadian stuff is not worthy of the name of pickles."

HAVE NOT ENERGY OR ENTERPRISE

UNCLEAN FACTORIES.

"How about their factories?"

"Well, I am afraid that if the Health Inspector visited them, he would be very apt to put more than one of them out of business."

"And, remember," concluded Mr. Coutts, "I want to see Canadian pickles the best on the market. If I didn't I would say nothing, and let them continue in the old groove. There is no reason I can think of why they should not make the best pickle on the market."

CANADIAN PRODUCTS WANTED.

Alex. Gibb, manufacturers' agent, 22 St. John street, Montreal, has received a letter from Jens-Koefoed & Co., agents for Canadian products, Anvers, Brussels, in which he states that there are openings for Canadian products in their market.

The writer says: "The goods which would suit our market are 'farina,' of which we can place large quantities. Dyewood extracts, cotton seed oil, corn oil and other oils, degerminated corn flour, pure grape juice (a new product) are also interesting for our market."

A MANITOBA GROCER'S OPINION.

W. F. Hartwell, grocer and confectioner, Wawanesa, Man., writes as follows: "You will observe that I am in the grocery business, and as a subscriber to THE CANADIAN GROCER I deem it a pillar in my business. As I have always found the abundant information it contains reliable, I was pleased, as many more of your subscribers will be, at the stand you take in the pickle and vinegar question. I cannot understand why a firm such as T. A. Lytle & Co. should take the stand they do if their goods have reached that point of perfection that a most healthful, unbiased, broad, general good to mankind criticism which has appeared in your paper could injure them, but rather ought to double sales if goods are as represented. I write this to show that at least some one is mindful of your interest in fair trade, and right will stand if poor pickles and adulterated vinegar go down."

THE SUCCESSFUL BUYER.

The successful buyer is one who is conversant with his business and who is likewise a man of resolute character. He is one who keeps close tab on his stock and who can tell you in a moment just what amount of stock he has on hand of every grade. He is one who studies his trade and the requirements of his customers. As a result, he knows what novelties he can sell and to what extent. He is always in position to regulate his purchase and thereby keep his stock in proper condition. He is always wide-awake and well-informed on what is being offered in the market. Does he read? Yes. He carefully scans every trade journal that is issued touching the line of goods that he buys, and thereby he attains new ideas and very frequently secures most valuable information. In a word, he is a thoroughly posted man.

More failures can be attributed to overbuying than to any one cause, with perhaps the exception of incompetency and lack of capital. Overbuying is to be avoided only by close application, constant vigilance, and all-round information. To disregard possible overstocking is to invite embarrassment. The judicious purchasing of goods, in quantity as well as in kind, is one of the corner stones of success.—F. C. Brunhouse.

SALMON CANNERIES CLOSED DOWN.

A press despatch from Vancouver, B.C., says: It is stated that the banks have shut down on 28 canneries in British Columbia owing to their inability to carry on business under the present Dominion regulations. Three bank managers are quoted as saying that, with the present regulations, canners cannot can, and all the smaller concerns must go to the wall. It means a loss to the Province of $4,000,000 and a loss to Vancouver alone of $500,000. G. I. Wilson, the largest individual canner on the Frazer, said: "I have sold two of my canneries in Canada, and am looking for a site in the United States. About twenty of the fifty canneries will move to the United States, should the blundering Canadian Government insist on enforcing the regulations with the idea of barring American fish and fishermen. The rest will go out of business."

THEY DIDN'T ADVERTISE.

Since Christmas there have been ten failures reported of concerns that made a specialty of goods intended for holiday presents. Some of these concerns carried large stocks, and were entitled to the designation "big." In one or two instances the stocks were valued at more than $250,000. The noticeable thing about each of the collapsed concerns is that it did not advertise in the newspapers.

The stores that did advertise were crowded with customers from the commencement of the holiday season to the hour of closing the night before Christmas. They all report the greatest holiday business in years.—New York Sun.

THE PRODUCTION OF PORK.

IN 1892, according to Prof. Robertson's report, it was estimated that there were 102,172,224 hogs in the world. Of that number Canada was credited with 1,706,785. If such methods of breeding, rearing, feeding and fattening Canadian hogs can be followed as will make the bacon from them acceptable as first-class to the British consumers, the number can be doubled or quadrupled without much, if any, fall in the price. A large proportion of the hogs are raised and fed in such a way that they are salable in October and November only. These are the months at which hogs usually will sell for the highest prices. It is important that there should be a steady supply of hogs, marketable at all seasons of the year. That can only only be done when farmers cease regarding the keeping of a few swine as of no consequence in farm management, and instead, rear and fatten hogs systematically. It is not desirable that many farmers in Canada should become specialists in hog breeding; but it is desirable that most of them should keep more swine, and thus find a profitable market for grains, for skim-milk, butter-milk and whey. Swine breeding is a paying investment as an adjunct to or a branch of dairy farming.

The imports of bacon, hams and lard into Great Britain, in 1896, amounted to $53,487,607, of which only $5,163,849 worth was obtained from Canada. To meet the requirements of the British markets, hogs with plenty of fleshy not lardy meat are wanted. Larger numbers of them should be fed, fattened and marketed during the summer months, and, as a rule, they should be sold alive by the farmer or feeder in order that they may be slaughtered at packing-houses, where the carcases can be cut and cured in the manner to suit the preferences of the different markets. When Canadian bacon and hams become better known in Great Britain, they will be sought after at relatively higher prices.

CANADIAN OATMEAL.

The value of the oatmeal imported into Great Britain in 1896 was $1,610,701. Of that Canada contributed to the amount of $267,569. With the soil and climate admirably adapted for the growing of large crops of oats of fine quality, from Prince Edward Island to Vancouver Island, it seems that Canada should have a larger share of that trade. From personal examination, I am able to certify that oatmeal from Canadian oats is quite equal in quality to the best. The fault I have noticed most, and which is a serious one from the standpoint of the consumer, in the British Islands, is the presence in some makes of oatmeal of a considerable quantity of seeds or hulls. Better machinery or better workmanship, or both, are required, although I have found some samples of Canadian oatmeal quite faultless in that respect. Since my return, I have been able to give information to several oatmeal millers concerning a possible outlet in Great Britain, and trial shipments are being arranged for.—Prof. Robertson.

A REGINA MERCHANT HERE.

Mr. E. McCarthy, of E. McCarthy & Co., Regina, N.W.T., has been visiting Montreal and Toronto, on a business trip. Mr. McCarthy has one of the largest and most thriving stores in the west. It is in size 75 feet by 68 feet, and is divided into three, one portion devoted to groceries, one to boots and shoes, the other to dry goods (including furnishings and clothing). The establishment is lighted with acetylene gas, and the cash system, which works well, prevails.

"Regina," said Mr. McCarthy to THE CANADIAN GROCER, "is building up well, having made great progress this past year. October was a quiet month, but November and December more than made up for it, and a good fall and holiday trade resulted." Mr. McCarthy said the vacant lands around western towns, held mostly for a rise in value, constituted a problem which ought to be dealt with. "All we want in the west," he said emphatically, "is population."

CLEANLINESS—IN AND OUT.

IT is a good thing to be cleanly if one wants to succeed in any branch of the food distributing business, notwithstanding that the appearance of some grocers' clerks would lead one to a different conclusion if one did not know better, says Merchants' Review. But a clean outside is of mighty little good unless the inside corresponds--unless the heart is free from trickery and chicanery, and the conscience unblackened by desperate deeds done in pursuit of the almighty dollar.

Some remarks on the subject, delivered at a recent salesmen's dinner by one of the traveling men, come very pat just here. We quote: "Gentlemen, there has been a great deal said at this convention about being clean. Can a salesman sampling table delicacies use narcotics, sedatives or essences in business hours and be able to detect to a nicety the defects in his opponents' goods or tell with certainty the finer qualities of his own? I leave this question with you, gentlemen. Mr. Heinz has said that on employing a man the first question with him is this: Is the man clean? The next is ability. Clean! what magnetism there is in it! Gentlemen, there is a power in it that will open the very gates of heaven. To be clean is heaven; to be unclean is hell. To be clean is light; to be unclean is darkness. To be clean is to be the light and salvation of the world. Your body is a house in which you can receive and entertain whom and what you please, and just so sure as you receive and entertain the unclean so sure will you be unclean, and as sure as you receive and entertain the clean the unclean will retire for lack of affinity."

Clean hearts, clean bodies, clean souls—they are all needed in the grocery business.

CREDIT LEAKS.

THE other day the collector of a local store returned to his place of business in the evening without having collected a cent, says an exchange. That man had spent a day, from 9 o'clock a.m. till eight, faithfully trying to make collections from people most of whom were personally known to and friendly with the proprietor. That collector had the debtor's excuse on every bill—which was in itself a good feature—and in most cases an appointment when to call again.

"I shall open no more accounts in 1899 unless I know absolutely where the pay is coming from and when," said the proprietor. It is a good resolution for any store giving credit. This loss on credit advanced is a leak that may be stopped by carefulness; a study of the case; a level head; the ability to say "No" gracefully and the wit to ask leading questions without giving offence. Of course, it were better to give no credit, at least in a general way; but conditions do not always favor it.

No stranger is likely to ask for credit. If he does, and unless he can give an absolutely good account of himself and a satisfactory reason for seeking credit, it is safest to refuse. If you doubt him, don't trust him. Don't undertake to place him under unusual conditions because your suspicions are aroused; if you suspect him have nothing to do with him. If he is slippery he will outwit you in spite of your extraordinary safeguards.

The kind of man to let entirely alone is the one from whom you desire an extra guarantee. If you are right in your suspicions, he will allay your fears, eventually, and "do" you in the long run. Prove any suspicion you may have and trust no man whose name on your book may cause you uneasiness.

Be frank, fearless, straightforward and to the point. Honest men will not take offence. Rogues may pretend to, but in their heart of hearts they, too, will respect you. The honest man seldom goes boasting of his honesty and that of his father before him. Men thus afflicted with enlargement of the mouth are never too good.

Deal with honest men. Let rogues flock by themselves. Many a well-meaning man is kept insolvent by an expensive family. Many a man who might pay doesn't, because he keeps himself poor in purse by his pampering personal habits. If he drives too much, blows too much good money across the bar, or lives above his means in other particulars, somebody besides himself must foot the bills; see to it that you are not that somebody.

Every community is full of these social parasites that strive to suck a living from the labors of their fellow men. Every one of them may be known—at least, in small communities—if merchants will but half try. Letter after letter comes to us, asking what to do with such people. Don't trust them! That's the only way to keep even with them.

NOVA SCOTIAN POTATO EXPORTS.

The change of authority in Cuba is having one satisfactory result. The abolition of the Spanish Customs tariff, which gave a preference to Spanish products, has resulted in a large increase in the export of Nova Scotian potatoes to Havana and other ports from Halifax.

The potato exporting industry is now on a satisfactory basis in Nova Scotia. The farmers are receiving at the rate of at least 45c. per bushel for potatoes in their cellars. The indications are, too, that the industry will grow to be a source of even greater profit to Nova Scotians than at present. During the last three months of 1898, 140,298 bushels were exported from Halifax to the following countries:

United States	886
Colombia	390
Newfoundland	22
St. Pierre	2,646
British West Indies	25,765
Spanish West Indies	98,683
Danish West Indies	1,699
British Guiana	10,207
Total	140,298

It will be thus seen that the West Indies and British Guiana take nearly the whole quantity exported.

PEACH STONES FOR ALMONDS.

A New Haven fruit dealer and grocer, according to an exchange, has shipped back to New York two bags of nuts which he purchased from a New York house supposing they were almonds. The almonds were ordered some time ago and in due time they were received. When opened the nuts appeared to be all right. They looked fine on first sight, but later events proved that the New Yorkers have learned some of the traits of the Connecticut Yankee who made himself and the State famous by dealing in wooden nutmegs. The merchant who made the purchase of the supposed almonds sold some to several customers. When the customers tried to use them they found that the almonds were either of a very poor quality or else they were something else. The latter surmise proved to be the correct one. When they complained to the grocer who made the sale it was found that the alleged almonds were nothing more or less than peach stones, which had been put through some process in order to make them appear like the real article. The imitation is good enough to fool the most experienced person at the first glance and in fact, unless there was reason for suspicion, it is doubtful if any one would detect the difference without tasting one of the nuts. Before shipping the peach stones back to New York the storekeeper removed several handfuls from the bags and is passing them around to his friends as souvenirs. As far as is known this is the first time that this trick has been practised on New Haven dealers. One grocer said that the peach stone trick was far and away ahead of the old wooden nutmeg game as it could be worked cheaper and with some chance of being successful.

A LARGE SOAP COMBINE.

A Chicago despatch states that New York promoters are interesting eastern capitalists in a plan which contemplates the formation of a gigantic combination to control the American soap output. With $90,000,000 capital, of which $40,000,000 will be in preferred stock and $50,000,000 in common stock, negotiations are pending for the amalgamation of all the important factories in the United States. Chicago houses whose names figure in the proposed consolidation are said to include James S. Kirk & Co., N. K. Fairbank & Co., Armour Soap Works, Swift & Co., Nelson, Morris & Co. and Allen B. Weysley Company.

WANT EGGS AT 8c. PER DOZEN.

A London, Eng., syndicate, which has gone extensively into the business of desiccating eggs, is now looking for an opening in Canada to establish a branch factory. They would like to find a locality where eggs could be purchased wholesale at 8c. per dozen, but Prof. Robertson, of the Experimental Farm, Ottawa, has informed their representative that 10c. per dozen is the lowest figure that eggs can be produced at a profit, and then only during the summer season.

WHAT IS THE CHEESE STOCK?

THE deadlock between buyers and sellers of cheese is causing a lot of discussion, and various estimates are being made as to what the available quantity of cheese for export in Canada will be.

In previous years, interested parties have supplied estimates that future events proved to be erroneous ; as, for instance, last year, when they made the stock in Canada on January 1, 300,000 boxes.

As the United Kingdom, between January 1 and April 30, 1898, imported the equivalent of 600,000 boxes, it is not surprising that buyers across the water receive estimates of stocks from this side with doubt, and it is just possible that this is the attitude they are adopting at the present time, and explains the low demand.

This season, however, the indications are in favor of the stock in Canada being rather under than overestimated, so they run a good chance of being badly deceived.

On the first of January, this year, the stock in Montreal was placed at 300,000 boxes, and figures to hand make it clear that this was an outside estimate.

Since January 1 the exports have been 75,000 boxes, against 110,000 in 1898, and 220,000 in 1897. Therefore, if the official Montreal stocks, which were declared as 190,000 boxes in round figures on February 1, are correct, it leaves about about 40,000 boxes to be accounted for in the country.

There may be 50,000 to 60,000 boxes back in the country, but even though we have this visible, it falls short of the annual importations into the United Kingdom for the first four months of the year by 175,000 boxes, including the United States, where the exportable surplus may be set down as practically nil.

Reports agree also that stocks in Great Britain are lighter than usual, and especially so in retailers' hands, so that, with a weekly consumption there of 70,000 boxes, it does seem as though holders of cheese in Canada had good property.

LARGE ORDERS FOR B.C. LUMBER

The lumber industry in British Columbia, which has been in an unsatisfactory condition for some time, is improving.

A despatch from Vancouver states that an order for 160,000,000 feet of lumber has been placed in the mills there for the Chinese railway. It will take six years to complete the order. Australia is also placing large orders for British Columbian lumber.

The exports of the products of the forest from Canada in 1897 to China were $104,387, and to Australia, $193,000. These figures, of course, are twenty months old, but they are the latest with which the Dominion Government has furnished us.

OUR EXPORTS OF BUTTER AND CHEESE.

Returns received at the Department of Trade and Commerce show that though the shipments of cheese from Canada last year did not equal the record-breaking export of the previous year, they were still larger than former years.

In 1896 we sent to Great Britain 1,234,297 cwt.; in 1897, 1,526,664 cwt., and in 1898, 1,432,181 cwt. What little decrease is noted in cheese shipments is counterbalanced by the increase in our exports of butter, which have almost doubled in two years. In 1896 Canada sent to the Mother Country 88,357 cwt. of butter ; in 1897 we sent 100,402 cwt., and in 1898, 158,865 cwt.

MOLASSES STIFFENING.

THE time is approaching when importers begin to consider the subject of spring supplies of new Barbadoes molasses, and advices to hand so far tend to create the impression that the new season will be late in opening. Estimates cabled from the Islands state that the yield of the new season is expected to be an average one, viz., from 35,000 to 50,000 puncheons, but that planters do not expect to commence harvesting their cane until well on into March, as the weather has been unfavorable, and the recent storm has delayed the progress of growth very materially.

This is interesting information to speculators in molasses, who have been holding their lots for extreme prices, and they are now more confident of realizing their own figures, especially as the jobbing-houses in Montreal, which stubbornly refused to advance prices ever since the close of navigation—filling orders at the same level as speculators were asking for round lots—recently advanced prices for jobbing lots 1c. per gallon.

There has been more inquiry for round lots lately, but buyers, so far, have tried to fill wants at 31c., and the larger holders refuse to talk business except at 32c.

Quebec holders have made offers in Montreal during the past ten days, but, as they also are asking 32c. delivered in Montreal, no trading has resulted from their offers.

On the whole, the situation is strong, and indications are that stocks in first hands will be pretty well worked off, if not entirely exhausted before any new crop reaches Montreal.

In fact, consumers of Barbadoes molasses in Quebec, where the bulk of it goes, can thank the Montreal wholesalers for the comparatively low prices at which they have been supplied with the product this winter.

The jobbers have kept their prices low to prevent any outside lots from being attracted to their territory, and, as a result, consumers have obtained molasses up to the present time from 1 to 2c. per gallon cheaper than they otherwise would.

Cheap and unreliable goods are as unsatisfactory foundations for business-building as quicksands are for bridge-building.

THE CANNED GOODS EXPORT TRADE.

AN inquiry has been received at the Canadian High Commissioner's office from a broker who desires to be placed in communication with firms in Canada who pack apples in tins, and also with exporters of dried apples.

As the High Commissioner's office in England has, doubtless, by this time learned that goods of the kind mentioned are to be had in the country, it is to be expected that it will not repeat the mistake it did a year or two ago in regard to raspberries, stating that, as Canada imported raspberry jam, certainly raspberries could not be obtained in the country.

In the official trade returns, canned apples are not classified at all, but the export trade in this line is large, Europe being the chief market for the Canadian pack, apples and all other canned fruits being placed under the classification, "Fruits, canned or preserved."

The total exports under this classification in 1897 were $141,934, of which $67,199 went to Great Britain and $41,360 to Germany.

Of the pack of 1898, it is the general opinion that large quantities of cannned apples have been exported.

Dried apples are classified. And of these Canada, in 1897, exported 5,548,385 lb., valued at $179,504. Germany took 60 per cent. of the total, the exports to that country aggregating 3,678,312 lb. Great Britain took a little over 600,000 lb.

Germany is a large importer of dried apples, they being used there in the print manufacturing mills for dyeing purposes.

Canada's export trade in canned fruit and vegetables combined is only about $150,000, according to the latest returns, an obviously insignificant amount when the possibilities are taken into consideration.

To push Canadian canned goods upon the British market will doubtless require effort, but business, either at home or abroad, is not, as a rule, acquired without effort. And the canned goods industry in Canada will not assume anything like the proportions its possibilities warrant until there has been a material expansion in the export trade in this line.

At the last meeting of The Canadian Packers' Association, President Ferguson deprecated any increase in the number of canning factories in Canada, intimating that there are already too many.

Certainly there is a full complement if the home market alone is to be considered; but surely no one will deign to say that the factories now in existence are sufficient to turn out canned goods commensurate with the possibilities of the country as an exporter of canned goods.

If Canada can raise anything of first-class quality, it is fruits and vegetables, and surely we are not going to grovel in the dust of the home market for all time?

What would our dairy industry be, what would our agricultural industry be, what would our lumber industry be, what would our canned salmon industry be, if it were not for the export trade?

Each and everyone of them would be like the foot of a Chinese lady of fashion—cramped and narrow.

THE TUMBLE IN EGGS.

IT is safe to say that a large proportion of the outside merchants who sent new-laid eggs to the Toronto market late last week and early this week, in the hope of receiving for them the prices ruling a few days before, namely, 22 to 23c. per doz., were grieviously disappointed when they received their returns.

For two weeks receipts have been steadily increasing, but until last week the increase was not sufficient to seriously affect prices in Toronto, where the stocks of held eggs were not greater than was thought necessary. The high prices ruling, however, attracted shipments from every quarter, some coming from as far west as Essex county.

The result was that as many as fifty cases were received in one day by some of the commission houses. Such large receipts created a suspicion that held eggs had been mixed with the new, and buyers were very cautious. On Saturday last it was entirely impossible to keep receipts cleaned out, and the accumulation was left over till Monday.

The natural result of this condition of affairs was that prices should come down, and they did, in jumps, till a temporary basis, 3c. below last week's figure, was reached. This price, 19 to 20c. per doz., has been maintained till the present, but, as receipts increase, these figures will not hold good.

Whether the receipts will soon increase beyond their present amount is a question in which the weather is such a factor that none can speak with authority.

WHEN SHIPPING DAIRY BUTTER.

MANY are the complaints heard in the commission houses just now regarding the manner in which dairy butter is being sent to market.

Though there are other reasons for complaint, the principal ones are that merchants frequently send inferior stuff mixed with their best; they do not always pack it neatly, and last, but not least, tub butter is cut up, and sent in as rolls and prints.

All of these complaints should seldom, if ever, be heard, for it is about time that it was known that nothing is gained by shipping butter in this way.

When choice butter is sent in mixed with inferior qualities, the commission house finds it necessary, in many cases, to sell all at the value of the poorest. In very few cases is it sold at the price of the best, and, when it is, complaints generally follow, and the shipper is henceforth remembered with suspicion.

It is much the same when tub butter is cut into prints or rolls, for, when a shipment of rolls includes a dozen or so chunks from a tub, the grocer who buys from the commission man is almost sure to detect the fact, and straightway wants to buy the whole shipment at a considerably reduced figure.

Though choice butter is acceptable in any style of package, there is no question, but that butter nicely packed in a basket, or a box prepared for the purpose, is worth at least 1c. per lb. more than goods of the same quality thrown in a barrel or a packing-box.

The way to get the best results from shipments of any produce, especially butter, is to send it in while fresh; to have the choice goods distinctly separated from the medium or low-grade stuff, and to see that it is sent packed in the neatest and most attractive way possible. The shipper who ships thus will seldom lose, and will soon gain a reputation that will greatly help to make his goods command the best prices.

PUT PICKLES ON THE FREE LIST.

WITHOUT by any means desiring to cast reflection upon protection as a principle, it can be said to have utterly failed to build up a pickle industry in Canada worthy of the name.

The onus in this particular instance cannot, however, be cast upon protection. Protect an industry to such an extent that no foreign competitor can scale the walls, and yet it by no means follows that that industry will thrive.

A protectionist tariff cannot but tend to help to develop an industry, but it cannot do everything. It cannot do that which is outside its sphere. It cannot do for the industry what the industry should do for itself.

A protective duty helps those who help themselves.

A duty of 35 per cent. has, for several years, been steadily trying to help the pickle manufacturers of Canada. So has Nature by producing good vegetables. But it has been all to no purpose: The manufacturers, as a rule, will not help themselves.

Most of the pickles put up in this country are bad. Positively bad.

The trouble is that the manufacturers, with rare exceptions, concentrate their efforts upon producing the lowest-priced pickle they can, and, in order to do this, they make their vinegar from wood acetic acid, a most injurious article, and, in the selection of their vegetables, appear to exercise no discretion.

As a result, there is a decided aversion on the part of Canadians to use factory-made pickles, and, as a rule, they turn their attention to the imported article.

During the past calendar year, there was an increase of about 26 per cent. in the importation of pickles and sauces into Canada.

The situation has, therefore, resolved itself into this: A high tax has been put upon the imported pickle, in order to build up the home pickle industry. But the industry persistently refuses to employ methods that will build itself up.

In the meantime, the people of Canada are made pay the piper. And it is time the Dominion Parliament gave them some relief.

Were the duty removed, it is possible we should not experience a reduction in price equal to the duty. But there would, undoubtedly, be a reduction, and a change in the duty whereby this could be done would be popular with the wholesale and retail grocery trade, as well as with the consumers.

Let the duty, by all means, be removed.

HURT BOTH JOBBERS AND THE CUSTOMS.

FOR some time a system has been in vogue among certain exporters in foreign countries—Germany and the United States particularly—whereby not only the Canadian Customs were deprived of revenue, but the Canadian jobbing houses of customers.

Briefly, the system was this: Exporting houses abroad, who had no regular representatives in Canada, would send travelers to this country to call upon the merchants in their respective lines, retailers, as a rule, being their customers.

When the orders taken were shipped from Germany or from the United States, as the case might be, each order was wrapped up separately, but all would be placed in one package and addressed to a broker in Toronto, Montreal, or some other commercial centre.

Instead, however, of the invoices for the different orders being sent for presentation at the Customs port where the entry was being made, one invoice covering the whole lot would be sent to the broker, the price thereon being the cost in Germany or the United States, just as the case might be. The object of this was to persuade the Customs authorities that the goods were merely sent on consignment.

By this means the Government was naturally defrauded of revenue, and the persons who were the gainers thereby were not the importers, but the exporters in foreign countries who resorted to the practice.

In order to put a stop to the practice, the Customs Department, a short time ago, issued regulations compelling foreign owners of goods already sold, and consigned to brokers in Toronto, Montreal, or elsewhere, to show the prices at which these goods had been sold.

Although only in operation a short time, these regulations are having the desired effect, giving, as they do, the appraisers material assistance in determining the value of goods for duty.

TORONTO BOARD OF TRADE WAKING UP.

THE members of the Toronto Board of Trade are showing commendable industry in taking up the matters outlined in President Kemp's inaugural address, particularly in regard to the short line railway from Georgian Bay to Lake Ontario.

For the business interests of Toronto an air line between the points named would in all probability be a good thing. At any rate, the board of trade believes that it would be. And when it is believed that the acquisition of a certain thing is desirable it is well for those who conceive the idea to set out at once to secure the desideratum, whether those who desire it are few or many or whether its attainment may require a long period of labor.

A motionless wheel soon gets rusty. So does a motionless board of trade. The Toronto Board of Trade, during the last five years, has practically had no influence with the transportation companies, who were side-tracking the city, or with the politicians, who ignored its bidding, simply because they knew it was too rusty to roll upon and crush them.

A new era now seems to have dawned. New blood is being infused into the organization, and an honest desire is being made, from the president down, to remove the rust and make the Toronto Board of Trade what it should be—a power for the commercial good of the "Queen City."

A live institution always attracts, and as the Toronto Board of Trade manifests life and energy, its membership will be augmented and its influence for good will be increased.

POOR CISCOES OFFERING.

The quality of many of the ciscoes on the market is not up to the standard this year. The flesh of the good ciscoes is firm and strong; the flesh of the ciscoe offered this winter is often so soft as to fall to pieces.

A fish dealer from the seaboard is authority for the statement that the cause for this is that after the fish had been caught and killed, they were left dead too long in the water. Dealers finding complaints among their customers can console them that they are not the only sufferers—the trouble is general—and they can lay the blame on the fisherman.

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

GROCERY QUOTATIONS BY WIRE.

Occasionally, just as THE GROCER has gone to press, changes in prices are made in staple lines of goods, which a good many in the trade hear nothing of till the next issue of the paper. Should, therefore, any of the readers of this journal desire to ascertain, between regular issues, the prevailing quotation on any staple line, it will, on application, be furnished by return mail or by telegraph; if by the latter method, at the cost of the person seeking the information.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

TORONTO, Feb. 9, 1899.

GROCERIES.

THE wholesale grocery trade this week does not present any particularly striking feature. There have been no quotable changes in prices, and the volume of business is not large. In fact, generally speaking, there does not appear to be as much activity as there was a week ago. Brokers have scarcely anything to do these days. The most active article on the list is tea, and for this both brokers and wholesalers are experiencing a good demand. The tea market is still characterized by a great deal of strength, and prices are rather higher than lower. In canned goods the situation is much the same as it was a week ago, the demand being light and prices strong. The sugar market is steady, with the demand a little better than it was. Coffees are in fair demand on retail account, with prices steady. In syrups and molasses, business is just fair. Foreign dried fruits are still only meeting with a light demand, with, perhaps, the single exception of prunes. As far as can be learned, January trade turned out better than that for the same month a year ago.

CANNED GOODS.

Nothing new has developed in canned goods during the past week. As is natural, at this time of the year, the volume of business is light, being between seasons. At the same time, for this season of the year, there is a fair business being done in tomatoes, peas and corn at firm and unchanged prices. In canned fruits there is a little demand, particularly for peaches and plums. There seems to be a slightly improved demand for canned salmon, the best brands of sockeye selling at $1.50 per doz. Cohoes are meeting with some demand, but there is quite a range in prices, the best grades selling at $1.15 to $1.20, while second grades can be obtained at from $1 to $1.10.

COFFEES.

There is some fluctuation to be noted in the coffee market, but, on the whole, prices remain much as they were a week ago. Locally, the demand is fair with prices as previously quoted.

SUGARS.

The raw beet sugar market during the past week has exhibited some fluctuation, but, on the whole, it is in a fairly satisfactory condition. Prices had advanced about 9d. per cwt. from the lowest point, but since then there have been some slight reductions. Stocks are still abnormally light in the United States, and the refiners there are practically dependent on the supply afloat. The production in Cuba is light, there not being as many factories grinding as there were a year ago at this time. In New York, since last week, sugars have advanced ⅛c. per lb., centrifugals being quoted at 4⅜c., and muscovados at 3⅝c. per lb. Cane sugars have advanced since our last report about 3d. per cwt. in Europe. Monday's cables, however, noted a decline of ¼d. in beet sugar. On the Canadian market, there has been no change whatever in price, but there has been a rather better distribution during the past week, and the feeling is one of confidence.

See pages 29 and 30 for Toronto, Montreal, St. John, and Winnipeg prices current.

RICE AND TAPIOCA.

Rice is moving fairly well, and one of the features of the trade in this line is quite a demand for Patna rice at 5½c. per lb. on account of city retail trade. Tapioca is quiet and unchanged.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

There is a little demand for syrups of medium grades, but there are practically none to be had. Corn syrup is having a good sale at the following prices: Barrels, 2½c. per lb.; half-barrels, 2⅝c. per lb.; kegs, 2¾c. per lb.; three gallon pails, $1.20 each; two gallon pails, 90c. each. Molasses is quiet with the market fairly steady.

SPICES.

Nothing particularly new has developed on the spice market. Pepper continues firm, although the markets are quiet. Ginger is also firm, and nutmegs rule steady.

TEAS.

There is a good inquiry for Indian and Ceylon teas, particularly those that are well "pointed." Teas on spot are showing good value, and, as stocks are gradually becoming smaller here, it is only a question of time before our importers will have to buy in London, which will mean that they will have to pay a great deal higher prices than they have been obtaining spot goods at lately. There is quite an inquiry for low-grade Japan tea this week, and some good round lots have changed hands. We hear of one carload selling at an advance of 1c. per lb. over the figures asked a month ago. There has been some inquiry for low-grade Congo teas, and there have been sales at an advance of 1c. per lb. over sales made from the same block in November last. There have been transactions in low-grade and medium China green teas at 1½c. per lb. above the figures which ruled three weeks ago.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS—There is not much business being done. The little business that is passing is chiefly in high-grade, clean fruit, while in uncleaned fruit the demand is for high-grade goods.

VALENCIA RAISINS—are quiet and devoid of any special feature.

PRUNES—The demand for prunes seems to have improved during the past week. For the cheap kind of prunes, the demand is chiefly for those of European growth, but when it comes to the better class of goods, it is the Californian prunes that are the best sellers. The reason for this is the better value that the latter are showing.

CALIFORNIAN FRUITS—The few apricots and peaches that are on this market are only meeting with a very light demand, on account of the high prices ruling, and the figures asked by wholesalers for fair to good stock from 18 to 19c. per lb. for both kinds of fruits.

GREEN FRUITS.

Business, generally speaking, is good. The demand for oranges is large, as prices are ruling very moderate. Valencias, Mexicans, tangarines, and navels are 25 to 50c. cheaper this week. There is a fairly good demand for lemons. The stocks now in the city are light, but are expected to fully meet the demand until the new arrivals of Sicilian, which are expected shortly to arrive. An advance of 25c. is noted. A healthy demand for apples is reported. The stocks in storage are being well cleaned up, and prices are firm. Parties holding any cooking apples are advised to clear them off before the cold weather is over, for, as soon as rhubarb is offered, prices of all apples, but good table varieties, will come down somewhat. The stock of cranberries is light, but sufficient for the consumption. Prices are steady and unchanged. Late varieties of pears are done. Almeria grapes will also soon be cleared out. The movement of onions is unusually large, and advances of 25c. is noted for both Valencias, in case, and Danvers, in barrel.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—Receipts have continued, during the past week, to increase so rapidly that a tumble of fully 3c. is noted for new-laid. The commission men here have been at great disadvantage in handling their consignments. The increasing receipts, combined with a suspicion on the part of local retailers that the eggs were mixed stock, resulted in an accumulation of stock which brought prices down in a hurry to their present figure. A short spell of fine weather will cause further declines. Limed eggs keep fairly steady at 14 to 15c. Held or cold stored are quoted at 13 to 16c., according to condition.

POTATOES—The feeling is rather firmer. A fair business is being done at 58 to 65c. f.o.b. cars at Toronto. The street market is steady at 65 to 70c.

POULTRY—There is an excellent demand for fresh-killed poultry. Dressed chickens are bought readily at 35 to 60c. Geese and turkeys are coming in fairly well, and bright stock is quickly absorbed at 6 to 7c. for geese and 10 to 11c. for turkeys. In the absence of bright-looking stock, frozen turkeys have sold frequently at 9 to 10c.

DRIED AND EVAPORATED APPLES — A fair jobbing trade is doing in dried stock at 5½ to 6c. The movement at outside points is moderate, with the old price, 5¼ to 5½c., still holding good. Evaporated apples are showing great firmness. At outside points, 8½ to 9c. is now quoted for choice No. 1 stock, which is jobbing locally at 9½ to 10c., the latter being the most frequent figure.

VEGETABLES—A fair business is reported. We quote: Rhubarb, $1 to $1.50; greenhouse radishes, 50 to 70c. per dozen bunches; spinach, 75c. to $1 per bush.; green onions, 10 to 15c. per doz.; cauliflower, 50 to 75c. per doz.; celery, 50 to 75c. per doz.; lettuce, 20 to 30c. doz. bunches; radishes, winter, 15 to 25c. doz. bunches; cabbage, per doz; 75c. to $1; parsley, 10 to 12½c. per doz. bunches; turnips, 25 to 30c. per bag; beets, 50 to 60c. per bag; parsnips, 60 to 75c. per bag; carrots, 50 to 75c. per bag; onions, Danvers, $1.25 to $1.50 per bag; butter squash, $2 to $2.50; pumpkins, $1 to $1.50; Hubbard squash, $2.50 to $3; red cabbage, 40 to 50c.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—An excellent demand for dairy large rolls at 14 to 15c., and pound prints at 15 to 16c. is noted. Dairy tubs are quiet. Creamery is locally quiet, but a shipping demand has stiffened the price of some brands, causing an advance of 1c. for tubs and boxes. The export inquiry is small, as prices in Britain have fallen somewhat, owing to large receipts from Australia. Prints are scarce and are unchanged at 20 to 22c., Toronto. Tubs are worth 19 to 19½c. in factories.

CHEESE—The local demand is good and prices are firm, owing to the light stocks held. Choice early makes are quoted at 9½ to 10c.; choice late makes at 10¼ to 10½c.

PROVISIONS.

Dressed hogs keep arriving in large quantities, but prices have been well maintained, and an advance of 10c is noted. Short cut barrel pork is 50c. cheaper. No other changes are reported. The demand for all lines is excellent.

FISH.

Steak cod at 6c., flounders at 4c., and St. John herring at $1.35 to $1.40 are quoted this week. Halifax herring have declined 25 to 40c. Oysters are steady at $1.25. We quote as follows: Frozen salmon trout, 7½ to 8c.; Man. whitefish, 6½c.; Man. perch, 5c.; Man. pike, 5c.; Man. pickerel, 6c.; fresh whitefish, 7½c.; trout, 8c. lb.; fresh perch, 4c. per lb.; steak cod, 6c.; flounders, 4c.; fresh herring, 4c. per lb.; St. John herring, $1.35 to $1.40 per 100; Labrador herring, $5.75 per bbl. and $3.25 per half-bbl.; Digby herring, 55c. per bundle of five; Halifax

HIDES—A weak feeling is still noted. Prices are still unchanged. We quote cow hides as follows: No. 1, 8½c.; No. 2, 7½c.; No. 3, 6½c.; cured, 9¼c. Steer hides are worth ½c. more.

CALFSKINS—We quote nominally: No. 1 veal, 8-lb. and up, 10c. per lb.; No. 2, 8c.; dekins, from 30 to 35c.; culls, 15 to 20c.

WOOL—No change. Market still unsteady at 15c. for fleece and 10c. for unwashed.

GRAIN, FLOUR, BREAKFAST FOODS.

GRAIN—Wheat is about 1c. cheaper than a week ago, 70 to 71c. now being quoted for red and white at middle freight stations. The street market is active, large quantities of goose wheat, barley, and oats, coming in. We quote: Wheat, white, 72 to 72½c.; red, 71 to 72c.; goose, 68 to 69c.; peas, 62 to 66c.; oats, 35 to 35½c.; barley, 49 to 51 c.; rye, 54 to 55c. No. 1 hard Manitoba is steady at 80c., Toronto freights.

FLOUR — No change is noted. We quote: Manitoba patents, $4; Manitoba strong bakers', $3.70; Ontario patents, $3.80 to $3 90; straight roller, $3.25 to $3.35, Toronto freights.

BREAKFAST FOODS — Standard oatmeal and rolled oats are 10c. cheaper. We quote as follows: Standard oatmeal and rolled oats, $3 80 in bags and $3.90 in bbls.; rolled wheat, $2.60 in 100-lb. bbls.; cornmeal, $2.40; split peas, $4; pot barley, $4.

SEEDS.

The market is flat. Dealers quote the price of red clover at $3 to $3.50 outside; alsike is 25c. higher than a week ago, now being quoted at $2.50 to $3.75 outside. Scarcely any timothy is offered, except an occasional lot of machine-threshed, which is quoted at $1 to $1.25. No flail-threshed is offering, but bright unhulled stock is worth $1.60 to $1.75.

SALT.

No change. Demand keeps good; prices are firm. We quote at Toronto: Carload lots, $1.05 per bbl., and 65c. per sack of 200 lb.; less than carload lots, $1.10 per bbl., and 70c. per sack. At the wells, we quote F.O.B., barrels, 75c.; sacks of 200 lb., 50c. English salt is quoted at 48¾c. per sack of 154 lb.

MARKET NOTES.

Potatoes are worth 5c. per bag more in carload lots.

Dressed hogs are 10c. dearer. Short cut mess pork is 50c. cheaper.

Evaporated apples have advanced ½c., and are now quoted at 9½ to 10c.

Valencia, navel, Mexican and tangarine oranges are 25 to 50c. cheaper. Messina lemons are 25c. dearer. Valencia and Danver onions have advanced 25c.

New laid eggs have declined 3c. per doz., and are now selling at 19 to 20. Held or cold stored are 1 to 2c. cheaper, the quotation now ruling being 14 to 16c. Limed are 1c. cheaper, and are now worth 14 to 15c.

Steak cod at 6c.; flounders at 4c.; and St. John herring at $1.35 to $1.40 per 100, are now on the market. Halifax herring are now selling at $1.60 to $1.75, as compared with $2 last week.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

MONTREAL, Feb. 9, 1899.

GROCERIES.

THE movement in groceries has been quite satisfactory for the season, and reflects an expanding volume if anything. All staple articles exhibit steadiness, no further change being noted in refined sugar, while a better movement is reported both by refiners and jobbers. Molasses and syrups are firm in tone, and higher prices are predicted in the case of the former in the near future. Staple lines of canned goods, such as corn and tomatoes, are steady, in fact, stiff, with an upward tendency and a fair inquiry. Rice rules firm, and the same applies to spices, while, in dried fruit, the week's movement is larger if anything, and prices on all lines are steady. Teas and coffees exhibit a fair degree of activity and reflect a distinctly steady tone.

SUGAR.

There has been no further change in refined sugar here since last week, demand being fairly active, and a good movement being reported both from refiners' and jobbers' hands. The outside markets have not reflected any radical change, except in beet at London, which is ¾d. lower than it was a day or so ago, with demand rather dull at 9s. 9d. for present and next month's delivery. Cane sugar, on the other hand, is 3d. to 6d. dearer than it was, though there is little doing at 10s. 3d. for fair refining and 11s. 6d. for Java. Raw in New York continues firm, fair refining, 3⅞c.; centrifugal, 96 test, 4⅜c., and molasses sugar, 3⅝c.

SYRUPS.

The syrup market continues quiet, demand being restricted to small lots to fill immediate requirements, values ranging from 1¾ to 2¼c. per lb., as to quality, at the refinery.

MOLASSES.

This staple exhibits no radical change, trading being fair for Barbadoes from jobbers' hands, 32c. now being the general asking price for single puncheons. Offers by outside jobbers in this market did not result in any sales, as they would not meet the price which local jobbers were asking. Stocks generally are light, and firm values are looked for, for the balance of the season.

CANNED GOODS.

The firm feeling in all staple lines of canned goods is fully retained, a leading feature being the scarcity of special brands, which has led to sales in this market between jobbers, especially in tomatoes and corn. The latter is in very light supply indeed, and, as jobbers cannot replace stocks under $1 f.o.b. at the factory, they are disposed to ask more money. The same is the case with tomatoes, and the extreme inside price at which existing supplies could be replaced is 85c., and not many at that, so that jobbers are firm in their views as to value. Round lots of peas have also changed hands at full figures, 85c. being realized for these goods, so that with this cost in view, prices to retailers are held firm. Offers of canned salmon are made at $3.75 per case f.o.b. Coast.

RICE.

Rather more business has been doing in rice from first hands, and it is expected to expand with the advance of the Lenten season. There has been no change in values.

DRIED FRUIT.

Business has been of fair volume in Valencia raisins, and prices are steady. Some low grades are obtainable here pretty low, but a fair average jobbing price for good off-stalk fruit is 4c. per lb. Layers and selected are not plentiful here.

Californian raisins are steady and unchanged, and the same can be said of currants.

There have been some arrivals of Bosnia prunes, via New York, here, but the fact has not affected the jobbing range in any way. Advices state that prices at primary markets are 1s. dearer than ten days ago. French prunes are also 1s. 6d. to 2s. higher, and no small sizes at all are obtainable. Californian prunes are steady.

Figs and dates continue steady, and primary advices on the latter state that values are 1s. to 1s. 6d. higher.

SPICES.

Outside markets continue active, with large trading in pepper for immediate and summer delivery. Short crops of Cochin and African gingers have stiffened that article, and values bid fair to advance for all grades. Cloves are without feature.

The jobbing market here is moderately brisk, and, naturally, all values are firmly held.

COFFEE.

There is a fair business, in a small way, in coffee, and values are steadily held. Maracaibos and Santos at 8 to 12c., according to grade, have been the only sorts moving here.

TEAS.

There has been a fair volume of business in teas, and, in several cases, buyers have advanced their bids, which is a fair indication of the position of the market. Japans at 16 to 19c. have been moved to the extent of 1,000 packages or so, and some small lots of low grades have also changed hands at 14½c.

GREEN FRUITS.

The green fruit market has presented no notable change during the past week. Oranges are still in ample supply for all sorts, and prices remain much as they were last quoted. The same is the case with lemons, while Almeria grapes continue scarce and firm.

APPLES.

The apple market has ruled steady, and values remain as last quoted.

FISH.

Trade has been fair in all lines of fish, and, with continued seasonable weather, a well maintained inquiry is anticipated. Prices on fresh fish are rather firmer, as follows: Haddock and cod at 3 to 3½c.; steak cod, 3¾c.; salmon, 9 to 10c.; Manitoba whitefish, 6¼ to 6½c.; dore, 5½ to 5¾c.; pike, 3¾ to 4c.; smelts, 4 to 6c. per lb.; tommy cods, $1 to $1.50 per bbl., and herring, $1.60 to $1.65 per 100.

Pickled and salt fish rule firm also: No. 1 N.S. herring, $4.50 to $4.75 per bbl. and $2.25 per ½-bbl.; No. 1 green cod, $5.75; do. large, $5.75 to $6; No. 2 ditto, $4.25; No. 1 haddock, $4.25; No. 3 mackerel, $18 and B.C. salmon $12.50 to $13 per bbl.

Increased supplies of smoked and other prepared fish have lead to a rather easier feeling. We quote: Haddies firm at 6 to 6½c.; bay bloaters at 85c. per box, and smoked herring 9 to 9½c. per box. Dried codfish, $3 65 to $3.75 per 100 lb.; boneless, 5 to 5½c., and dressed boneless cod, $4.25 per 100.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—A fairly active trade was done in eggs to-day, there being a good demand for small lots at steady prices. We quote: No. 1 candled, 16 to 17c.; No. 2 do., 12 13c.; Montreal limed, 16c.; western limed, 14½ to 16c.; western cold storage, 12½ to 13½c., and culls, 10 to 11c. per doz.

POULTRY—Trade in poultry was quiet, and, as the offerings were small, prices are maintained. We quote: Fresh killed turkeys, 10½c.; frozen, 9 to 9½c.; choice killed chickens, 8½ to 9c.; western frozen, mixed stock, 5½ to 6c.; ducks, 8 to 9c., and geese, 6 to 7c. per lb.

HONEY—The market for honey continues quiet and without any new feature. We quote: White clover comb, in 1-lb. sections, 8 to 8½c.; dark, 6½ to 7c.; white extracted, 7 to 7½c., and dark, 5 to 6c.

BEANS — The demand for beans was chiefly for small lots, and values rule steady. We quote: Choice hand-picked, 95c. to $1 per bushel; primes, 85 to 90c.

POTATOES—The tone of the market for potatoes is firm, owing to the small offerings and good demand. Sales of car lots were made at 57 to 58c. per bag.

ONIONS—The firm disposition is retained under light stocks, and we quote $1.75 to $2.25 per bbl.

DRESSED HOGS AND PROVISIONS.

Trade in provisions is quiet, the demand being principally for small lots to fill actual wants, and values show no material change. We quote: Canadian pork, in barrels, $15 to $15.50; pure Canadian lard, in pails, 7¼ to 7½c. per lb., and compound refined at 5 to 5½c. per lb. Hams, 10 to 12c., and bacon, 10½ to 11c. per lb.

There was no important change in the situation of the dressed hog market. The demand was slow and trade was quiet.

JOLIETTE TOBACCO CO., JOLIETTE, P.Q.
F. W. HUDSON & CO., Ontario Agents, TORONTO.

Receipts have fallen off considerably of late, but stocks on spot are large; in consequence, the feeling is easy. Light-weights in small lots are quoted at $5.25 to $5.50, and heavy at $5 to $5.15 per 100 lb. Car lots are offering at $4.75 per 100 lb., and meeting with a slow sale.

FLOUR, GRAIN, ETC.

GRAIN—Business in grain on spot is exceedingly quiet, and the market is without any change of note. Cables were quiet and easier, and, until the demand from abroad improves, little activity is looked for here. In Manitoba wheat one or two fair-sized lots changed hands on local account at 81c. for No. 1 hard and at 78c. for No. 1 northern. Oats were quiet and steady at 32½c. ex store, and buckwheat sold at 48c. on the C.P.R. and at 49c. on the G.T.R. Manitoba No. 1 hard wheat afloat Fort William was quoted at 68½c. February, and at 70½c. May delivery.

FLOUR—A fair amount of business was done in flour, there being a good demand from local and country buyers for small lots at about steady prices. We quote: Winter wheat patents, $3.85 to $4.10; straight rollers, $3.60 to $3.70; in bags, $1.75 to $1.80; Manitoba patents, $4.10 to $4.20; strong bakers', $3.75 to $4.

MEAL—There was no change in the meal market. Rolled oats are selling at $3.70 to $3.75 per bbl., and at $1.80 per bag.

FEED—The demand for feed is still good, and, as supplies continue light, prices are maintained. Ontario white wheat bran, in bulk, sold at $15 to $15.25; and shorts at $15.50 to $16 per ton; Manitoba bran, $16; shorts, $18, and mouille, $20 per ton, including bags.

HAY—Business in baled hay on spot is slow, but shipments abroad are being made on a large scale. We quote: No. 1, $5.50 to $6; No. 2 extra, $4.25 to $4.75; No. 2, clover mixture, $4; clover, $3.50 to $3.75.

CHEESE AND BUTTER.

Business in cheese has been quiet, for the reason that shippers reluctantly meet holders' views, and trading is limited. The latter demand 10¼c. for finest Ontario and 10c. for gnest eastern makes, with undergrades, which are limited, at figures ranging from 9½ to 9¾c., according to quality and condition.

Receipts of butter continue light, and all are promptly absorbed at full figures. For late made creamery in 5-lb. boxes, shippers have paid 20c., and as local dealers concede 20¼c., they are getting the pick of the offerings. Tubs are quotable at 19½c., and held creamery at 18 to 19c., as to quality. Dairy butter rules steady at 14½c.

MONTREAL NOTES.

Dates have been cabled 1s. to 1s. 6d. higher than they were eight days ago.

Coffees have been moved in a small way and values are generally steadily held.

Cables from Bosnia quote prunes 1s. higher, and small sizes of French prunes are said to be practically exhausted.

Increased arrivals of smoked and prepared fish have led to some modification in their price, but pickled and fresh continue steady.

Full prices are asked for round lots of canned corn and tomatoes, and, as stock cannot be replaced except at an advance, jobbers are firm holders.

Vanstone's grocery store in Brantford, Ont., was broken into the other night, and $12 in cash was taken from the till.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER,
ST. JOHN, N.B., Feb. 7, 1899.

WHILE, as is the rule at this season, business is quiet, many say they are doing much better than last year. The easy feeling in the flour market has had considerable effect, and sales have, in consequence, been lighter than usual at this season. Tea brokers report quite active sales. Arrivals of direct China shipments continue large. In brooms there is a further advance, and prices are very firm. Spices tend higher, particularly pepper. Soda is quoted lower than ever before, and some round lots have been sold. Borax is rather higher, and a further advance is expected. Grippe is prevalent, not only in the city but throughout the Province. Politics are having more attention than business in our Province just at present.

OIL—There is an active demand. Burning oils are somewhat giving place to lubricating; paint oils have more attention, Burning oils, however, move freely, and prices are firmly held. Cod oil is dull.

SALT—This is the active season for Liverpool coarse salt. Each weekly steamer brings quite a quantity, and demand is fair, the bulk arriving being at once shipped away. English factory filled and Canadian fine move but slowly at present, but are beginning to have more attention. Prices show no change. We quote as follows: Liverpool coarse, 40 to 45c.; English factory-filled, 90c. to $1; Canadian fine, $1 per bag; cheese and butter salt, bulk, $2.50 to $2.60 per bbl.; 5-lb. bags, $3 to $3.25 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $2.85 to $3 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 20c. each; 10-lb. wood boxes, 12c. each; cartons, $2 per case

CANNED GOODS—In vegetables, prices tend firmer from week to week, and, while the advance is slow, it can be noted. Corn is the lightest stock and most likely to advance. Holders of tomatoes are looking for nice profits. Salmon, in spite of the high figures, has a good steady demand. Lobsters are quiet. There is an active demand for gallon apples at firm prices. The outlook is for a better sale than for some years. Fruit sells but in limited quantities, and, outside of gallon apples, the demand is chiefly for peaches. Plums are a very light sale. Oysters are firm.

GREEN FRUIT—The weather has a great deal to do with the output. January proved a good month. Apples are rather higher, with stock light. Oranges sell more largely, Valencias being low and of good quality. This, it is thought, will largely affect the sale of Californians this season. These tend rather easier, and are arriving more freely. There are still some nice Jamaicas offered. Floridas are about out of the market. Cranberries are rather easier, being quite low for this season. Lemons are rather higher, and move freely. There are no grapes selling in a wholesale way.

DRIED FRUITS — Business is quiet. Prunes are, perhaps, the most active line, though sales are not large. Raisins are dull. Currants have a fair demand. There is some inquiry for evaporated peaches and apricots, but the price affects the sale. Dried apples are light stock, and sell quite freely at higher figures. There are few evaporated held, and sale is affected by the high price. Dates are firm, but show light business. Figs are dull. Onions are higher, and firmly held; stock light and in few hands. Arrivals from Montreal showed a wide range in quality during the season. Peanuts have again advanced, prices being nearly 50 per cent. above those quoted at point of production last fall.

SUGAR—The local market keeps low, but western refineries are not inclined to meet the competition, holding their price very very firm. While foreign sugars are offered, there are but light sales. Orders are largely given to keep up the competition. In this way dealers are enabled to force the hand of the local refinery. The sale is not likely to increase. The American granulated is much liked, but this is only an occasional business.

MOLASSES—While prices are firmly held, there is but little change. Dealers would buy a cheap molasses if good, but this is not offered, and they are allowing their small stocks to grow still smaller. Demand at this season is quiet. There is considerable call for small packages, which is being met by importations of New Orleans, of which some splendid values are offered. Price is firmly held, which somewhat restricts sale.

PRODUCE—In eggs, there is a rather firmer feeling. Stocks are lighter and arrivals small. Some held eggs that were here helped to keep prices down, but this stock is about exhausted. Strictly fresh are high. Butter shows little change. There seems to be considerable in the country to come forward. Creamery keeps low. Cheese is firmer, but, as yet, there is little change in prices.

FISH—Fresh are still scarce and high. Smokers of haddies have imported some haddock from Boston, where small fish have been low. Frozen herring are so scarce that there is practically no business. Dry fish keep firm, and stocks light. Boneless fish have shown a good demand at full figures. Hake tend higher, there being an improved West Indian demand. Pickled herring is scarce and higher. Of alewives, market is bare; season showed a fair profit. Smoked herring is dull. No bloaters are offering. Lobsters hold their price. We quote as follows · Large cod, $3.65 to $3.75; medium, $3.60 to $3.65; pollock, $1.75 to $1.80; Grand Manan pickled herring, $2 to $2.10; ½-bbl.; Canso, pickled, $5 per bbl.; boneless fish, 3½ to 5c.; cod, 7 to 7½c.; finnan haddies, 5 to 5½c.; smoked herring, 6 to 7c.; spring shad, $3.75 to $4 ½-bbl.; fall shad, $4.75 to $5 ½-bbl.; Shelburne, $3.75 per bbl.; Grand Manan herring, $3.75 to $4 per bbl.; quoddy, $3.50 per ½-bbl.; frozen smelt, 5 to 6c.; frozen pollock, 1¼ to 1½c.; frozen cod, 2¼ to 2½c.; frozen haddock, 2½ to 2¾c.; frozen herring, 90c. per 100; fresh cod, 2½c.; lobsters, small, 3 to 4c.; do., large, 10 to 12c.

PROVISIONS—There is but limited business. Prices are firm. In hogs, there are fair receipts. A good many Prince Edward Island pigs are arriving, but the price is well maintained, ranging from 5½ to 6c. Lard keeps lower.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL — Manitobas were not advanced during the flurry, which did much to check buying in all grades. Many Ontario millers have gone back to old prices. In local markets an easier feeling prevails. Oast are high, and oatmeal is firmly held at the advance. Our market is still quite well supplied at the lower figures. Cornmeal holds its advance, and feed is very high. In beans, there is a rather easier tendency. Stocks of barley and split peas light, but buyers are very slow to pay the prices asked. Seeds begin to have atttention. We quote as follows: Manitoba flour, $4.75 to $4.85, best Ontario, $4 to $4.20; medium, $3.75 to $3.85; oatmeal, $3.85 to $3.90; cornmeal, $2.20; middlings, $19 to $21; bran, $17 to $18; oats, 38 to 42c.; hand-picked beans, $1.10 to $1.15; prime, 95 to $1; yellow eye beans, $1.75; split peas, $3.80 to $4; round, $3.25 to $3.40; pot barley, $3.80 to $4; hay, $7 to $8; timothy seed, American, $1.75 to $2.15; do., Canadian, $2 to $2.40; mammoth clover, 7 to 7½c.; alsike, 7¾ to 8½c.

ST. JOHN NOTES.

The first tank steamer with oil arrived in Halifax during the week.

Exports of frozen smelt from Richibucto so far this season have amounted to 430 tons.

Some 50 tons crushed coke were lately shipped from Halifax to Havana as an experiment.

Mr. D. Creig, representing D. McDougall & Co., pipe manufacturers, Glasgow, called on the wholesale trade during the week. From this Province Mr. Creig goes to the United States, where his house has a large connection.

Customs receipts for January were $2,932.73 below that for last year, the figures this year being $46,823.36.

Halifax importers are offering late arrivals of Porto Rico molasses at fair figures. These arrivals were somewhat unexpected.

Syda & Cousins, of Digby, have been importing fresh haddock by the carload from Boston for smoking. This is very much out of the ordinary.

Coal mining in Cape Breton is having a great boom. The Dominion Coal Co. alone expects to raise 175,000 tons per month, large quantities being shipped to the United States.

The Merchants Bank of Halifax is to open a branch at Havana. It will be under a joint management, a resident of that city being associated with the agent sent there. The late agent at Fredericton is named for the position.

The interest in flour mills through these lower Provinces continues to increase. The last year has seen much more flour manufactured than for years, both western and local wheat being used. The mill at New Glasgow used some 20,000 bushels of Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island wheat. This mill has a capacity of 400 barrels per day. A new mill, fitted with the latest machinery, has just been started at Petit Rocher. A large mill is building in St. John, and the Halifax Board of Trade is moving in the matter in that city.

THE NAPOLEON OF SCALES.

When Napoleon was elected Emperor of the French, one of his officers is said to have remarked: "The Emperor's robes will hardly fit the Little Corporal." Napoleon heard it, and said quietly, "Tell him not to be uneasy. The robes may not fit me but I will fit them."

There are many grocers who are fearful that their store cannot afford a computing scale. Their trade won't justify such an investment, they cannot afford it, it's too expensive, etc. This is absurd. You can afford it. The scale will fit your store, your trade and your pocketbook. You can make it fit. Look at the situation like a Napoleon. In three months' time you won't know but what you always owned a computing scale. It will pay for itself.

"Our Money Weight Computing scales are money savers," say the Computing Scale Co., of Dayton, Ohio. "Try this system of handling your merchandise, and be a Napoleon. Scales sold on monthly payments, without interest."

CAUTION.

Similar goods to those manufactured by J. & J. Colman, Limited, of 108 Cannon Street, London (England), occasionally make their appearance on the Market, displaying a Trade Mark liable to be confounded by the Public with their well-known Trade Mark of a Bull's Head and also closely resembling J. & J. Colman's goods in get up, presumably with the intention to deceive the buyer and consumer. Such goods are generally of an inferior quality. J. & J. Colman, Limited, would be grateful to members of the trade having any goods brought to their notice which appear to them infringements on J. & J. Colman's rights if they would at once communicate with them. Traders may rely upon their communications being treated in the strictest confidence.

AMONG TORONTO RETAILERS.

A Trade Worth Keeping.

There is a canny Scotchman doing business on a residential street, between Spadina and Bathurst, who, if he was not so desirous of keeping his name out of print, could give some valuable pointers to his brethren.

In the first place, he has learned to close up at 7 o'clock every night except Saturday evenings, when a couple of hours more are given his customers to secure their supplies. He has been closing at this hour for some years now, and says that he has lost nothing by so doing. "But," said he, "I have gained something. Life is not a drudgery any more. We have the evenings to ourselves, and, now that we know what they are worth to us, we could not be persuaded to go back into the old system."

"But don't you lose any trade by being closed before some of the stores around you?"

"Possibly a little, but very little, and whoever gets it is welcome to it. By our way of doing business very little of our trade is left for the late closers. We have our customers divided into different sections, making the divisions according to their direction from the shop. We visit these customers regularly twice a week, and, as we have their confidence and know just about what they want, there is little left for the other fellow when we get through with them.

"Another good result of our system," concluded he, "is that there is no necessity for cutting. When we take an order we fill it at a rate of profit which is as fair to ourselves as it is to them, and, as we always supply the best qualities of goods, we seldom have a complaint and rarely lose a customer."

This system of doing business may entail more real work on the grocer's part, for he has to get out and work for his trade, but there is more satisfaction in working reasonably hard for ten hours and having the rest free, than in twelve or thirteen hours' easier work, with little time for anything else but eating and sleeping.

Good Orange Displays.

Michie & Co., King street, have been for some time devoting their window to oranges. and two of the displays they have made of this fruit have attracted much attention. The first of these two was very simply arranged. An empty sugar barrel was stood on end in the middle of the window, and was filled heaping over with oranges. A great pile of oranges filled the whole window to about three-quarters the height of the barrel, there being a gradual sloping towards the window. The bright-colored oranges, filling the whole window, created such a striking effect that persons passing could not fail to notice the display. The other display, which is yet in the window, is even more simple than the preceding one. In this, two rows of well-filled marmalade orange boxes are placed, one behind and above the other, in a slanting position. Four cards, all bearing the simple phrase "Finest Marmalade Oranges," were attached to the boxes. In the space in front of these boxes, about 18 inches, was arranged a display of fancy imported and domestic marmalades. It can be classed as one of the best of the kind seen for some time.

THE RAMBLER.

A SIGN OF PROSPERITY.

A local member of The Toronto Board of Trade this week received a printed notice of a meeting, the envelope containing which carried a two and a five-cent stamp.

"I suppose it is a sign of prosperity," remarked the recipient, as he held up the envelope.

"Or a desire to increase the revenue of the Post Office Department," remarked another.

WHY LATIN IS USED BY PHYSICIANS.

"I DON'T SEE," said the man who was leaning against the drug store corner, "why a doctor can't write his prescription in English, instead of Latin."

The druggist said: "You think, I suppose, that the doctor writes his prescription in Latin so it can't be read so easily—so the layman can't steal his trade and learn what he is giving him. But that's all wrong. In the first place, Latin is a more exact and concise language than English, and, being a dead language, does not change, as all living languages do.

"Then, again, since a very large part of all the drugs in use are botanical, they have in the pharmacopœia the same names that they have in botany—the scientific names. Two-thirds of such drugs haven't any English names, and so couldn't be written in English.

"But suppose a doctor did write a prescription in English for an uneducated patient. The patient reads it, thinks he remembers it, and so tries to get it filled from memory the second time. Suppose, for instance, it calls for iodide of potassium, and he gets it confused with cyanide of potassium. He could safely take 10 grains of the first, but one grain of the second would kill him as dead as a mackerel. That's an exaggerated case, but it will serve for an illustration. Don't you see how the Latin is a protection and a safeguard to the patient? Prescriptions in Latin he can't read, and, consequently, doesn't try to remember.

"Now, for a final reason. Latin is a language that is used by scientific men the world over, and no other language is. You can get Latin perscriptions filled in any country on the face of the earth where there is a drug store. We had a prescription come in here the other day which we had put up originally, and which had since been stamped by druggists in London, Paris, Berlin, Constantinople, Cairo and Calcutta. What good would an English prescription be in St. Petersburg?"—New York Herald.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 6, 1899.

THE market has been extremely dull all week. Wheat is weak, and more money has been paid at country points than is warranted by outside markets. Deliveries are light, but will increase next week if the weather moderates. Price on Saturday was 54c. on Brandon rate of freight for No. 1 hard.

TOBACCOS—There has been a drop of from 2 to 4c. per lb. on all lines. No reason is assigned for this drop.

SUGARS — In sympathy with outside markets there has been a drop of ⅛c. on these goods and granulated is quoted at 4⅞c. and yellows at 4⅜c.

No other line has changed during the week.

OTTAWA VALLEY LUMBER CUT.

A statement of the lumber cut of the firms in the Ottawa district last season, according to The Mail and Empire's correspondent, shows that the output reached a total of nearly 600,000,000 feet. On the Parry Sound railway, the Gilmours, at Canoe lake, cut 40,000,000 feet, while the St. Anthony Lumber Company, at Whitney, cut 45,000,000 feet. The following is a statement of the cut of the Ottawa valley firms :

OYSTERS SCARCE IN BALTIMORE.

There is a possibility that oysters may be dearer before long. The American Packer, Baltimore, United States, states that "the scarcity of oysters is causing packers and dealers much concern, especially as it exists at a time when there is an unusually heavy demand from the west. For the first time the oyster beds of the Chesapeake are failing to supply the legitimate demand. There has been since Thanksgiving an unprecedented demand for oysters from the west, and at the same time oysters were never so scarce in Baltimore. The result is that packers in the latter city are unable to fill their orders, or to buy in sufficient quantities. Prices have been run up because of these conditions to a point 20 per cent. higher than at this time last year." This scarcity and the resulting high prices have not yet affected the Canadian market, as prices are ruling at about the same figures as a year ago.

A PERMANENT WHITEWASH.

Important discoveries are often made by accident. A correspondent of a German paper says that a few years ago, it was decided to whitewash the walls and ceiling of a small cellar to make it lighter. For this purpose a suitable quantity of lime was slacked. A workman, who had to carry a vessel of common salt for some other purpose, stumbled over the lime cask and spilled some of his salt into it. To conceal all traces of his mishap, he stirred in the salt as quickly as possible. The circumstance came out afterwards, and this unintentional addition of salt to the lime excited curiosity, for the whitewash was not only blameless, but hard as cement, and would not wash off. After this experience, the writer employed a mixture of milk of lime and salt (about three parts of stone lime to one part of salt) for a court or light wall. To save the trouble and expense of a scaffold to work on, he had it applied with a garden syringe to the opposite walls. The results were most satisfactory. For four years the weather has had no effect upon it, and he has, he says, obtained a good and cheap means of lighting the court in this way.

MAPLE PRODUCT TALES.

This sign adorns the window of a Nassau street establishment, whose proprietor is better known for piety than for any sense of humor :

PURE VERMONT MAPLE SYRUP.

Made on the Premises.

—New York Sun.

This reminds THE CANADIAN GROCER of an experience in a certain town a few years ago. A passer-by, early in the winter, saw in a store window the sign : "Maple Sugar for Sale Here." A boy behind the counter stated, in reply to a question, that they were "out just now, but would have some in a little while."

"I suppose you are making it in the cellar," seriously asked the would-be customer.

"Yes, sir, mother is at it now," innocently replied the boy.

PRIZES WITH TEA.

Some of the gift schemes of English tea companies are calculated to produce a degree of "h'admiration amounting to h'awe," as Mr. Boffin said, in the breasts of unsophisticated dealers on this side of the Atlantic, remarks Merchants' Review. One concern advertising in a London grocers' paper, offers to give a nickel lever clock with one pound of tea, an oil stove with two pounds of tea, and a printed chamber service or a tea service with three pounds. A bristle stove or shoe brush, or a set of drip tins, goes with a quarter-pound of the leaf. The imagination falters at the thought of what extremes would be reached if any customer should take an entire chest of tea at one time.

THE PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU . . . .

Reads every paper in Canada and clips therefrom all articles of a business or personal nature of interest to subscribers in this department.

Politicians can obtain from it everything the papers say about themselves on any subject in which they are interested. Business men learn of new openings for trade, pointers to sell goods, addresses of people likely to become buyers, tenders wanted, stocks for sale or wanted, reports of new industries or stores, etc.

TERMS—$5 per hundred clippings; $40 per thousand, payable in advance; but a yearly contract will be found the most satisfactory.

We have also lists of firms in every branch of trade in the Dominion, the professions, club members, society, etc., and we are prepared to address and mail circulars or letters to these at any time.

To Protect You.

When you buy "Gold Dust" Corn Meal, you get exactly what you pay for in weight as well as in quality—all our barrels are lined with stout paper to prevent the meal from sifting through. And, too, packed in this way, you get "Gold Dust" absolutely free from dirt.

It won't turn sour or decay because it has been Kiln-Dried—intense heat removes this danger that the ordinary corn meal of commerce is always exposed to. A shipment of "Gold Dust" Corn Meal (meal, not flour) with its golden yellow color, its cleanliness, its evenly cut grains, will arrive at your store in exactly the same condition in which it leaves our mills—Corn Meal perfection.

Profit with Honor

is the goal of all our ambition.

To attain the one without sacrificing the other is often difficult.

It is only after long and careful study of qualities and values that this is obtained.

We here offer you three lines that can be both honorably and profitably handled :

"Good goods always sell." They are the best advertisement for your store.

Lazenby's Soup Squares

"are the best experience and money can produce."

"Once used, always used."

Eve's Fair Daughters like something bright and new for Easter.

To do this economically often means using Dyes, and the best Dyes, too.

Maypole Soap Dyes

are the most economical. They both wash and dye—do not fade—and come in all colors.

Be sure your assortment is complete—you are sure to be asked for them.

As the name

"Codou"

typifies highest quality of

French Maccaroni

so the name

" Garofalo "

stamped on the package, means

Best Italian.

An Italian traveller upon seeing some Maccaroni in this country stamped Garofalo, said :

"Ah ! That's the Maccaroni."

Your customers will say the same.

KEEP A TIGHT REIN ON YOUR TEA TRADE

You can't get a good trade without good teas. If you keep a tight rein on quality, and never relax your vigilance in seeing that this most important line always "toes the mark," the good trade follows as a matter of course.

Now, it is a well-known every day fact that supplies the purest, the cleanest, and in every way the best tea the world produces. Draw your own conclusions. It is easily seen what is the best to stock with. The sure road to success lies through

Japan Teas

Payne's Pharaoh Cigar

The first profit you make from the sale of the Pharaoh Cigar is simply the stepping stone which leads to other profits—the Pharaoh has never yet failed to satisfy the most critical smoker. It has a clear Havana filler (each cigar is the same clear Havana) and the choicest Sumatra wrapper that money will buy. It burns freely and is sweet down to the last whiff.

The customer who is once a buyer of the Pharaoh pays you a steady profit because, after that, he will buy no other.

It pays to sell the "Pharaoh."

VOL. XIII. TORONTO AND MONTREAL, FEBRUARY 17, 1899. NO. 7

LEGAL DECISIONS OF TRADE INTEREST.

(Reported by Peers Davidson, Esq., of the Montreal Bar, for MacLean's Trade Journals.)

AT its last session, the Court of Appeals at Montreal rendered judgment in the now celebrated case of Mr. T. E. Vasey against The Montreal Gas Company, which has been pending in the courts since 1892.

On December 15, 1886, these parties entered into a contract by which the company agreed to deliver to Mr. Vasey all the ammoniacal liquor manufactured at the company's works, in Griffintown and at Hochelaga, and also the company's spent oxide of iron, for the purpose of enabling him to manufacture sulphate of ammonia. The contract was made for a term of five years from May 1, 1887. Mr. Vasey, during the negotiations, asked that the contract should be for a term of ten years, and subsequently reduced his proposal to seven years. The company refused to make the contract for more than five years, but on December 20, 1896, the president of the company wrote on its behalf to Mr. Vasey the following letter :

"Referring to the contract made with you on the 15th inst, for the sale of ammoniacal liquor, I may say that if we are satisfied with you as a customer, we would favorably consider an application from you at the expiration of the term for the renewal of the same, for another period."

On May 1, 1887, Mr. Vasey entered upon his work under the contract, during the continuance of which he had a considerable amount of trouble with the company in reference to the strength of the liquor they furnished, and other details. On the expiry of the five years, namely, on May 1, 1892, the company refused to renew the contract. Mr. Vasey sued for $32,280 damages, partially for failure of the company to comply with all the terms of the contract, in reference to the strength of the liquor, and so on, and partly for $20,000 damages, which he alleged to have been caused to him by the company's refusal to renew the contract. The former grounds of damages are technical and scientific questions, and have no great interest for the purposes of this report. The main interest of the case for outsiders is in connection with the interpretation of the letter of the president of The Montreal Gas Company, above quoted.

Mr. Justice Mattiew, in the Superior Court, held that Mr. Vasey was a satisfactory customer, that the company was bound to renew the contract, and condemned it to pay Mr. Vasey $10,000 damages for its failure to do so. The majority of the Court of Appeals, the Honorable the Chief Justice dissenting, confirmed this judgment, and the various opinions delivered as to the real meaning and intent of the company's letter are most interesting. Mr. Justice Wurtele, in delivering the judgment of the Court, said :

"Mr. Vasey asked for a contract for a term of 10 years, and then reduced his proposal to a term at least of seven years. The company, however, on December 15, 1887, signed a specific contract for five years, but, on December 20, gave Mr. Vasey the letter by which it stated that if it was satisfied with him as a customer it would favorably consider an application for a renewal of his contract for another period. We have to apply to this letter the ordinary rules of interpretation, and, under Art. 1014 C.C., it must be held that the letter was intended to have some effect, and certainly the effect to be given would be a renewal of the contract for a period of two years, which was the term which was mentioned during the negotiations between the parties for the contract, provided the company was satisfied with Mr. Vasey as a customer. There must have been some object in giving this letter, and that object could only be a renewal of the contract. From its very terms, the parties could not have any other object or intention in view. We have now to consider if the company could contend that it was not satisfied with Mr. Vasey as a customer, and, therefore, that it was not bound to renew his contract. Sometime before the expiry of the term of five years, the company advertised for tenders for the sale of the ammoniacal liquor which it produced, and it requested Mr. Vasey to make a tender, and even prolonged the term for the production of tenders in order to allow him to amend the tender which he had made. Now, if the company had not been satisfied with Mr. Vasey as a customer, it certainly would not have requested him to make a tender for the purchase of its ammoniacal liquor. If it had been dissatisfied with him, instead of asking for a tender from him, it would have declined to accept any unsolicited tender which he might have made. This circumstance clearly shows that the company was satisfied with Mr. Vasey's conduct during the time he held the contract for five years, and it cannot, therefore, now pretend that it was not obliged to renew the contract, in conformity with the obligation assumed by it under the letter of December 20, 1887. Then, the company brought witnesses to show that his conduct and the way in which he managed his business rendered him an undesirable customer, but it failed to establish this pretension. The majority of this Court are of opinion that a valid obligation was incurred by the company, under the terms of the letter in question, and that no reason has been established why it should escape from its responsibility."

The Honorable the Chief Justice dissented from this opinion, as follows : "My learned colleagues see in this letter an obligation to renew the contract on its expiry, if it had been well filled by Vasey, and, arriving at this conclusion, they confirm that part of the judgment which has granted to Vasey $10,000 damages, resulting from the refusal of the company to renew. They consider this letter as forming part of the contract, and as being one of its conditions. I cannot concur in this opinion. The letter was given in the sense mentioned by Vasey in his evidence. If we are satisfied with you as a customer, we will take into favorable consideration a request on your part to renew. One can see that the satisfaction which the customer gives to the merchant does not only consist in the accomplishment of the obligations which he has contracted, but also in the interest which the merchant has to transact with him, and in the profit which he makes. 'If we are satisfied with you as a customer' is not the equivalent of 'if you carry out your contract well.' In any event, 'to take into favorable consideration' the request to renew a contract is not to contract to renew it. To take into consideration supposes a deliberation, and if the company has reserved for itself the right to deliberate, even in the case where it would be satisfied with Vasey, it has reserved to itself the right to use its discretion and to consult its own interests at the time of the request to renew. It seems to me that a much more formal expression would be necessary than this which one finds in the letter, to force us to conclude that the president of the company wished, five years in advance, to bind the discretion of the directors, and oblige them to renew the contract, even to the detriment of the company."

Mr. Justice Hall, in supporting the remarks of Mr. Justice Wurtele on this point, says :

"The Chief Justice's interpretation of the letter of the December 20 applies the word 'satisfactory' to the contract, rather than to respondent's execution of it.

"It appears to me, first, that if that had been the intention, the word contract would have been used, and not the word customer, and, secondly, that a letter in that sense would have been meaningless, as, naturally, the Gas Company could have been relied on to renew a contract which gave them satisfaction. It should be noted that, in so far as the financial result of the contract was concerned, the gas company could appraise its satisfactoriness as well at its beginning as at its end. They were not assuming one dollar of expense, and only giving to Vasey the use of waste products, to be worked up at his own expense, and only giving to Vasey the use of waste products, to be worked up at his own risk and expense, and every pound sterling which his process secured for them was a pound of clear profit; but, then, former experience, both in dealing with these products themselves and in farming them out to contractors, had been unsatisfactory, principally for the reason that the methods of manufacture previously in use had proved noxious to the health of people residing in the vicinity, and had consequently provoked the interference and complaint of the municipal authorities. Vasey assured them an exemption from this inconvenience, under his improved methods of manufacture, and was so confident in this respect that, although insisting at first upon a contract for ten, or, at least, eight years, he finally consented to a formal contract for five years only, with the company's assurance that, if he proved satisfactory as a customer, his application for a renewal of the contract would be favorably entertained. It appears to me that both the contracting parties took the same view of the letter when it was written, and that it is only the discovery that more can now be realized from these by-products that has induced the gas company to endeavor to give to the letter an interpretation at variance both with its natural import and their own original understanding of it."

Thus judges disagree. The case has been taken to the Privy Council. Its decision will be awaited with considerable interest.

SACREDNESS OF APPOINTMENTS.

THERE is one thing that is almost as sacred as the marriage relation—that is, an appointment. A man who fails to meet his appointment, unless he has a good reason, is practically a liar, and the world treats him as such.

"I give it as my deliberate and solemn conviction," said Dr. Fitch, "that the individual who is tardy in meeting an appointment will never be respected or successful in life."

"If a man has no regard for the time of other men," said Horace Greely, "why should he have for their money? What is the difference between taking a man's hour and taking his five dollars? There are many men to whom each hour of the business day is worth more than five dollars."

When President Washington dined at four, new members of Congress invited to dine at the White House would sometimes arrive late, and be mortified to fine the President eating. "My cook," Washington would say, "never asks if the visitors have arrived, but if the hour has arrived."

When his secretary excused the lateness of his attendance by saying that his watch was too slow, Washington replied: "Then you must get another watch, or I another secretary."

Franklin said to a servant who was always late, but always ready with an excuse: "I have generally found that the man who is good at an excuse is good for nothing else."

On the eve of Nelson's departure on a famous cruise, his coachman said that the carriage would be at the door punctually at six o'clock. "A quarter before," said the admiral. "I have always been a quarter of an hour before my time, and it has made a man of me."

Napoleon once invited his marshals to dine with him, but as they did not arrive at the moment appointed, he began to eat without them. "Gentlemen," said he, "it is now past dinner, and we will immediately proceed to business."—Farm and Fireside.

LOOKING BACKWARDS.

JUST 30 years ago Salem had its birth and christening, the little Salem on the western border of civilization, Salem, where two crooked trails met. Yes, Salem because we named that cross roads, Salem. Wern't we proud of it? How I remember we all pitched in and built the first house. Then followed John Fellow's store; and how I remember John, a big, good-souled fellow. But John's heart was bigger than his whole stock of groceries and supplies, but that was Salem of the sixties and not Salem of to-day.

We had to have a post office, and, as John's store was the only store, of course John Fellows was made postmaster, and this honor carried with it the duty of a sixty-mile ride each week for mail. We had to have a school teacher, and, as John's store was the most central point, we just had to make John the master of the rising generations; and then you know John had the best education, and we all felt John knew more law than any of us, for he knew Blackstone backwards and forwards, and then he could make up more good law than was ever found in law books, so we made him Justice.

Salem began to grow, and holding office for glory hadn't made John Fellows rich by any means. For generations the Fellows had been merchants, and the inborn taste for merchandising, more than the bright prospect of hoarding a fortune from the little following of this new colony, gave Salem its first general store and made John Fellows our first merchant. That was thirty years ago, gentlemen.

Last summer, business called me west and Salem found me a visitor. There, on that same corner, almost as I had left him, save the gray hair and wrinkles, John Fellows was running the same general store, some of the same old goods were on the shelf and that old wood stove hadn't seen its feet for tobacco filth in all these long years. The disappointment of this scene was almost as great as if I had found all the old landmarks removed.

To think that thriving John Fellows, the brightest fellow in Salem of 30 years ago, had drifted into a positive channel of degeneracy set me to thinking, and I asked myself the cause of it. The next morning, while paying my farewells to all my friends, and especially John, I happened upon a salesman representing an eastern manufacturing concern. His talk seemed trained on system, and I felt, as I glanced around John's store, that the salesman had a hard problem. "Fifty thousand of them in use to-day in every State in the Union," I could hear him say. "It saves every ounce, absolutely no errors, a system, a system, this is the great money weight system." Then I knew what John was up against, and, gentlemen, I'll promise you I missed my train helping this fellow whip John into harness.

I was back at Salem again this summer, and the improvement in John's store amazed me almost as much as its deplorable condition of the year before. The money weight system did it. He had systematized his business, gotten rid of all his old stock, and had freshened up everything, and, best of all, was getting his just profits on all his merchandise for the first time in 30 years. Naturally, I am an advocate of Computing Scales. I have seen its good effects, and I cheerfully recommend the money weight system to any man in business who does not want to fall into the habits of my friend, John Fellows, of Salem. The Money Weight Computing scales are made by The Computing Scale Co., Dayton, Ohio.

JAPAN TEA IN CANADA.

Editor CANADIAN GROCER,—We read with a very great deal of interest the letter of Mr. C. M. Bernard, re the increasing imports of Japan tea. He, no doubt, wishes your readers to infer that the consumption of Japan tea is increasing in Canada because the imports are increasing. But Mr. Bernard is quite well aware that the increased imports do not mean increased consumption. But as some of your readers may not be aware of this we would like to explain it to them. In the first place, there is 10c. per lb. duty on all tea going into the United States, and, secondly, there is no system of bonded warehouses in the United States as we have in Canada. In other words, a man has to pay the duty of 10c. per lb. on every pound of tea that he imports as soon as it lands in the United States. Consequently, many of the American importers are importing their tea and storing it in Canada, in other words, making Canada their bonded warehouse. As soon as the tea is sold by sample in New York, Chicago or other cities, it is ordered on from Smith's Falls, where it is stored, and the duty is practically not paid one hour before the tea is needed. In this way the American importer saves an outlay of capital for six or eight months, and also the interest on the capital, both of which items are a very important consideration. This accounts for the extra imports into Canada, which are not at all intended for Canadian consumption. Practically every wholesale and retail dealer and every commercial traveler knows that the consumption of Japan tea is quickly falling off in Canada, and that Ceylon and Indian tea is fast increasing.

PROFIT IN SMALL ENTERPRISES.

THE world has become so used to seeing success as the result of immense aggregation of capital, that it has seemed to many as if this were the only way in which in modern times success can be achieved, says Boston Budget. It has also seemed that the progress of accummulating of capital continued long enough would absorb all the world's wealth, leaving it in comparatively few hands, while the mass of mankind are reduced to the most extreme poverty and destitution. That there are facts that appear to confirm this theory is true, but if we look closely we shall see that these are only isolated cases, and that the great wealth accumulated by one generation is much oftener scattered than preserved by the generations which follow.

It is carelessly supposed by many that the greater facilities which large capital gives for cheaper production will continue to enable them not only to crush out smaller enterprises of the same kind, but also help pile up more capital indefinitely to repeat the process. That the small establishment can be crushed out by this ruinous competition is unquestionably and unfortunately true. But even the laws of trade have their compensations. There are limitations beyond which the great enterprise cannot pass without becoming unwieldy and resulting in losses rather than profits. Sooner or later, most of the great trusts which have swallowed up numerous smaller enterprises are themselves forced to the wall.

The law of competition is a destructive one, and ultimately the great trust becomes its victim. It is not possible for any man, however great his executive ability, to conduct all parts of an immense business with the care and economy that it is possible to use in a small business. The large capital can buy material more cheaply than the small capital can do. It may secure improved machinery, which the small capital cannot afford. In this is its great advantage, and in some kinds of business it is a controlling one. But in proportion as labor is thus made more effective, it must also be paid better wages, or if it is not it will soon become so much less effective that something of the gain from use of abundant capital will be lost.

There are comparatively few men who can successfully conduct very large enterprises. Even if they do, sickness and ultimate death will remove them from their supervision. Still fewer of the children of the very wealthy who have gained large fortunes have the ability to keep what their parents have earned. Most of the managers of the world's great enterprises to-day were poor boys in their youth. It is probable that their grandchildren or great-grandchildren will return to something like the poverty from which their ancestors escaped. It will probably always be so. There is always a tendency, while a man continues to enjoy great success, for him to push his enterprises farther and farther each year, until they finally become greater than he can manage, and, in his failure, all, and often more than all, he has gained, is lost. When the individual has thus failed, all the advantage of his great enterprise has been to the public and to the world rather than to himself.

Some years ago the accumulation of large landed estates in few hands was popularly regarded as a source of danger to the happiness of the great majority of the people. Most of these landed estates in the country have been broken up because it was unprofitable to keep them. No man can either successfully manage thousands of acres of farming land, nor can he hire it done so as to make even a third of what the same money could earn. To farm exclusively by hired help, be the farm large or small, is the surest way to poverty. It is still true, as Franklin long ago put into Poor Richard's Almanac :

> "He who by the plow would thrive, > Himself must either hold, or drive."

The great bonanza farm, cultivated by steam, and whose crop was harvested by machinery, steadily grew poorer every year until its fertility decreased beyond the point where it could be profitably cultivated. It was no real benefit to the country, for the temporary glut in the wheat market reduced prices so that no farmer could grow wheat with profit, and this has led to the general stagnation of markets of all agricultural products that has resulted in injury to every kind of business. It is a good thing for the country that the era of bonanza farming has passed away, probably never to return. The only farming which can be in the long run successful, must be in small farms under the close management of their owners.

This is, we believe, true in much greater degree than is commonly supposed of other kinds of business than farming. The man who has a great amount of capital can make a large show, and while his money lasts he may think he is making money. In a very large business a slight amount of difference between cost and selling price may turn to loss what was expected to be profit. In manufacturing this is constantly happening. Old machinery has to be replaced by new, and often at an expense that is impossible to those whose capital has been impaired. It is hardly less ruinous to those who invest in it. There are new improvements constantly being made which all mean increasing expense in buying improved machinery, which, in its turn, is likely to be superseded, after a year or two, by something else.

The economy of nature is, in the long run, against monopolies of every kind. There have been in all ages wealthy men who at the time seemed to draw all the world's wealth to themselves. But in two or three generations their wealth has disappeared. The business of the world always has been, and, we believe, always will be mainly conducted by men who have neither the ability nor the capital to manage large enterprises, but who have the kinds of business that they can keep well in hand, and at the same time devote most of their energies to the improvement of their own characters and to the care and rearing of their children, who, after all, are the best hope of the country and the world. It is from homes made by men of comparatively moderate means that the greatest benefactors of the world have always come, and this will probably always be the fact. -Boston Budget.

WHY THE PICKLE DUTY SHOULD BE CHANGED.

IN advocating the removal of, or at least a reduction in, the duty on pickles, THE CANADIAN GROCER is not actuated by any desire to prevent the establishment of the pickle industry in Canada. On the contrary, its whole purpose is to see the industry cultivated.

But the pickle industry as it stands today in this country has not prospered. The protection which the 35 per cent. tariff affords appears to have knocked all aspirations out of the average pickle manufacturer.

For the low-grade pickles which thev make, the Canadian manufacturers have the field largely to themselves, and only one here and there essays to even attempt to put up what may be termed an article of fair quality.

The thing to be desired is an awakening of them up to an ambition to put up a pickle as good as the best imported. And we have concluded that the best way to do this is to partly or altogether remove the duty. Then the price of the imported article will be reduced, and the few people who buy the cheap, low grade-Canadian pickle will be less disposed to do so. Consequently, there will be less encouragement to make them.

Then, like some individuals when left to their resources, the pickle manufacturers may develop more laudable ambition.

Canada can produce excellent vegetables, and, if she can do this, skilled and enterprising men ought to be able to successfully manufacture first-class pickles.

In the meantime, we are not putting up first-class pickles, while the majority of consumers are using what are first-class pickles, but of British and foreign make.

With this condition of affairs obtaining year after year, why should the duty of 35 per cent. be maintained for the purpose of protecting an industry noted, not for the goodness, but for the poorness of its products ?

BUYING GREEN TEAS FOR THE UNITED STATES.

Buyers from the United States have been on the Toronto market during the past week in search of China green teas, and they are understood to have secured about 600 half chests.

This has helped to appreciate the value of these teas in the "Queen City," and descriptions which were, three weeks ago, selling at 11 to 12c., are now firm at 13 to 14c. per pound.

China green teas are decidedly scarce in the United States, and shipments to the North American continent, this season, are only 12,000,000 pounds, compared with 20,000,000 pounds last season.

STRONG POSITION OF SULTANAS.

Sultana raisins are occupying an undoubtedly strong position. Prices have advanced materially lately in Smyrna, where stocks have been reduced to 1,100 tons. Last year, at the same time, the quantity was 4,000 tons.

Stocks elsewhere are also light. In London, England, they are estimated to be 1,100 tons less than a year ago, while in Germany the quantity is limited. Some weeks ago, the stocks in New York were estimated to be only about 1,800 boxes. The high prices ruling are being freely paid in England and Germany.

Stocks of Sultana raisins in Canada are practically nil, but the demand is likewise.

REMEDY FOR TRADING STAMPS.

RECOURSE to the Legislature against the trading stamp companies is being taken by some of the States in the American Union, and in Canada there is a disposition to imitate.

Unsound in business principles the trading stamp scheme undoubtedly is. Anything which encourages people to expect something for nothing is bad ; and this is what the trading stamp and other similar schemes do if they do anything.

Then, the retail merchant not only acts as salesman for the goods of the promoters of such schemes, but, what is more, he pays for them.

We have thus the unique spectacle of a salesman paying for the privilege of selling goods instead of he himself being paid for doing so.

What a splendid thing it would be if the retailers could induce their clerks and wholesalers their travelers to work upon the same principle !

It is just a question, however, as to whether Legislative interference is possible. If our memory serves us right, in one or more States of the American Union, legislation of this character has been declared unconstitutional. At any rate it is doubtful whether the Legislature could be induced to enact such a measure.

What is wanted more than legal interference is a determination on the part of merchants to have nothing to do with trading stamps, street car coupons, or other similar devices for ensnaring the retail merchant.

Let two or three merchants in a locality agree in the matter and others will soon follow. There is a general dissatisfaction with the system, and it only requires a few determined, strong-willed men to lead to induce a stampede.

To resort to law is an admission on the part of merchants that they do not possess the necessary will power to keep from doing that which they know they should not do, and that therefore they must appeal to the Legislature to have laws enacted which shall prevent their being tempted.

He who would rise in the world should do his own elevating.

UNION OF CANADA AND NEWFOUNDLAND AS A BUSINESS PROPOSITION.

THE question of the union of the Dominion of Canada and Newfoundland is again being mooted. Since the question was last seriously considered, four years ago, it has been in a comatose condition. It can scarcely, however, be a dead one until at least one of two things take place, namely, the consummation of the political union with Canada—or annexation to the United States. To continue as it is at present, cut off politically from the rest of the Dominion, is unnatural. The latter alternative, however, is one to which Canada could not consent.

The obstacle which caused the negotiations of 1895 to fail was chiefly, if not altogether, the difference of opinion between the Commissioners representing the two countries in regard to the amount of the debt of Newfoundland which the Dominion of Canada should assume. This difference in the amount was $5,000,000, the Dominion being willing to assume $10,000,000, while the Newfoundlanders stood for $15,000,000.

Fifteen million dollars for an island which was at that time in an unhealthy condition financially, to say nothing of the perplexing French shore fishing question unsolved seemed exhorbitant. For territorial aggrandizement, too, it was a high price to pay.

But judged from a purely business standpoint it did not appear to THE CANADIAN GROCER then, nor does it now, as an exorbitant sum.

Newfoundland is not a dreary island which has been blown into the mouth of the St. Lawrence by boisterous Atlantic waves, with a fringe of fishing huts around its coast.

Newfoundland is rich in minerals and rich in lumber, to say nothing of the richness of its fisheries. Its iron ores promise to become as famous as those of the Mesaba range of Lake Superior. Then, as a transfer station between the American and European continents, the island seems destined to become of considerable importance.

The import trade aggregates about $7,000,000 annually, and its exports are not far below that figure. The flour imports of the island are getting on to $1,500,000, of which Canada does not contribute one-third.

The figures for the last fiscal year are not yet to be had, but during the last five years Canada's trade with Newfoundland has been steadily declining in both exports and imports.

In 1897 the exports to Newfoundland were $1,692,798. In 1893 they were $2,594,633, and in 1894, $2,818,592. The imports from Newfoundland were $459,906 in 1897, while in 1894 they reached nearly $900,000.

But, with the two countries one and no tariff walls to interfere, there would undoubtedly be an expansion, and a material one at that, in the trade between Newfoundland and the Dominion.

The interest on $15,000,000, supposing that to be the amount of the public debt which Canada assumed, would be less than $500,000. This, the value of the flour alone exported to Newfoundland would pay.

Last year the value of the flour exported was $440,197, but that was an exceptionally light amount. In 1894 nearly $1,000,000 worth of flour was shipped to the island from Canada.

Of course, the interest on the debt is not the only item of expenditure the Dominion would necessarily incur on coming into possession of Newfoundland. There would be the salary of the governor and other officials. But that is not sufficient to prevent the acquisition of Newfoundland being undertaken as a sound proposition.

RASPBERRY PULP IN GREAT BRITAIN.

THE Ontario Department of Agriculture has issued a special bulletin regarding the demand for fruit pulp in Great Britain and the possibility of opening up a market for Canadian fruits.

After THE CANADIAN GROCER had brought the matter before the public and shipments of raspberry pulp had been made, the Ontario Agricultural Department made inquiries, and have received information of value from Mr. H. Watson, curator of the Canadian section of the Imperial Institute, London.

Mr. Watson writes that the demand for raspberry pulp varies considerably from year to year. The price, at present, is in the neighborhood of $200 per long ton (2,240 lb.), but $125 per long ton is about the average figure.

W. H. Idrins, of John Idrins & Sons, Evesham, Worcestershire, one of the largest jam-making firms in England, was anxious to secure supplies from Canada, and would not only give full information and buy if samples and prices were satisfactory, but, should there appear to be possibilities of a considerable trade, would visit Canada next summer.

There is always a good demand for black currants in the whole fruit. Some pulp has sold at $200 per ton, but $125 is the average figure.

There is a certain demand for strawberries in the whole fruit, packed in tins and jars. They are worth about $110 per ton.

The bulletin issued by the Agricultural Department can be secured on application.

VALENCIA RAISIN SITUATION.

A CABLE from Trenor & Co., Denia, quotes selected Valencia raisins at 18s. 6d. per cwt. It is interesting to note that this figure is only slightly below the prices at which business was done during the holiday season, and represents a laid down cost as high as the goods are selling at in this country.

Some other shippers of good repute are quoting lower prices, but a letter from the above-mentioned house explains that the fruit now in Spain is not keeping well, and that, consequently, they are compelled to ask prices above current quotations for fruit that has not "candied."

Very little business is being done in Canada for importation, and wholesalers who are short of stock are buying from their neighbors who are better supplied.

A feature of the business this season, although it is only different in degree from that of other seasons, has been that the best fruit, which naturally costs the highest price, has sold the most readily, whilst the bulk of the goods remaining in first hands consists of the poorer qualities.

It is, however, sometimes difficult for buyers to avoid taking advantage of the low offers of shippers not well known, and while, when the season is in full swing, a large quantity of this fruit is distributed, it does not appear to be as easy to dispose of it during the quiet periods.

GOWANS, KENT & CO.'S FIRE.

THOUGH the fire which burned to the ground the large premises of Gowans, Kent & Co., wholesale crockery dealers, etc., Toronto, was one of the fiercest and largest that has visited that city for some time, the loss caused by it has been overestimated by the daily press. A representative of THE CANADIAN GROCER was informed by the firm that the loss would not be over $150,000. The insurance amounted to about $104,000. The loss to the building, which belonged to the Kent estate, amounted to between $15,000 and $16,000. On it $7,000 insurance was carried. As soon as weather permits, the construction of a new warehouse will be commenced.

In the meantime, the firm has opened up at 25 Wellington street west, where they hope to soon have displayed a large stock of goods which had been received by the firm from abroad. but which, fortunately, had been stored outside because of lack of room in the Front street warehouse.

Though 20,000 cases of goods were in store outside and on the way to the city, a large number of repeat orders were sent out on the evening of the fire, on Friday last. As manufacturers have, in many cases, given these orders priority, the firm will very shortly have a complete stock of goods of the latest styles in warehouse.

Nearly all the firm's books were saved from the fire, being in the vaults, so it is expected that nearly all orders will be filled in their entirety on the day of shipment.

The trouble and inconvenience necessitated by the removal of such a large business at this season of the year is such, however, that it is but fair that the trade should bear with any small delays in the shipments of orders.

VISITOR FROM GREENWOOD, B.C.

MR. R. SMAILES, of the firm of Rendell & Co., Greenwood, B.C., has been in Toronto during the last few days. He is in the east in the interest of his firm, and has already visited Montreal.

Greenwood is in the Boundary Creek district, which attracted so much attention at the last session of the Dominion Parliament, when C.P.R. influence succeeded in denying a charter to Corbin's proposed road. "But I think," said Mr. Smailes, "that the charter will be obtained at the next session of Parliament." Greenwood is a rapidly growing town. In an air line it is about 50 miles from Rossland and about 150 by road.

"Three years ago when I passed through Greenwood, there was nothing there," explained Mr. Smailes. "To-day there are seven hotels and four under construction when I came out the other day. There are several stores in the town, and the population is about 800."

"Van Horne," continued Mr. Smailes, "says that Greenwood is the centre of the richest gold-mining country in America. One peculiar feature about the mines in our district is this: Every claim in Boundary Creek which has been worked with machinery has improved with depth. And another thing, we have not yet been cursed with wild-cat schemes."

Then Mr. Smailes began to moralize. "I cannot understand," he said, "how merchants in the east, merchants who are far-seeing and clever business men, can be trapped into allowing their names to become associated with wild-cat mining schemes. To my mind, they should decline to have anything to do with companies upon whose properties no development whatever had been done."

Do not defer doing what you should do because you have not time to do it.

SERIES OF ARTICLES ON COFFEE.

Coffee and its various stages of growth and manufacture is an interesting topic to grocerymen generally. Next week, the first of a series of articles contributed to THE CANADIAN GROCER by Chase & Sanborn, the well-known coffee firm, will appear, and it and the articles which follow will treat of the fragrant bean from all phases.

Stick to business, but do not allow it to stick to you after business hours.

A BROKER'S NEW OFFICES.

F. W. Hudson & Co., brokers and commission merchants, have removed from Church street to No. 48 Wellington street east, Toronto. The offices, which have been fitted up especially for the firm, are bright and attractive. In the front are the sample-room and general office, nicely furnished and decorated. Then comes Mr. Hudson's private office, with decorated ceiling, walls papered in green and gold with Japanese dado paneling, while a bright red carpet covers the floor. In the rear is a warehouse about 60 feet long, running to a lane, in which the firm is carrying stock.

A dollar in the hand is often worth two on the books.

A UNIQUE BUSINESS DEVICE.

A cable from London England says; "Curious disclosures were heard in the case of Ehrmann Brothers, wine merchants, against an army officer, Capt. Macfarlane, whom they engaged to introduce their wines to the royalty and nobility. The present claim arose from wine which was sent to a nobleman about to be married. Macfarlane defended the case in person, and read a statement that he had introduced the wine to royalty and the nobility, but afterward his connection with the plaintiffs ceased. The plaintiffs then sued to obtain his letters from members of the Royal family, to be used as testimonials, but they lost. It was understood, he said, that the wines now sued for were a gift. On the death of a certain member of the Royal family, he said, they had sued for payment for wines which they had sent with a view to getting a testimonial. Macfarlane added that they surreptitiously obtained his father's crest and coat of arms and had them copied for a label on goods named 'Macfarlane whiskey.' The judge non-suited the plaintiffs."

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. Wm. Merser, grocer, Bluevale, Ont., was in Toronto on business this week.

Mr. Hugh Ryan, who died in Toronto on Monday, was a brother of the late Wm. Ryan, and a shareholder in The Wm. Ryan Co., Limited, commission merchants, etc., Toronto.

Mr. J. C. Horner, who has been on the road for The "Salada" Tea Co. for the last five years, has severed his connection with this firm, having secured the agency for The N. K. Fairbank Co., of Chicago. On retiring from the firm he was presented with a seal ring as a mark of the regard and kindly feeling that has existed for the term of his engagement with "Salada."

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

GROCERY QUOTATIONS BY WIRE.

Occasionally, just as THE GROCER has gone to press, changes in prices are made in staple lines of goods, which a good many in the trade hear nothing of till the next issue of the paper. Should, therefore, any of the readers of this journal desire to ascertain, between regular issues, the prevailing quotation on any staple line, it will, on application, be furnished by return mail or by telegraph; if by the latter method, at the cost of the person seeking the information.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

TORONTO, Feb. 16, 1899.

GROCERIES.

BUSINESS during the past week has not been of a very active nature. At the same time, however, for the month of February, a fair business is being done. February is usually one of the quiet months in the year, but there seems to be no doubt that the volume of business so far this year exceeds that of 1898 for the same period. The feature of the wholesale trade during the past week has been the strength of the tea market, prices generally ruling higher than at the time of our last review. Tea is also the most active line of the wholesale grocery list. Nothing new has developed in the canned goods situation, the volume of business and prices remaining much about the same as a week ago. Wholesalers are doing a good business in green coffees, but they are not, at the moment, buying a great deal, and the outside markets have taken an easier turn again. The sugar market is, on the whole, dull, although wholesalers are doing a fair business for this time of the year. The outside markets have again taken a slightly easier turn. White pepper has again advanced in the primary markets. Currants are slightly easier in the primary market, but Valencia raisins, on the other hand, are firmer, and Sultana raisins have advanced considerably. The prune market is firm, and local wholesalers report that business is fairly good in this line, although other descriptions of foreign dried fruits are quiet.

CANNED GOODS.

The situation in canned goods remains practically the same as a week ago. There has been a little more inquiry from wholesalers for canned fruits, but the prices which they are willing to pay are below the views of the holders, and few, if any, transactions have taken place in consequence. At any rate, the canned fruit trade is of very little importance on this market. The inquiry from the wholesalers for canned fruits is explained by the fact that the wholesalers themselves have been receiving more inquiries, particularly for pears, peaches, plums and strawberries. There has also been some inquiry from retailers for canned vegetables, and there has been a little business done. A good deal more, however, could be done if wholesalers would modify their figures, but this they refuse to do. Tomatoes are held firm at 85 to 90c. per dozen, corn at 90c. to $1, and peas at 75c. up. In the sales of canned vegetables which are being made, the orders are principally of a sorting-up nature. Canned salmon is quiet and unchanged. Advices from England show that the ruling price there for Fraser River talls is 21s., and for flats 25s. This is equal to $4.65 for talls and $5.50 for flats, f.o.b. the Coast.

COFFEES.

Fresh shipments of green coffees have arrived during the week, and a good many samples appear to be offering. The outside markets have again taken a little easier turn, but there is no change locally. The volume of business here is still good.

See pages 29 and 30 for Toronto, Montreal, St. John, and Winnipeg prices current.

SUGARS.

The outside markets are again a little easier in regard to beet sugar, but cane is steady and unchanged. The statistical position of the sugar market, however, continues strong. Stocks in Europe and America at the end of last week were 2,544,639 tons, against 2,710,454 tons last year. The local market is unchanged, but there is not much business doing, although the volume is probably not smaller than usual at this time of the year.

RICE AND TAPIOCA.

Rice is still in fair demand at unchanged prices. Tapioca is strong, and prices on the outside markets are higher than those ruling here. One local jobber has recently sold to a New York house a shipment which he was bringing on for home trade, obtaining a better price than he could have here. The ruling price here to retailers is 3½c. for unbroken packages, and 4c. for broken. Sago is scarce.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

On account of the scarcity of medium and low grade syrups there is little business being done. There are a few gallons of molasses selling, principally at 25 to 28c. per gal.

SPICES.

The most interesting feature in the spice market is the firmness of pepper. A cable order for white pepper submitted at the prices ruling at last mail advices was refused and ¼c. per lb. more demanded. Black peppers are firm.

TEAS.

The feeling in regard to teas continues to gather strength. There have, this week, been some buyers of China green teas on the market from the United States and they have taken, it is understood, about 600 half-chests. Sales have also been made on local account at an advance of 1c. per lb. over the price asked a week ago. For instance, teas that were selling a week ago at from 11 to 12c. are now being held at from 13 to 14c. per lb. There is a fairly good trade being done in spot teas of Indian and Ceylon growth, and a little business is being done for importation, although the high price ruling in the outside markets, compared with those on the local market, preclude much business being done. There have been a few inquiries for China black teas, and a few sales have been made at full prices. The Japan tea market is firm. Inquiries have been heard during the week for teas at about 16c. These are practically not to be had. Consequently, the volume of business in Japan teas is light.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS—There is very little doing either for importation or on local account, and advices from the primary market note a rather easier feeling in regard to price, although the opinion is that this is only a temporary affair.

VALENCIA RAISINS—A cable from Trenor & Co. quotes selected Valencia raisins at 18s. 6d. per cwt. This figure is only slightly below the price at which business was done during the holiday season, and represents a laid-down cost as high as the goods are selling here. Locally, there is very little business being done in Valencia raisins.

SULTANA RAISINS—Mail advices from Smyrna state that the Sultana raisin market has advanced considerably and that the present stock is only 1,100 tons, against 4,000 tons a year ago, while that at all commercial centres is light. In Canada, stocks are practically nil, but, owing to the high price, there is practically no demand.

PRUNES—The market continues firm. Prices in France have advanced 1c. per lb. from the lowest point, and Bosnia prunes are again fractionally higher. Californian prunes rule steady. The steamer William Storrs, which arrived last week, had on board 5,000 boxes of "Anchor" brand prunes for Canada. Wholesalers are not yet doing a great deal of business in prunes, but they look for a good sale shortly, particularly in view of the high price of dried and evaporated apples and of Californian evaporated.

CALIFORNIAN FRUITS — Although the price at which local wholesalers are quoting Californian apricots and peaches is lower than these goods can be laid down for now, yet the figure is too great to allow of much business being done. We quote peaches as high as 19c. for fancy grades. The idea as to price for Californian peaches is 10½c. per lb.

GREEN FRUITS.

The weather has for so long been too cold for handling fruits that an accumulation of orders is expected to cause a brisk trade when the first warm spell comes. Hardly a lemon could be bought early in the week, but a few cars, whch were stored in Buffalo, have been sent forward. There is an excellent demand for lemons and oranges. A decidedly firm feeling is noted in the orange market, especially in California, where an advance of 50c. is noted. The price of Valencias is 25c. higher this week. Apples are stiffening in value and are moving steadily at all the way from $2.50 to $4.50. Cranberries are quiet in movement, but firm in price, an advance of 50c. to $1 being noted. Onions are in excellent demand.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—The continued zero weather has decreased shipments of eggs, so that the demand fully absorbs the supply. An advance of 1c. brings the price to from 20 to 22c. for new-laid. Limed are steady at 15c., and held or cold-stored at 14 to 16c.

POTATOES—A steady feeling is noted. Offerings are liberal at 58 to 65c. f.o.b. cars at Toronto. The street market is unchanged, deliveries being fair at 65 to 70c.

POULTRY—There is a good demand for all bright stock. Geese and turkeys are coming in nicely at an advance of 1c. for turkeys. Chickens and ducks are 5c. dearer.

DRIED AND EVAPORATED APPLES — A fair jobbing trade is being done in dried apples at 6 to 6½c. for No. 1 stock. A moderate movement is reported at 5¼ to 5½c. at outside points. Evaporated apples are firmly held. Some transactions are noted at 8½c. for round lots delivered in Toronto. No. 1 stock is jobbing locally at 9½ to 10½c.

VEGETABLES—Cauliflower and pumpkins are done. Celery and cabbage have advanced 25c. Otherwise there is no change. We quote: Rhubarb, $1 to $1.50; greenhouse radishes, 50 to 70c. per dozen bunches; spinach, 75c. to $1 per bush.; green onions, 10 to 15c. per doz.; celery, 75c. to $1 per doz.; lettuce, 20 to 30c. doz. bunches; radishes, winter, 15 to 25c. doz. bunches; cabbage, per doz; 75c. to $1; parsley, 10 to 12½c. per doz. bunches; turnips, 25 to 30c. per bag; beets, 50 to 60c. per bag; parsnips, 60 to 75c. per bag; carrots, 50 to 75c. per bag; onions, Danvers, $1.25 to $1.50 per bag; butter squash, $2 to $2.50; Hubbard squash, $2.50 to $3; red cabbage, 50 to 75c.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—The demand for dairy large rolls and prints is improving. Tubs are still quiet. The export demand for creamery is excellent, sufficient to absorb all offering. Prices are firm. Prints and squares are steady at 21 to 22c., Toronto. Tubs are worth 19 to 19½c. in factories.

CHEESE—There continues to be a strong feeling. Choice early makes are held firmly, at 9½c. and late makes at 10 to 10½c.

GRAIN, FLOUR, BREAKFAST FOODS.

GRAIN—The wheat market is steady at 70 to 71c. for red and white at middle freight stations. The street market is fairly busy, with prices unchanged. We quote as follows: Wheat, white, 72 to 72½c.; red, 71 to 72c.; goose, 68 to 69c.; peas, 62 to 66c.; oats, 35 to 35½c.; barley, 49 to 51 c.; rye, 54 to 55c. No. 1

FISH.

The feature this week is the advance in oysters which are 25 to 35c. dearer than a week ago. We quote as follows: Frozen salmon trout, 7½ to 8c.; Man. whitefish, 6½c.; Man. perch, 5c.; Man. pike, 5c.; Man. pickerel, 6c.; fresh whitefish, 7½c.; trout, 8c. lb.; fresh perch, 4c. per lb.; steak cod, 6c.; flounders, 4c.; fresh herring, 4c.

At the wells, we quote F.O.B., barrels, 75c.; sacks of 200 lb., 50c. English salt is quoted at 48¾c. per sack of 154 lb.

SEEDS.

There is little doing. Red clover is worth $3 to $3.50, and alsike $2.50 to $3.75, outside. Little timothy is offered, but for bright, unhulled lots coming forward $1.60 to $1.75 is paid. Machine-threshed is quoted at $1 to $1.25.

MARKET NOTES.

Danvers onions are 25c. dearer.

Cranberries are 50c. to $1 dearer.

White pepper is cabled ¼d. per lb. dearer.

Dairy large rolls and prints are 1c. dearer.

French prunes are 1c. above the lowest price.

Pratt's astral petroleum has advanced 1c. per gallon.

Stocks of Sultana raisins are reduced to 1,100 tons in Smyrna.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

MONTREAL, Feb. 16, 1899.

GROCERIES.

THERE has been a fairly satisfactory volume of trade in general groceries during the week, and values generally are steady. Raw sugar has shown some fluctuation, but the price of the refined article has not altered. Syrups and molasses are firmly held, with a fair demand, while staple lines of canned goods, such as corn and tomatoes, are quite stiff. Dried fruits continue quiet, while spices, tea and coffee all exhibit a firm tendency.

SUGAR.

There has been a fair trade in refined sugar during the past week, and prices are unchanged, as last quoted. Both yellows granulated have shared in the inquiry. The raw market has recorded considerable fluctuation, beet being cabled lower on Monday, being easy and declining slowly, 1½d. down to 9s. 4½d. for February, and ¾d. lower for March at 9s. 5½d. Cane sugars were quiet but firm, refining at 10s. 3d. In New York raw was steady.

SYRUPS.

Canadian syrup in the wood is steady, with stocks light.

MOLASSES.

There is no change in the situation of the molasses market. Demand for round lots is moderate, but prices are firmly held, owing to exceptionally light supplies. Advices from the island in regard to new crop state that prices on Barbadoes are expected to open about the same as last season.

CANNED GOODS.

Inquiry for canned goods continues good, and the general tone is firm. Corn f.o.b. at the factory is firmly held at $1 per dozen, while tomatoes have changed hands during the week at 85 to 90c. in round lots, and peas 85c. Canned salmon rules steady, and a few thousand cases were closed out this week at $3.75 f.o.b. Coast.

RICE.

The demand for rice is steadily improving, and prices are steadily held.

DRIED FRUIT.

There have been few features in this branch. Demand is moderate for Valencias, and values are steady.

Californian raisins are unchanged also, with a fair inquiry.

Advices from Smyrna state that Sultana raisins have an advancing tendency, owing to small supplies.

Currants remain quiet and steady, and figs and dates are firmly held.

SPICES.

The firm feeling all round in spices is strongly maintained, especially for black pepper, round lots of Singapore and Penang changing hands at full prices last week. Nutmegs, cassia and Jamaica ginger also exhibit a marked firmness.

COFFEE.

Inquiry for coffee is fair, and quite a few fair-sized lots of Rio and Santos have changed hands during the week at 9 to 12c. These prices are, of course, for straight lots between first and second hands.

TEAS.

The market retains its strong tone, a free movement being noted in Japans from 14 to 17c. Greens, at 11 to 16c., have also been much inquired for, and black tea, at 14 to 18c., has passed from first to second hands to a fair extent. Ceylon teas have ruled rather quiet, but are steady.

GREEN FRUITS.

There have been few changes in the green fruit market. Oranges are in fair demand and steady, while lemons are firm. Almeria grapes are stiff and rather higher.

APPLES.

This market is stiff and rather better prices have been realized, sales being made this week up to $4.50 per bbl.

FISH.

In pickled fish, choice No. 1 N.S. herrings have advanced 25c. per bbl. to $4.75 to $5. B.C. salmon are firmer at $12.50 to $13, while hake and green cod are easier at $3.50 to $4.

The market is fairly brisk for fresh fish. Haddock and cod are ½c. per lb. higher at 3½ to 4c., and steak cod is ¼c. dearer at 4c. Manitoba pickerel and dore are easier at 5¼ to 5½c.. Tommy cods are stiffer at $1.25 per bbl., and fresh herrings are steady at $1.60 per 100 fish.

In smoked or prepared fish, haddies move at 6½ to 7c., and bay bloaters, 90c. to $1 per box.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—Business in eggs was quiet. Receipts of fresh were not large, but they were in excess of requirements, and the feeling for such is easy. Selected stock was offering at 22c., and as they run at 18 to 19c. per dozen. Stocks of Montreal limed are light, and within the next two weeks the market will likely be bare of such; in consequence, prices rule firm. Western limed and cold storage stock is offering in fair sized quantities, but meeting with a slow sale. We quote: No. 1 candled, 16 to 17c.; No. 2 do., 12 to 13c.; Montreal limed, 14½ to 16c.; western limed, 13½ to 14c.; western cold storage, 12½ to13½c., and culls, 10 to 11c. per doz.

POULTRY—Receipts of poultry are exceedingly light, and stocks on spot are also small; in consequence, trade is dull and values unchanged. We quote: Fresh killed turkeys, 11c.; frozen, 9 to 9½c.; choice fresh killed chickens, 9½ to 10c.; western frozen, mixed stock, 5½ to 6c.; ducks, 8 to 9c., and geese, 6 to 7c. per lb.

HONEY — Business in honey was quiet and the market was without feature. We quote: White clover comb, in 1-lb. sections, 8 to 8½c.; dark, 6½ to 7c.; white extracted, 7 to 7½c., and dark, 5 to 6c.

BEANS—There was no change in beans, sales being only in small lots to fill actual wants. We quote: Choice hand-picked, 95c. to $1 per bushel; primes, 85 to 90c.

ONIONS—Canadian onions are still booming, from $2.25 to $2.50 per bbl. having been realized.

DRESSED HOGS AND PROVISIONS.

There was no change in the situation of the provision market. The demand for pork and lard was limited, but a fair trade was done in smoked meats. We quote as follows: Canadian pork, in barrels, $15 to $15.50; pure Canadian lard, in pails, 7¼ to 7½c. per lb., and compound refined at 5 to 5½c. per lb. Hams, 10 to 12c., and bacon, 10½ to 11c. per lb.

Receipts of dressed hogs to-day were 839. Owing to the favorable weather of late, buyers have shown more disposition to operate, and a fair trade has been done. Receipts have been small, but supplies on spot are ample to fill all requirements. The tone of the market is firm with no change in prices to note. Carload lots of mixed weights are selling at $5 per 100 lb., and in a jobbing way light weights bring $5.50 to $5.65, and heavy, $5.25 to $5.40 per 100 lb.

CHEESE AND BUTTER.

CHEESE—Cheese was without special feature to-day, but the firm tone already noted is fully maintained, and holders, as a result of late transactions, are disposed to hold out for more money. A fair range is 9¾ to 10¼c., as to grade.

BUTTER—The butter market was firm, and holders of fancy late-made creamery are disposed to ask a fraction more than 20c., though we do not hear of its being realized.

FLOUR, GRAIN, ETC.

GRAIN—In the absence of American advices the local market was again very quiet and without any new feature to note. The demand for all lines of grain, both here and at country points, was slow and little business of importance was done. Round lots of oats were offered at points west of Toronto at 29c., and refused. On spot they were quoted at 32 to 32¼c. ex store.

FLOUR—There was no special phase to note in the flour market. The tone is steady and millers state that the demand from local and country buyers continues good for small lots to fill actual wants, but Ontario dealers report business quiet and of a small jobbing character. We quote: Winter wheat patents, $3.85 to $4.10; straight rollers, $3.60 to $3.70; in bags, $1.75 to $1.80; Manitoba patents, $4.10 to $4.20; strong bakers', $3.75 to $4.

MEAL—The meal market is in a somewhat unsettled condition. Some representatives of large Ontario mills claim they are making sales of fair-sized lots of rolled oats at $3.70 to $3.75 per bbl. and at $1.80 per bag, while others state that sales are slow, and quote $3.60 per bbl. and $1.75 per bag.

FEED—A fairly active business was done in feed. The demand is good, especially for bran, of which the offerings are not large, and prices are fully maintained. Ontario white wheat bran, in bulk, sold at $15 to $15.25, and shorts at $15.50 to $16 per ton; Manitoba bran, $16; shorts, $18, and mouille, $20 per ton, including bags.

HAY—There is nothing new in the baled hay market to note. Trade on spot is very quiet, but the movement is considerable on export account. We quote: No. 1, $5.50 to $6; No. 2 extra, $4.25 to $4.75; No. 2, clover mixture, $4; clover, $3.50 to $3.75.

MONTREAL NOTES.

Raw beet sugar is cabled much easier, but refined is unchanged locally.

Smyrna advices state that Sultana raisins have an advancing tendency.

Both pickled and fresh fish have shown an advancing tendency this week.

Lemons and Almeria grapes have advanced a point still higher under light stocks.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER,
ST. JOHN, N.B., Feb. 14, 1899.

ANOTHER quiet week has passed, but the lack of activity in business is being offset by that in politics. Great interest is being taken in the Provincial election to be held this week. In markets, there is little to note, as it takes active movement to change values, particularly in an upward way. The easy position of flour has much to do with the general feeling. Spices rule higher. For St. John trade, New York is an active competitor with English shippers for the business, while, in pepper and some other lines, direct importations are made. Tea continues to arrive freely, and brokers find a fairly active demand, low-priced goods being particularly sought after. Japans have a very light sale here. Fish continue high and scarce, but, as the season of active demand will soon be over, little change in price is expected.

OILS—There is a fair movement in burning oil. Prices show no change. As the time for the House to meet approaches there is talk of a change in duty, that is, a further reduction. In lubricating oils, contracts are being made for spring delivery. Prices are lower than last season and a very large business is expected. Wax is higher in price, which, of course, affects the price of candles. Axle grease shows no change in value. Paint oils are firm.

SALT—There is active business, while the imports of English coarse salt continue to increase. The business is in few hands, there being little or no profit to handle it in a small way. Prices are very low. In Canadian salt a better demand is to be noted. Prices this season show no change, and different shippers quote same price. We quote: Liverpool coarse, 38 to 40c.; English factory-filled, 90c. to $1; Canadian fine, $1 per bag; cheese and butter salt, bulk, $2.50 to $2.60 per bbl.; 5-lb. bags, $3 to $3.25 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $2.85 to $3 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 20c. each; 10-lb. wood boxes, 12c. each; cartons, $2 per case of 2 doz.; English bottled salt, $1.25 to $1.30 per doz; mineral rock salt, 60c. per 100 lb.

CANNED GOODS—Prices continue to be more firmly held, particularly corn, but there is likely to be still higher prices. In canned oysters there is an improved demand. Prices are firmer. Grated pineapple also shows a better demand. The sale is, however, limited. For eyeless and coreless, there is little sale. Peaches have a fair sale at steady prices. Apples show improved sale, and for gallon apples higher prices are expected. Canned fish is firmly held at the advance. The spring demand for canned meats has been largely supplied, though goods are not yet to hand. Prices are lower than last fall, but higher than this season last year. Still higher prices are looked for.

GREEN FRUITS—The weather is against business, being too cold, but otherwise there is a good sale, particularly for Valencia oranges, which keep low, and continue to improve in quality. The best oranges are still Jamaicas, which are choice. Californians have but light sale. Lemons sell freely, with rather higher prices expected. Cranberries are low for the season, but do not move freely. Apples keep high, but have a good, steady sale. Stocks held are light.

DRIED FRUITS—Prunes have the chief attention. There is a general feeling that prices will advance. Though some New York shippers are still quoting low figures, advices from the Coast favor an advance. Raisins are dull. There is but little demand and fair stocks are held. Prices are easy, though for best stock no change is expected. Seeded have a fair demand. Currants have but light sale, but price shows no change. Cleaned have what little demand there is. In figs, sale is light. Prices are hardly maintained. Dates are firm. Onions are higher, and stock is light. Peanuts are again advanced, while price in local market shows little change. The tendency is upward.

EVAPORATED APPLES—Are but in limited supply; price is rather higher. Dried show no change, and stock not large, but local sale very quiet.

SUGARS—There is but light sale in all lines. Western refineries are not competing for business, but offerings of foreign sugars, while few sales are effected, make enough competition to keep prices down. There is considerable American granulated still on the market.

MOLASSES — The market shows little change. Stocks never were smaller at this season, and new will arrive on an almost bare market, owing to but limited sale. Prices show no further advance. Some outside lots of Porto Rico continue to be offered. There is quite a good demand for New Orleans, but after all it is not a business, some two cars arriving so far. Quality is particularly good.

PRODUCE—Eggs are quoted rather higher, arrivals being light. There is, however, also, rather less demand. Buyers are particular about quality. Butter is firmer, that is, for good stock, but poor grades, of which considerable is held, move slow. Creamery has but limited sale. Cheese, while firmer, show little change.

FISH—Stock is very scarce, and price, are firmly held. Little change is, howevers expected, as season of chief demand is about over. Business in frozen fish has been very light, with prices high, particularly herring, receipts of which have been almost nothing. The weak spot is smoked herring, which show no change. Pickled shad are also low, and but a light business, while pickled herring are higher and very scarce. Dry fish hold their price. Smelt is scarce. The open season has been extended. We quote as follows: Large cod, $3.65 to $3.75; medium, $3.60 to $3.65; pollock, $1.75 to $1.80; Grand Manan pickled herring, $1.95 to $2; ½-bbl.; Canso, pickled, $5 per bbl.; boneless fish, 3½ to 5c.; cod, 7 to 7½c.; finnan haddies, 5 to 5½c.; smoked herring, 6 to 7c.; spring shad, $3.75 to $4 ½-bbl.; fall shad, $4.75 to $5 ½-bbl.; Shelburne, $3.75 per bbl.; Grand Manan herring, $3.70 to $3.80 per bbl.; quoddy, $3.50 per ½-bbl.; frozen smelt, 5 to 6c.; frozen pollock, 1¼ to 1½c.; frozen cod, 2¼ to 2½c.; frozen haddock, 2½ to 2¾c.; frozen herring, 90c. per 100; fresh cod, 2½c.; lobsters, small, 3 to 4c.; do., large, 10 to 12c.

PROVISIONS — There is a very light business doing. Prices keep firm. Pork has the larger sale. In lard, low prices are still quoted, but sales are light.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL—In flour, there is a fair steady sale, but the feeling does not favor higher figures and prevents large business. Our buyers demand good flour. In meal there are rather higher prices quoted. Local figures and those quoted by millers continue to be about the same. Oats are high. Feed is difficult to get in any quantity, and prices are high. Beans show rather more movement, with quite a range in shippers' prices, but the tendency seems upward. The continued high price asked for barley and split peas has caused stock to become low. Sales at the full advance are reported. Hay is still very low. Cornmeal is firm and moving freely. We quote as follows: Manitoba flour, $4.75 to $4.85, best Ontario, $4 to $4.20; medium, $3.75 to $3.85; oatmeal, $3.85 to $3.90; cornmeal, $2.20; middlings, $19 to $21; bran, $17 to $18; oats, 38 to 42c.; hand-picked beans, $1.10 to $1.15; prime, 95 to $1; yellow eye beans, $1.75; split peas, $3.80 to $4; round, $3.25 to $3.40; pot barley, $3.80 to $4; hay, $7 to $8; timothy seed, American, $1.75 to $2.15; do., Canadian, $2 to $2.40; mammoth clover, 7 to 7½c.; alsike, 7¾ to 8½c.

ST. JOHN NOTES.

Bridgetown, N.S., is to be incorporated.

Mr. C. H. Peters, of Baird & Peters, is spending a short holiday in New York.

Puddington & Merritt, retail grocers, had, last week, the first strawberries of the season.

Mr. Brock, of Nicholson & Brock, Toronto, called on the wholesale trade during the week.

Owing to the fact that smelt fishermen were unable, because of the weather, to begin fishing as early as usual, the time for net fishing has been extended to February 25.

The Fredericton Board of Trade are moving in the matter of what they consider a discrimination in freight rates, favoring The Standard Oil Co.

Mr. Harold C. Charters, of the Bank of Nova Scotia staff, Jamaica, has been transferred to Boston, where they have just opened a branch.

Nicholson & Brock's pepsin condensed mince meat, so largely sold in the west, is now on our market, Dearborn & Co. having received a shipment.

Schofield Bros., local agents for the E. B. Eddy Co., have bought a very fine new warehouse, which is splendidly adapted for their rapidly extending business.

The Queen biscuit factory, which has been closed for sometime, is to be reopened under the name of the St. John Biscuit Factory, this time to be run by St. John capital.

Mr. F. J. Sherman, who is to go from Fredericton, where he has been acting manager for the Merchants Bank of Halifax, to Havana to act in the same position, was tendered a banquet by the citizens of that city on the evening of February 6.

Shipments of apples were first made from Nova Scotia to England in 1862. It was some years before any quantity was shipped. In these early years freight was about $1.25 per bbl. It is now from 80 to 90c. So far this year 164,500 bbl. have been shipped to London alone. Of course, this is the big end, but there is a large quantity shipped besides. This is more than twice as many as last year for the whole season. It is expected Annapolis Valley farmers will get upward of $750,000 for last year's crop.

A BAD ACCIDENT.

Mr. J. Humphrey Parker, the Canadian agent for Hudson's soap, met with a serious accident last week which will confine him to his room for several days. He was calling on his customers in a closed sleigh, when, by some reason, the horse became frightened and ran away, upsetting the sleigh. The glass was broken and a piece of it cut Mr. Parker badly in the hip.

TO THE PUBLIC.

TAKE NOTICE that in an Action, entitled as above, pending in the High Court of Justice for Ontario, Canada, the Honorable Mr. Justice Meredith on the 2nd day of June, 1898, directed that a Judgment should issue containing a PERPETUAL INJUNCTION restraining the above named Defendants, their Servants, Workmen or Agents, from infringing the Plaintiffs' Trade Marks registered in pursuance of the Trade Marks Act of 1868, or from selling any Mustard not manufactured by the Plaintiffs in any tin, package, or wrapper (label), having printed thereon any imitation or colourable imitation of the Plaintiffs' Trade Marks or any word or words so contrived as to represent or lead to the belief that the Mustard contained in such tin, package, or wrapper, was the manufacture of the Plaintiffs. AND FURTHER TAKE NOTICE that by the said Judgment the said Defendants were enjoined to destroy or deliver up to the Plaintiffs all labels, wrappers, blocks, dies, or plates which offend against the said Injunction ; and to pay certain damages therein fixed together with the costs of the Action.

CAUTION.

Similar goods to those manufactured by J. & J. Colman, Limited, of 108 Cannon Street, London (England), occasionally make their appearance on the Market, displaying a Trade Mark liable to be confounded by the Public with their well-known Trade Mark of a Bull's Head and also closely resembling J. & J. Colman's goods in get up, presumably with the intention to deceive the buyer and consumer. Such goods are generally of an inferior quality. J. & J. Colman, Limited, would be grateful to members of the trade having any goods brought to their notice which appear to them infringements on J. & J. Colman's rights if they would at once communicate with them. Traders may rely upon their communications being treated in the strictest confidence.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 13, 1899.

WHOLESALE houses have had a good many visitors during the past week, and considerable buying has been done. Several houses report quite an active week. A good many merchants from outside points, who did not actually buy, called to talk over business matters, probable future prices and generally freshen up their ideas.

The extreme cold is still retarding the delivery of wheat, and reported deliveries for the week are light indeed.

Some lines of fruit and vegetables have been scarce, and will remain so until the thermometer goes a little higher. It has been too cold to handle fruit in safety even in heated cars. Lemons have been quite short during the week. Almeria grapes are out of market, and bananas cannot be handled until the weather is warmer. Potatoes also are growing scarce, as farmers will not attempt to deliver them at present. Native onions are reported short for the same reason.

TOBACCOS—The drop reported last week continues, and some think it may go even lower.

CURED MEATS—Market is without change and slow.

POULTRY—Is very scarce, and buyers are offering from 9 to 10c. per lb. and find it difficult to get a supply at these figures.

EGGS—Strictly fresh laid in dozen lots are selling at 45c. per dozen. Fresh gathered are very scarce, hardly any new stocks coming in, nominal price 23c.; limed eggs, 17c.

BUTTER—Dairy market is pretty steady. Round lots of fresh dairy, 14 to 14½c., choice rolls, 15 to 16c. First-class fresh prints, 18c. Creamery butter is without change, and business is steady at 23c.

CANNED GOODS — Market is without change as to price, and sales have been light during the past month.

EVAPORATED FRUITS—Unpeeled peaches have dropped ½c., and are now quoted at 12½c. Apricots are 16½ to 17c., with little or no demand at these figures. Dried apples, 8c., with few sales reported; evaporated apples, 11c.

SUGARS—Unchanged.

ROQUEFORT CHEESE.

"Roquefort cheese, the delight of modern epicures, is made of a mixture of goat and sheep milk." says The Philadelphia Evening Telegraph. "The reputation of this cheese extends back into dim antiquity, and Pliny mentioned it in his writings.

"It is made chiefly from the milk of Larzad goats and sheep, and in the records in France it is stated that, in the year 1866, 250,000 sheep and goats, out of a flock of 400,000, gave enough milk for the making of 7,150,000 pounds of cheese.

"In the manufacture of Roquefort cheese the sheep and goats are milked in the evening, after their return from the pastures, and after they have been allowed to rest for an hour or so.

"The evening's milk is heated almost to the boiling point, and then is set aside. In the morning it is skimmed, heated to 98 degrees and mixed with the morning's milk for coagulation. The curd is well kneaded with the hands and pressed in layers into molds with perforated bottoms. A thin layer of moldy bread is put between each layer of curd.

"The object of this is to hasten the 'ripening' of the cheese by supplying the germs of the green mold peculiar to cheese. The bread used for this purpose is made before the preceding Christmas of about equal parts of summer and winter barley, with plenty of sour dough and some vinegar.

"When moldy enough, it is ground and sifted, moistened with water, and kept from the air until used in making cheese.

"The curd remains in the molds for three or four days. Then they are taken to the market in Roquefort where they are sold to different makers of Roquefort cheese.

"These manufacturers continue the ripening of the cheeses by placing them in the very damp caves which abound in the precipitous walls of the limestone hills which almost completely surround the village.

"The cheeses are left in the caves sometimes more than a month, during which time salt and brine are rubbed into them, and they are pricked frequently with long needles to let the salt penetrate into them and also to accelerate the process of moldering."

TORONTO RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION.

SOME important business was transacted at the regular meeting of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association, on Monday evening.

In the presence of a good representation of the members, the following officers were installed for the ensuing year :

President—F. W. Johnson
Vice-President—D. J. Kelly.
Secretary—Ed. Hawes.
Treasurer—D. Bell
Inside Guard—R. Davies.
Executive Committee—T. Holmes, B. Panter, J. Nolan and J. A. Johnson.

Speeches were called for from the retiring president, W. H. Marmion, the new president, vice-president and treasurer, Messrs. Johnson, Kelly and Bell.

Mr. Marmion, in a brief speech, thanked the members for the uniform kindness and the generous help he had received during his term of office. The past year had been a good one for the association as a whole, the picnic and the entertainments had been successful, and the treasury contained about $300 more than was in it a year ago. They had not secured from the Dominion Government the legislation they sought regarding civil servants' salaries, nor had the Toronto City Council raised the peddlers' licenses as they had desired, but Mr. Marmion still hoped to see the fruit of the efforts they had expended to attain these ends.

Mr. Johnson, after thanking the members for the honor bestowed on him, spoke of the advantage of such a body to its members.

"The grocery business," said Mr. Johnson, "has not to fear any outside influences. In the fifteen or sixteen years he had been in business many changes had taken place in the commercial world. Cooperative stores, departmental stores, fake schemes of many descriptions, have all had a try at securing the grocers' profits, but the grocer is as much a necessity to-day as he was twenty years ago. A good, strong association, however, could help a great deal to make the grocer's life a more enjoyable one and keep his business on a better basis.

"There are two ways which we, as an association, might improve things," continued Mr. Johnson. "The first of these is early closing, which I believe we can do a good deal towards securing ; the other is the condition of affairs existing between the wholesale trade and the retailers. The wholesale men are a lot of fine fellows personally, but sometimes I think they take us by the throat—in a business sense I mean, of course. They have put a fixed price on sugar, rice, starch, and a number of other articles, and they would, if they could, keep us from buying from certain firms which are not 'in line' with them. If we, as a body, unite to fight this condition of things, there will be no doubt as to the result." Mr. Johnson concluded with the expression of the hope that the coming year should be as good a one in the history of the association as the past had been.

That some work will be done during the coming year was made plain by D. J. Kelly, the vice-president elect, who, though one of the youngest members of the association, is admittedly one of its most active and able workers. The first subject the new executive intends dealing with will be early closing, and as this would be taken hold of actively, they asked the association to back them up in everything they did. If mistakes were made, Mr. Kelly promised they would be the result of insufficient knowledge or ability, not from lack of care or thought, for they would do all they could to have things right.

Mr. Bell's speech was brief. He would make but one promise in accepting his office—simply that he would do his duty to the best of his ability.

The committee appointed to make the preparations for the "At Home," to be held next Tuesday, the 21st inst., at St. George's Hall, reported that the arrangements have been satisfactorily made, and that an entertainment, first-class in every particular, might be expected.

The matter of early closing was then brought up, and discussion brought out the opinion that the present law is inadequate to meet the situation, and it was decided instead of seeking to amend it or put the present law in force, to use moral suasion, and funds were voted to carry on a lively early-closing campaign, and Messrs. Hawes, White, Kelly, and Holmes were appointed a committee to prepare a circular and proceed at once to get it printed and a copy mailed to every grocer in the city. The sum of $25 was granted the committee to carry on their work.

NOVA SCOTIA APPLE SHIPMENTS.

UP to last week when the steamer St. John City sailed, the shipment of apples from the port of Halifax for the London market amounted to 164,500 barrels. It is estimated that there are still 85,000 barrels to go forward. Apples have netted to shippers in the Annapolis Valley from $2.50 to $2.75 per barrel. Taking the net profit at the lower figure, it means that the horticulturists there have received this season $410,000 or more. If the prices keep up, as they doubtless will, they will get $212,000 for the balance of their crop, a total of $622,000 for the season. This is for the London market alone, so that Mr. Mitchell's estimate, made in the House of Assembly yesterday, of three-quarters of a million dollars for the Annapolis Valley apple-growers, is not beyond the mark.

Last year the total export to London was only 77,000 barrels, compared with the 259,500, which will be shown at the end of the season. The prices last year were about the same as are prevailing this season. In 1896 when the export to London reached 370,000 barrels, the producers netted less than $1 per barrel.

The following table, showing our export of apples to London for the past twelve years, and the quantity forwarded so far this season, will be of interest to others than the exporters :

Year.	Barrels.
1886-7	113,000
1887-8	57,000
1888-9	102,000
1889-90	120,000
1890-1	92,200
1891-2	83,750
1892-3	175,500
1893-4	36,000
1894-5	252,100
1895-6	140,500
1896-7	370,000
1898-9 (so far)	164,500

The first Nova Scotia apples sent across the ocean, for exhibition purposes, was in 1862. Later they were exported in I. H. Mathers' deal vessels. Then sailing vessels were loaded for London direct. After this the Anchor Line boats, running fortnightly between Boston and London, took over apples, freights being about $1.25 per barrel. To-day the freight is 90 cents. A part of last year it was 90 cents, but dropped to 80. —Herald, Halifax, Feb. 4.

TRAVELERS FEAST AND DANCE.

THAT the Montreal wholesale grocery travelers are the best and the jolliest set of fellows alive was the unanimous verdict of those who were fortunate enough to be present at the fourth annual banquet and ball of the association held at Bout de L'Isle on Wednesday, February 8.

The arrangements were perfect, and everything which could tend to make the guests enjoy themselves had been done. Special cars left the city at 8.30 p.m. and reached Bout de L'Isle after an hour's drive in the bracing wintry air. Dinner was served almost immediately and the party began the discussion of a delicious repast which reflected credit upon the banquet committee and on the hotel cuisine.

The toast list was short and the speeches were bright and amusing. Hon. President Laporte, in proposing the health of the association, referred to President Massicotte's untiring efforts on its behalf. He thought the association was doing a great work in making the travelers better known to each other and in inspiring them with the spirit of mutual help and fellowship which tends to make life happier and better for all. He concluded a spirited speech by pointing out the necessity of young men insuring their lives in order to leave their wives and families properly provided for.

Mr. E. Massicotte and Mr. Wilfrid Larose responded in able speeches.

Mr. J. O. Levesque proposed the ever-popular toast of " The Ladies " in a happy speech, to which Dr. Pleouffe, the medical officer of the association, replied.

The ball which followed the dinner was a success also. The programme consisted of 19 dances and three extras. The grocery travelers and their wives or fiancees appeared to be indefatigable dancers, and it was an early hour in the morning before a start for home was made. Montreal's grocery hustlers have given their friends many a jolly evening, but those who know say that they surpassed all their previous efforts this year. The officers of the association are :

Hon President—H. Laporte.
President—E Massicotte.
1st Vice-President—A. E. Landry.
2nd Vice-President—W. F. Leclerc.
Secretary—E. A. Cardinal.
Treasurer—J. N. Crepeau.
Auditor—W. E. Sullivan.

Mr. Hammond is the president of the Astoria & Columbia River R.R., and is actively interested in developing the industries of the section of the Pacific Coast tributary to that road. Mr. Josslein, the treasurer, is understood to be the private secretary of Mr. Hammond. Mr. Hanthorne, the vice-president, is the head of the large packing-house of J. O. Hanthorne & Co., while Mr. George is the senior member of the firm of George & Barker, also large packers. No agent to handle the product of the association in the east has yet been appointed. The telegram states that the association controls about 75 per cent. of the salmon canning establishments on the Columbia river.

ASK FOR MOTT'S

Good morning, sir, and what is this,
Inquired once a knowing Miss,
Is this the famous Dayton scale
Which saves where all the others fail?

If you will let me demonstrate
This System called the "Money-Weight"
I'll show you since you ask advice
The secrets of this strange device.

In olden times, just let me state,
They measured everything by weight:
They added on, would then divide,
To find the sum—they multiplied.

They never knew when they were through
Who was the gainer, they or you,
But by this System which you see
We set the price poise, say at three.

This indicates the price per pound,
The selling price is quickly found
By moving out the value poise,
What little labor it employs!

You have, you see by actual test,
Figured mechanically which is best,
The actual money value weight
By a system strictly up-to-date.

No loss by calculations wrong,
No guess work as you go along,
Every grain is worth so much
For the scale responds to the slightest touch.

For detailed information send for catalague.
We manufacture 23 different patterns of Money-Weight Scales.
All scales sold on easy payments.

WHY HE WROTE GOOD ADS.

The young fellow who was cudgeling his brains over a love letter and asked his sister what she liked to have from her best beau, had the right idea. He was a great success, both in love and business. He was not satisfied with saying what sounded well to himself; he wanted to be sure the girl would be pleased.

When this little affair had all been settled by mutual friends and state and church, he employed the same method in business. He probably asked his wife, and his sisters, and his cousins, and his aunts for opinions on ways of telling the news of his store. Consequently, he wrote ads. that sold goods.—Charles Austin Bates.

The Consumption

OF COFFEE

in Canada is not what it should be.

Why ?

Because too often the public is imposed upon by inferior coffee and compounds, thus limiting consumption.

You cannot build a lasting trade on low grade cheap coffee.

Give the public Good Coffee, the best procurable, and the inevitable result will be an increased demand for good pure coffee.

A SUCCESSFUL FINANCIAL INSTITUTION.

NORTH AMERICAN LIFE.

THE annual meeting of this company was held in the company's building, Toronto, on Thursday, February 2, 1899, when Mr. John L. Blaikie was appointed chairman and Mr. William McCabe secretary.

The directors' report presented at the meeting showed continued and marked proof of the great progress and solid prosperity of the company in every branch of its business.

Summary of the financial statement and balance sheet for the year ended December 31, 1898:

Cash income	$ 785,130 81
Expenditure (including death claims, endowments, matured investment policies, profits and all other payments to policyholders)	442,019 07
Assets	3,137,828 61
Reserve fund	2,586,947 00
Net surplus for policyholders	474,029 08

Audited and found correct.

JAS. CARLYLE, M.D., Auditor. WM. McCABE, Managing-Director.

Some of the leading features of the year's business, as mentioned by the president, were the following:

1. Looking at the company from every standpoint, the report submitted shows financial strength, productive assets, solid growth, and large relative surplus, which is the supreme point to policyholders, and it is from this source alone that satisfactory returns can be made to them.

2. The new business for the year exceeded that of any previous year.

3. Another marked feature of this company is the relatively large amount of its net surplus to liabilities, when contrasted with that of its leading competitors. The president showed that this ratio was one of the best tests by which to judge of the relative merits of the different companies.

4. The following marked increases were made during the year:

	Per Cent.
In premium income	11.56
In interest income	13.11
In insurance in force	13.15
In assets	10.01
In net surplus	10.73
In insurance reserve	15.18

The president stated that gentlemen representing the United States Insurance Department had been in the city during part of last month, and had made a thorough and most searching investigation into the affairs of the company, with a view to its admission to do business in their respective States, and that those experts were extremely well satisfied with the soundness of the company, and expressed themselves gratified with every aspect of affairs.

The Hon. Mr. Allan, in seconding the adoption of the report, called special attention to the excellent character of the investments of the company; of these over 37 per cent. are in first mortgage securities, nearly 20 per cent. in debentures, nearly 14 per cent. in stocks and bonds, loans on policies about 6½ per cent., the balance consisting of cash in banks, interest accrued, etc.

He also called special attention to the fact that, although the assets had increased very largely, the outstanding and accrued interest had been very materially decreased, which is a proof of the excellent character of the investments of the company, and the promptness with which the interest thereon has been paid.

James Thorburn, M.D., medical director, presented a full and interesting report of the mortality experience of the company from its organization, which showed that great care had been exercised in the selection of the company's business.

The consulting actuary reported that he had made an independent examination of the affairs of the company as at December 31, 1898, having examined the books, accounts, and balance sheet, also a detailed copy of the annual report to the Insurance Department, and stated that he was very much gratified with the result of such examination, also with the thorough system of the work of every department throughout the office. He commended the company for closing its books promptly at the end of the year, as had been its custom from organization, and stated that, notwithstanding the large amount paid to policyholders during the year, another substantial gain had been made in the net surplus, now amounting to $474,029 08, or, if made up on the same basis as that generally used, viz., by adding the difference between the cost and market value of debentures, etc., owned by the company, such surplus would be $522,664.83 He referred to the great difficulty which has been experienced of late years in securing satisfactory investments, and pointed out the great decline in the rate of interest which gilt-edge securities yielded. In view of this, he stated that the settlement of the company's investment policies should be highly satisfactory to the holders thereof, as they compare favorably with those of the leading and best managed companies on the continent.

A special vote of thanks was unanimously tendered to the company's provincial managers, inspectors and agency staff for their splendid work of the past year, during which the largest business ever done by the company had been secured, largely exceeding that of any other home company at the same age in its history.

After the usual vote of thanks had been passed, the election of directors took place, whereupon the newly-elected board met, and Mr. John L. Blaikie was unanimously reelected president, and the honorable G. W. Allan and Sir Frank Smith, vice-presidents.

THE PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU . . . .

Reads every paper in Canada and clips therefrom all articles of a business or personal nature of interest to subscribers in this department.

Politicians can obtain from it everything the papers say about themselves on any subject in which they are interested. Business men learn of new openings for trade, pointers to sell goods, addresses of people likely to become buyers, tenders wanted, stocks for sale or wanted, reports of new industries or stores, etc.

Terms—$5 per hundred clippings; $40 per thousand, payable in advance; but a yearly contract will be found the most satisfactory.

We have also lists of firms in every branch of trade in the Dominion, the professions, club members, society, etc., and we are prepared to address and mail circulars or letters to these at any time.

Fire ! Fire ! !

The destructive fire of Friday entirely ruined the stock in our premises at 12, 14, 16 Front Street East, but we fortunately had a very large quantity of new English goods in Customs and outside warehouses which were untouched.

Several hundred packages of new lines of American Glassware were also in the freight sheds.

These are now being opened up and will be stocked in a few days.

Goods of Canadian manufacture will of course be stocked at once.

We therefore solicit an uninterrupted continuance of your patronage.

The Salt that doesn't Cake

The Salt that is made by the Vacuum Process is the salt that doesn't "cake" — Windsor Salt. See how each separate crystal sparkles—hold it to the sunlight—how clean, and white and dry it is. Sifted, purified, refined and re-refined. The crystals don't adhere in the finest salt there is or can be—Windsor Salt, for the table. Do your customers complain? Salt won't "run" easily from the salt shaker? The remedy is simple—plain—true. Windsor Salt won't "cake"—it runs easily. "A pleased customer" is the best advertisement you can have, you know.

Profit with Honor

is the goal of all our ambition.

To attain the one without sacrificing the other is often difficult.

It is only after long and careful study of qualities and values that this is obtained.

We here offer you three lines that can be both honorably and profitably handled :

"Good goods always sell." They are the best advertisement for your store.

Lazenby's Soup Squares

"are the best experience and money can produce."

"Once used, always used."

Eve's Fair Daughters like something bright and new for Easter.

To do this economically often means using Dyes, and the best Dyes, too.

Maypole Soap Dyes

are the most economical. They both wash and dye—do not fade—and come in all colors.

Be sure your assortment is complete—you are sure to be asked for them.

As the name

"Codou"

typifies highest quality of

French Maccaroni

so the name

" Garofalo "

stamped on the package, means

Best Italian.

An Italian traveller upon seeing some Maccaroni in this country stamped Garofalo, said :

"Ah ! That's the Maccaroni."

Your customers will say the same.

Japan Teas

versus OTHERS.

The difference is startling. The distinct and peculiar drinking qualities of this beverage have earned them an enormous sale throughout the universe, simply because it is impossible to obtain the same rare, distinct and peculiar flavor from any other source.

They have the rich, smooth flavor and all that delicate, indescribable tea quality which delights and holds.

The best advertisement Japan Tea has is the consumer, for it never fails to give satisfaction.

I Advertise

my cigars exactly as they are. If you find them different in any respect from what I represent them to be, you can return them at my expense, and I will gladly send you back your money.

I believe that my "Pharaoh" cigar is the best ten cent cigar it is possible to make. The Havana tobacco that I use in the filler, I select myself, personally, in Cuba—the binder is the pick of the Connecticut crop—the wrapper is the choicest that money will buy. My ambition is to make the words synonomous with all that stands for the "best" in cigar quality and workmanship. I advertise plain facts only about my cigars, but I advertise them persistently.

J. Bruce Payne, Mfr.,
Granby, Que.

The "Pharaoh" for a ten cent line. The "Pebble" for a five cent line.

There is no comparison between a good essence at a high price, and a poor one at any price, therefore, always buy

Crown Flavoring Extracts

They are PURE and STRONG—THE BEST—and though a little higher in price than some other brands—

They are the cheapest in the end.

TEAS.

In 1890, 14,000,000 pounds were consumed in Canada and the United States, while in 1898 the consumption in the same countries was over 61,000,000 pounds, showing the enormous increase of over 47,000,000 pounds.

This marvelous and universal appreciation is due to merit alone, as it is an established fact that these are the purest, cleanest, tastiest and most economical teas the world produces.

TEA AND TEA DRINKING.

HAVE good tea to begin with; then be sure that you have freshly drawn water with which to make the beverage, remarks an exchange. The water must not have been standing for hours exposed to the weather, nor simmering on the range. It must be fresh; and then, if you have a brisk fire or the hot flame of a spirit lamp, bring it quickly to the boil. A flat-bottomed kettle is to be preferred, as it has a broad surface to expose to the heat, and the boiling is soon accomplished. Water is boiling when it bubbles and the steam comes in white puffs from the spout of the kettle. It does not boil when it begins to simmer and sing—that is only the sign that it is near boiling. You must make your tea when the water has just boiled. A kettle which has been standing on the back of a stove all day, filled up now and then, will not make good tea. You must boil the water on purpose.

Dr. Goodfellow, in the course of an instructive lecture on tea, delivered at the Grocers' Exhibition, declared in favor of earthenware pots. He said: "The earthenware teapots should be put in front of the fire, or on the hob, to get them thoroughly warm. Good tea can seldom be made in a cold or wet teapot. When the water has come to the boil the tea should be placed in one of the hot teapots, and allowed to remain with the cover on for about half a minute. Boiling water should then be poured in as quickly as possible to the amount required, and the pot allowed to stand under a cosy for four minutes, or from three to five minutes, according to the kind of tea used. In the case of the more highly cultivated Chinese teas, 10 or 15 minutes might be allowed. For the cruder Indian and Ceylon varieties, three to four minutes will be sufficient. After this period has elapsed, the infusion should be used at once; or, if required to stand for a little while, should be poured off into the second hot tea-pot. On no account is the second brew permissible if the tea prepared is to be non-injurious; and, although this method may appear wasteful, yet it is not so when conducted in a proper manner.

"When tea is properly prepared," continued the analyst, "and not taken in excess, it is practically non-injurious, and in these days of high pressure and quick living, it is a question whether some such form of harmless stimulation is not a necessity in order to meet the condition of modern life. When tea is badly prepared, its use may become injurious, for it then contains an excess of tannic acid, and this body acts most injuriously upon the digestive system. Many attacks of indigestion are brought on by drinking 'strong' tea at meal times. Tea-drinking, when carried to excess, may also produce, in those who are predisposed to nervous complaints, palpitation of the heart, hyper-excitability, sleeplessness, and nervousness; and those who are naturally of an excitable nature, and suffer from nervous complaints, should be careful not to carry tea-drinking too far. I would formulate one or two golden rules with regard to tea-drinking: (1) Always use good tea. (2) Use water which has just got to the boil. (3) Infuse about four minutes for cheap teas; ten or fifteen minutes for good tea. (4) Do not allow the leaves to stand in the infusion. (5) Avoid second brews and use tea-leaves. (6) Don't take tea at the principal meal. (7) If suffering from heart or nervous complaints, only use the very finest qualities of teas. If this cannot be afforded give up tea altogether."

Another authority gives us the following hints in tea-making: Such articles as coffee, fruit, cheese, vegetables, meat, tobacco, etc., will affect tea within ten minutes, and render it useless for drinking. Tea will also absorb moisture from the atmosphere; therefore the first hint is to empty the tea (from the paper bag as soon as it arrives home) into the caddy, which ought to be air-tight, and keep in a warm dry place. Use a China or delf ware pot; let it be made very hot with boiling water, and then rubbed dry; then let the tea be put in, and the pot set near the fire for several minutes while waiting for the fresh cold water in the kettle to come to the boiling point—by this time the tea in the pot has become warm and crisp, and the pot itself is warm; now pour in the boiling, bubbling stream. Next, the heat must be maintained for ten or fifteen minutes for good teas, by means of a cosy, a hot oven, or placing the pot near the fire; but it must not be allowed to boil.

To make a really good cup of tea, the water must always be used at its boiling point—neither before nor after will do.

It is of equal importance that the water for the hot water-jug be freshly boiled and not overboiled.

It is also important that after using the teapot, it should be thoroughly cleaned from all the dark discoloration, which is the harmful tannin. The spout, too, must be carefully cleaned out with feathers or pipe brushes. A foul teapot is as bad as a foul pipe, and as full of danger to the system. A mere rinsing out of the teapot is not sufficient. Those whose system is vitiated with excessive tea-drinking, should try the addition of boiled milk with their tea. Pour out into the cup a dessertspoonful of tea, less rather than more, and fill up with boiling milk. If the milk is not liked, which often happens, halve the quantity of milk and use boiling water. Boiled milk is one of the best cures for excessive indigestion, nervousness, and all the other ills which spring from excessive tea-drinking. It is important to remember that the milk must be boiled.

the course of a recent lecture in London on the spread of consumption, stated that he did not recommend, as some had done, the removal of every tubercular cow from our dairies and cowsheds, for this, at the lowest estimate, would mean the removal at once of over half a million cows from our milk supply ; but all cows with advanced tuberculosis in any part of the body, and all cows with suspicious udder disease, should be at once seized and slaughtered. The elimination will be a gradual one, he asserted.

Systematic inspection, he declared, was often more necessary in country than in town cowsheds, because the latter were often much more under control than the former.

Finally, he said that the British were almost the only civilized people in the world who habitually consumed uncooked milk, and he urged that they should be educated to acquire the habit of cooking milk before use, and showed that if milk were boiled for a single instant the danger of tuberculosis would be gone, and a cause of thousands of deaths every year among children and adults would be removed.

WHOLESALE GROCERY HOUSE FAILS.

Davidson Bros., wholesale grocers, Halifax, have suspended payment. The liabilities direct are about $40,000. They have a stock of about $22,000 and book debts of $17,000, also some real estate subject to encumbrance, besides gold mining property which cannot be realized upon at the present time. It is thought the intention of the firm is to offer a compromise of 40 cents in three, six and nine months.

TEA CONSUMPTION IN CANADA.

The "Salada" Tea Company state that a recent statistical report received from the Government at Ottawa shows that the total consumption of tea in Canada between the dates of June 30, '97, and June 30, '98, amounted to 18,281,630 pounds. They also state that when they are doing the same quantity of trade per head of population throughout Canada that they are now doing in Montreal and Toronto, their trade will amount to 4,480,000 pounds, and they hope some day to do this, which will amount to, roughly speaking, one-quarter of the tea trade in Canada.

JAPAN TEA IN CANADA.

Editor CANADIAN GROCER,—On looking over your edition of February 17, I was much astonished at a statement printed over the signature of The "Salada" Tea Co., dated February 8, in which it is stated that there is no system of bonded warehouses in the United States, and that, consequently, United States tea importers had to store teas in Canada. The statement is such a gross misstatement of facts that I trust you will give the following as much prominence as that of The "Salada" Tea Co.

Up to the time teas were declared free by the United States Government, there was a perfect system of bonded warehouses at all ports of entry in the United States, and this system still continues, as there is a large import to the United States of dutiable goods, which, on arrival, is entered in bond and held in bond until the importers desire to pay the duty.

Some years ago, when a tea inspector was appointed, all teas arriving in the United States had to be stored in certain designated bonded warehouses, and there remain until branded by the tea inspector.

When the duty was imposed last June, and up to date, the United States tea importers had the same privilege as other importers of dutiable goods. They can either pay duty on arrival or warehouse in bond and withdraw the teas by paying the duty as desired, and they are not compelled to pay the duty on the entire lot, but in quantities to suit their sales.

To show how absurd the statement of The "Salada" Tea Co. is : They don't seem to know that teas are not the only dutiable goods imported into the United States. If there is no bonded system in the United States, why is it that the American importers of silks, spices, sugars, dry goods, etc., do not warehouse in bond in Canada and distribute their goods in the United States from Canada ?

I know nothing about the storing of Japans at Smith's Falls for distribution in the United States, except that the loss, in paying additional freight, the loss in interest caused by delays in delivering would make it rather an expensive method of doing business.

As to the falling-off in the consumption of Japan teas, the figures show additional imports into Canada. Now, let The "Salada" Tea Co. give us the figures of what has gone to the United States and the balance will speak for itself.

Special attention is drawn to Winn & Holland's advertisement of Brunner, Mond's products of soda. The latter are said to be the largest makers of soda in the world, and their goods have long had a world-wide reputation for color, strength, purity, and cheapness. Having had extensive experience in the trade for these products, they have long since reached that highest goal, perfection, but "B.M." soda has become such a by-word in all grocery stores, that no special mention is needed as to its excellent quality. With such a record and constantly increasing sales, we are sure the agents, Winn & Holland, will continue to enjoy the confidence and support of the trade.

that, we would like to add that a small daily profit will go a long way towards offsetting a small daily expense. Four cents a day amounts to twelve dollars and forty-eight cents in the course of a year, and the sale of one good ten-cent cigar every business day, for that period, will yield a larger profit than that.

Suppose you sell half a dozen cigars a day and average that through the year—do you know of any easier or safer or less expensive way of making seventy-five dollars? But perhaps your particular class of trade calls for five-cent cigars, as well as ten-cent cigars, in which case you will agree that there is no more work involved in the one case than in the other to gain a correspondingly large profit.

There is no waste in selling cigars—you can't give over-weight or over-measure, consequently your profits can be figured down to the finest of fine points.

The necessity of satisfying smokers with brands which do not vary in their quality must be apparent to all grocers who wish to hold their trade. A man is as particular about the quality of his cigar, as a woman

A SHUFFLE IN MOLASSES.

TEN days ago Montreal wholesalers met, and decided to advance the jobbing basis of Barbadoes molasses 1c. per gallon—the base price 31c. and single puncheons 32c.

On Saturday last they revoked this decision, and Montreal jobbers are now free sellers of single puncheon lots at 30c.

This sudden reaction is the result of a determination on the part of the Montreal jobbers to keep speculators and other outsiders from interfering with their customers.

They admit that the situation justifies a rather better price than 30c., but, as this advance led to offers from holders in Quebec and other eastern points, the Montreal firms took prompt action to keep these outside lots off the local market.

When prices were advanced some of the leading houses in Montreal predicted that it would lead to outside offers, and were averse to an advance for this season. They consented, however, to submit to the will of the majority and work up prices.

STOP THE LEAKS.

IT is the little expenses that eat up the profits. It has been truly said that "a small leak will sink a big ship." We believe that too many grocers either fail in using the pruning-knife to cut down expenses or else cut down the expenses at too great a consequent loss of profits. There is a happy medium which consists in "stopping the leaks" and absolutely preventing the loss of profit by handling an article which entails no expense whatever in the handling. A line of good cigars will do this for a grocer, because the expense is reduced to a minimum and when we say that, we mean that it entails no persuasion on the part of a grocer to sell an article which is universally demanded at all times, by the man of the house.

A smoker can do without his cigar no better than a cook can do without her flour, history proves this, and, while we don't purpose to go back to the dark ages for testimonies to back up this statement, we believe that any grocer who takes up the subject in earnest will convince himself of the merit of our assertions.

If, as we have already said, "a small leak will sink a big ship," then, as against that, we would like to add that a small daily profit will go a long way towards offsetting a small daily expense. Four cents a day amounts to twelve dollars and forty-eight cents in the course of a year, and the sale of one good ten-cent cigar every business day, for that period, will yield a larger profit than that.

Suppose you sell half a dozen cigars a day and average that through the year—do you know of any easier or safer or less expensive way of making seventy-five dollars? The necessity of satisfying smokers with brands which do not vary in their quality must be apparent to all grocers who wish to hold their trade. A man is as particular about the quality of his cigar, as a woman is about the quality of her flour, and once a man is thoroughly satisfied with a particular brand of cigar, it is pretty hard to switch him over to another track. Not all cigar manufacturers seem to realize the value of this one point to their business, hence we think it would be wisdom on the part of the grocer, before he buys, to thoroughly satisfy himself regarding the standing and the general reputation of the manufacturer. Large businesses are usually built up with "quality" as the foundation-stone. Personal reputation, or, in other words, character, can make or unmake any man's business.

The manufacturer who does not "hide his light under a bushel" but comes forth boldly and tells the people who he is and what he has for sale is usually a trustworthy man to deal with—confidence begets success.

ADVANCE IN WASHBOARDS.

An advance of 15 to 20c. per dozen in the price of washboards is announced.

The cause of the advance is the appreciation in the price of zinc, which has been marked the last month or two.

A SHUFFLE IN MOLASSES.

TEN days ago Montreal wholesalers met, and decided to advance the jobbing basis of Barbadoes molasses 1c. per gallon—the base price 31c. and single puncheons 32c.

On Saturday last they revoked this decision, and Montreal jobbers are now free sellers of single puncheon lots at 30c.

This sudden reaction is the result of a determination on the part of the Montreal jobbers to keep speculators and other outsiders from interfering with their customers.

When prices were advanced some of the leading houses in Montreal predicted that it would lead to outside offers, and were averse to an advance for this season. They consented, however, to submit to the will of the majority and work up prices.

Results have proved that they were right, and the action taken by the Montreal Wholesale Guild, on Saturday last, is the best justification that they could have asked for.

It may be interesting to note in this connection that cables from the Island quote the opening figures there rather lower than they opened at last spring. Cables this week quoted 12c., and $4 for puncheons, exclusive of other charges. This is about 2c. under the basis at which the market opened last year, but these early offers are hardly a fair criterion to go by, as they are purely speculative. Offerings at the Islands are said to be very light.

TAPIOCA HIGHER.

Cable advices this week have been strong on tapioca, recent offers being at 16s. 3d. This is equivalent to a cost of 4¾c. per lb. laid down in Montreal.

A glance at the market reports and prices current will show that the article is being jobbed out for less money than this.

It seems natural to suppose, therefore, that if this strength is maintained, and there is every reason to expect that it will be, prices on tapioca will have to be marked up. Jobbers, in fact, are asking slightly more this week, but are still below what it would cost to lay down fresh supplies.

THE ABORTIVE COMMISSION.

IT was, from the very outset, expected by the majority of people in Canada, that the conference between the representatives of this country, Great Britain and the United States would prove abortive. The expected has happened, and, naturally, there is no disappointment ; or, at any rate, none of any moment.

But, while there is little or no disappointment, it is to be regretted that the conference ended as it did. There are questions of an international character which should be settled, and which will eventually have to be settled in some way and at some time. As long as they are not settled they will be a source of irritation.

They have been the cause of a great deal of irritation in the past and there is no guarantee they will be anything different in the future. We have reference to the Alaskan boundary, the sealing, and the fishery questions.

The cross road at which the commissioners eventually separated was the boundary question. The position taken by Canada in regard to this question may or may not be correct. That is to be determined. The commissioners believed themselves to be right, and they had, and have, the country at their back.

The United States commissioners, on the other hand, no doubt believed their own view was the correct one. But the mutilated form in which they desired to submit this particular question to arbitration was anything but fair. Their proposition was not much of an improvement upon that which is sometimes put: "Heads I win; tails you lose."

Putting it another way, it is like a man who has come into possession of a farm in a questionable way offering to submit the question as to ownership of the swamps to arbitration, but declaring that the richest of the land must be exempt from consideration by the arbitrators.

The question of reciprocity was not of as great importance as some of the others. But it was important. THE CANADIAN GROCER has favored a reciprocity treaty if it could be obtained on fair conditions.

Restrictions cannot help international trade any more than lead can lend aid to a floating body. And certainly there are restrictions in regard to trade between Canada and the United States. This is particularly so in the tariff of the United States, for it was constructed in some particulars specifically with a view to keeping out Canadian products.

Desirable as reciprocity may be, Canada can afford to wait for it. The export trade is growing quite nicely, particularly with Great Britain.

Compared with the year when the McKinley bill went into operation, the export trade of the Dominion is 65 per cent. larger, notwithstanding that our shipments to the United States are less than $1,000,000 worth more than they were in 1890.

Away back in July last, The New York Journal of Commerce, the leading commercial daily of the United States, asserted that the "commercial sentiment in the United States is strongly in favor of reciprocity." And the fact that over 50 commercial bodies in the United States have during the past twelve months declared themselves in favor of reciprocity with Canada, is a corroboration of that statement. But, unfortunately, it is not the commercial class that rules in the United States; it is the political. And business between the two great English-speaking nations upon this continent has to suffer as a result thereof.

The New York Commercial Advertiser, another influential commercial daily, declared only a few weeks ago: "Interest plainly prompts us to examine whether the principle of give and take has not a more practical aspect now in our relations to Canada than ever before * * * The number of people in the Dominion is no measure of the value of her natural resources to us * * * Canada may be worth more to us as a market to buy in than as a market to sell in."

The New York Times, too, has come out in favor of reciprocity with Canada, and, in its issue of February 5, declared that it should be the earnest purpose and effort of the business men of New York to defeat the selfish schemes of the coal and lumber interests. The New York Tribune also exerted its influence on the side of those in the United States who were in favor of a treaty with Canada.

However, had a treaty been agreed upon, it is unlikely that it would ever have received the assent of the United States Senate. A body that refused to ratify the treaty of arbitration between Great Britain and the United States is scarcely likely to have endorsed a treaty such as that which the commissioners were recently trying to draft in Washington. The knowledge of this fact, no doubt, exerted its influence upon the United States commissioners. There was a sort of "the bogey man will catch you, if you don't look out" ringing in their ears, and they knew that the bogey man—the politician—was no myth.

While the Canadian Parliament is not in the habit of rejecting treaties which its commissioners negotiate, yet the Dominion Government might have prevented the possibility of its doing so, had it accepted the suggestion of this paper and done as President McKinley did, namely, appoint as one of the commissioners a gentleman from the Opposition benches. Had Sir Charles Tupper or some other man from the Conservative ranks been appointed, not only would it have prevented the possibility of the treaty being rejected by Parliament, had such a document been drafted, but it would have kept the matter out of politics, treaty or no treaty, for it is not justice that politicians are usually actuated by in their attacks ; it is party exigencies.

A great many people are disposed to blame the Dominion Government for consenting to a conference with the United States. We cannot agree with them. Aside altogether from the reciprocity question there were international matters, as we have already pointed out, which, on account of their irritating nature, were standing menaces to the peace between the two countries. And there does not appear to be any doubt that the whole proceedings were instituted by the Imperial Government, who is anxious that even that which threatens to create unpleasant relations between the two countries shall be removed.

The duty that now lies before Canada is to "paddle her own canoe" more vigorously than ever. While closer trade relations with the United States is eventually likely, in view of the interest the commercial bodies across the border have taken in the matter, there is no prospect that it will be realized for several years yet. In the meantime, therefore, the energies of the Dominion should be devoted to cultivating its export trade in soil more congenial than is to be found at the moment in the United States.

CANADA'S TRADE WITH BRITISH AFRICA.

A LETTER has been received at this office from Mr. Thos. Moffat, commercial representative at Cape Town, South Africa, for the Dominion Government, in which he states that he is devoting the whole of his time to the Canadian trade and has a building in which he keeps Canadian goods on exhibition.

It is to be hoped Mr. Moffat's efforts will bear fruit, and much fruit.

Just what Canada exports to the colony of South Africa we have no means of ascertaining. All exports to the British possessions in Africa are grouped under the heading "British Africa"; and British Africa includes rather more than a dozen colonies with an aggregate import trade of £25,652,000, and an export trade of £23,883,000. South Africa, of course, takes by far the greater portion of the small quantity of Canadian goods exported to British Africa, but it would be much more satisfactory to know just exactly the amount that was sent there. The publication in the South African returns of the figures appertaining to the goods imported from this country would be valuable to Canada as an advertisement.

In the November issue of the Department of Trade and Commerce was a report from the commercial agent in South Africa, in which he pointed out that even the returns of that colony failed to show that one cent's worth of goods had been imported from Canada.

Of course, goods were received from Canada, and Mr. Moffat's explanation of the failure of the returns to reveal the fact is that the goods were shipped via New York, and were included in the figures credited to the United States.

The figures credited to the United States in 1897 were $13,735,670, an increase of $1,735,670.

In his report of some months ago to the Dominion Government, Mr. Moffat points out that just as the United States has become a rival in Africa to Great Britain, so Canada in turn can become a rival to the United States. "To do this," he says, "there are a great many methods which can be adopted, but it would be well to ascertain, study and follow out the plans adopted by others. Manufacturers cannot expect foreign trade unless they are prepared to pay for it, and they are too prone to wait, and expect the Government of the day to bring the foreign buyer 10,000 miles to their very doors, or, failing that, sell their goods for them, instead of themselves grasping what is well within their reach."

What Mr. Moffat says is perfectly true.

The chief articles of import into South Africa, to which it is possible for Canada to contribute, are: Cotton manufactures, $5,619,430; wheat, $3,223,245; apparel and slops, $4,315,650; carriages (carts and wheeled vehicles), $1,506,430; coal, $922,910; flour, $336,480; furniture and cabinetware, $2,036,805; meats, salted and preserved, $902,790; machinery of all kinds, $7,043,395; provisions, $2,895,620; wood, unmanufactured, $1,114,495; wood, planed or grooved, $848,705; wood, manufactured, other than furniture, $651,105; butter (including margarine), $983,795; oats, $121,925; spirits, all sorts, $1,183,265; drugs and chemicals, $1,441,055; dynamite, blasting compound and powder, $1,559,830; saddlery and harness, $567,790; leather, and boots and shoes, $3,266,785.

According to the 1897 issue of the Dominion trade returns, among the articles Canada exported to British Africa in that year were the following:

Cottons,	$2,723	Harness and Saddlery,	$ 576
Agricultural Implements,	$11,819	Whisky	$ 90
Carriages,	$4,075	Metals, other than Iron and Steel	$ 310
Carts,	$4,872	Pianos	$ 163
Wagons,	$1,250	Cigars and Cigarettes	$ 150
Bicycles	$7,323	Wall Paper	$ 815
Parts of Bicycles,	$ 460	Household Furniture	$8,099
Other Vehicles,	$3,760	Doors, Sashes and Blinds	$6,312
Clothing and wearing apparel,	$ 50	Woolens	$ 601
Drugs and Chemicals	$2,545	Dry Salted Cod	$ 140
Explosives and fulminates of all kinds	$ 58	Deals, Spruce and other Lumber	$7,457
Stoves,	$ 56	Planks and boards	42,054
Iron Castings	$3,560	All other lumber, n. e. s.	$1,669
Machinery,	$ 388	Dried Apples	$1,873
Steel and manufactures of	$ 672	Beans	$ 258
Leather, sole and upper,	$1,057	Peas, whole	$ 160
Boots and Shoes	$ 740	Peas, split	$3,153
		Oatmeal	$ 865

Canada has got her toe into the trade of British Africa, and where she has got her toe, ought to be able, like Mickey Free's father, to get her head in.

ELECT BUSINESS MEN ALWAYS.

The management of Montreal city water department has for some time been a subject of strong comment by the daily press of the city. One of the strongest advocates of reform in the department was Ald. H Laporte, the head of the Montreal wholesale grocery firm of Laporte, Martin & Cie.

THE CANADIAN GROCER notes with gratification that the Montreal City Council has practically acknowledged the force of Ald. Laporte's arguments by naming him to the chairmanship of this important department.

This appointment is in line with what has been urged in these columns, that not only in municipal but provincial and national politics the best representatives can be had from the ranks of our keen, wide-awake business men.

Such men can apply in their public work the methods of economical management that they put into force in the direction of their own business.

SULTANA RAISINS.

The position of the Sultana raisin market keeps firm. Stocks in the primary market, according to the latest mail advices, are low, while the demand, especially from the continent, is active.

Dealers in Smyrna are confident they will have no trouble in disposing of their holdings at even present high rates.

The figures now named in the quotations are, on an average, fully 5s. per cwt. above those at which the fall importations were made.

Some of the wholesale houses in Canada have fair stocks, and those thus supplied have in their possession excellent value.

A SCARCITY OF TEA.

There appears to be quite a scarcity of cheap China black teas for a price on the Canadian market. The scarcity is particularly pronounced in the Eastern Provinces, and Toronto has been pretty well cleaned out of these teas for shipment to Montreal.

As a result, there has been quite an appreciation in prices, teas that were selling at 8½c. being now held at 10½ to 11c. in Montreal.

A scarcity also prevails in Japan teas at 12½c. per lb. downward.

There has been quite a little buying in both Toronto and Montreal of Japan tea dust. It is presumed that it is on speculative account.

Every department of the "Salada" business is managed by responsible men, who know no position but the "Top"!

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

GROCERY QUOTATIONS BY WIRE.

Occasionally, just as THE GROCER has gone to press, changes in prices are made in staple lines of goods, which a good many in the trade hear nothing of till the next issue of the paper. Should, therefore, any of the readers of this journal desire to ascertain, between regular issues, the prevailing quotation on any staple line, it will, on application, be furnished by return mail or by telegraph; if by the latter method, at the cost of the person seeking the information.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

TORONTO, Feb. 23, 1899.

GROCERIES.

THE past week has not been a particularly striking one in the local wholesale grocery trade. The volume of business is probably fair compared with the same month in other years, but there is by no means an active trade being done. The canned goods market is without any new feature, there still being very little business doing, although prices remain as before, firm. The coffee market shows some irregularity, although the changes in prices in the primary markets have not been material. The sugar market, locally, is unchanged, with business quiet. There is a steady demand for rice, and prices are firm. There is a little movement in tapioca. Wholesalers report the continuance of a good demand for bright corn syrups. There is also a fair movement in molasses. The tea market continues strong, with a fairly good business being done. The dried fruit market is without any new features.

CANNED GOODS.

There has been no material change in the canned goods market during the past week. Perhaps, on account of the slowness of the demand, some are beginning to express less confidence in the market as far as canned tomatoes are concerned. At the same time, however, there is not yet any perceptible weakening in prices, and if a demand were to spring up it would certainly tend to strengthen the position. Prices still rule from 85 to 90c. for tomatoes. The corn market is still strong, at from 90c. to $1, and the demand is good, as a rule. Peas are quiet, at from 75c. per doz. up. One of the features of the canned goods market is the growing scarcity of wax beans, the brokers practically having none left. They are in good demand at from 80 to 85c. per doz. Green beans are quiet and quoted at 75c., as a rule. Canned fruits are quiet. Although the Lenten season is now upon us, it does not appear to have yet influenced the demand for canned salmon and other kinds of canned fish. Advices from the Coast state that there is very little sockeye held there, and what is obtainable is quoted at $5 f.o.b. Coast, while cohoes are held at $3.95 to $4 f.o.b. in carload lots.

COFFEES.

The local wholesalers are still experiencing a good demand for Rio coffees. The outside markets have shown some irregularity, although the change in prices has not been much. European cables have shown some weakness during the week, and the crop movement of Brazil coffees has been fair.

SUGARS.

Cables this week showed fractional advances in beet sugar, but, while the European market is strong, the cutting of prices which is going on between the Trust and the independent refineries in the United States is causing an unsettled feeling in regard to the price of refined sugars on this side of the Atlantic. One of the independent factories in New York on Monday reduced the price of granulated sugars 1-16c. per lb., which seems to have been a surprise to the trade. Although the other refineries, up to the time of writing, had not followed this decline, yet yellow sugars are being shaded 1-16c. In Canada, there has been no change in prices, but the continued importation of American sugar is causing some uneasiness, particularly to the refineries. Total stocks of sugars in Europe and America at the end of last week were 2,461,198 tons, against 2,544,639 tons the week before, and 2,690,875 tons a year ago.

See pages 27 and 28 for Toronto, Montreal, St. John, and Winnipeg prices current.

RICE AND TAPIOCA.

Japan rice of good appearance is scarce on this market, and there is a steady demand. Patna rice has been selling more freely lately on account of the better value which they are showing. There has been quite a little tapioca moving within the past few days, at prices ranging from 3½ to 3¾c. The market is firm.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Some of the refineries are offering a few medium-grade syrups, but they report that there is no demand for them at the price at which they are held. Some American syrups are offering, but they also seem to be out of the idea of the local importer. Wholesalers report a good demand for bright corn syrups at the following prices: Barrels, 2½c. per lb.; half-barrels, 2⅝c. per lb.; kegs, 2¾c. per lb.; 3 gallon pails, $1.20 each; 2 gallon pails, 90c. There is a fair movement in molasses. The low-grade article is scarce. Advices from New Orleans report a firm market and stocks light.

SPICES.

The principal feature of the spice market is cloves, which are cabled dearer. Pepper continues in a firm position.

TEAS.

The market for Indian and Ceylon teas keeps its strength. Mail advices from London, England, under date of Febuary 11, state that the market was again higher for the lower grades of Indian teas, while medium grades were firm. In Ceylons the demand for tea under 9c. was still being maintained and prices higher. Spot teas on the Canadian market are being firmly held, and those of Indian and Ceylon growth below 13 to 13½c. have been practically cleaned out of first hands. Flavory Ceylons at from 17 to 18c. are in good demand and scarce. Most of the business that is being done by brokers is still in spot teas, the London market being on an average of from 1 to 2c. per lb. above the figures which teas held here can be purchased at. Some samples of Indian teas, which were received here this week, are costing from 1 to 2c. per lb. more than about six weeks ago. The market in Calcutta, as already announced in a previous issue, is closed. Japan teas are quiet and firm. Some Japan dust has been picked up upon this market during the past week, presumably on speculative account. China black teas are scarce, and the same may be said of Japan teas at from 12½c. down. Tea is still the most active article in the wholesale grocery trade, retailers being fairly free purchasers.

NUTS.

Jordan and Sicily shelled almonds are cabled lower. Tarragona almonds are strong. Not only are prices much above the figures which ruled last fall, but materially above those at which subsequent purchases were made.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS — The currant market keeps quiet, and there is no special feature to note. Currants are easier in New York.

VALENCIA RAISINS—The market is quiet and prices unchanged.

PRUNES — There has been no further change in the situation, prices remaining firm, while business is not yet active.

DATES—The market is unchanged at 5 to 5½c. for Sairs and 5½ to 6c. for Halowee. A shipment of 4,000 boxes is due in New York.

CALIFORNIAN FRUITS—Within the last week or ten days Californian peaches and silver prunes have advanced about 1c. per lb. Apricots are firm, and would cost something like 18c. to lay down here at the present figure ruling at the Coast. Peaches here are quoted at 10½c. per lb. and apricots at 18 to 19c.

GREEN FRUITS.

The market is in a much more satisfactory condition this week. The mild weather has encouraged shipments of all kinds of fruit. There has been a literal famine in lemons for the reason that steamers could not get to their docks in New York to unload on account of the extreme cold on the Atlantic seaboard. For some time a good box could not be secured at anything like the regular price. Shipments are expected to relieve this famine in a few days. Oranges are firm. The Californian crop seems to be very light, and advices from some sections quote an advance of $1. The crop of Valencias is heavy, but the price of this variety is likely to hold firm. On account of the receipts this week of a better quality of large 420's than had been carried an advance of $1 to $1.25 is noted for this size. Japanese Tangarines are done; Mexicans will also soon be exhausted. Some choice Jamaica bananas are expected this week. They are expected to sell as high as $2.25. Some old stock is still offering. There is a good, steady movement in onions. Supplies are difficult to get, and some sales have been made at as high as $3.50. The prices of last week, however, hold good for this. Apples are moving nicely at steady prices.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—The recurrence of mild weather has again increased shipments of new laid, and the price has dropped a couple of cents. The reduction in price has, of course, increased the consumption, which absorbs present receipts. These are expected to further increase soon, and this will bring prices down to a still lower figure than the present. The stocks of held eggs are being nicely cleared up, being about exhausted already. Limed are also getting toward their finish. New-laid are quoted at 18½ to 19½c.; limed, 14 to 14½c., and held or cold-stored at 13 to 13½c.

POTATOES—A steady feeling is noted. Offerings are liberal at 58 to 65c. f.o.b. cars at Toronto. The street market is unchanged, deliveries being fair at 65 to 70c.

POULTRY—The demand, though limited, has been brisk enough to bring the price of bright, fresh-killed turkeys up 1c. this week. From 10 to 12c. is now quoted. Other poultry are in good demand at unchanged prices.

DRIED AND EVAPORATED APPLES—The market is dead. Advices received this week quote the New York market very unsettled at 6½c. The demand at outside points is, therefore, light at 5½ to 5¾c. There is a quiet jobbing trade at 6c. for No. 1 stock. Evaporated apples are easy at 8¼c. at outside points for No. 1 stock, which is jobbing locally at 9½ to 10½c.

VEGETABLES—No change is noted. We quote: Rhubarb, $1 to $1.50; greenhouse radishes, 50 to 70c. per dozen bunches; spinach, 75c. to $1 per bush.; green onions, 10 to 15c. per doz.; celery, 75c. to $1 per doz.; lettuce, 20 to 30c. doz. bunches; radishes, winter, 15 to 25c. doz. bunches; cabbage, per doz; 75c. to $1; parsley, 10 to 12½c. per doz. bunches; turnips, 25 to 30c. per bag; beets, 50 to 60c. per bag; parsnips, 60 to 75c. per bag; carrots, 50 to 75c. per bag; onions, Danvers, $1.25 to $1.50 per bag; butter squash, $2 to $2.50; Hubbard squash, $2.50 to $3; red cabbage, 50 to 75c.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—There is a steady demand for dairy large rolls. Receipts are increasing. Prices are firm. Tubs are quiet, and are likely to continue so. The offerings of creamery prints are liberal, but a good local demand readily absorbs them. What tubs and boxes come in are readily sold for export. An inquiry for a car of creamery on British Columbia account was received on Wednesday, but the stock could not be found. Prices are firm at unaltered figures. Tubs are worth 19 to 20c. at factories.

CHEESE—The market is quiet, though a fair local trade is being done. Choice early makes are held firmly at 9½c., and late makes at 10 to 10½c.

FISH.

The oyster bays on the Atlantic coast, which were frozen over during the recent cold weather, are again open, and fishing has been carried on all this week. Supplies have been received, and the price has fallen hides as follows: No. 1, 8½c.; No. 2, 7½c.; No. 3, 6½c.; cured, 9¼c. Steer hides are worth ½c. more.

We quote: Wheat, white, 72 to 72½c.; red, 71 to 72c.; goose, 68 to 69c.; peas, 62 to 66c.; oats, 34c.; barley, 49 to 51 c.; rye, 54 to 55c. No. 1 hard Manitoba is steady at 79c., Toronto freights.

SKINS—We quote calfskins nominally: No. 1 veal, 8-lb. and up, 10c. per lb.; No. 2, 8c.; dekins, from 30 to 35c.; culls, 15 to 20c. Sheepskins and lambskins are steady at 90c. to $1.

WOOL—There is no change. Fleece is unsteady at 15c., and unwashed easy at 10c.

SEEDS.

There is little doing. Red clover is worth $3 to $3.50, and alsike $2.50 to $4, outside. So little timothy is offered that shipments are being brought in from western United States markets. Bright, unhulled lots are nominally worth $1.60 to $1.75; machine-threshed, $1 to $1.25.

SALT

A good trade is reported. Prices are steady. We quote at Toronto: Carload lots, $1.05 per bbl., and 65c. per sack of 200 lb.; less than carload lots, $1.10 per bbl., and 70c. per sack. At the wells, we quote F.O.B., barrels, 75c.; sacks of 200 lb., 45c. English salt is quoted at 48¾c. per sack of 154 lb.

MARKET NOTES.

Ontario grades of flour are 10c. cheaper.

Standard oatmeal and rolled oats have declined 10c.

Oysters have declined to the regular price —$1.25 to $1.35 per gal.

New-laid eggs have declined 2c. per doz.; limed are held 1c. cheaper.

Large Valencias have advanced $1 to $1.25. Bananas are 50c. dearer.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

MONTREAL, Feb. 23, 1899.

GROCERIES.

TRADE in general groceries has been of smaller volume during the past week, but there is still a fair amount of business passing. Few changes of importance are to report. Sugar is quiet, while the local wholesale guild, to keep out outside sellers, have cut their price of molasses to 30 to 31c. for jobbing lots. Canned goods are steady, while advices on tapioca are much stronger. Dried fruits are without new feature, and the strength in all sorts of spices is fully maintained. Coffee and tea are steady, and other branches furnish nothing noteworthy.

SUGAR.

There has been a fair business in sugar during the past week, but demand is less active than it was. Both yellows and granulated have shared in the inquiry and values are unchanged. Advices from New York state that the refined market is unsettled, but the raw article is steady. In London, both raw beet and cane have been firm according to recent cables. On Monday the former was quoted at 9s. 7½d. for present, and 9s. 8¼d. over recent quotations, with an increased demand. Offerings of cane stock were light and values were unchanged at 10s. 3d. for fair refining.

SYRUPS.

The syrup market is without change, and trading is light at 1¾ to 2¼c. per lb., as to quality, at the factory.

MOLASSES.

As a result of outside offers, the wholesale guild have reduced prices again to 30 to 31c. in jobbing quantities. Local jobbers are determined to keep outside firms out of the local market. The consequence is that retailers and consumers are obtaining Barbadoes molasses much cheaper than they otherwise would. Cables state that prices at the Islands have opened at 12c., and $4 for puncheons first cost exclusive of charges. Offerings are reported to be very light.

CANNED GOODS.

Trade in canned goods has been quiet since last report, and values generally are firmly held. Holders of tomatoes are asking 95c. per dozen in a jobbing way, but round lots can be had at 90c. The offerings of corn are small, and prices are firm at 95c to $1 per dozen. Peas are quoted at 80 to 85c. There is little doing in salmon, as jobbers here are well stocked up. On the Coast, canners are not urgent sellers sellers, and are asking $3.75 for cohoes, which is equal to $4.50 laid down in Montreal.

RICE.

The rice market is steady, while tapioca and sago are very firm. Cables on tapioca this week asked a figure that was equivalent to 4¼c. laid down here, bare cost. Demand is not particularly brisk.

DRIED FRUITS.

There is nothing new to report in dried fruits, as buyers are pretty well supplied. Valencia raisins are steady, as previously quoted, and the same can be said for Californian stock. Sultanas continue steady also. In prunes, demand is fair and advices strong from primary markets. Jobbers here are pretty well stocked up, however, with all sorts, and there is no change in prices to report. Demand runs largely to Californian and Bosnia fruits, as the offerings of French prunes are light. Figs and dates are unchanged.

SPICES.

All kinds of pepper are firm, also cloves and Jamaica ginger; in fact, sellers hardly know what price to ask for the latter.

COFFEE.

The coffee market is steady, with only a moderate business doing, but prices are held steady. In unground coffee, we hear of business in Santos and Rio at 8 to 9c. for straight unbroken lots.

TEAS.

The tea market is firm all round, the demand being fair for all sorts, chiefly for China greens, at 11 to 16c., which have been bought by Americans. Japans rule firm, but trading is light, and largely in goods ranging from 14½ to 16c. for mediums to good mediums. In low grades little new business is reported beyond a few odd lots at 13½c., but the same stock cannot be had now under 13½ to 14c. China blacks continue quiet and steady, and the same remarks apply to Ceylons and Indians.

GREEN FRUITS.

There has been little change in the green fruit market during the past week. Oranges have exhibited a fair degree of activity at unchanged prices. Lemons continue firm, and the inside figure is rather higher than it was last week. Cranberries are moving in a quiet way at former prices, and grapes are scarce and firm. Pineapples are in limited demand, and there has been no change in bananas.

APPLES.

Apples continue firm at the recent rise, and stocks here are extremely light.

FISH.

The demand, both for pickled and fresh fish, has been checked by the very mild weather that we have been having, but, as stocks are light, the fact has not had any very appreciable effect.

Ice-packed fish values rule as follows: No. 1 N.S. herrings, $4.75 to $5; B.C. salmon, $12.50 to $13; hake and green cod, $3.50 to $4.

Fresh fish fairly steady: Haddock and cod, 3½ to 4c.; steak cod, 4c.; Manitoba pickerel and dore, 5¼ to 5½c.; tommy cods, $1.25 per bbl., and fresh herrings, $1.60 per 100 fish.

Smoked and prepared stock are as follows: Haddies, 6½ to 7c., and bay bloaters, 90c. to $1 per box.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—There was no material change in the situation of the egg market. The demand was fair for small lots; the offerings of new-laid were not excessive. We quote as follows: No. 1 candled, 16 to 17c. No. 2 do., 12 to 13c.; Montreal limed, 14½ to 16c.; western limed, 13½ to 14c.; western cold storage, 12½ to 13½c., and culls, 10 to 11c. per doz.

POULTRY—Trade in poultry was very quiet. The offerings were small and prices show no change. We quote: Fresh killed turkeys, 11c.; frozen, 9 to 9½c.; choice fresh killed chickens, 9½ to 10c.; western frozen, mixed stock, 5½ to 6c.; ducks, 8 to 9c., and geese, 6 to 7c. per lb.

HONEY — Business in honey was slow, and prices were nominal. We quote: White clover comb, in 1-lb. sections, 8 to 8½c.; dark, 6½ to 7c.; white extracted, 7 to 7½c., and dark, 5 to 6c.

BEANS—A small jobbing trade continues to be done in beans at steady prices. We quote: Choice hand-picked, 95c. to $1 per bushel; primes, 85 to 90c.

ONIONS — Domestic onions show another advance of 25 to 50c. per bbl., and are scarce at $2.75 to $3.

PROVISIONS AND DRESSED HOGS.

There was no improvement in the demand for provisions, in consequence the market continues quiet and featureless. We quote as follows: Canadian pork, in barrels, $15 to $15.50; pure Canadian lard, in pails, 7¼ to 7½c. per lb., and compound refined

Similar goods to those manufactured by J. & J. THE KING OF COFFEES.

The Properties of Coffee.

Coffee as a beverage is too well known to require an extended notice. It is the principal table beverage of almost every nation in the world. This is specially so in the United States, where nearly one-half of the world's production is consumed.

A few years ago coffee was considered a luxury only indulged in by the rich. At the present time we find it in the home of the poor as well as the rich; no breakfast table is considered complete without it, and how often you hear the very significent remark, "I make my breakfast off a cup of coffee."

Coffee contains valuable medicinal properties, among others, that of being an antidote in cases of narcotic poisoning.

Coffee has frequently been found the best form of stimulant for administration to persons rescued from starvation or perishing by cold, and this is the more noteworthy, as ardent spirits given under the same conditions often prove fatal.

Captain Parry, when on his Arctic expedition, put his starboard watch on coffee and the port watch on rum, the result being that, in the course of time, the coffee watch was found to possess a vigor of health entirely lacking in the other.

As late as 1835, during a terrible epidemic, the physicians of New York signed a public manifesto, urging the public to abstain from beer and intoxicating liquors and drink pure coffee in order to keep the system healthy and render it less liable to disease, and in our own day it is well known that coffee was the principal beverage of Nansen and his crew during his last voyage to the Arctic. From all quarters testimony without limit might be accumulated to the same effect.

As a disinfectant, roasted coffee is invaluable; it is useful to purify any place having an offensive smell or bad air. The coffee beans should be roasted in the vicinity of the room to be fumigated, and when brown and while hot placed in the centre. By the time the coffee is cooled the room will be rendered thoroughly pure and sweet.

A short history of coffee will be commenced on this page in the next issue of The Grocer.

at 5 to 5½c. per lb. Hams, 10 to 12c., and bacon, 10½ to 11c. per lb.

Owing to the continued mild weather the demand for dressed hogs has fallen off considerably; in consequence the market is quiet and easy, but no actual change in prices has taken place yet. In a jobbing way light weights are quoted at $5.50 to $5.65; heavy at $5.25 to $5.40, and carload lots at $4.90 to $5 per 100 lb.

FLOUR, GRAIN, ETC.

GRAIN—There was a little improvement in the grain market, in point of activity. There was some demand from shippers for buckwheat, and a sale of about 10,000 bushels was made at 52½c., with storage paid up to May 15. At points east of Toronto, holders of oats were asking 31c., and west, 29½ to 29¾c., which figures are an advance of ¼ to ½c. per bushel. On spot, there was also a firmer feeling, and higher prices were asked, but no sales were reported.

FLOUR—In flour, business was quiet, owing to the bad state of the country and city roads. The demand was only for small lots to fill actual wants, and prices show no change. We quote as follows: Winter wheat patents, $3.75 to $4; straight rollers, $3.50 to $3.60; in bags, $1.65 to $1.75; Manitoba patents, $4 to $4.25; strong bakers', $3.70 to $3.90.

MEAL—There was no change in the situation of the meal market. The demand is chiefly for small lots and prices rule irregular. Rolled oats, in some cases, are quoted $3.70 to $3.75 per bbl., and at $1.80 per bag, while another dealer quotes barrels at $3.60, and bags at $1.75.

FEED—In feed a fairly active trade was done and prices show no change. Ontario white wheat bran, in bulk, sold at $15 to $15.25, and shorts $15.50 to $16 per ton; Manitoba bran, $16; shorts, $18, and mouille, $20 per ton, including bags.

HAY—The demand for baled hay on spot continues slow, but the movement is still fair for export account. We quote: No. 1, $5.50 to $6; No. 2 extra, $4.25 to $4.75; No. 2, clover mixture, $4; clover, $3.50 to $3.75.

CHEESE AND BUTTER.

CHEESE—Cheese remains about the same, there being no movement of any great volume. Recent shopping around the local market, however, has demonstrated the fact that the quality of strictly finest cheese available is very limited. As pointed out some time ago, over 70 per cent. of the stock here is held on English account. The balance, which is controlled by local operators, has been pretty well picked over for bargains since the end of January, and the result is as above stated, a very light supply of strictly finest. Prices are normal at 9¾ to 10¼c.

BUTTER—Continues steady to firm under a good local demand, which fully equals the supply. Trading in finest creamery was done with local jobbers at 20 to 20¼c., and no difficulty is experienced in realizing this range. Dairy butter also, when it is strictly fine, has a fair sale. Western fresh rolls are selling at 15 to 16c., and tub dairy at 14 to 14½c. Exporters are out of the butter market for all sorts at present. Receipts to-day were 639 packages.

MONTREAL NOTES.

Spices continue firm, especially pepper, at primary markets, and jobbers are asking more money.

Americans have bought considerable quantities of China teas in this market in the past ten days.

The guild have marked down the price of Barbadoes molasses to prevent outsiders from encroaching on the Montreal market.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER,
ST. JOHN, N.B., Feb. 21, 1899.

BUSINESS continues quiet. Through the Province, politics have, even more than in the city, put business in the background; but, now that the election is over and March almost here, more active movement is expected. In markets, there is little of interest, but prices are firmly held. In fish, the market is much more bare than usual at this season. Much complaint is heard regarding the delay in receiving freight from the west. The railway rushes the through freight for export and allows local freight to get sidetracked. Brooms hold their advance. Our local manufacturer finds a large demand. In cream of tartar, rather higher prices rule, but soda never was quoted lower. In payments, this is a backward month, but paper is fairly well met.

OIL—There is no change in the price of burning oil, and demand is falling off. Lubricating oil has the attention of dealers, but there is little movement. Orders taken. however, point to large business with the opening of spring. Linseed oil tends higher, and turpentine holds its high figure.

SALT—Steamers continue to bring fair shipments each trip. The quantity of Liverpool coarse salt landed here so far this season is much less than last year up to this time; in fact, about one-third less. From this out larger quantities will continue to arrive. Stock held here is light. In factory-filled there is the usual business. Canadian salt begins to show rather better demand. We quote as follows: Liverpool coarse, 38 to 40c.; English factory-filled, 90c. to $1; Canadian fine, $1 per bag; cheese and butter salt, bulk, $2.50 to $2.60 per bbl.; 5-lb. bags, $3 to $3.25 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $2.85 to $3 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 20c. each; 10-lb. wood boxes, 12c. each; cartons, $2 per case of 2 doz.; English bottled salt, $1.25 to $1.30 per doz; mineral rock salt, 60c. per 100 lb.

CANNED GOODS—Rather better demand rules, and prices have taken a further step upward. There is some inquiry from the wholesale trade for tomatoes, and quite a block changed hands at 90c. during the week. Corn still lags behind western figures, while peas are steady. Lobster are scarce, but demand is light owing to the price. Salmon sells more freely, and higher prices are expected. Some American fish are offered, but where price is such that business might result, quality is not satisfactory. Fruits are quiet. Oysters tend higher. Scallops have a good local demand. This is a line that only needs to be better known to show a large business. Canned haddies are scarce.

GREEN FRUIT—Oranges have the market. Valencias are arriving in good condition, and, while price in local market keeps low, Liverpool prices are higher, and a change here must follow if the advance holds. About this time last season prices advanced. Californians have but a fair sale. Price shows no change. Jamaicas and so-called Floridas are stronger. In lemons the stock held is light; some quite large shipments have been received from New York. Demand has been large and prices are firm. Apples are higher and firmly held, and but fair sale, oranges taking their place. Cranberries move but slowly, and bananas in but a retail way.

DRIED FRUITS—Business is quiet. Prunes have a good demand with a tendency to higher prices. Some few apricots and peaches in packages are moving, but the trade, owing to the high prices, will fall away behind that of last year. Raisins are particularly quiet. Currants move slowly at even prices. Dates are firmly held, and show improved sale. Evaporated apples, while firmly held, are rather more freely offered. The price limits the sale. There is a fair stock of dried apples held at a high figure. Peanuts are high. Figs are easier as the season advances.

SUGAR—There is but an even demand. Prices show no change. Refiners are, however, quite firm, and not inclined to shade prices to temp business. Sale is chiefly in granulated.

MOLASSES—As the time for new goods draws near, sales tend to be but from hand to mouth. Stocks here were never smaller; but at prices asked there is enough for present demand. Porto Rico is chiefly held. New Orleans has an improved sale, and fair quality is offered at low figures. Barbadoes is scarce.

PRODUCE—Eggs are scarce this week, and are quoted higher. There is a good steady demand. Butter holds its price, and there is good sale for beet grades which are scarce. There is lots of poor to fair. It is difficult to move creamery at full figures. Cheese are but limited supply, and while there is no change in price it is chiefly owing to light sale.

FISH—It is but seldom fish are so scarce in St. John. This is true of every line, except, perhaps, smoked herring, which, under no condition, seem to improve. Pickled herring are particularly limited in supply. Prices are higher, and but little business is doing. Pollock have freer sale than usual, owing to codfish being scarce and high. Prices are fully maintained. Hake are bringing a good price in the West Indies. Finnan haddies are still high, fresh haddock being scarce. Codfish are a very light stock; full prices asked. Shad show no change. There is but a light business in frozen fish; just supplying local demand. Lobsters are scarce and full figures asked. We quote as follows· Large cod, $3.65 to $3.75; medium, $3.60 to $3.65; pollock, $1.75 to $1.80; Grand Manan pickled herring, $1.95 to $2; ½-bbl.; Canso, pickled, $5 per bbl.; boneless fish, 3½ to 5c.; cod, 7 to 7½c.; finnan haddies, 5 to 5½c.; smoked herring, 6 to 7c.; spring shad, $3.75 to $4 ½-bbl.; fall shad, $4.75 to $5 ½-bbl.; Shelburne, $3.75 per bbl.; Grand Manan herring, $3.70 to $3.80 per bbl.; quoddy, $3.50 per ½-bbl.; frozen smelt, 5 to 6c.; frozen pollock, 1¼ to 1½c.; frozen cod, 2¼ to 2½c.; frozen haddock, 2½ to 2¾c.; frozen herring, 90c. per 100; fresh cod, 2½c.; lobsters, small, 3 to 4c.; do., large, 10 to 12c.

PROVISIONS—While pork holds its price, some packers are inclined to shade figures on barrelled beef. Some Canadian is being brought here. Sale, however, is light. Lard shows little change. There is a fair demand.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL—In flour, there is little doing. Prices are easy, with quite a range between millers. In Manitobas, while the Ontario mills keep prices below those of western millers, the big orders largely go west. Feed is high, and business is light. Oats and oatmeal hold their high figures. Cornmeal, though cheaper than in the west, is firmly held. There is improved demand for beans, but no large business. Packers show a range in prices, and dealers are buying at rather lower figures. Barley, split peas and blue peas are high, and, for barley, still higher figures are looked for. We quote as follows: Manitoba flour, $4.75 to $4.85; best Ontario, $4 to $4.20; medium, $3.85 to $3.95; oatmeal, $3.85 to $3.90; cornmeal, $2.20; middlings,

ST. JOHN NOTES.

Davidson Bros., wholesale grocers, of Halifax, are reported in financial difficulties.

John Sealey received the first shipment of Bermuda onions this week to arrive this season.

The second lot of Doukhobors passed through St. John last week for the west, and the third contingent are on their way out.

The West Indian steamer this week had but a small cargo, including some 30 bbls. sweet potatoes, 80 packages oranges, 50 bags of cocoanut, 150 bags of cocoa, and 30 crates Bermuda onions. She took away a full cargo.

A recent ruling at Washington is of interest to Canadians, and is as follows: A Canadian vessel cannot secure United States charters to engage in the Cuban and Porto Rican coasting trade, unless by special Act of Congress.

The sardine combine, to include the factories in and around Lubec and Eastport, is, it is said, about completed. The owners get rather more than the value of their plant in cash, and an equal amount in stock in the new company, while the larger number are retained as managers on large salaries. At least this is the report. Nearly all of the sardines packed in these factories are caught in Canadian waters.

A DEBT-COLLECTING FIRM.

J. Jones and W. F. Holland have opened up a mercantile and commercial agency in the Janes Building at Toronto. They take up all matters of a strictly confidential nature, including collections, commercial and professional; private reports, both legal and insurance; incendiary investigations, and cases needing tact and privacy, which they treat with the utmost professional skill. They court the fullest investigation as to their bona fides. Mr. Holland was one of the men who captured Charles Peace, the notorious murderer, in 1882, at Blackheath, England; William Whistler and Charles Russell, the famous Hatton Garden bank burglars, at the Marylebone church, London, England, 1886, when $500,000 worth of diamonds were stolen, which were recovered. He was shot through the right thigh, and also lost the calf of his right leg, for which injuries he receives a permanent pension from the Scotland Yard authorities. He was presented with a gold medal for his meritorious conduct from H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, and also received from Sir James Ingram, Bow Street magistrate, the highest reward (one hundred guineas) ever given to a police officer for gallant conduct, and holds testimonials from Sir Charles Warren, chief of the London police, and other persons in official circles. Mr. Jones, the manager, was formerly a well-known commercial man in Toronto, and is well qualified to fill the position.

LEGAL DECISIONS OF TRADE INTEREST.

(Reported by Peers Davidson, Esq., of the Montreal Bar, for MacLean's Trade Journals.)

IS a statement by a trader that goods of his manufacture are superior to those manufactured by another rival trader, although untrue and made maliciously, actionable as a defamatory libel; and does such a statement afford ground for an action for disparagement of goods, even if the plaintiff is damaged by it, and avers special damage?

These two questions have lately been answered in the negative by the English Court of Appeals, in a case of some interest to the trade. The plaintiffs were a limited company, and they and their predecessors had carried on business as wholesale oil merchants and paint manufacturers for upwards of 125 years. The defendants carried on a similar business and were a company similarly incorporated. The plaintiffs complained that they had been libeled and damaged by the defendants who had published to the trade the report of experts comparing "The Bell Brand Genuine White Zinc," manufactured and sold by defendants, with "Hubbuck's Patent White Zinc," manufactured by plaintiffs. The report stated the test in detail, and, in conclusion, stated that it was quite clear that defendants' zinc had a slight advantage over plaintiffs' zinc, but that for all practical purposes, they could be regarded as being, in every respect, equal.

Plaintiffs complained in detail that the report insinuated that defendants' white zinc was genuine, and plaintiffs' zinc was adulterated and not genuine, and that defendants' zinc was superior to plaintiffs', both of which statements plaintiffs declared to be untrue and made maliciously.

The remarks of the Master of the Rolls, Lord Lindley, in rendering the judgment for defendants, are interesting. He said, in part: "The truth is that the defendants' circular, when attentively read, comes to no more than a statement that the defendants' white zinc is equal to and, indeed, somewhat better than the plaintiffs'. Such a statement, even if untrue and the cause of loss to the plaintiffs, is not a cause of action. Moreover, an allegation that the statement was made maliciously is not enough to convert what is prima facie a lawful into a prima facie unlawful statement. It is not unlawful to say that one's own goods are better than other people's, and Allen vs. Flood (1897) shows that malice, in such a case, is immaterial. The fact that the defendants call their white zinc "genuine," and contrast it with the plaintiffs' white zinc, which is not called "genuine," is relied upon by the plaintiffs as showing that the circular is, or may be, fairly regarded as a defamatory libel on the plaintiffs—that is, a libel on them in the way of their trade. But, when the whole circular is looked at, and it is found that the defendants state that for all practical purposes the two contrasted paints are in every respect equal, it is impossible to treat the circular as anything more than a disparagement of the white zinc paint made and sold by the plaintiffs. No ingenuity can convert the circular into a defamatory libel on the plaintiff company, and, if the action went to trial, it would be the duty of the judge to tell the jury that no question of libel on the plaintiffs had to be considered.

"We will now consider the circular in its other aspect, namely, as a disparagement of the plaintiffs' goods. From this point of view, the case is undistinguishable from Evans vs. Harlow, and Young vs. Macrae, (1862), where malice, falsehood and damage were all alleged, and yet, it was held that what the defendant there published was not actionable. The ground of the decisions in both cases was that for a person in trade to puff his own wares and to proclaim their superiority over those of his rivals is not actionable. The principle laid down in these cases has never been questioned, and it has been emphatically approved in White vs. Mellin."

(Hubbuck vs. Wilkinson, 68 L.J., Q.B.D., p. 34.)

A case similar to the above does not appear to have yet arisen in the Province of Quebec.

PERSISTENCY.

A PROVERB which should be taken to heart and mind more often is that one which intimates that persistency triumphs against well-nigh insuperable obstacles, says Portland Tradesman. There should be a feeling nourished that all improvement and progress must necessarily be gradual in order to be permanent. A sudden spurt, which may serve on the race track to bring a horse under the wire a head or so before the favorite, steadily pegging away, will not serve in the ethics of business without the cooperation of many favorable conditions which usually exist only for the favorite few.

At the beginning of a career or the commencement of a business venture no one can safely predict what its outcome will be. Many men who have started in life under the most auspicious circumstances have been known to fail from a lack of foresight at some critical moment, or an imprudent step which they have found impossible to retrieve. Such instances are plentiful enough to make one perceive that such failures are partly due to a feeling of superiority which is too frequently cherished by those whose progress has been facilitated by inherited wealth, or the prestige of a good name descended from ancestors, or the opportunity to step into a thriving business of a predecessor. Men who are so advantageously situated believe themselves favored sons of the gods and are prone to imagine that they can prosper without effort on their own part. In truth, their opinion of themselves may grow to such gigantic proportions that they feel their talents may be exercised without much application or serious thought. Their elation over their present success blinds them to the proceedings of others ; they think that the momentum which their business has attained will carry it on by itself.

The deterioration which occurs most inevitably is caused by the lack of persistency and perseverance which are requisite to maintain a position after it is once gained. It is absolutely essential to the healthy growth of a business that almost an equal amount of vigilance be exercised after the height is attained as was necessary when the struggling was undergone to secure a permanent footing.

There are in contrast to those who have been shown a partiality by Dame Fortune a goodly number who have risen without any assistance whatever except that obtained by their own natural ability. United to this were persistency and an unerring judgment which made the most of every opportunity, and even created the latter where it did not occur. Moreover, wise men frequently take advantage of competitors' shortcomings to rise on the strength of merit which is always recognized wherever it appears. There is always an opening for genuine ability to display itself if it exists ; therefore every preparation should be made to step into breaches which are left open in the enemy's defenses.

A REPLY FROM MR. BERNARD.

EDITOR CANADIAN GROCER, — I was rather surprised at the discourteous tone of the "Salada's" letter in reply to my statement re the increasing imports of Japan tea in Canada. I merely stated facts which there is no getting away from, notwithstanding their broad assertions to the contrary. The only point of importance which they raise is that of having to pay a duty of 10c. per pound on every pound of tea a man imports as soon as it lands in the United States, which I feel is my duty to contradict, and in doing so I will again state simple facts.

A well-known firm of New York write me that all their teas are sold in bond. They never think of paying duty except in some extreme cases, and up to within the last four weeks they have had thousands of packages of tea in bonded warehouses in U. S. on which no duty has yet been paid.

As this completely upsets the "Salada's" theory, further comments are unnecessary.

C. M. BERNARD.

THE TORONTO RETAIL GROCERS "AT HOME."

THE event of the season in Toronto retail grocery circles is over. On Tuesday the annual "At Home" of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association was held in St. George's hall, Elm street.

For some time an energetic committee, under the chairmanship of vice-president D. J. Kelley, had been spending much time and thought in the preparation of an entertainment which should excel all previous efforts of a like nature. That it succeeded in these good intentions was the unanimous verdict of the many retailers, travelers and representatives of wholesale houses present. The attendance was just about the same as last vear, about 270 guests assembling.

Among the guests were: Messrs. Percy Eby, Geo. Grant and D. Casey, from The Eby, Blain Co., Limited; C. E. Edmonds, John Edmonds, Jas. Mortimer, T. Holman, James Norris and Frank Choate, from Christie, Brown & Co.; George Sloan and J. W. Wrinker, from John Sloan & Co.; Robert Maxwell and C. Hayes, from Perkins, Ince & Co.; C. Bolton and G. Fleming, from T. Kinnear & Co.; W. A. Strowger and J. Anderson, of The Ireland National Food Co., Limited; Wm. J. Marshall and Alex. Paxton, from Rutherford, Marshall & Co.; W. H. Clemes, E. Oak and J. Torrance, from Clemes Bros.; L. L. Kemp and A. Moffatt, from D. Gunn, Bros. & Co.; R. Donald, F. Gallow, and James Litster, from The Pure Gold Manufacturing Co., Limited; Charles Dawson, C. Thauburn, and F. Gooderham, from The Dawson Commission Co., Limited; F. W. Humphrey and W. Kindree, from F. W. Humphrey; A. M. Piper and D. Farwell, from A. M. Piper & Co.; Wm. J. Parkes and G. Manning, from Dalton Bros.; John Wright and Isaac H. Brelsford, from The Toronto Biscuit and Confectionery Co.; H. W. Thorpe and Wm. B. Stringer, from McWilliam & Everist; Henry Wright, of Henry Wright & Co.; D. J. Warren, of Warren Bros. & Co.; James Lumbers, of James Lumbers & Co.; C. Fairbairn, of Fairbairn & Robertson; D. Morton, of Morton & Son; Joseph P. Thompson and F. C. Thompson, of Thompson & Thompson; Walter Collins, from M. McLaughlin & Co.; Jerry Burns, from Todhunter, Mitchell & Co.; Charles Coutts, from John Taylor & Co.; H. More, from Pugsley, Dingman & Co.; A. H. Canning, of A. H. Canning & Co.; C. H. Collins and S. A. McNeil, from G. F. & J. Galt; A. I. Irving, from P. C. Larkin & Co; C. W Brown, from The Monsoon Tea Co.; G. F. Campbell, from T. B. Escott & Co., London, Ont.

The entertainment consisted of a concert, card-playing, dancing, and a supper. The first event was the concert. The musical committee, of which David Bell was chairman, won for itself a great reputation, because of the excellence of the entertainment provided. The performers were strictly first class, and the programme was nicely balanced between the artistic and the amusing.

Miss Lola Ronan and the Sherlock Male Quartette, always favorite singers in Toronto, treated the audience with some of the best selections. "Jimmie" Fax appeared some half dozen times and never failed to cause a roar of laughter and applause. Miss Florence and Master James Gardiner, expert young dancers of the Highland fling, etc., pleased the audience even as thoroughly as the older participants in the programme. The concert was considered by all the best the association has yet provided.

At the close of the concert, the president-elect mounted the platform to address the guests. Frank is popular with "the boys" and they gave him such a warm reception that he blushingly confined his speech to a very few, well-expressed remarks.

Then the floor was cleared off, and, to music provided by Maitland's orchestra, a merry crowd was soon tripping off waltzes, etc. At the same time, in an adjoining room, some dozen or so tables were devoted to pedro and euchre. These were well patronized, and many an exciting game was played by the many experts present.

About midnight supper was served, and, as the capacity of the tables was limited to about a hundred, they were almost filled three times by hungry guests, who did full justice to the repast provided by Caterer Wheeler. The supper was in keeping with the rest of the entertainment—strictly first-class. Many members of the association expressed pleasure at the action of The Pure Gold Manufacturing Co., in providing, gratis, the tables with jellies made by that firm.

A WINNIPEG GROCER.

Mr. D. W. McLean, of Winnipeg, has been paying a visit to Montreal during the past week. He came east with the Winnipeg hockey boys, and as it was his first visit to Montreal, he took full advantage of his spare time to see all he possibly could of the city.

Mr. McLean has been for several years one of Winnipeg's foremost grocers, and says business in the west is good and the prospects for the future bright indeed.

"ZELLER" WAFERS.

"Through the kindness of Peek, Frean & Co.," writes Mr. McKim, of THE GROCER'S London Office, "I had an opportunity of sampling several varieties of their 'Zeller' wafers, a new dainty which they have but recently added to their already large list of biscuits.

"'Zeller' wafers have been well known in England for many years and have enjoyed the distinction of being patronized largely by the Royal Family, and the nobility for several successive seasons, but it is only within a comparatively short time that Peek, Frean & Co., have acquired the plant and recipes from the original maker, so they are entirely new to this firm's customers, in Canada at least.

"There are at present ten varieties, four savoury, 'Anchovy,' 'Celery,' 'Cheese,' and 'Oriental Cheese,' and six sweet, 'Regina,' 'Cigarette Ice,' 'Cigarette Vanilla,' 'Imperial,' and 'Cone.' The first four varieties are simply delicious when sandwiched with butter, and the six sweet are pecularly suited to accompany ices, whipped cream, etc. A delightful way of serving the 'Cone' wafers, is to fill them with cream, custard, or ice. This makes a light and delicious dessert.

"All these varieties are remarkable for their delicacy and daintiness. They are extremely thin, crisp, of delightful flavor, and a novel shape. For high-class trade they are sure to be greatly in demand, and dealers who wish to add a specially attractive line to their stock of biscuits should ask Charles Gyde, 20 & 22 St. Francois Xavier street, Montreal, who is their Canadian agent, for a sample shipment, and they will be freely sent."

SPICE WORKS DAMAGED BY FIRE.

On Monday morning, about 2 o'clock, fire broke out in Todhunter, Mitchell & Co.'s spice works. As it was, however, discovered early, it was confined to one flat, where some whole spices were stored.

All the coffee and the bulk of the spices were, fortunately, stored in another warehouse.

No damage worth mentioning was done to the coffee and spice machinery, and they were running as usual the day of the fire. The execution of orders will, therefore, be in no way interfered with.

The insurance adjuster visited the premises early this week, and a settlement has been reached between the firm and the insurance companies regarding the loss.

CHAT WITH A DENIA FRUIT MAN.

MR. Herbert Coe, one of the partners of the firm of J. Mayans, Grustan & Co., shippers of Valencia raisins, shelled almonds and Spanish onions, Denia, Spain, is in Canada this week, having arrived at New York by the Etruria, the boat which was nearly run down by the United States man-of-war Marblehead, the other day. "It was a very narrow escape," said Mr. Coe, "as the boats came alongside of each other."

This is Mr. Coe's first visit to Canada. He is an Englishman by birth, although he has been a resident of Spain for some fifteen years. He is visiting the trade, accompanied by Mr. Geo. Lightbound, the Canadian representative. Referring to the Valencia raisin situation, Mr. Coe said: "The situation looks strong, as the stocks in the several countries are less than usual, notwithstanding that the crop last year was larger than in the preceding year. France increased her consumption of Denia fruit considerably, and lately there has been an increased consumption in Norway, Sweden and Denmark. Shipments to the United States have dwindled to almost nothing."

"Of course, the production of raisins has fallen off in Spain," I remarked.

"Yes," said Mr. Coe, "in some districts, such as Grandia, which formerly produced large quantities of raisins, they have substituted the cultivation of tomatoes and other vegetables, which are shipped to England and France. The orange crop in the Valencia district is estimated this year at 4,000,000 cases, which is an unusually large crop."

Mr. Coe reports that his firm is much gratified with the business it did in Canada last year.

STORE FIXTURES.

THE Scriptural parable regarding the putting of new wine into old bottles sometimes occurs to the writer at the sight of fine stocks of groceries in stores with antiquated and dingy fixtures, says Merchants' Review.

Nothing can counteract the impression produced by very inferior goods, not even low prices, yet goods of average quality are more apt to impress the public favorably than goods of a little better grade, if the former have the help of modern counters, elaborately ornamented canisters, immaculate and showy caddies, plate glass windows, marble-top butter counters, imposing refrigerators, etc., etc., and if the better goods are shown in a store with old and plain fixtures.

But we would not recommend a trial of the experiment, for the public has been so generally educated by the best class of grocers in the use of the best goods, sold in palatial establishments, that those dealers who would like to stick to a different system, have no option in the matter, if they desire to remain in the business and make good profits.

A generation ago good goods and cleanliness might cover a multitude of business sins and the dealer still give satisfaction, but in the interval a wondrous change has taken place and the public has grown much more fastidious.

The irresistible force of competition, the result of the introduction of new methods of distribution, is responsible for the change, and the dealer must go with the current or take the risk of being cast high and dry upon some of the rocks that line the stream of trade.

THE VALUE OF SUGAR.

Children all over the world, and all the keepers of "sweetstuff" shops, ought to join in a testimonial to the learned though anonymous scientist who publishes in The Allgemeine Zeitung an enthusiastic glorification of sugar. Not only as a "genussmittel," but much more as a "nahrungsmittel" sugar is almost the most valuable thing which enters the mouth of man, woman, or child. There is scarcely any other equally important feeder of muscle power. The laborer can do nothing better than keep a few lumps of sugar in his pocket. The negroes in sugar plantations renew and quicken their weary bodies by sucking the sugar canes. Sugar is a fine restorative for soldiers. A Dutch army surgeon asserts that during an expedition in Sumatra he found that the best means to maintain the soldiers in vigor and freshness, not only during the march, but during the fight, was a generous allowance of sugar. Each man was served with a handful at a time. The Swiss chamois hunters bear similar evidence to its marvellous powers of sustenance and of recuperation after exhausting fatigue.

The writer gives an account of successful experiments made with sugar as food for athletes by several of the Dutch rowing clubs, by pedestrians, by cyclists, and others whose bodily powers need "a rapid, portable and innocent stimulant." Sugar is coming more and more into use in Holland in the course of "training" for contests, and it is as good for beasts as it is for men. The poor hardly realize as yet, or only realize unconsciously, what a treasure they possess in cheap sugar. Its value in fever has been emphasized by Hupeland and others. That which is supposed to injure the teeth in the consumption of "goodies" is not the sugar, but the so-called "fruit acids" which are introduced to flavor the sugar. Negroes who devour sugar in so huge a quantity, have the best teeth in the world.—Kuhlow's.

TRADE CHAT.

THE Nova Scotia Pork Packing Co., with headquarters at Middleton, N.S., will be established this fall. The capital stock, $33,000, has all been taken up.

Canada exported 118,398 cwt. of butter to Great Britain from September 1 to January 31, as compared with 83,461 cwt. in the same period a year ago.

The Dominion Statistician states that there are about 14,000,000 hens in Canada. These produce about 80,000,000 dozen eggs per year.

The Frontenac Milling Co.'s grist mill at Kingston, which has just been completed, is 64 x 65 feet and 65 feet high. The manufacturing capacity of the mill will be 300 barrels of flour and 100 barrels of cornmeal every 24 hours, in addition to feed products.

BROOM CORN AGAIN ADVANCES.

News reached The Grocery World last week that the broom-corn market had advanced again, and that this probably meant another advance in brooms, the recent sharp upward fluctuations in which were told when they occurred. At the present writing, the broom-corn market rules at $120 per ton, which is an advance, from the lowest point, of $40. The cause is a small crop, due to the fact that broom corn has been one of the farmers' least profitable crops.

Broom prices have already advanced slightly in first hands on account of the jump in broom corn, but jobbing prices have not yet been affected. Everything points to further advances as soon as the spring trade opens.

WHAT MAY HAPPEN.

There is a story, says an exchange, of two thieves fighting over a donkey. The altercation originated in discussing the disposition to be made of the animal—whether or not it should be sold. While they were contending together, a third robber came up and rode the donkey away. Such a tale might apply very well to hot-headed concerns which are so bent on keenly competing with one another that they are oblivious to the fact that someone else is carrying off the business, a turn of affairs which is by no means impossible.

PERSONAL MENTION.

A. P. Tippet, of A. P. Tippet & Co., has returned from a business trip to Great Britain, feeling much better after his trip. He says he found business booming. Mr. Tippet came out on the Canada, and speaks in glowing terms of the accommodation. "It is in every respect A1, in fact, I never enjoyed a trip more in my life."

MANITOBA MARKETS.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 20, 1899.

WEATHER has been fine and very mild all week. Business shows a noticeable improvement, especially in orders by mail. Wholesale houses report that they are quite busy filling orders, and as the indications are in favor of an early spring, this activity is likely to continue and increase.

There are no changes in price of any note. In fact, it is a long time since prices remained so stationary as they have done this winter.

WHEAT—Deliveries have increased at country points, owing to the mild weather, but prices are weak and market is not satisfactory.

FLOUR—The flour market is much more active than at the beginning of the month, and trade is now fairly brisk. Prices have not changed. Quotations are: Patent, $1.95; strong bakers', $1,75; XXXX., $1.15.

CEREALS—Shipments of rolled oats have been received from the American side, which have tended to depress prices. Millers complain that there are not enough oats in the country, of the right quality, to supply their demand.

CANNED GOODS—Are without change, although tomatoes show indications of lower prices. Some sales have been effected at $2.15. Other lines are without change and sales are somewhat slow.

CURED MEATS—This market is very dead at the present time; there is absolutely nothing doing. No change in price has taken place for weeks and none are anticipated at present.

EGGS—Supply of fresh-gathered eggs limited. With the milder weather, shipments will, no doubt, increase. Fresh gathered, 19 to 20c. per doz.; strictly fresh laid are retailing at 40c.

BUTTER—Nominal market, 22 to 23c. per lb. Dairy receipts are fairly heavy. Jobbers are asking 15 to 16c. for lb. prints.

POTATOES—Are still rather scarce and readily fetch 40 to 45c. per bushel.

GREEN FRUIT—Messina lemons are arriving in carload lots and are very fine, at $4 to $4.50 per case. Apples grow very scarce for really first-class stock. Spies are quoted at $5.50 to $6; Ben Davis, $4 to $4.50. Supplies of bananas are very irregular, but the mild weather will increase supply, and will also tend to increase shipments of all classes of goods. The severe weather practically paralyzed the country fruit trade while it lasted.

A THRONE OF STARCH.

The Edwardsburg Starch Co., Cardinal, are sending their friends a calendar, which, in point of artistic design, excellence of color, and general get up, is one of the handsomest that has reached THE GROCER office in many a long day. The picture represents "The Starch Queen," a dainty, white-clad, little lady, sitting on a throne composed of Edwardsburg starch boxes. Anyone who has not received one of these pretty souvenirs should drop the company a post card asking for one.

To Satisfy

critical smokers with unvarying quality in the brand of cigars you sell, means, of course, that you will gain their good-will and their permanent trade. My "Pharaoh" Cigar that retails for 10c. is doing exactly this for a thousand up-to date grocers in Canada.

I am particular to see that every one of these cigars does not vary one iota in quality and workmanship from the high standard that has made the "Pharaoh" famous. They must satisfy me first—every one of them ; then and not till then do you get them. My aim is to build up permanent trade with my cigars—send for my price list.

VOL. XIII. TORONTO AND MONTREAL, MARCH 3, 1899. NO. 9

SIMPLIFICATION OF THE COLLECTION OF DEBTS.*

By W. E. Raney, Toronto.

CHEAP law means encouragement to the people to vindicate their rights. Dear law means discouragement to the people to vindicate their rights. If a man is discouraged from pursuing his legal rights he will in no long time lose the feeling of legal right. Hampden battled against the payment of an unjust tax because for centuries he and his forefathers had battled sturdily for their private rights. National sentiment rises no higher than its foundation head—the individuals composing the nation. Had the Roundheads not had the sense of legal right strongly developed, the Stuarts would probably still be absolute monarchs of Great Britain. A German writer declares with exact truth that in the shilling for which the Englishman stubbornly struggles the political development of England lies. The people who bravely assert their rights in the smallest matters will rest secure in their highest possessions.

Whenever justice is denied or unduly delayed, an injury is committed to the individual's feeling of legal right, and thus indirectly to the national strength, and the community accustomed to such denials and delays will, in time, come to look with complacence, if not with actual sympathy, upon the violator of the law as being like itself arrayed against the state power, the natural enemy of both. That the denials and delays may not be intentional on the part of the Government but only the result of a cumbrsome and antiquated system of procedure will make little difference in the result. The general public is not over nice in discriminating between a system and its administrators.

This much in general vindication of the struggle for law procedure reform. The subject is a large one, but to-night we shall be concerned only with that branch of it having to do with procedure in the inferior civil courts.

Ontario has three distinct court systems for the trial of actions. Two of these are inferior courts, that is to say, their jurisdiction is limited. They have to do with the collection of claims up to $200, and, where the amount is ascertained by the signature of the defendant, up to $600. They are the courts, therefore, in which the great mass of the people have most interest.

The first question that naturally suggests itself is, why two inferior court systems? The same judges who preside in the County Courts also preside in the Division Courts within their respective jurisdictions. But not only is the procedure in the Division Courts entirely different from that in the County Court, but a plaintiff's success in recovering his claim may depend upon whether it is below or above the line dividing the two jurisdictions.

In the Division Court a plaintiff may sue for damage up to $60; on an open account up to $100, and on a promissory note up to $200. If his claim be above these figures he must go to the County Court. The line dividing the jurisdiction of the one court from that of the other is thus purely arbitrary. There is no reason whatever for it beyond the fact of its existence.

THE COUNTY COURTS.

I have said that the procedure in the County Court is different from that in the Division Court. The County Court is in fact the high court in miniature. The same rules govern procedure in both and the lower court has nearly all the frills known at Osgoode Hall. It is therefore unnecessary to say that the procedure in the County Court is even quite as cumbersome as that in the high court, and a glance at the reports of the Inspector of Legal Offices discloses the fact that relatively to the importance of the matters dealt with, the County Courts enjoy the distinction of being the most costly courts in the Province. Thus the total amount of the judgments recovered after trial in the County Courts in 1896 was a little less than $24,000; the solicitors' costs taxed against the unsuccessful litigants under those judgments were a little less than $20,000. The total amount of similar judgments in 1897 was less than $25,000 and the total amount of the like costs allowed, a little more than $24,000. These figures only, of course, include one set of solicitors' costs, and as in practice both sides in the County Court are always represented by solicitors, it is fair to assume that the costs for which the defeated litigants became liable to their own solicitors, were not less than those which they were ordered to pay to the other side. Thus the rather astonishing result is reached that every dollar for which judgment is recovered in the County Court after trial costs nearly $2.00 in solicitors' fees and disbursements.

Some specific instances disclosed in the report of the Inspector of Legal Offices for 1897 are worth noting. In the County Court of the county of Bruce it appears that eight cases were entered for trial. In three of these judgments were entered up after trial. The total amount recovered by the successful parties (assuming that the judgments were paid) was $315.52. The total amount of costs taxed was $821.16 and the total amount of disbursements allowed $434.33.

In the County Court of the county of Elgin ten cases were entered for trial. In seven of these judgments were entered up after trial. The total amount recovered by the successful parties was $478.06. The total amount of costs taxed was $1,233.15 and the total amount of disbursements allowed $696.74.

In the County Court of the county of Oxford eight cases were entered for trial. In five of these judgments were entered up after trial. The total amount recovered by the successful parties was $330.86. The total amount of costs taxed was $585.53 and the total amount of disbursements $245.81.

In the County Court of the county of Peterborough four cases were entered for trial. Judgments were entered up in these four cases after trial. The total amount recovered by the successful parties was $119.83. The total amount of costs taxed was $364.47 and the total amount of disbursements allowed $166.85.

In the County Court of the county of York one hundred and five cases were entered for trial. In fifty-four of these judgments were entered up after trial. The total amount recovered by the successful parties was $6,580.38. The total amount of costs taxed was $5,274.91 and the total amount of disbursements allowed $1,570,05.

Of course in many cases the costs were in much lower ratio, but the above examples will indicate what is possible under the present County Court system, and if the County Court is not a popular court no other explanation of the fact than these figures will be necessary,

In 1896, 2,286 cases were entered in the County Courts of the Province, of which, however, only 357 went to trial; 101 cases were entered for trial in the Toronto County Court leaving only 256 cases for the 42 other County Courts of the Province, or an average of six cases for each County Court outside of Toronto.

In 1897, 2,266 cases were entered and 410 of these went to trial. Of that number 105 were entered for trial in Toronto leaving an average of seven for each of the other County Courts. In the same year in 16 of the County Courts four cases or less were entered for trial, and in almost every county in the Province outside of Toronto it frequently happens that not more than one case is set down at a sittings to be tried by a jury. The result is that a full jury panel has to be summoned to the county town for no other purpose, in case there should happen to be no criminal business, than the trial of that one civil case which might equally as well and much more economically have been tried before the same judge sitting as he now does in the Division Court in the neighborhood where the cause of action arose, where probably the parties and the witnesses reside, with the assistance of a jury of five men summoned under the provisions of the Division Courts' Act.

THE DIVISION COURTS.

As between the County Courts and the Division Courts the latter are undoubtedly the popular courts. The reason is not far to find. They are comparatively speaking cheap, they are local and their procedure is expeditious. The costs in a Division Court case do not usually exceed $5.00 or $10.00, even for claims up to the limit of the jurisdiction of the court. The sittings of the Court are held where the parties reside or the cause of action arose, and if trial by jury is desired it is to be had at a trifling expense by a jury of five men. The circuit of the Division Courts in each county is required to be made at least once in two months so that parties do not have to wait long for the determination of their causes. In one respect, however, the procedure in the County Court has the advantage over that in the Division Courts. In the County Court a plaintiff may by paying sixty cents issue his writ against any number of defendants. He may then serve the writ himself or through his solicitors without permission from anyone. In the Division Court on the other hand he can only (except in cases involving $10 or less) set the legal machinery in motion by paying a deposit of several dollars to cover the clerk's and bailiff's fees. He is not permitted to serve the summons himself, or, if as a special concession he is, he must pay the bailiff's charges just as though the work had actually been done by the bailiff. In other respects too the Division Court, particularly in cases involving small amounts, say $50 or less, is too costly. By a late amendment to the Act the costs other than bailiff's charges in cases where $10 or less is claimed, were limited to $1.25. This was a step, though a very short one, in the right direction.

THE ENGLISH COUNTY COURT.

England has only one inferior court system. The country is divided into about 500 districts for County Court purposes. There are 57 County Court Judges, each of whom presides over from one to a dozen districts. Sittings are held in each district once a month and every action must be brought within the district where the defendant resides or carries on business, unless leave of the court to commence it elsewhere is obtained. On payment of one shilling in the pound of his claim, a plaintiff may issue a summons endorsed with a short statement of his cause of action. He may enter his claim with the clerk of the court either personally or through the post and in cases involving not more than two pounds there are no solicitors' costs. The weakness of the English County Court system, like our own County Court system, is that it too much affects high court procedure. It has a complete and elaborate system of pleading and proceedings for obtaining discovery, etc., and costs, except in the petty cases last referred to, are ascertained by taxation, that is to say by putting a premium on circumlocution.

A NEW INFERIOR COURT.

With the Ontario County Court and Division Court Acts and the English County Court Act to draw upon, it would be an easy matter to frame a new inferior court system for this Province that would answer all the requirements of the case.

To start with, Ontario only needs one inferior court. That court should be called the County Court, but, like the English County Court, and like our own Division Court, its sittings should be local. In other words, the County Court judges should try all cases up to the limit of the County Court jurisdiction in the immediate locality where the cause of action arose or the parties reside.

The English system, under which the creditor can commence his action by simply taking or sending a memorandum of his claim to the court and paying a shilling in the pound deposit to cover court costs, is a great improvement over the practice in both our inferior courts. If that plan were adopted here, a man with a claim of, say, $20, would pay on entering his claim, $1, and then would be quit of court expenses, except witness fees in case there should be a contest.

High court procedure ought to be abolished from the inferior court. The theory is, that under the present elaborate system of pleading and rules for obtaining discovery, each side comes to trial with notice of the case the other side is seeking to make. The fact is that pleading and discovery in nine cases out of ten are the purest farces, and are productive of nothing but solicitors' costs. The court ought to have power, on the application of either party, to order pleadings or discovery of documents, but unless costs were given on such applications, it is safe to say, they would not be very frequent.

And that suggests the question of costs. At present, there are no costs in the Division Court, except that, in cases involving above $100 which go to trial, the judge may, in his discretion, allow a counsel fee up to $10. Something is to be said in favor of the indemnification of a party, whom another's default or wrongful conduct has compelled to seek redress in the courts, from the costs often necessary of employing a solicitor. If it were provided that, in every case in which a defence was entered and judgment subsequently delivered for, say, $20 or more, the judge might, in his discretion, allow, in addition, up to 10 per cent. of the amount recovered, or, in the event of the claim being disallowed, 10 per cent. of the amount of the claim, as an indemnity against solicitor's costs, substantial justice would probably be done. By this plan, the costs would be strictly limited, and, at the same time, some relief would be secured to the person who had been forced into court for the vindication of his rights or to answer the unfounded claim of another.

The garnishment clauses of the Division Court Act, under which debts due the defendant may be attached either before or after judgment has been recovered, work well, and should be a feature of the new court.

So ought the judgment summons process, under which a creditor may ascertain what means his debtor has of paying his claim, and may get an order for periodical payments, according to the debtor's ability to pay. This feature of the law might, with advantage, be modified so as to provide, as is done in the English Act, that the plaintiff may, in his summons, ask for payment in instalments, so as to avoid the necessity for the expense of a second court proceeding by way of judgment summons, with its attendant expense.

The present Division Court jury system works well, and would be equally effective in cases up to the present limit of the County Court jurisdiction.

What would be the advantages of the reform system?

1. Uniformity. We would have one inferior court, with one system of procedure, instead of two inferior courts, with two systems of procedure.

2. Simplicity. The new rules would be designed to meet the demands for business methods in the courts and not to exemplify the great doctrine of how-not-to-do-it.

3. Expedition. In Toronto there are four sittings of the County Court for the trial of jury cases and two sittings for the trial of non-jury cases each year; the Division Courts sit every week. The proposal is that the new court should sit as frequently as the present Division Court.

4. Convenience. Parties, witnesses and jurors would not be compelled to go to the county town often at the expense of traveling a long distance and of several days' time to attend upon County Court cases.

5. Cheapness. Under the new system, cases which must now be tried in the County Court would be disposed of at about one-tenth of the present cost to the parties. And, as to cases within the present Division Court jurisdiction, there would be no good reason why a creditor up to the amount of, say, $50, should not get judgment at an expense, so far as court fees are concerned, of $1. If he were allowed to serve the summons himself that would be the entire cost of recovering judgment outside of witness fees. From $1 the court fees might be graduated up to $4 or $5, according to the amount of the claim, these fees to cover all court charges down to and including judgment except bailiff's charges, and plaintiffs to be at liberty to serve the summonses themselves if they wish. The greatly increased volume of business which would be certain to result from a tariff of fixed and moderate charges would more than compensate the officials concerned for any reduction in fees.

And to the municipalities the saving in expense would be very considerable. In each of the 43 County County districts full jury panels are summoned to the county town twice each year to try criminal and County Court cases. Each juryman is entitled to be paid mileage and $2 per day while in attendance and while going to and returning from court. It is not an uncommon thing for jurors to be summoned from points 50 miles from the county town. In Toronto there are always criminal cases to be disposed of, but in the outer counties it frequently happens at a sitting of the court that there are no criminal cases. When this state of things exists the summoning of the jury might be dispensed with if there were no civil jury cases, but if there should be one jury case a full jury panel must be summoned, and the county thus put to an expense of several hundred dollars to try one case, which, under the new system, would be tried without any expense to the county at the sittings of the court nearest where the parties reside.

The foregoing is necessarily a very brief outline of the proposed reform. It will be easy to suggest points that have not been touched, or improvements upon some of the suggestions I have ventured to make. But my purpose will have been served if, on the one hand, I have succeeded in pointing out the glaring defects of the present system, and, on the other hand, in suggesting in outline the salient features of a new and improved system. With the present court system before him as a guide, the practical lawmaker will have little difficulty in selecting the details necessary to fill in the outline.

It is safe to say that the general public and the municipalities will welcome any reform that will cheapen and simplify, without impairing, the administration of justice. But what about the County Court judges and officials and the legal profession, and, lastly, what about the Legislature?

As to the judges and court officials, they are the servants of the public, and it is to be assumed that they will readily fall in with any scheme that is for the general good. There are 63 County Court judges in Ontario, as against 57 County Court judges in England, with its population and wealth many times greater than ours. The 60 judges outside of Toronto each try an average of four or five County Court cases a year. In addition to this, they go on Division Court circuit and perform certain High Court, Surrogate Court and municipal duties, which are, however, for the most part more formidable in the enumeration than in the performance. Few of the judges will, I venture to think, be heard to complain if the sphere of their activity is somewhat widened.

As to the members of the legal profession, there is among many of them, undoubtedly, a prejudice against change in legal procedure. But the time has come when the profession ought to see that, in its own interests, procedure, especially in the inferior courts, must be simplified and cheapened. The feeling that a lawsuit anywhere outside the Division Court may mean ruin to both parties is both widespread and well founded. In fact, it has come to this, that the only fearless clients are corporations and insolvents—the former possibly because they have no consciences, and the latter because they have nothing to lose.

In the Legislature, the proposed reform will, I believe, have nothing to fear. It is not a party question. The responsibility of the Attorney-General and of the leader of the Opposition in the matter are equal. It only needs that it shall be pressed forcibly upon the attention of the House. Legislative reforms come always from the people. Parliaments, as a rule, move as they are impelled from without. Laws are only memoranda of public sentiment. It follows that the lawmakers must follow public sentiment, not lead it. They are justified in making radical changes in the law when such changes are demanded by the people, not before.

LONDON GROCERS DISCUSS TRADE TERMS.

A MEETING of London retail grocers was held on Tuesday evening Feb. 21. The president, Mr. R. A. Jones opened the meeting by stating that it had been called for the purpose of discussing some very important trade questions. The first and perhaps most important one on the list, was, "Are the present rates of discounts and terms of payments given by the wholesale trade satisfactory to the retail trade ?"

In order to bring out both sides of the question it was arranged that it take the form of a debate, the president taking the affirmative and the vice-president the negative.

The president remarked that he hoped that those he had chosen to speak in favor of the present terms given by the wholesale trade would try and forget for the time being that they were retail grocers and bring out the points in favor of the present terms.

He could at least advance one point in favor of short dates for payments. It would make the retail grocer look sharp after his collections, particularly if his capital is limited. He could not allow his customers to run long accounts if he wished to obtain the best discounts, and the nearer we get to a cash system of doing business, the better.

The vice-president, Mr. R. H. Cullis, said he felt that the wholesale grocers were rather hard on the retail trade. They not only shortened the time, but cut the discounts down too. Some lines were hardly in stock until they had to be paid for. Take sugars and tobaccos. The time is so short and discounts cut down, until there is no time to turn the goods over, and little inducement to pay cash. Canned vegetables have to be bought while the vegetables are still growing in the field or pay a big advance later on.

Mr. W. H. Ferguson said that although not now a grocer he still took an interest in the trade and the Retail Grocers' Association. He maintained that the present terms are in the interest of the retail grocer. It was perhaps necessary in the early days when the country was new and facilities for transportation slow and in some cases goods could only be moved in certain seasons, to have long time for payments, but in these days when goods can be obtained almost at a moment's notice, it is not necessary to stock heavily. Therefore, there was not the necessity for long terms of credit. He believed the shorter the credit the better, as it would have a tendency to bring about the strictly cash business, the only correct basis for conducting business. If the retail trade have not the courage to adopt the cash system the wholesale trade should teach them to do so.

Mr. W. H. Branton took the stand that the retail trade are not being fairly dealt with by the wholesale guild. "It is all very well to talk about a strictly cash business, but it would be very difficult for many of the old-established retail grocers to adopt it. They have many good customers who find it a great convenience to run weekly or monthly accounts, and pay at the end of the week or month as the case may be, and it would be hard to say to them they must pay cash. The wholesale trade have not only shortened the time, but they have cut down the discounts. Some lines have to be paid for almost before they are in the store."

Several speakers followed both for and against the present terms. The majority, however, appeared to feel that it was hardly just to the retail trade to shorten the time and cut the discounts down too. The retailer, it was concluded, should have 30 days to turn over his goods.

One speaker remarked that he had generally found the wholesale grocers and their representatives a pretty jolly, good-natured lot of fellows, and he thought that if the greviences of the retail trade were properly laid before them they would give due attention to them.

It was moved and seconded that other associations be communicated with informing them of the question under discussion by the association and ascertain their views in regard thereto.

Trading stamps was taken up for discussion, and, while some one or two advocated the use of them as a means of bringing about a cash system, the majority were very much opposed to any such system of doing business. It had a tendency to cut prices, as only one dealer in a line of business is supposed to handle them for a certain locality. Consequently it was a sort of cut throat business, for his neighbors would meet him with some other inducements in order to hold his customers.

Early closing was also discussed for a short time, and while some thought it would be rather difficult to close at as early an hour as suggested others claimed it could be done, but as it was getting too late in the evening to fully discuss this question it was decided to lay these questions over for further discussion at the next meeting.

The American Cereal Co. has been incorporated at Trenton, N. J., with an authorized capital of $33,000,000. The company is empowered to buy, sell and grind, and otherwise manufacture oats, grain and cereals of all kinds, as well as to buy, build and operate elevators, mills and structures. The capital stock is divided into $15,000,000 preferred stock, with 7 per cent. non-cumulative dividends, and $18,000,000 common stock.

THE COMFORT OF BUSINESS PREMISES.

I HAPPENED to meet Mr. C. P. Hebert the other day as I was coming out of Hudon, Hebert & Cie's. I had not seen him for a long time, and I was delighted to find him looking better than for many years. He is now getting on in life—in fact, I might safely call him the father of the wholesale grocery trade in Canada—but he still takes an active and intelligent interest in his business, which is now undoubtedly one of the largest of any wholesale in Canada. Their offices and warehouse, I think, are not surpassed by any in the Dominion and none that I know of in the United States, and this is why I am writing these lines, for I had quite a chat with Mr. Hebert about business establishments generally. He suggested an idea to me that we, active men, in this very busy age, are apt to overlook, that is, our business surroundings. Some of us have very attractive establishments, but we make them so, not with an idea of our own comfort, but as a good advertisement of our business.

Mr. Hebert told me that he carried on business for many years in a cold, damp, badly-ventilated establishment, just as hundreds of other very successful men are doing to-day, without giving a thought to his surroundings. After working this way for years and injuring his health, he gave the matter some thought. He reasoned that a business man spends eight, ten or twelve hours a day of the best part of his life in his office or warehouse. It is the place in which he gets his enjoyment, for men, successful men, enjoy their business. It is the pleasure they get out of life. That being the case, why should we not make our offices as attractive and comfortable as we make our homes? Though we spend but little time in our homes outside of our sleeping hours, we are lavish in our expenditure in the decorating, ventilating, heating and everything that will make them comfortable. Why should we not then devote more attention to making our business places pleasant, and comfortable in every way ?

We are all so busy that few, if any of us, have ever given thought to this idea as suggested by Mr. Hebert. It is a subject worthy of very serious consideration by every business man.

What is one merchant's meat in the way of the cash system may be another merchant's poison. In other words, while one merchant may thrive under a cash system another may starve. At any rate it is claimed that the conditions in all towns and villages are not the same, and, therefore, a strictly cash trade is not possible in all alike. "Subscriber," for instance, claims he cannot do a strictly cash trade.

The why and the wherefore of these conditions are matters upon which not only "Subscriber," but a good many other retailers throughout the country, are seeking light.

HINTS TO BUYERS.

THE demand for the handsome map calendar issued by The Eby, Blain Co., Limited, from all parts of the Dominion, has been so heavy that a second issue has been found necessary, which the company are now distributing.

CEYLON TEA IN NEW ZEALAND.

In a trade review for 1898, The Melbourne Argus has the following : "Business in the tea trade has been conducted with much regularity, and, owing to more attention being given to the adjustment of supply to demand, better results than usual have been achieved. Importers from China have generally done pretty well, but China tea now occupies only the third place as regards quantity consumed, Ceylon standing first and India second. Exporters from both Calcutta and Colombo are in closer touch with the nature and current of our local requirements than formerly."

About the middle of this month a new grocery store will be opened in Galt by A. M. and P. Patterson.

THEY DIE HARD.

"That ad. is dead," said the foreman. "Throw it in."

But it was not dead. It could not die until the last copy of the paper containing it had been destroyed. Even then the advertisement might be kept alive by word of mouth. The advertiser who lets all his contracts expire is wrong if he imagines that his advertisements have ceased to "pull." They may, indeed, have failed to bring in business enough to pay the gas bill, but they are far from dead.

Fourteen or fifteen years ago, a bright young man opened a bookstore in Harlem. He put a small advertisement in a magazine. To this day, he sometimes hears from the advertisement, although he ran it only a few times and has been out of the book business since 1892.

The Scranton (Pa.) Republican tells of a medicine man who advertises to cure certain diseases. One day a woman came to him for treatment, and got $150 worth of it. The doctor asked her how she had heard of him, and she said her husband, when taking up an old carpet in Buffalo, had found beneath it an old newspaper in which he saw the doctor's ad.

There is no telling now long an advertisement will live —National Advertiser.

LONDON GROCERS DISCUSS TRADE TERMS.

A MEETING of London retail grocers was held on Tuesday evening Feb. 21. The president, Mr. R. A. Jones opened the meeting by stating that it had been called for the purpose of discussing some very important trade questions. The first and perhaps most important one on the list, was, "Are the present rates of discounts and terms of payments given by the wholesale trade satisfactory to the retail trade ?"

In order to bring out both sides of the question it was arranged that it take the form of a debate, the president taking the affirmative and the vice-president the negative.

The president remarked that he hoped that those he had chosen to speak in favor of the present terms given by the wholesale trade would try and forget for the time being that they were retail grocers and bring out the points in favor of the present terms.

He could at least advance one point in favor of short dates for payments. It would make the retail grocer look sharp after his collections, particularly if his capital is limited. He could not allow his customers to run long accounts if he wished to obtain the best discounts, and the nearer we get to a cash system of doing business, the better.

The vice-president, Mr. R. H. Cullis, Mr. W. H. Branton took the stand that the retail trade are not being fairly dealt with by the wholesale guild. "It is all very well to talk about a strictly cash business, but it would be very difficult for many of the old-established retail grocers to adopt it. They have many good customers who find it a great convenience to run weekly or monthly accounts, and pay at the end of the week or month as the case may be, and it would be hard to say to them they must pay cash. The wholesale trade have not only shortened the time, but they have cut down the discounts. Some lines have to be paid for almost before they are in the store."

Several speakers followed both for and against the present terms. The majority, however, appeared to feel that it was hardly just to the retail trade to shorten the time and cut the discounts down too. The retailer, it was concluded, should have 30 days to turn over his goods.

One speaker remarked that he had generally found the wholesale grocers and their representatives a pretty jolly, good-natured lot of fellows, and he thought that if the greviences of the retail trade were properly laid before them they would give due attention to them.

It was moved and seconded that other associations be communicated with informing them of the question under discussion

THE COMFORT OF BUSINESS PREMISES.

I HAPPENED to meet Mr. C. P. Hebert the other day as I was coming out of Hudon, Hebert & Cie's. I had not seen him for a long time, and I was delighted to find him looking better than for many years. He is now getting on in life—in fact, I might safely call him the father of the wholesale grocery trade in Canada—but he still takes an active and intelligent interest in his business, which is now undoubtedly one of the largest of any wholesale in Canada. Their offices and warehouse, I think, are not surpassed by any in the Dominion and none that I know of in the United States, and this is why I am writing these lines, for I had quite a chat with Mr. Hebert about business establishments generally. He suggested an idea to me that we, active men, in this very busy age, are apt to overlook, that is, our business surroundings. Some of us have very attractive establishments, but we make them so, not with an idea of our own comfort, but as a good advertisement of our business.

Mr. Hebert told me that he carried on business for many years in a cold, damp, badly-ventilated establishment, just as hundreds of other very successful men are doing to-day, without giving a thought to his surroundings. After working this way for yea-

WHO HAS A STRICTLY CASH BUSINESS ?

"SUBSCRIBER" writes : "I am much interested to know if any of your readers can say they do a strictly cash business. Will you kindly ask in your next issue? The reason I ask is this : I am a thorough advocate of cash. My business is generally known as a cash store, as I have taken repeated stands each New Year to sell for cash, yet I could not carry it out to the letter, and fully believe it is not possible."

THE CANADIAN GROCER places its columns with pleasure at the disposal of "Subscriber" in question, and also at the disposal of those who are in a position to furnish him with the desired information.

It is to be hoped there will be a ready response.

The cash question is one that is receiving a great deal of attention from the retail trade. There is, probably, none that is occupying more. And particularly that phase of it touched upon by the letter quoted above.

Can a merchant do a strictly cash business? Some have solved it in the affirmative : they do a strictly cash trade ; do not enter a dollar upon their books. Others, again, have solved it, but in a sort of compromise way. They do what they call a cash business, but they have a few particular customers to whom they still give credit.

What is one merchant's meat in the way of the cash system may be another merchant's poison. In other words, while one merchant may thrive under a cash system another may starve. At any rate it is claimed that the conditions in all towns and villages are not the same, and, therefore, a strictly cash trade is not possible in all alike. DEMAND FOR CANADIAN WINES.

A leading firm in Montreal, selling to the wholesale and leading retail grocers and wine and spirit merchants, are open to take an agency for a native wine manufacturer. Should any of our readers not be represented here now, we shall be glad to put them in communication with this firm.

This inquiry is a very satisfactory evidence of the fact that we are now producing a wine from Canadian-grown grapes that is proving palatable. It is replacing the Tarragona and the cheaper Spanish wines. In the Province of Quebec, which is the largest wine consuming district in America, jobbing-houses which would not a few years ago handle the native production are now selling five to ten carloads of Canadian wines every year.

There is room for much improvement, however, in the domestic product, as some abominable stuff made of mixtures is sent out under the name of native wine. Anyone with ordinary digestion taking a glass of this as a sample of what can be made here would ever after condemn our wine. The inspection of native wines should be taken up by the Inland Revenue Department.

FARMERS AND TOBACCO-MAKING.

THE farmers in a certain section of the Ontario tobacco-growing districts are seriously proposing to start a factory to turn their raw material into the manufactured article.

It is to be hoped, for the sake of the native industry, that the proposal will not develop into a reality.

The manufacture of tobacco requries skill and a thorough knowledge of the different branches of the work. It also requires large capital and the most careful management. The Canadian tobacco business is only in its infancy. The general public is only beginning to appreciate its good qualities, and, with care on the part of our manufacturers, the ground already attained can be held and materially increased. But should inexperienced hands start in this business and turn out large quantities of inferior goods, the industry will certainly suffer.

The present factories, and those soon to be started by qualified men, are ample to supply all that will be required for years to come. Others will only increase the supply and cause overproduction with its attendant evils.

The farmers will be wiser to sell their leaf to the manufacturers and devote their time and capital to the growth of better qualities of leaf.

The office of the farmer is to grow tobacco leaf, not to turn it into the manufactured article.

CANNED GOODS FOR THE NAVY.

When it was announced that the British Admiralty were prepared to receive tenders for canned goods from packers in the Dominion, the London, England, representative of THE CANADIAN GROCER was instructed to obtain, from the proper authorities, information in regard to specifications, etc., for the guidance of those in Canada who desired to tender for the goods required.

A letter has just been received at this office from the director of navy contracts, under date of February 16, which, in part, reads as follows :

I regret to inform you that copies of the specifications for canned goods cannot be furnished. They are often under revision, as changes are from time to time adopted. Tenders for tinned provisions are not advertised for.

SHOULD CANADA RETALIATE?

NATURALLY, as a result of the failure of the negotiations between Canada and the United States, some consideration is being given to the question as to what the attitude of this country should be towards the neighboring republic.

The conference was never popular, so far as this country was concerned, and had a plebiscite been taken it would probably have decided against the sending of commissioners. Consequently at no time was there really any concern as to what the outcome of the negotiations might be. And the irritability which is now being manifested is not on account of the failure of the negotiations, but on account of the causes which brought them about.

As far as reciprocity in trade was concerned, that was a business proposition. The United States commissioners were at the conference to drive as close a bargain as they could. The representatives of the Dominion were there for the same purpose. And, while we have good reason to feel that the commissioners representing the other side tried at times to drive too close a bargain, yet that is the spirit of business transactions to-day between nations as well as individuals, particularly on the other side of the boundary line. It may not be right, according to the standard of morality; but custom has allowed a great deal to be designated as business which, according to moral standards, ought to come under some other classification. "Deal justly" has now become "Deal sharply." So what is "business" it would, perhaps, not be wise to take offence at.

But as for the position of the United States commissioners regarding the boundary question, by no possible means can it be justified. In every proposition they made they were obviously determined that, no matter how unjust to Canada the United States had been in arbitrarily defining its Alaskan boundary, full recompense should not be made.

Canada has described a boundary line which she believes to be correct; but she may be mistaken. So may the United States in the line which they have laid down. Both cannot be correct. That is certain. But it is none the less incorrect for the United States to pick out the plums of the question in dispute and arbitrarily declare they shall not be a subject for arbitration.

It is what might be expected from a horde of buccaneers, without respect for laws either human or divine; but from a great nation, and especially from a great nation which boasts of possessing a superior quality of civilization it is unworthy if not unexpected.

The United States are evidently quite willing to take; but they are evidently equally determined not to give.

But while we as Canadians naturally feel annoyed at the unreasonable position assumed by the United States, our duty does not lie in the direction of retaliation.

Let all legislation of a tariff or other character be with an eye to the welfare of the Dominion, not to the injury of our neighbor.

Tariffs launched to injure others frequently hurt the makers of them as well as those for whose harm they are specially designed. Certain items in the McKinley and Dingley tariffs are proofs of this. Wars in which tariffs are the weapons have in some particulars the same characteristics as wars in which guns and swords are the weapons.

In spite of adverse tariffs and short-sighted politicians Canada and the United States will continue to do business with each other. But as long as the political conditions in the United States remain as they are the Dominion, even were it disposed to do so, might as well look for a needle in a hay stack as expect to look for anything approaching a fair commercial treaty with that country.

And the United States will have to show an unmistakable change of heart before any Government in this country will dare negotiate one. The trade question is comatose, and must remain so for a long time. The international questions must be left to diplomacy for solution.

The duty of Canadians is to mind their own business; to get into Parliament as many men of business common sense, irrespective of political faith, as possible, to the exclusion of those who are poor in the opposite quality; to devote their energies to developing our great natural resources, and to the development of our export trade with Great Britain in particular, and with countries in general whose tariffs are not specially designed to shut out Canadian products.

These things do not mean retaliation; they do mean dependence upon our own energies.

ROBBING CANADIANS OF SEAL SACQUES.

Several ladies of New Brunswick have lately been caused to suffer through the operations of the United States sealskin law.

Our St. John, N.B., correspondent advises us that several ladies, crossing the boundary at Vanceboro', have had their seal sacques taken from them by United States officials, and, in some instances, ladies have been compelled to continue their journeys without outside garments.

The spectacle of United States Customs officials stripping seal sacques from the backs of Canadian ladies is most elevating. The nation may be large, but some of its laws are decidedly small.

THE PRICE OF EGGS.

The month of March opened this year with eggs at a figure much above that of former years. New-laid are now quoted at 20 to 21c., as compared with 16 to 17c. at the same time last year, 17 to 18c. in 1897, and 16 to 17c. in 1896.

The principal cause of this unusual state of affairs has been the unfavorable weather. There have been so many damp, cold days in almost every section of Ontario that the hens of the Province have hesitated to commence operations. The stocks of limed and cold-stored eggs, too, are cleaned up earlier than usual, a fact which materially helps to keep prices up.

Receipts are, however, continually increasing, and a few warm days will result in a tumble in prices.

ECKARDT'S MEN WERE THERE.

By some mischance the names of Messrs M. J. Muldrew and F. J. Blackburn, representing H. P. Eckardt & Co., Toronto, were left out of the list of guests at the "At Home" of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association. This is really too bad, for both of these travellers were present, as, in fact, they always are when the Toronto grocers are receiving their friends.

THE DUTY MUST BE REMOVED.

IT is difficult to see how the Government can refuse the relief from the machinations of the Standard Oil Trust asked by the manufacturers in Canada who use oil as fuel.

The Standard Oil Trust has secured a greater control of the petroleum production in Canada than it even has in the United States.

It first displayed its despotic character and power by demanding that the Canadian Pacific and Grand Trunk Railway Companies discriminate in their freight rates against imported oil in favor of that produced at its own refineries in Canada. The demands were audacious. No highwayman's could scarcely be more so; but the two powerful railways complied with their demands. It was somewhat refreshing to witness the extraordinary feat of one corporation forcing the two railways to obey its dictates. But, when it was the commercial interests of the country which had to pay for the music to which the railways were compelled to dance, the spectacle became enervating instead of refreshing.

The next exploit of the Trust is that which drew together a number of manufacturers a few days ago in Toronto for mutual protection, namely, the reducing of the oil supplied by the Trust as fuel, the increasing of the cost of same, and, in some instances, cutting off the supply altogether.

This high-handed action on the part of the Standard Oil Trust is a serious thing for manufacturers who use fuel oil.

Special plants are, of course, necessary for fuel oil, and many manufacturers have gone to a great deal of expense in putting these in, only to find that the Trust now proposes to practically cut off their supply of oil.

An abundance of fuel oil can be obtained from the independent oil refineries in the United States—and even the Standard Oil Trust does not attempt to do with the manufacturers in the United States what it is doing with those in Canada—but the duty of 2½c. per gallon, which is equal to 100 per cent. ad valorem, is almost prohibitive.

In consequence of the serious position in which they have been placed by the Trust, the manufacturers have decided to memorialize the Dominion Government to place fuel oil on the free list.

The meeting which decided upon taking this action could scarcely have been a more representative one of the manufacturing interests. Several of the largest manufacturing companies in the Dominion were represented, so that it was important as well as representative.

The meeting was non-political. It was composed of Conservatives and Reformers, and the exigencies which compelled them to act in concert were commercial and not political.

The plea of the Trust is that there is a scarcity of oil, while the consumption of fuel oil is on the increase. This is all the more reason for the removal of the duty on fuel oil. And the Government of this country will be doing an injustice to the manufacturers if it does not remove it.

AN EXCITED TEA MARKET.

The position of the Indian and Ceylon tea market is an unusually striking one. A private letter from London, under date of February 18, states that 6¾d. is the lowest price for common Indian and Ceylon leaf and that it was expected that within a few days this same tea would be selling at 7½ to 8d. per lb.

This letter states that there is a regular boom on in England and that it looked as if a panic was developing on the market. Another letter from England states the market has not been in such a position since 1879.

One of the facts which tends to give such strength to the market for Ceylon teas is that both the China and Indian tea markets are closed, and that, consequently, the Ceylon market is the only one where supplies of black teas are available.

The effect of this strong market in England has not been without its influence on the Canadian market, teas on spot being held at higher figures than a week ago. It will be remembered that for some time spot teas have been considerably lower than those on the English market. A cable received on Tuesday from London noted a further advance of ¼c. per lb. in the price of Indian teas, and a local importer who desired to order teas from Colombo found that his cable was refused, notwithstanding that the figure he submitted was higher than previous quotations.

MOLASSES PRICES UNSETTLED.

IT was the general expectation, last fall, that there would be a strong wind-up as regards values on Barbadoes molasses this spring. The conditions warranted it, as supplies were not excessive either in first or second hands, but the course of the market has disappointed these expectations.

Last week, a cut by The Montreal Wholesale Guild was noted. Since that was written, there has been a further break in prices, and at present it is difficult to quote any fixed price.

The unsettled position is due to the competition between speculators outside of the regular wholesale grocery trade and the latter.

The former, annoyed by the action of the Guild, broke prices 1 to 1½c., and, it is said, have offered 100-puncheon lots at 27½c., and have accepted 28c. for 50-puncheon lots.

The regular jobbers have promptly met this cut, and, while 30c. is still the nominal asking price for single puncheons, it is no secret that jobbers will not let a customer go elsewhere for a puncheon of molasses because of a difference of opinion on the question of figures.

On the other hand, advices in regard to new crop stock are of a steady character. A circular states that showers have fallen almost every day, the total rainfall for the month being small and more desirable for that reason. Three estates have commenced operations; but, as we have already said, reaping will not be general for some weeks. In the Leeward districts the crop is likely to be very short, but in other parts of the island average crops are expected.

The canned beef which exploded the other day in the presence of the Court of Inquiry at Washington possessed, at any rate, the merit of strength, for it not only burst the tins, but drove everyone out of the room.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

TORONTO, March 2, 1899.

GROCERIES.

THE wholesale grocery trade this week shows more life than it has for some time, and there is a general feeling of confidence in the future. The canned goods market is receiving a little more attention, and the feeling is that before long a further advance will take place in prices, particularly in canned tomatoes. Corn this week is, if anything, a little firmer, some of the wholesalers who were willing to take 90c. now demanding 5c. per doz. more. The canned goods business generally is fairly brisk. Coffees are dull, and a little unsettled. There is not a great deal being done in sugars, but business is better than it was a week ago. Prices are unchanged. There has been a material advance in the primary market in the price of tapioca, and spices generally are strong. The tea market is somewhat excited on account of the strong advices from the British market, where low-grade teas are higher. Some shipments of Tarragona almonds have arrived on this market this week. The demand for prunes is fairly good, but in other lines of foreign dried fruits there is not much being done. Advices from the primary market show an advance of 1s. 9d. per cwt. in the price of selected Valencia raisins.

CANNED GOODS.

Quotations for next season's lobsters, delivery in June, are this week in the hands of the brokers. Figures are about 50c. per case above those of last year. No business, however, has yet been done, as far as can be ascertained. There have been a few inquiries again this week for canned vegetables for shipment to Manitoba and British Columbia. This has had the effect of strengthening the confidence in canned goods. Tomatoes, however, are still quoted at 85 to 90c. and peas at 75c. up, but corn is now more uniformly quoted at 95c. to $1, wholesalers who had hitherto been willing to accept 90c. having advanced their prices 5c. per dozen. When the demand for canned vegetables really becomes active, we may safely expect to see higher figures ruling than are now quoted. Canned salmon and canned fish generally are in fair demand at unchanged prices. There is a little business being done in canned fruits.

COFFEES.

The coffee market during the past week has been somewhat irregular, both in the United States and Europe. At the same time, however, the figures which are being submitted to Toronto importers are not many points lower than they were a week ago. The crop movement in Brazil is moderate. The local demand by wholesalers seems to be still good for green Rio coffee, and there is a fair business being done in good roasting Maracaibo and Santos coffees. Local quotations are unchanged.

SUGARS.

The sugar market has not been characterized by any striking features during the past week. The outside markets have, on the whole, been strong for raw sugars, although cables from Europe on Monday noted a rather easier feeling in regard to beet sugar. Cane sugars, however, remain unchanged in Canada. The disturbing element is still refined sugars from the United States, which, on account of the cutting of prices over there, are being sold in this country in competition with the product of the home refineries. At the same time, however, there is a belief that the amount of business being done in imported refined sugar is exaggerated. Notwithstanding the competition of foreign sugar, both the refineries and the wholesalers appear to be, this week doing a little better business than a week ago, although the volume of business is not large. Prices are unchanged. Standard granulated is quoted at $4.55 for the Montreal product and $4.43 for the Acadian. There have been some transactions for importation of raw sugar during the past week at rather firm prices. A good Porto Rico raw sugar is being sold by wholesale houses at 3 5/8 to 3 3/4 c. per lb.

See pages 29 and 30 for Toronto, Montreal, St. John, and Winnipeg prices current.

RICE AND TAPIOCA.

Mail advices report an advance of 1s. per cwt. in new crop Japan rice. The price of tapioca for future shipment is advised much dearer.

SPICES.

Cloves are about ½d. per lb. dearer, and the common sorts of ginger have advanced in the primary market, while the demand is good. Nutmegs have an upward tendency. Peppers are all dearer. Pimento is a shade easier.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

The syrup market continues in about much the same position as a week ago, namely, quiet. The molasses market is still in a healthy condition, advices from New Orleans stating that practically no supplies are coming upon the market. Bright corn syrup is still quoted at the following prices by local jobbers: Barrels, 2½c. per lb.; half barrels, 2⅝c. per lb.; kegs, 2¾c. per lb.; three gallon pails, $1.20 each; two gallon pails, 90c. each.

TEAS.

The feature of the market is a development of a stronger market in Indian and Ceylon teas. Advices from England are of a very bullish character, particularly for low-grade teas under 9d. It is said that the market there has not been in such an excited condition since 1879. The local market is also somewhat excited in sympathy, and prices for spot teas are dearer than they were a week ago. A local firm cabled to a shipper in Colombo, Ceylon, naming higher figures than previous quotation, but it was not entertained. What makes the market so strong for low-grade Ceylon teas, is the fact that the Indian and China markets are closed and therefore the Ceylon market is the only one from whence supplies can be obtained. On the local market brokers report that they have been receiving bids for much larger quantities of Congo teas than is usual. Buyers, however, do not seem willing to pay as high a figure as holders demand. China green teas are also held firm, but buyers do not seem to understand the stiffness and are not inclined to come to the prices asked by holders. In New York, Philadelphia and Chicago, there is a shortness of Indian and China green teas, Oolongs, low-grade Congous and Pingsuey teas. Shipments of tea from China to this continent are about 5,000 lb. short of last year. Representatives of shipping-houses report a good demand for Japan teas at from 16 to 17c. per lb., bnt there are very few of these to be had at all, consequently there have not been many transactions. market keeps firm. The wholesale trade still reports an active demand for teas of all descriptions.

NUTS.

Some fresh shipments of Tarragona almonds and Grenoble walnuts have been received on this market during the week. The quality of these nuts is reported to be rather better than the average of previous shipments. The shipment of Tarragona almonds had been expected for some time, and a number of buyers were getting anxious for their goods, on account of the lowness of their stocks.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS—Although the market is not what might be termed strong, yet prices are being pretty well sustained in the primary market. There have been during the past week a few transactions for importation, but only for small quantities. The demand from the retail trade is reported by wholesalers to be only moderate.

VALENCIA RAISINS—Wm. Rogers & Co, Denia, Spain, under date of Feb. 11, advise their agents here that their previous cable quotation of 17s. 3d. for selected Valencia raisins could not now be executed under 19s. per cwt. "Our market," they say, "is very firm, with stocks low and suitable raisins scarce." Local wholesalers report that there has been a little better movement during the past week in selected and fine off-stalk raisins.

PRUNES—A few orders have been cabled during the week for Turkish prunes. The prune market generally continues firm. There is a good demand from the retail trade, particularly for the cheaper grades of European prunes.

DATES—The local market is unchanged at 5 to 5½c. for Sairs and 5½ to 6c. for Hallowee dates, but advices from New York state that there has been an advance of ⅛c. per lb. on all grades of Persian dates.

GREEN FRUITS.

Generally speaking, trade is satisfactory. The supplies of all fruits are now sufficient to meet the demand, which is growing as the warm weather advances. Oranges are firm, with an increase of 25c. in the price of ordinary Valencia 420's. Mexicans are out of the market. The quality of the lemons which arrived last week to relieve the famine in this fruit was splendid, and they were quickly picked up. Prices have declined 25c. this week. The movement of apples is large. The local demand is active. Some are also reported for delivery in the United States. Bananas are in good demand. All grades of quality are offered. Spanish and Valencia onions are done. Danvers and red Weathersfields are firm in price, and are selling very well.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—A few days of rough weather has resulted in another stiffening of egg values, and an advance of 1c. is noted for new-laid stock. This, of course, cannot be depended on to last any time, as receipts will increase rapidly with a few warm days. New-laid are to-day quoted at 20 to 21c. The stocks of limed and cold stored are well cleared up. For what few are offering from 14 to 15c. is paid.

POTATOES—The price of this staple has fluctuated considerably within the past week. The cold, damp days made it very difficult to handle shipments, and some cars arriving were frost-bitten. The price is now firm at about where it was a week ago, 58 to 65c. f.o.b. cars at Toronto. The street market is steady at 65 to 70c.

BEANS—The difficulty of shipping potatoes has caused quite a movement of beans to northern Ontario. Prices have kept steady at 90c. to $1 for medium grades and $1.10 for hand-picked.

POULTRY—Receipts are moderate; the demand excellent. Prices are steady and unchanged.

DRIED AND EVAPORATED APPLES — In dried apples, a decidedly easy tone is still manifested. No. 1 stock is jobbing locally at 6c. At outside points, 5½ to 5¾c. is being paid. The evaporated apple market is also unsteady at about 8¼c. outside, and 9½ to 10c. in a jobbing way for No. 1 stock.

VEGETABLES — Rhubarb has declined 25c.; radishes, 10 to 20c.; spinach, 25 to 50c. Parsley has advanced 10 to 12½c.; cabbage, 25c.; parsnips, 40 to 45c.; Hubbard squash, 50c. We quote as follows: Rhubarb, $1 to $1.25; greenhouse radishes, 40 to 50c. per dozen bunches; spinach, $1 to $1.50 per bush.;

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER — Dairy large rolls and pound prints are in excellent demand at steady prices. Very few tubs of good dairy are offering. There is, however, a surplus of poor and medium grade, and the price of such qualities has fallen 1c. Creamery butter is in excellent demand both for local and shipping trade. Prices are unchanged.

CHEESE—There is a good local demand. Prices are steady at last week's quotations. Choice early makes are held firmly at 9½c., and late makes at 10 to 10½c.

PROVISIONS.

The demand is, as usual at this time of the year, rather quiet. Prices of all provisions are steady. Dressed hogs continue to arrive freely. Prices are 5c. lower, ranging all the way from $4.75 to $5.10.

FISH.

A good Lenten trade is reported. No change in values is noted. We quote: Frozen salmon trout, 7½ to 8c.; Man. whitefish, 6½c.; Man. perch, 5c.; Man. pike, 5c.; Man. pickerel, 6c.; fresh whitefish, 7½c.; trout, 8c. lb.; fresh perch, 4c. per lb.; steak cod, 6c.; flounders, 4c.; fresh herring, 4c.

GRAIN, FLOUR, BREAKFAST FOODS.

GRAIN—Wheat has recovered from the decline of 1c. noted last week, and is now selling at former figures, 70 to 71c., for both red and white wheat at middle freight stations. The street market has been fairly active. Wheat, rye, and peas have advanced 1c. Barley is 2c., oats are 2c. cheaper. We quote: Wheat, white, 73½ to 74c.; red, 73 to 73½c.; goose, 68 to 70c.; peas, 64 to 66c.; oats, 33 to 34c.; barley, 47 to 48c.; rye, 55 to 56c. No. 1 hard Manitoba is steady at 80c., Toronto freights.

FLOUR — No change is noted in prices. We quote: Manitoba patents, $4; Manitoba strong bakers', $3.70; Ontario patents, $3.70 to $3.80; straight roller, $3.15 to $3.25, Toronto freights.

BREAKFAST FOODS—Standard oatmeal and rolled oats, which were reduced 10c. in price last week, have advanced again to the old prices. We quote as follows: Standard oatmeal and rolled oats, $3.80 in bags and $3.90 in bbls.; rolled wheat, $2.60 in 100-lb. bbls.; cornmeal, $2.40; split peas, $4; pot barley, $4.

SEEDS.

There is a liberal offering of samples, but holders seem reluctant to sell at present prices. There is no change in prices. Red clover is quoted at $3 to $3.50, and alsike at $2.50 to $4, at outside points. Slightly more than this would be paid for extra fancy lots. The price of timothy is 10 to 25c. higher. Very little Canadian is offering. For what is coming in, $1.75 to $2 is paid for bright, unhulled lots, and $1.10 to $1.35 for machine-threshed.

HIDES, SKINS AND WOOL.

HIDES — The market continues weak. Green hides are unchanged. We quote cow hides as follows: No. 1, 8½c.; No. 2, 7½c.; No. 3, 6½c.; Steer hides are worth ½c. more. Cured hides have declined ¼c., now being quoted at 9c.

SKINS—We quote calfskins nominally: No. 1 veal, 8-lb. and up, 10c. per lb.; No. 2, 8c.; dekins, from 30 to 35c.; culls, 15 to 20c. Sheepskins and lambskins are steady at 90c. to $1.

WOOL—No change is noted. Fleece is unsteady at 15c., and unwashed easy at 10c.

SALT.

No change in price noted. The demand is good. We quote at Toronto: Carload lots, $1.05 per bbl., and 65c. per sack of 200 lb.; less than carload lots, $1.10 per bbl., and 70c. per sack. At the wells, we quote F.O.B., barrels, 75c.; sacks of 200 lb., 45c. English salt is quoted at 48¾c. per sack of 154 lb.

MARKET NOTES.

Dressed hogs have declined 5c.

Cream of tartar is again cabled dearer.

New-laid eggs advanced 1c. this week.

New crop Japan rice is advised 1s. per cwt. dearer.

Ceylon teas under 9d. are cabled dearer from London.

Quotations for next season's lobsters are in the hands of brokers.

Mail advices from London note an advance of ½d. in cloves.

Selected Valencia raisins are quoted 1s. 9d. above previous quotations.

Ordinary Valencia 420's have advanced 25c.; Mexicans are done. Lemons are 25c. cheaper.

Spanish and Valencia onions are done. Danvers are 25c. dearer. Weathersfields are now on the market at $3 to $3.25.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

MONTREAL, Mach 3, 1899.

GROCERIES.

THE week has been rather quiet in general groceries, and, with the exception of a highly unsettled situation as regards the selling price here of Barbadoes molasses, values are as they were last quoted. While raw sugar has ruled rather strong, the unsettled tendency on refined in New York has counteracted any tendency that the fact might have on the value of Canadian refined. Syrups are dull but firm, and values in canned goods, especially staple vegetables, continue strongly held. Advices on rice note great firmness abroad, the same being the case with pepper, and the inquiry for both articles has been rather active. There has been more doing in coffee, and in tea a moderate volume of trading is reported.

SUGAR.

The sugar market exhibits considerable irregularity at the moment. In the first place, while the tendency of the raw article has favored steadiness, the action of New York refiners, who have been offering refined sugars for ridiculously low prices for export, has caused Canadian refiners some uneasiness, though it has not yet led to any actual change in spot values. Demand also is slow, and the volume of business moving from the refineries here light. In London, raw cane sugar is firm and 3d. dearer—Java, 11s, 9d. and fair refining 10s. 6d. Beet has been dull and rather easier, with present month quoted 3d. lower at 9s. 6¼d., and next month unchanged at 9s. 9d. In New York, also, raw pursues an opposite course to refined, fair refining being firm at 3⅞c.; centrifugal, 96 test, 4⅝c., and molasses sugar, 3 11-16c.

SYRUPS.

Business in syrups continues exceedingly quiet, demand being almost nil. Prices are unchanged at 1¾ to 2½c. at the refinery.

MOLASSES.

As a result of the competition between regular jobbers and speculators in molasses, values on this staple have been, and are, very unsettled. As already noted the Wholesale Guild put down the price 1c. to 30c., but toward the end of last week a leading speculator offered molasses in any quantity at 28 to 29c., the outside for single puncheons and the inside for car lots. Since then it is reported that even less money has been accepted, so that it is impossible to quote any fixed price.

CANNED GOODS.

This branch of trade has been without any new feature, prices being well maintained in all lines. Inquiry for corn has been fairly active, and business has been checked simply because of the fact that offerings are light. If recent advices are correct, lobsters, this year, are to be scarcer than they were last, and the cost high. There is no change in salmon, a few small lots of cohoes being still offered to the trade here at $3.50 f.o.b. Coast.

RICE.

The great strength in outside markets for rice continues, the grain steadily advancing both in India and Burmah, prices advancing in both cases to such an extent that values of new crop are practically on a level with the old. Locally, inquiry is fairly active and values firmly held.

DRIED FRUITS.

There have been no striking features in this market during the past week. Demand generally is of a quiet character for all sorts of stock.

SPICES.

The strength in black pepper is fully maintained; in fact, the entire list is firm and demand is good.

COFFEE.

There has been more business doing in coffees, and inquiry for Maracaibos at 9 to 12c. has been quite active, while Santos and Rios at 7 to 9c. have also received considerable attention. These remarks, of course, apply to the unground bean in the original bags.

TEAS.

There has been rather more business accomplished in teas during the week, though the market is far from what can be called an active one. Demand has been principally for Japans, ranging from 16 to 18½c., some 700 packages changing hands. United States buyers have also been in this market for pingsuey gunpowders, ranging from 12 to 15c. Blacks have met some demand for goods worth from 12½ to 13½c., but this class of tea is difficult to obtain on this market. Ceylons have moved quietly at 18½ to 20c., according to quality.

GREEN FRUITS.

There has been no great change in the green fruit market, except in oranges, of which the supply is in excess of the demand, and prices generally lower. Lemons are steady, and all other descriptions of frnit, except cranberries, which have declined, are quotably unchanged.

APPLES.

Stocks of apples are down to extremely slim proportions and values are very firmly held.

FISH.

There is little new to report in fresh fish, except that supplies of all kinds are scarce, with the exception of Manitoba stock, which are in fair supply. Fresh caught haddock are selling at 4½c., while fresh frozen haddock are out of the market. Fresh herring sell at $1.65 to $1.75 per 100; tommy cods, $1.15 to $1.75 per bbl.; smelts, 4 to 6c. per lb.; whitefish, 6½c.; dore, 5c.; pike, 3¾ to 4c.; halibut, 10c., and salmon, 10c. per lb.

Pickled fish are also scarce. A few No. 1 herring are moving at $4.75 to $5; per bbl. and $2.50 per half-bbl. No. 1 green cod are stiff at $6 with few to be had. No. 1 lake trout, $4.50 per bbl., and B.C. salmon, $12.50 to $13 per bbl.

There are very few smoked fish offering. Haddies are held at 7 to 7½c.; large dressed cod, 4¼c., and small, 4c.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—Owing to the breaking up of the country roads receipts of new laid eggs have been very small of late, and, as stocks on spot of other grades are light, a stronger feeling has prevailed in the market and prices are higher, but as soon as receipts increase a sharp reaction may be expected. The demand to-day was good and all offerings of fresh stock were cleaned up at 23 to 24c. Montreal limed sold at 15½ to 16½c.; cold storage stock at 14 to 15c., and culls, at 10 to 12c. per doz.

POULTRY — Receipts of poultry are exceedingly small, and the season is considered about over. An odd lot now and again comes in, which meets with a ready sale at full prices, if choice. We quote: Fresh killed turkeys, 11c.; frozen, 9 to 9½c.; choice fresh killed chickens, 9½ to 10c.; western frozen, mixed stock, 5½ to 6c.; ducks, 8 to 9c., and geese, 6 to 7c. per lb.

MAPLE PRODUCT—A few small lots of last season's maple syrup have been received, which met with a fair demand at 55 to 60c. per small tin. Old sugar is selling at 6 to 6½c. per lb.

HONEY — Business in honey was quiet, and the market shows no change. We quote: White clover comb, in 1-lb. sections, 8 to 8½c.; dark, 6½ to 7c.; white extracted, 7 to 7½c., and dark, 5 to 6c.

POTATOES — Receipts of potatoes have been more liberal of late, and the market is easy. Demand is fair for choice stock at 55 to 56c. per bag.

BEANS—A small jobbing trade continues to be done in beans at steady prices. We quote: Choice hand-picked, 95c. to $1 per bushel; primes, 85 to 90c.

ONIONS—Onions are still on the boom, with sales ranging from $2.75 to $3 per bbl. Western buyers have been operating here this week.

PROVISIONS AND DRESSED HOGS.

remains quiet and featureless. We quote as follows: Canadian pork, in barrels, $15 to $15.50; pure Canadian lard, in pails, 7¼ to 7½c. per lb., and compound refined at 5 to 5½c. per lb. Hams, 10 to 12c., and bacon, 10½ to 11c. per lb.

Owing to the continued mild weather the demand for dressed hogs from butchers for small lots was somewhat limited, and the market is quiet and easy. Fresh killed stock sold at $5.50 to $5.65, and held at $5 to $5.25 per 100 lb.

FLOUR, GRAIN, ETC.

GRAIN—There was a very firm feeling in the grain market for all lines. There was a good demand from shippers for immediate and future wants; in consequence, a fairly active business was done. At points west of Toronto round lots of oats sold at 30 to 30¼c, and for May delivery they are held at 35½c. afloat here. For buckwheat the demand is good for May delivery, and some round lots have been placed, and more was offered to-day at 58c. afloat. In peas, some business has been done at 75c. afloat May, but holders are now asking more money.

FLOUR — The flour market was without any new feature. In Manitoba grades a fair amount of business is reported, but Ontario dealers say there is little doing. We quote as follows: Winter wheat patents, $3.75 to $4; straight rollers, $3.50 to $3.60; in bags, $1.65 to $1.75; Manitoba patents, $4 to $4.25; strong bakers', $3.70 to $3.90.

MEAL—The meal market is quiet, the demand being chiefly for small lots. Rolled oats are selling at $3.60 per bbl., and $1.75 per bag.

FEED — In feed, trade continues fairly active, there being a good demand from local and country buyers at firm prices. Ontario white wheat bran, in bulk, sold at $15 to $15.25, and shorts $15.50 to $16 per ton; Manitoba bran, $16; shorts, $18, and mouille, $20 per ton, including bags.

HAY—Business in baled hay on spot remains quiet, and the market shows no important change. We quote: No. 1, $5.50 to $6; No. 2 extra, $4.25 to $4.75; No. 2, clover mixture, $4; clover, $3.50 to $3.75.

CHEESE AND BUTTER.

CHEESE—A movement in cheese one way or the other is inevitable soon. Holders here are not urging sales, and a nominal range is 9¾ to 10c., according to grade.

BUTTER — Continues steady, finest late made creamery 20 to 20¼c., and Western rolls, 15½ to 16c. Tub dairy ranges from 14 to 14½c.

MONTREAL NOTES.

Packers state that lobsters are going to be as scarce and as costly this season as last year.

Western buyers have been operating rather freely in this market for onions during the week.

As a result of competition between the regular jobbing firms and speculators, values on molasses are very unsettled.

United States buyers have continued to be purchasers of cheap green teas in this market during the past week.

The maple sugar makers of Vermont, have organized an association for protection against spurious maple syrup and sugar which is put on the market in that State. They have established depots in the principal eastern cities, and have adopted a distinguishing form of label which is a guarantee of the purity of the product.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER,

ST. JOHN, N.B., Feb. 28, 1899.

THE second month of the year is gone. It was a fairly busy month. While it is, perhaps, the quietest month of the year in the wholesale grocery business, sales were rather better than the average for the season, and payments were quite good. This is the season of buying on the part of the wholesale trade for woodenware. Goods are largely bought from two houses, and, as the same prices are quoted, much depends on the feeling of the trade toward the agents and the way in which they keep after the trade. In brooms, the high prices continue, and a further advance is looked for. In cream of tartar prices are rather firmer. In chemicals there is much competition, and prices rule low, particularly soda. Borax, however, tends firmer. In hops the demand is very quiet, with prices firmly held.

OIL—The branch of The Imperial Oil Co. here has a large business. The manager for the Maritime Provinces has his headquarters here. There is no change in prices. Lubricating has chief attention, and that chiefly contracts for future shipment.

SALT—There is quite an active sale for English coarse salt, that being the only coarse salt coming to these Provinces, freight being too high to allow Canadian to compete, though in fine salt it gets the big end of the track. Arrivals are all by regular weekly steamers. Sailing vessels, which a few years ago brought it all, are bringing very little except to some outside points. Prices are low, though quite firm. Arrivals are rather larger, and are promptly forwarded to point of consumption. We quote: Liverpool coarse, 38 to 40c.; English factory-filled, 90c. to $1; Canadian fine, $1 per bag; cheese and butter salt, bulk, $2.50 to $2.60 per bbl.; 5-lb. bags, $3 to $3.25 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $2.85 to $3 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 20c. each; 10-lb. wood boxes, 12c. each; cartons, $2 per case of 2 doz.; English bottled salt, $1.25 to $1.30 per doz; mineral rock salt, 60c. per 100 lb.

CANNED GOODS—With the spring so near to hand, a better demand is expected. Prices of vegetables are firm, but show no change. Some tomatoes are being offered low, but full figures are asked for best-known brands. Canned meats have little sale. Prices are firmly held. Gallon apples are stronger in price, and have quite an active sale. In oysters, higher prices are looked for. Salmon is also tending higher, with stocks quite low, with the season for best demand to come. Other lines of canned fish are also light stock.

GREEN FRUITS—The mild weather of the past two weeks has resulted in an active sale. Oranges continue to be the chief feature, and Valencias have the demand. Neither the large nor small sizes are much sold here. Prices are rather higher. Californians show no change. They have limited demand. Lemons maintain their higher prices, and have free sale. Apples are high and scarce, with a steady sale. Retailers did not lay in as large a supply in the fall as usual, and this increased the sale of stock held in wholesale hands. A few cranberries are offered, but price is high.

DRIED FRUITS—Business is quiet. There is a fairly steady sale for prunes. Coast prices for best stock are firm, and higher figures are expected. Some New York packers continue to offer at quite low figures. A few evaporated fruits in package are offered, but prices are very high. Raisins are quiet, and prices easy. Currants are dull. In dates, package goods grow in favor. Prices are firm. In figs, package goods are also offered. There is quite a large stock of cooking figs here, and prices are rather easier. Evaporated apples are a light stock. Prices are firm, and western holders are not inclined to shade. Dried are quiet. In peanuts, the higher figures hold, and a further advance is not unexpected.

SUGARS—Some yellows continue to arrive in bags, and, except for the package, give good satisfaction. There also continues to be some light arrivals of American granulated. This keeps the competition up. There has been little change in price for some weeks. Western Canadian refineries are largely out of the market. There is a steady sale.

MOLASSES—While stocks are in small compass, season is too late to see higher figures. Holders would be pleased to see every cask cleaned out of warehouse, and not for years has that been so near the case. Importers now have their credits at the Islands of Barbadoes and Porto Rico. The former grade will likely come into the market early in April and Porto Rico about the same time. Sales in other grades are light in this market. New Orleans has had a good sale during the past few weeks, but not a large business. Quality was good.

PRODUCE — Butter shows little change. Best grade is always in demand, but figures are not high. There is a fair sale for creamery. Eggs are somewhat easier, and arrivals are more free. In cheese, the price remains steady. Local business is light.

FISH—Very scarce is the word. In frozen herring, which a few years ago was a large business, nothing has been done this winter, and now the season is about over. Some Newfoundland fish have been expected. During the week quite a few fresh cod and haddock were received, but not enough to supply the demand. Dry cod are marked higher. Pollock show no change. Pickled herring show no change from the high figures. The market is about bare. In smoked herring, the low price rules, and shad are easy. Finnan haddies keep scarce and high. We quote as follows: Large cod, $3.75 to $3.85; medium, $3.70 to $3.85; pollock, $1.75 to $1.80; Grand Manan pickled herring, $1.95 to $2; ½-bbl.; Canso, pickled, $5 per bbl.; boneless fish, 3½ to 5c.; cod, 7 to 7½c.; finnan haddies, 5 to 5½c.; smoked herring, 6 to 7c.; spring shad, $3.75 to $4 ½-bbl.; fall shad, $4.75 to $5 ½-bbl.; Shelburne, $3.75 per bbl.; Grand Manan herring, $3.70 to $3.80 per bbl.; quoddy, $3.50 per ½-bbl.; frozen smelt, 5 to 6c.; frozen pollock, 1¼ to 1½c.; frozen cod, 2½ to 3c.; frozen haddock, 2½ to 3c.; frozen herring, 90c. per 100; lobsters, small, 3½ to 4c.; do., large, 10 to 12c.

PROVISIONS—These are still quiet. There is a fair inquiry for mess pork at full prices. Local packed is being largely sold to supply local market. In the effort to get low prices some cheap clear is offered. Canadian beef has an increasing demand. Lard is easier, but shows little change.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL—There is little change in flour. Millers quote a firm market. Sales are not large. Oatmeal holds firm with oats strong. Cornmeal is firm, but it is still the lowest thing in the line. Beans are easy, though western holders show quite a range in prices. Barley is quoted higher, late arrivals costing more than that which has been held in stock. This is true of both round and blue peas. Seeds are beginning to arrive, some dealers already having quite large stocks on hand. American timothy and Canadian clover is the rule. We quote as follows: Manitoba flour, $4.75 to $4.85; best Ontario, $4 to $4.20; medium, $3.85 to $3.95; oatmeal, $3.85 to $3.90; cornmeal, $2.20; middlings, $19 to $21; bran, $17 to $18; oats, 38 to 42c.; hand-picked beans, $1.10 to $1.15; prime, 95 to $1; yellow eye beans, $1.75; split peas, $3.80 to $4; round, $3.25 to $3.40; pot barley, $3.80 to $4; hay, $7 to $8; timothy seed, American, $1.75 to $2.15; do., Canadian, $2 to $2.40; mammoth clover, 7 to 7½c.; alsike, 7¾ to 8½c.

ST. JOHN NOTES.

Carrier Sons & Co., of Levis, Quebec, are to open a branch in St. John this spring, which means increased competition in hardware.

N. D. Hooper, the local representative of the Brantford Starch Co., is busy pushing sales. The new trunk package is proving a seller.

That a good thing is appreciated is easily seen by the increased stock of Brock's best bird seed arriving for local wholesale dealers.

Sixteen days out from Pictou, N.S., to Georgetown, P.E.I., is a record. Such was the experience of the steamer Stanley on a late trip, owing to the heavy sea.

It is expected the Str. City of Monticello, for many years running between St. John and Digby, will this spring run on the south coast of Nova Scotia from Yarmouth to Halifax.

The St. John Board of Trade is doing some hard work trying to introduce a better system of tax assessment here. A satisfactory system would be something worth attaining.

HISTORY OF COFFEE.

ALTHOUGH everyone is familiar with coffee as a beverage, comparatively few know the history of its origin, where it was first grown, when introduced, how cultivated and cured. Accounts differ as to when, where, and by whom, coffee was first introduced to civilization.

An eastern legend ascribes the discovery of the berry to a Dervish, who, in the year 1285, being driven out of Mocha, was induced in the extremity of hunger to roast the berries which grew near his hiding place. He ate them, and, steeping the roasted berries in water to quench his thirst, discovered their agreeable qualities. But a more authentic account states that it was introduced into Arabia from Southern Abyssinia by a Mohammedan high priest about the year 1500.

We are indebted to the Persians for the discovery of the roasting process, and, as the merits of coffee as a beverage would have remained unknown without that, some authorities allow them the credit of being the introducers.

It continued its career through Syria, and, in the year 1554, we learn it became the favorite drink at Constantinople, and the Oriental coffee houses were thronged night and day. The lower classes actually begged money with which to buy coffee, and it is stated that the refusing to supply a wife with coffee was admitted in law as a valid excuse for divorce.

Europeans are indebted to the Dutch for their first acquaintance with the coffee plant. This was brought about in the following manner: Some berries which had been procured were carried to the Island of Java and there planted. A specimen plant was sent home to Amsterdam in 1690 by Governor Wilson. This plant bore fruit, from which many young trees were propagated, and from this original most of the gardens of Europe and the East Indies are supposed to have been furnished.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

Winnipeg, Feb. 27, 1899.

WHOLESALE houses report that the volume of trade continues to increase, and is heavier than at the same date last year.

Mr. E. B. Nixon, buyer for the grocery department of the Hudson Bay, has left for an eastern trip, and will be absent for some four or five weeks. He will visit Chicago, Toronto, Montreal, and other points.

The Codville Co. find their present quarters too small and have contracted with J. H. Ashdown for the erection of a new warehouse on Bannatyne street east. The building will be 50 x 135, four storeys and basement; native stone foundation and white brick superstructure, and will be heated throughout with steam and have all modern improvements. A special feature will be the tea-packing room. The premises are to be ready for occupation by August 1.

The war among local dealers which lead to the drop in price of tobacco is just about settled, and prices are likely to return to their former figures before long.

There have been no changes in prices during the week, and probably will not be many until navigation opens.

Cured Meat—Market is slow, positively nothing doing. Smoked hams, 11c.; breakfast bacon, 11½c.; backs, ditto, 11c.; shoulders, 8½c.; long clear, 9½c.; dry salt long clear, 8½c.; shoulders, 8½c.; short clear, 8c.; shoulders, 9c.

Fish—There has been almost an oyster famine this week. This is attributed to the severe coast storms, and has temporarily increased the price. Standards are now quoted at $2 and selects at $2.50. Dried fish are rather more plentiful, with the exception of haddies, which are still short.

Poultry—Chickens are scarcer than they have been for years, and buyers are offering 10 and 12c.

Potatoes—Are more plentiful since the weather has moderated, and the price is settled at 40c.

Butter—Market is easier with regard to dairy butter, and 14 to 15c. are being offered. No new creamery is offering; nominal market price, 22 to 23c.

Canned Goods — Are entirely without change.

Evaporated Fruits—No actual change in price is announced, but, as prunes are going higher elsewhere, a change is anticipated here in the near future. Apricots continue at 16½ to 17c., and sales in these ines are all very slow.

Green Fruits—This market is visibly improving. Bitter oranges are selling readily at $6 per case. Bananas are still scarce, and fancy bunches, by express, are worth $3 straight. Apples, northern spies, and, in fact, any choice stock, are very scarce. Spies are $5.50 to $6, and inferior lines $4.50 to $5. Californian celery, $1 per doz.; this is extra fancy stock, shipped as an experiment. Messina lemons, $4 to $4.50. Oranges, navels, $4 to $4.50.

B. C. WHOLESALE GROCERS.

IT is expected that the proposition to form an association of wholesale grocers to include the Victoria and Vancouver firms will shortly assume some definite form. So far all that has been done has been the appointment of a committee to draft a constitution and until that is complete it is impossible to say whether the scheme will be a success. One of the leading Victoria wholesalers said recently that the idea had arisen in Vancouver and was the result of a realization of the fact that prices in some lines had been forced down so low that it was impossible to make a profit. Tobacco was one of the articles and if the association was formed the prices of this would be raised immediately. It was proposed that each member of the association should deposit a certified check for $1,000, as a guarantee that they would live up to any agreements of the association.

CURRENT MARKET QUOTATIONS

March 2, 1899.

This list is corrected every Thursday, and the quotations herein given are for the cities of Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton, London, St. John, N.B., Halifax, Winnipeg, Vancouver and Victoria. The prices are solicited for publication, and are of such quantities and qualities as are usually ordered by retail dealers on the usual terms of credit.

Goods in large lots and for prompt pay are generally obtainable at lower prices.

THE JAPAN TEA CONTROVERSY.

EDITOR CANADIAN GROCER, — We have read with much interest Mr. Bernard's and Mr. Dallas's replies to our explanation of why the imports of Japan tea may have increased in Canada, notwithstanding the fact that the consumption is decreasing. We have noticed also that neither of the gentlemen have denied the fact that there are very large quantities of Japan tea consigned to Canada which are afterwards reshipped to the United States. This is the only question at issue between us. In his letter Mr. Dallas states that we said "there were no bonded warehouses in the United States." Evidently he did not read our letter, but instead rushes into print and says rude things which are not argumentative. What we said was: "There is no system of bonded warehouses in the United States as we have in Canada"; therefore Mr. Dallas goes to the trouble of denying something that had never been asserted. There is a system of bonded warehouses in the United States, but, we repeat, not similar to that in Canada, where, practically, every merchant, wholesaler or retailer, can have a bonded warehouse in his own building. There are public bonded warehouses in the United States, but their charges are exorbitant and the American importer avoids all these by shipping his teas via Smith's Falls, which is as direct a line, by boat and rail, as there is. He then stores them there at very little expense, and has his choice of markets (Canada or the United States). The teas are then sold on sample and shipped to wherever they have been sold, whether it be in Chicago, St. Paul, Boston, New York, or any place else. If this is not a fact would Mr. Bernard or Mr. Dallas come out flat-footed, and say that the Japan firms they represent have not had teas which were consigned to Smith's Falls, shipped from there to the United States?

According to the Canadian Government's returns there were 1,695,172 lb. of tea exported from Canada to the United States between July 1, 1897, and July 1, 1898. A very small fraction of this was China green and black teas, and the balance was Japan tea. In other words, those teas were consigned to Canada and shipped to the United States when sold.

The imports of Ceylon and Indian teas into Canada and the United States during the year ending December 31, last, were 13,608,000 lb., against 11,360,000 lb. in 1897. Can any man, in the face of these figures, say that Japan or China teas are holding their own? Every grocer, every grocery clerk and every commercial traveler, knows that they are not, and every man in the business knows that Ceylon tea was scarcely known here eight years ago, and to-day there is not a grocery without it. Query.—What has it displaced?

TORONTO, March 1, 1899.

BROOMS STILL ADVANCING.

BROOMS still continue to advance in price, a price list of one of the large manufacturers in Canada to hand this week showing an appreciation of 10 per cent. on previous quotations.

Broom corn, which, in November last, was selling at $60 per ton in the United States, is now held at $130 to $150, an advance of about 117 to 133 per cent.

The crop is 15,000 to 20,000 tons short, and the fact that it has been cornered by Chicago and western dealers, and a few of the larger broom manufacturers, give additional strength to the market.

One of the best authorites in Illinois is credited with saying that the crop is the shortest in 20 years, and that the price will eventually touch $200.

A meeting of The Broom Makers' Association has been called for March 7, in Chicago, and, unless a further advance takes place in brooms after this meeting, many manufacturers will have to close down, as they cannot afford to pay the price demanded for broom corn and compete with the larger manufacturers.

COMMERCIAL POLICY BETTER THAN WAR POLICY.

A New York paper of a recent date contains the following paragraph: "When we stop to consider that we paid only $15,000,000 for the peaceful acquisition of the Louisiana territory, out of which we have made twelve great States—Minnesota, Iowa, North Dakota, South Dakota, Kansas, Nebraska, Missouri, Arkansas, Louisiana, Wyoming, Colorado and Montana—the sum offered for the Philippines looks amazingly large. There is every likelihood that it will cost us at least $20,000,000 annually for the next fifty years to "civilize" the half-savage inhabitants. The policy of imperialism will cost us an enormous outlay of treasure and blood, and it will not gain anything for us that a liberal tariff and commercial policy would not secure for the country without a cent of expense."

REDUCTION IN COTTONS.

It is reported that The Dominion Cotton Co. put into force, on March 1, a reduction in the price of grey cottons on goods costing over 4c. per yard. Several numbers are affected by the change, which means a drop of from ¼ to ⅝c. per yard.

Buyers of canned fruit will do well to communicate with H. P. Eckardt & Co.

TRADE CHAT.

R. W. Burrell & Son, general merchants, Lockton, Ont., are shipping large quantities of grain and potatoes this season.

R. M. Little, general merchant, Lisle, Ont., has commenced to handle grain and to do a merchant milling business.

Mr. William Breeze, for many years a wholesale and retail grocer and wine merchant in St. John, N.B., died recently in England.

Duck & Hutton, two gentlemen who have been connected with the grocery trade of Windsor, Ont., have opened up a grocery store in that city.

One hundred tons sulphur lately arrived for the new pulp mill at Mispec, which will begin running early in April. A second mill near St. John is about to be built.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Thos. N. Hobley, grocer, Barrie, Ont., is just recovering from a bad attack of la grippe.

S. L. Squire, general merchant, Waterford, Ont., spent some days in Toronto on business this week.

Mr. J. A. Stewart, general merchant, Exeter, is in Toronto this week attending the millinery openings.

Mr. Percy Eby, sample room manager of the Eby, Blain Co., Limited., Toronto, leaves the latter part of this week on a trip to Manitoba. He will be away a month or two and will combine business with pleasure.

Mr. Stephen Hustwith, representative in Manitoba and the Northwest for T. B. Greening & Co., Hamilton, who has been in Toronto for several weeks, is on his way back to his business territory. Mr. Hustwitt is looking for a good business this spring.

PICKLES FOR THE NORTHWEST.

Mr. J. M. Cameron, representing T. A. Lytle & Co., Toronto, left last week for Manitoba and the Northwest and British Columbia. His samples are more than usually complete, he having eleven different styles of "Sterling" brand pickles to show the trade. Five of the styles are new, comprising a 34-ounce oblong bottle, a 32-ounce round, a 52-ounce oblong, an 18 ounce octagon, and a 10-ounce oblong. The firm is giving more attention than usual to its "Sterling" brand of pickles.

H. P. Eckardt & Co. still have a few barrels and half-barrels of Labrador herring to offer.

We have just received a full line of the celebrated goods put up by The F. F. Dalley Co., Limited, of Hamilton, at our warehouse, No 10 St. John Street, Montreal.

COURTESY IN BUSINESS.

IT is a great mistake to suppose that politeness costs nothing, says a contemporary. It seems to cost some people a tremendous effort whenever they happen to be guilty of any business courtesy. They have the idea that a bullying, insolent manner lends dignity to them and that an abrupt style of speech is what people most admire in a business man.

And yet, these very men will wonder why they don't get on better in business. In spite of the genuine bargains they offer they are surprised that people keep away from their store. They do not see that their repellant manner has anything to do with it; they would, perhaps, be astonished to learn that sensitive people—and they are numerous—would sooner pay more money where they are courteously treated than be bullied or frowned upon at a genuine bargain counter.

An affable manner is a good advertisement in itself—a gruff and surly demeanor is a permanently bad one. Have not business men common sense enough to see this? If they are at all observant they can find plenty of evidences of it daily. Bad temper and a frowning face should have no place at all in a business house. Their only effect is to keep on killing trade.

However much at fault, it is not wise to reprimand an employe sharply in front of customers. Whatever the offense, curb your temper, at least until customers are out of sight and hearing. One can be firm and even severe without a display of temper. Frequently the customer would feel such an outburst as keenly as the employe who called it forth.

Sauve, polite manners in the proprietors, managers and salespeople are in themselves great attractions to a store or place of business. It becomes a positive pleasure to trade where you are sure of kind and courteous treatment. And, on the other hand, one is apt to dread going into a store where harsh tones, bickerings and fault-findings are the rule.

It is impossible to succeed in business nowadays unless you show a polite bearing toward those from whom you expect custom, and a well-managed house will see to it that all help are carefully trained in the one important point of good manners. Soft words and smiling faces bring back as many customers as low prices and attractive newspaper advertising, and the sooner merchants recognize this fact the better will it be for their business.

DECLINE IN INTEREST RATES.

As has been remarked in these columns before, says Bradstreets, the New York City Merchants' Association is strenuously objecting to the passage of a bill now pending at Albany which proposes reducing the rate of interest on loans in New York State from 6 to 5 per cent. The association has issued considerable literature defining the reasons for its opposition to the passage of the bill, its latest production being an interesting pamphlet containing information bearing on the amount of money on loan in New York and the number and character of borrowers and lenders. It is pointed out by the pamphlet in question, which is compiled in part from the census of 1890, as will be recognized, that there are 422,658 lot owners in New York State who have borrowed $1,400,000,000 on bond and mortgage, 156,814 farm owners who have borrowed $220 000,000 and 80,000 business firms whose loans aggregate $320,000,000. The total interest paid in a year is about $107,000,000. The average farm loan is $1,403, and the average business and lot loan is $3,440. The lenders include 1,736,968 savings bank depositors and an unstated number of life insurance policy holders and widows' and orphans' trust funds. These three classes of lenders have $1,500,000,000 out in loans. The loans of the banks of discount and deposit amount to $400,000,000. Trust funds and savings banks earn from three to four per cent. on their loans. The earnings of banks of discount and deposit have declined from 8.65 per cent. in 1890 to 4.99 per cent. in 1897. The average rate of interest on farm loans in 1890 was 5.66 per cent. and on lot loans 5.38 per cent., the present rate on mortgage security being 4½ to 5 per cent. This reduction is due to the fact that since 1890 savings bank deposits have increased about 30 per cent., trust company funds have increased about 20 per cent., life insurance funds have swelled greatly and the total capital seeking secured loans has about doubled. Competition among lenders for sale loans has caused the interest rate to decline. On the other hand, the interest rate on ordinary mercantile loans has not declined because of the greater risk.

PLUCKING CEYLON TEA.

A letter in the Times of Ceylon of January 19, reads: "There seems to be no room for doubt that better teas were made in 1898 than in 1897, finer and more careful plucking being the rule. Has this paid? Do we get a corresponding increase in value for enhanced quality? I think not. Therefore why advocate better quality? Why cast pearls before those who pay only the price of pebbles for them! A lessened quantity and fair quality should now be the cry, rather than better quality. Let us save our bacon by keeping our pearls."

ORANGES FROM JAPAN.

A feature of the orange trade last week is the receipt of several carloads of oranges from Japan, which arrived by way of San Francisco and Seattle. These oranges are of the tangerine variety, packed in small boxes, of about 25 lb. net, and generally came in good condition. The fruit was of handsome appearance, high color and sweet. It brought $1.30 a box, a fairly satisfactory price, remembering that the fruit reached here too late for the holiday demand, something which will be remedied next season.—Grocery World.

Five hundred thousand pounds of tea were destroyed in a fire at Melbourne, Australia, on Friday last.

BAKING POWDER MERIT.

IT is a puzzle to many manufacturers who put baking powder on the market to know why they cannot compete successfully with the big producers of the best known established brands, says Spice Mill. There are to-day practically no secrets about good commercial formulas for any style of baking powder; and yet a few leading brands are sold in enormous quantities at big prices, in spite of abundant offerings of cheaper powders which contain just as good materials. It can hardly be claimed that advertising alone is sufficient to account for this. Talk does a great deal in selling goods, but it is permanently effective only when it goes with merit. And we do not think the leading baking powders could hold their own as they do if more of the cheaper, honest powders were really "just as good."

The trouble is that most of the small manufacturers think that all there is to the baking powder problem is to adopt a correct formula and purchase pure materials. These are certainly essentials, but they are of no avail unless accompanied by methods of manufacture which insure a perfectly uniform product, no matter in how small a package it may be shipped. This matter of absolute uniformity is of great importance in all sorts of package goods which carry with them always the name of the producer and his reputation. But when the article is a mixed compound, like a baking powder, it can readily be seen that uniformity in its production is a consideration that outweighs all else.

The entire value of the package of baking powder—it may be but a quarter-pound—depends upon the correct proportion of ingredients which it contains. If this proportion varies, the work of the powder is uneven, and the brand is condemned. Poor materials, uniformly mixed, may make a good baking powder reputation, for the work of such a compound may be depended on. But the finest ingredients obtainable, put into packages with any uncertainty about the proportion in each package, can never bring any lasting, growing success.

CREDIT—A GOOD SERVANT.

It is a pleasant thing to give credit to a deserving person whom one is certain will meet the obligation if he is able, says Merchants' Review. It is also pleasant to be given credit when one is short of ready cash and needs the accommodation. Thus credit in itself may be declared a good thing, yet nevertheless there are many people who hate the very sound of the word. They have been induced at some time both to give and to accept too much of the good thing, and their experiences have been such that they will never forget them.

Truly one of the best friends of the retailer is the stern, systematic and impassive credit clerk who refuses to exceed certain limits in the granting of credit, for the easy-going credit man lures the retailer into accepting too long credit and also into giving it.

No doubt the wholesalers are responsible for many of the losses due to the credit system, simply through the bad example they set their customers. The latter, finding that they can get plenty of time themselves, are too ready to give it to others, and soon march on to their ruin.

PROTECTING AN OYSTER BED 250 YEARS AGO.

Here is a curious reply to a petition presented to the Committee of the British Admiralty in 1646, asking for the preservation of a natural oyster bed:

"Major Boys.—A petition hath been presented to this committee in the name and under the hands of divers the fishermen and inhabitants of Folkstone, in the county of Kent, showing that they have lately discovered a shelf of oysters against that town, near unto the low water mark, which, if preserved, will not only satisfy their charge of discovery, but also be a great relief to their own poor, and to their neighbors of Hythe. They further set forth that divers great boats do frequently come from Essex, Rochester, Milford and other places, to fish there with intent to destroy the said shelf, which they say will be effected unless suddenly prevented. We thought fit, therefore, to recommend especially to your care that all fit means be used for the purpose of preserving the said shelf from destruction and spoil, and that in order thereunto it be so regulated that it may be continued of use for the public good, and not subjected to ruin for advancing of particular interests. And if you shall hereafter find that any boats are sent thither with intent to destroy the same, as is alleged, we would have you take notice of the persons offending therein, and return their names to this committee, that order may be taken for their punishment, and for restraining the like proceeding in time to come, we consider it very equitable, that as the petitioners have been instrumental in the discovery thereof, so they and their neighbors should be continued in a capacity of receiving some special advantage thereby. So commending you to God, we rest—Your loving friends, Warwick, Nath, Fiennes, Henry Marlen, and Henry Mildmay.

"From the Committee of Lords and Commons for the Admiralty and Cinque Ports, sitting at Westminster this 7th of October, 1647. Subscribed to our very loving friend, Major John Boys, Lieutenant of Dover Castle."

LATE MR. JOS. HUDON.

Mr. Joseph Hudon, junior, of Hudon, Hebert & Company, wholesale grocers and wine importers, Montreal, residing at 115 Champ de Mars street, was found dead in his office by Watchman Moussette, at four o'clock Monday morning.

Mr. Hudon was apparently in the best of health and had not yet attained his twenty-ninth year. He was inclined to corpulency, and the medical authorities called, found that death was caused by fatty degeneration of the heart.

The deceased gentleman attended service Sunday morning at a quarter to seven o'clock, in the Notre Dame des Anges church, near the corner of Chenneville and Lagauchetiere streets. It was a meeting for men only and Mr. Hudon directed the singing as usual. He came home to 115 Champ de Mars street, and ate a hearty dinner, discussing at the same time the morning's service of song. The family thought him in the best of health.

The last time they saw him alive was at half-past five o'clock, when he left his home to go down to the business premises to have the fires attended to. This was his custom every Sunday afternoon.

When last seen alive, he was sitting at his desk with his hands spread out in front of him. At four o'clock this morning the firm's watchman noticed a light burning in the office. Soon afterwards he noticed Mr. Hudon's overcoat hanging up. This gave him the impression that Mr. Hudon was in the building. Repeated calls secured no response and finally the watchman entered the office and found his employer stretched dead upon the floor. His position seemed to show that while writing death had come to him and he had just fallen back sideways from his chair to the floor. The body was quite cold when found by the watchman. Dr. Cormier was called, but there was no need of his services.

The family of the deceased think that Mr. Hudon died between half-past six and eight o'clock on Sunday evening. He was left alive at his desk about six o'clock and he had an engagement to sing at about a quarter to nine o'clock in St. Louis de France church on Roy street, near Laval avenue. It is presumed that death overtook him before it was time to keep this engagement. His watch had stopped at half-past ten o'clock.

Mr. Hudon was a former student at the St. Laurent College, and intended at one time studying for the priesthood. He possessed a good baritone voice and was also an accomplished instrumentalist. He will be much missed by the trade and a large social and musical circle.

CANNED SALMON IN LIVERPOOL.

THERE is some indefiniteness about the spot stocks of salmon, which were supposed by some to be unusually heavy on the 31st December, but the January figures, in comparison with those of the preceding year, will reveal a different state of affairs; for in January, 1898, there was the heavy arrival of upwards of 100,000 cases by the Tekon while in the same month of this year the arrivals have been only a few thousands, and shipments are admitted on all hands to be nearly 400,000 cases short of last year. The deficiency is chiefly in Fraser River packs, and holders of this kind are firm at considerably above to-day's spot value, especially for talls, and this is bringing the choice packs of Alaska into greater notice, with the result that holders of these grades are asking and obtaining a further advance in price. The bulk of the Alaska pack of red fish may be described in an ordinary season as "good useful," the only drawback being a slight irregularity in packing, but there are several canneries in Alaska that ship salmon equal in style of packing to anything from any of the other fishing centres, and it will pay buyers in this season to find out under which brands their goods are put on the market.—Produce Markets' Review.

The Consolidated Tobacco Co., of Cuba, is said to have secured control of 70 per cent. of the output of Havana tobacco. It has secured options on 23 factories and plants, with the tobacco farms belonging to them. These factories include all the important ones in Cuba, except six already held by an English company.

A BUCKWHEAT AND SYRUP DISPLAY.

I'm going to talk this week about an idea either for use in a window or inside the store, says a writer in Grocery World. It is as old as the hills, yet I can't recollect that I ever saw any small grocer using it. The idea is intended to advertise buckwheat flour and maple syrup—either one or both—and in a nutshell is simply baking little cakes in your window, dropping a few drops of maple syrup on them and giving them away. I don't want to brag, but I'll bet I could get up such a boom in buckwheat and syrup in almost every grocer's store, especially in the country, that would tickle him to death.

Before I begin I want to say that this buckwheat demonstration should be advertised very freely. I should have little dodgers, say 4x6 inches, printed in red ink: "Free hot buckwheat cakes and maple syrup at——. Given away to advertise the buckwheat and the syrup." The newspapers may well be used to advertise the display also.

It is a great deal better to devote your window to this demonstration, and you need not have a large one, either. If your window is too small and it becomes necessary to have it inside, take everything out of the window and open the back, placing the cake baker right by the window inside so that he or she can be seen from the outside. Then clean the window out and fill it with neatly arranged piles of buckwheat and bottles or cans of syrup.

By all means, however, let the demonstrator get in the window if you can. Any clean-looking girl can act as demonstrator, as there is no science in baking buckwheat cakes. Even the smallest gas stove will serve to bake cakes on.

A sign should be placed on the front of the window reading something like this:

> EAT A CAKE WITH US.
> Please step inside and try a cake made of our — — — Buckwheat, and flavored with our delicious — — — — Maple Syrup.
> Buckwheat, per package, 10c.
> Maple Syrup per bottle, 15c.

Some of the leading package buckwheat manufacturers have attractive signs and placards. If you can get these, make a frame of them around the outer edge of your window.

Anybody who sees the crowds of women round the booths at the food shows and country fairs will no longer doubt the popularity of such demonstrations, and for buckwheat there seems to be an especial popularity for some reason. The cakes should be small and each one served on a small square of paper, with just a drop or two of maple syrup.

Make this display carefully and thoroughly and see where your sales of buckwheat and syrup will go to.

OYSTERS IN BRITISH COLUMBIA.

In 1896 an attempt was made to transplant oysters from their home on the Atlantic Coast in the coast waters of the Pacific. Eight barrels were shipped across the continent, and arrived in splendid condition. A despatch from Vancouver says that a couple of extensive beds of fine, large oysters have been discovered in Burrard Inlet, about nine miles from Vancouver. These are the first results of the attempt to introduce them to the waters of the Pacific.

OBJECTIONABLE TEA SCHEMES.

The city grocers are puzzled over the recently-launched scheme of an out-of-town tea merchant. One of the letters contained in the name of the tea is supposed to be enclosed in each package. To anyone holding all the letters of the name, a prize will be given. The point has been raised whether this scheme is a breach of the criminal code, which prohibits the "in any way disposing of any property by lots, cards, tickets or any mode of chance whatsoever." If the disposal of these prizes rests upon "a mode of chance," then the scheme is illegal. There is no certainty that a purchaser can ever succeed in getting all the letters of the name. No skill in selecting packages will help him. He might buy 1,000 packages and get but two letters of the name. Then, again, he might buy 12 and get all the letters. It is all chance.—Canadian, Parry Sound.

STRONG POSITION OF CANNED SALMON.

The position of canned salmon is a strong one, according to advices from the Pacific Coast.

There is very little sockeye salmon held on the Coast, and the little that is held is quoted at $5 f.o.b. or equal to $5.60 delivered.

Of cohoes there is said to be only about 7,000 cases held, and the f. o. b. figure for these is $3.95 to $4.00, or equal to $4.50 delivered in carload lots.

The canners in British Columbia are uncertain as to what their future operations will be, the Dominion Government having failed to rescind the obnoxious new regulations which they claim will compel them to close down their factories.

CADBURY'S

NO CHEMICALS USED.

The late editor of the Sanitary Review, writing on "The Consumption of Cocoa," warns the public against the use of foreign cocoas containing alkali, and makes the following allusion to the firm of Cadbury Brothers:—"It is the aim and practice of this famous firm to send out cocoa absolutely pure, of the highest quality which art will permit."

COCOA

ABSOLUTELY PURE, THEREFORE BEST.

For Price Lists, Etc., apply FRANK MAGOR & CO., 16 St. John St., MONTREAL

Good morning, sir, and what is this,
Inquired once a knowing Miss,
Is this the famous Dayton scale
Which saves where all the others fail?

If you will let me demonstrate
This System called the "Money-Weight"
I'll show you since you ask advice
The secrets of this strange device.

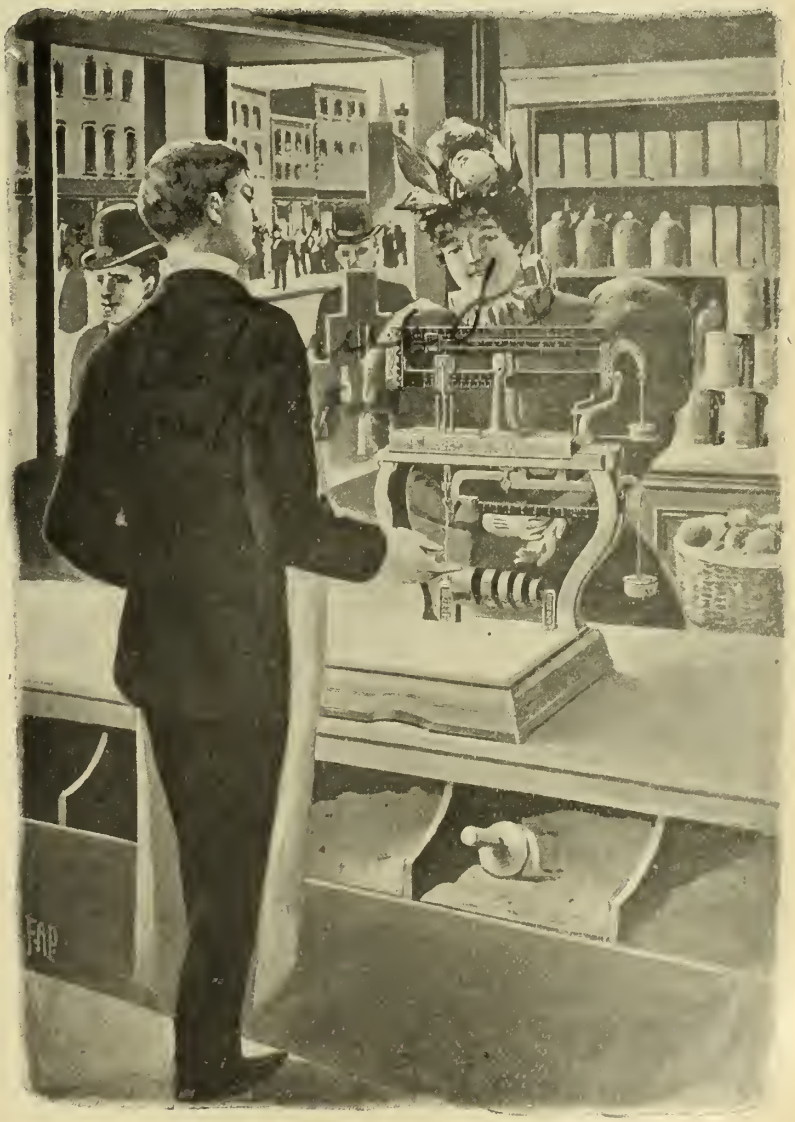
In olden times, just let me state,
They measured everything by weight:
They added on, would then divide,
To find the sum—they multiplied.

They never knew when they were through
Who was the gainer, they or you,
But by this System which you see
We set the price poise, say at three.

This indicates the price per pound,
The selling price is quickly found
By moving out the value poise,
What little labor it employs!

You have, you see by actual test,
Figured mechanically which is best,
The actual money value weight
By a system strictly up-to-date.

No loss by calculations wrong,
No guess work as you go along.
Every grain is worth so much
For the scale responds to the slightest touch.



For detailed information send for catalogue.
We manufacture 23 different patterns of Money-Weight Scales.
All scales sold on easy payments.

In my "Pharaoh" cigar (which retails for 10c.) I can give you quality and workmanship that the most critical smoker in Canada cannot find fault with. VOL. XIII. TORONTO AND MONTREAL, MARCH 10, 1899. NO. 10

CHICORY: ITS MANUFACTURE AND ADULTERATION

By A. Ruffin.

THE substance known in commerce as chicory is produced by roasting the roots of cichorium intybus, a plant belonging to the natural order of Compositæ. The plant is generally sown between the middle of April and the middle of May, and the roots are harvested in the autumn.

MANUFACTURE.

The manufacture of chicory requires several very distinct operations : (1) Washing, followed by drying by heat. (2) The division of the cossettes according to their size. (3) The roasting and breaking up, the sifting, the coloring, and the packing. The washing was formerly carried out in a very summary manner, either in great vats or in running water in the neighborhood of the drying places. Now, however, numerous plans of drying apparatus are in existence, and they are identical with those employed in sugar refineries. They are provided with arrangements for separating the roots from stones and other foreign bodies. After washing, the roots are cut up by hand, in the case of the finest qualities, but by machines in other cases. The pieces thus produced are about an inch and a half long, and are placed in the kiln on a large surface of perforated sheet iron. Here the are spread out in layers eight or nine inches thick, or thinner if the product is to be of extra fine quality. The kiln is then heated, usually by means of coke, and the removal of dried roots and substitution of fresh ones is constantly going on. After this first preparation the roots are known as cossettes. They are sorted out according to their size by means of a bolting arrangement armed with a ventilator which acts upon the cossettes as they are projected on to the iron network of the apparatus. This process is indispensable for obtaining cossettes which are suitable in all respects for roasting, and while awaiting that operation they should be kept in a dry place and as sheltered as possible from light and currents of air. If the drying has not been properly done the cossettes lose their colour, and change rapidly at the end of a few months. It is a sign that they have been properly prepared if they produce a clear, sonorous noise when stirred. The roasting of the cossettes is done in large coffee roasters, placed under chimneys with a strong draught and moved mechanically, except in some of the oldest-fashioned works, where they are still worked by hand.

NUMEROUS TYPES OF ROASTERS are employed. They are made of sheet iron and are about a yard in diameter. They turn over a fire of coal or coke, usually the latter. As soon as the cossettes are sufficiently roasted, two per cent. of their weight of butter is added, in order to make them shiny and to make them look like roast coffee. Then after a few turns of the roaster they are shot out, either on to the ground or into large iron vessels, to get cold. They are sometimes allowed to cool in the roaster, after its removal from the fire, another roaster full of cossettes fresh from the kiln taking its place. It is essential in order that the product may be of good quality and easily broken up that the roasting should be stopped at the proper moment, and recognizes the exact point by certain indications, such as the color of the smoke and nature of the smell proceeding from the cossettes. After roasting the cossettes are put into cylinders armed inside with teeth, which break them up. The stuff from the cylinders is bolted, and thereby separated into powder and grains of different sizes. Everything which does not pass through the sifters is returned to the cylinders to be broken up smaller. After this, for certain qualities of chicory, the coloring or blondissage is effected by mixing the grains with an impalpable powder obtained by the use of very heavy mills. The final process of packing is done either mechanically or by hand.

HISTORY.

The Dutch were the first, more than a century ago, to use roasted chicory in preparing an imitation of coffee, of which they retained the monopoly up to 1801, in which year the process was introduced into Liege by M. d'Orban, and into Onnaing by M. Giraud. After this it spread over France, and at the present time there are about two hundred chicory works in that country. The introduction of chicory was furthered in France especially by the wars at the beginning of the century, when attempts were made to replace coffee entirely or partially by indigenous or acclimatized plants.

ALTERATIONS AND ADULTERATIONS.

Properly roasted chicory is of a fine blackish brown color. When badly made or badly stored it changes rapidly. It swells up by absorbing moisture from the air, thereby bursting the packet in which it is contained, and soon becomes covered with mould, consisting principally of Peicillium galucum and Aspergillus glaucus. In this state it is evidently unfit for food. In spite of its cheapness, chicory has been extensively adulterated ever since it first came into use. In 1818, a sample was found to be largely composed of sand and powdered red brick, and these frauds became so prevalent that, in 1853, and again in 1854, Ministerial intervention took place, and the maximum ash allowable was fixed first at 6 and then at 12 per cent. To facilitate the study of the falsification of roasted chicory,

THE RISING SUN STOVE POLISH AND THE SUN PASTE STOVE POLISH

the most rational method is probably to begin by seeing what are the analytical determinations to be made and what variations can be admitted in those analytical results, as shown by analyses of specimens known to be pure. It is, of course, necessary that these variations should be known, inasmuch as the composition of genuine chicory is by no means invariable, depending, as it does, on the nature of the soil in which it is grown and on the way in which the root has been prepared. In testing a sample of chicory, five determinations should be made:

1. Of the substances soluble in hot distilled water.

2. Of the loss of volatile constituents in a current of air at 100° C.

3. Of the ash or mineral ingredients.

4. Of the proportion of ash soluble in water.

5. Of the proportion of ash insoluble in hydrochloric acid.

The chemical examination should be followed by a microscopical one. To determine what percentage of the in water 15 grammes of it are dried at 100° C., and then ground up in a mortar with water, adding the solvent a little at a time. The whole contents of the mortar are then transferred to a flask fitted with a condenser, and boiled in it for half an hour. The contents of the flask are then allowed to cool, and transferred to a weighed filter. The insoluble matters retained by the filter are washed thereon with boiling water until the filtrate ceases to give any residue on evaporation. The filter and its contents are then dried and weighed; the difference between the weight obtained and tare of the filter gives, of course, the weight of insoluble matter in the 15 grammes of chicory.

The second determination is done by keeping twenty grammes of chicory in an air current of the indicated temperature until the substance ceases to lose weight. To determine the ash, ten grammes of dried chicory are at a dull red heat. In addition to weighing the ash its color should be noted. This may vary from white to red, according to the quality of the cossettes. The ash is then exhausted with boiling distilled water, and the insoluble portion is dried, ignited and weighed. The proportion of ash soluble in water is then readily obtained by difference. Lastly, the insoluble ash is made into a thick paste with pure hydrochloric acid, and dried at 100° C. The dried mass is then treated with 10 per cent. hydrochloric acid. What remains insoluble is washed, dried, and weighed. The following results have been obtained by these means with pure chicory.

1. Percentage of soluble matter: Maximum, 69.9; minimum, 62.25; mean, 6.54.

2. Percentage of matters volatile at 100° C.: Maximum, 13; minimum, 5.1; mean, 11.4.

3. Percentage of total ash: Maximum, 13.76; minimum, 4; mean, 11.4.

4. Percentage of ash insoluble in water: Maximum, 11.25; minimum, 1.92; mean, 5.8.

5. Percentage of ash insoluble in hydrochloric acid: Maximum, 10.12; minimum, 0.83; mean, 4.93.

All these figures are percentages of the weight of the chicory dried at 100° C.

The author has not succeeded in meeting with several of the adulterations mentioned in most of the special treatises on the subject, such as old coffee grounds, roasted bread, animal charcoal, colored vermicelli, semolina powder, earth, fragments of beetroot, turf, sifted coal ashes, etc., and his results have led him to doubt that commercial chicory is ever sophisticated with inert substances. The presence of silica and earth simply point to insufficient washing of the roots. This operation is made difficult by the more or less irregular and furrowed surface of the roots, especially when the plant has grown in a clay soil.

THE REAL ADULTERATIONS of chicory are with leguminous seeds or roasted acorns, and such falsifications are by no means uncommon, especially as they are things which are sold by themselves as substitutes for chicory. In 133 samples bought at hazard four were found to be mouldy. Of the remainder, 47 gave a mean total ash of 9.45, the minimum being 5.8 and the maximum 10.9. Of the remaining 82, 45 gave more than 12 per cent. of total ash, the maximum being 43.2 and the minimum 20.5. In all these cases the total ash indicated that the roots had been badly washed. Seven samples were shown by microscopical examination to be slightly adulterated with coffee grounds, 18 were found by the same means to have been mixed with roasted leguminous seeds, nine were seen under the microscope to contain both coffee grounds and leguminous seeds, while three had been adulterated with roast acorns, which revealed themselves to the microscope and also by causing the infusion of the chicory to contain tannin.—Bulletin de la Societe Industrielle du Nord de la France.

NEW TEA STANDARDS.

The new tea standards as agreed upon by this year's board have been sent to Washington for the approval of authorities there, and samples were displayed yesterday to the trade in this city. It was learned by a representative of this journal that the comparison with the present standards was as follows: North China Congou, same; South China Congou, a trifle lower; Foo Chow, about the same, but an extra grade of Foo Chow was made which is lighter drawing; country greens, higher; basket-fired Japans, slightly higher; pan-fired Japan, slightly lower; Japan dust, lower; no standard for sun-dried Japan; Formosas, slightly higher; Ping Suey, slightly lower, and India and Ceylon, about the same. The standard for Amoy will be selected later. The local trade appears fairly well satisfied with the selections, which show little change from present standards.—N. Y. Journal of Commerce.

OTTAWA RETAIL MERCHANTS.

THE Retail Merchants' Association of Ottawa, on Friday night, March 3, passed a resolution favoring the $30,000 grant to the Central Canada Fair. The resolution read as follows :

"Resolved that the retail merchants of Ottawa are in favor of a $30,000 grant to the fair, and view with alarm any agitation that would tend to mislead the outside public regarding the management of the same. We are in favor of any reasonable expenditure that will keep the association up to the high water mark that it has attained.

"The association regards the fair as the best advertisement that the retail merchants of Ottawa have, and they are strongly in favor of an up-to-date progressive exhibition, and have every confidence in the present management."

The resolution passed unanimously there being no discussion.

The trading stamp question also came up for consideration. The association passed a resolution approving of the efforts of Ald. Lang to have a by-law passed taxing trading stamp companies. It was also suggested that some effort be made to have the merchants themselves control the stamp business, so that the money expended in them will at least be left in the city. Steps were outlined, but the matter will be taken up at another meeting.

The association also favors the amending of the early-closing by-law so that merchants will have the privilege of keeping open at night from December 15 to 31, and also during exhibition time, providing that it will in no way interfere with the validity of the by-law.

President Lang presided at the meeting, and there was a fair attendance, there being about 11 members present.

WINNIPEG CITY TRAVELERS DINE.

The Winnipeg City Travelers' Association held their fifth annual "At Home" in Unity Hall on 27th ult. The reunion was a very enjoyable event, bringing together about fifty of the most energetic commercial men of the prairie city.

Mr. J. H. Dickie presided as chairman, while Mr. J. Mouat acted as vice-chairman.

The company was seated at nine o'clock at a bountifully laden board, and it was well into the morning before "Auld Lang Syne" concluded one of the best evenings the association ever enjoyed.

At the conclusion of chairman's remarks the toast to "The Queen" was proposed in the customary loyal manner; Mr. Jno. Horne leading in "God Save the Queen," and "Rule Britannia."

The chairman proposed the toast "The City of Winnipeg," which was ably responded to by Ald. J. W. Horne and Mr. Jno. Mouat.

"The Grocery Trade" was proposed by Mr. D. M. Horne, and replied to in fitting terms by Mr. J. A. McKercher.

Mr. W. H. Stone proposed the health of "The Drummers" to which Messrs A. Pratt and W. R. Watson suitably replied.

The time honored toast "The Ladies," was handsomely responded to by six of the smartest young men in the crowd.

Before the gathering broke up, one and all agreed that the meeting was one long to be remembered.

AMONG TORONTO RETAILERS.

Outside Displays.

"The March winds are with us, stirring up the dust in great shape," remarked a city grocer the other day, and then added, in a sarcastic tone: "I suppose some of the grocers are worrying themselves because they have not fresh fruit to catch some of it. The quality of the dust now to be caught is better and richer than the summer article, and there is more of it. It must make some of them angry to know they have no fruit to catch some of it for their customers. Fish makes a good substitute, but there is nothing to equal fresh strawberries or raspberries for catching and keeping a good supply of dust."

The sarcasm of the foregoing is so apparent that all must realize the opinions of the speaker.

As with nearly all "abuses" of the trade, there are two sides to the question of displaying fresh fruit, fish, etc., outside of the shop, where they are exposed to the dirt of the street.

There are two ways of reaching the pockets of either man or woman—one by selling goods cheaply, the other by having the best quality of goods to be had. In other words, either quality or quantity is requisite.

It is safe to say that the only trade attracted by dusty fruit is that which seeks quantity. A woman sees fruit displayed in front of a store she is passing; she looks or asks for the price, and if she considers it good value, she may order one, two, or a dozen boxes. The display attracts her attention—the value of the fruit caused the sale. Sales effected in this way have come so frequently under my observation that I am compelled to admit the outside display has held its place in Toronto because it has been of some value at least.

The customer who wants quality, however, does not want berries that have been exposed to the sun and rain for hours.

Is it possible to meet both classes of customers? I think so—in the city anyway. The customer who seeks quality generally patronizes one grocer; she calls him her "family grocer." The customer who seeks quantity buys in the "cheapest" market; hers is "catch trade."

In nine, if not ten, cases out of ten the best trade to keep is the family trade, and it is a safe rule to lay down that not a box of fruit should be sent to any regular customer which has been exposed outside. And regular customers should be made to know that they were given fresh, well-kept stock.

As for catch trade, in the majority of cases the buyers so caught are generally after the lowest-priced articles to be had, so it would be good policy to always have price tickets showing that the goods displayed are the "cheapest to be had."

When such displays are made it is best to have them, of course, so arranged that as little dust, etc., as possible shall find its way to them. The best I remember having seen was very simple. It was partly in the window, partly outside, but could all be seen excellently from the street. The plate glass window front was composed of two parts—top and bottom. The bottom part was attached with sash weights, so that when desired it could be raised. In front of the window was a low table or stand running the full width of the window and reaching to the window floor. From the outside of this stand to the back of the window space there was a gradual slope. This made an excellent display stand for fruit and vegetables.

The dealer who thus left his window open kept his store bright and clean-looking by hanging in front of his shelving, almost from floor to ceiling, red mosquito netting.

There are dealers, however, and in their number are included a big share of the most successful grocers in the city, who scorn the idea of putting their goods "out in the dust," as one of them put it, "to catch trade." They appeal to their customers' desire for purity and cleanliness in all respects, and have as a result secured a class of regular customers who are willing to pay the price asked, because they feel confidence in the quality they will receive.

A NEW PRESERVING PROCESS.

CONSUL-GENERAL STOWE, writing to the State Department, at Washington, from South Africa, describes the Industrial and Art Exhibition at Grahamsburg last December, and says :

"Fruits as well as meat, fish, &c., are being preserved in an antiseptic fluid which is colorless, odorless and tasteless. In this tropical country, where fruits must be kept sweet until preserved with sugar, this preparation is necessary. I saw a piece of meat that had been simply washed with the fluid which was sweet three days after being killed, while the balance of the animal had to be eaten the day after it was killed.

"I saw fish and fruit of all kinds immersed in open jars, unsealed, that had been there for months, and were as sweet and plump as the day they were caught or picked. In preparing eggs, the following solution is used : One ounce of iodate of calcium to one gallon of water. The eggs are dipped in the solution and allowed to dry ; but they show no coating or discoloration and can be kept sweet for six months, and, if placed in lime and salt of equal proportions, can be kept over a year. I mention this preservative for eggs as it may benefit shippers of the United States."

LOW-YIELDING CEYLON TEA.

A CORRESPONDENT of The Ceylon Times writes that journal as follows: "Every little helps at a time like the present, when many estates are existing on a bare margin of profit, and some even working at a loss. My suggestion, which would relieve the market of a certain amount of low-class tea, has, no doubt, been considered by the greater number of estate inspectors, and the obstacle to carrying it into effect is probably the disinclination of the companies to propose to their shareholders a reduction of acreage, and, perhaps, the feeling of private owners that to cut off acreage is to lessen the amount to be obtained by a possible sale ; but, if this be the case, it is more or less a delusion, as purchasers nowadays have the figures pretty closely looked into by experts before they venture their capital. My suggestion is not applicable to the high-lying and young coffee districts, but to the old districts, where I know for a fact that there are many hundreds of acres producing only 200 lb. per acre, and under. Such acreage should, I hold, be abandoned forthwith ; it cannot hope to make a profit with the most scientific manuring. The method of calculation can be applied to each individual estate, and a study of the sale lists will show that there are a very large number of estates whose average price is below 35c. per lb. net, at which I have made my calculations. Every million pounds of tea taken off the market at the present time probably adds a cent to the value of the remainder, and it is the low-grade teas which want most relief, and will, I think, most quickly find it in any lessening of the quantity. Reduction of quantity by working for quality does not pay below 3,000 feet ; but, at the same time, lessening the quantity in many cases means more room for withering, and, therefore, the best quality obtainable. I take, as a typical example, an estate of 350 acres, in which it is supposed that 50 acres give only 200 lb., and the remainder 400 lb. per acre, and, by abandoning the 50 acres, it is seen that the profits are not lessened, and will probably be increased by the rise in the market, and the better wither :

CHEESE ADVANCING.

THE long and anxiously-awaited improvement in the export cheese trade has materialized. Since January, holders of cheese have been reluctant sellers at a level which they considered was less than the goods were worth. But the dealers in Great Britain stubbornly refused to advance their limits, and, as they were successful in shaking out sufficient stock to keep them going, there was no necessity of their doing so. All along, however, there were dealers who refused to sell at what they considered a sacrifice, and, as they controlled what remained for sale in Montreal, matters were at a deadlock until Saturday last, when more inquiry was experienced and cable limits advanced.

A leading circumstance in bringing about this change was the discovery of a fact pointed out a month ago by THE CANADIAN GROCER, namely, that there was a shortage of cheese in the States.

Within the past week this shortage has been made more evident by large purchases of States cheese carried since last fall in bond at Montreal. These goods were wanted in New York, and sold at 10¼c. in the warehouse at Montreal, which is from ¼ to ½ more than British buyers were bidding for Canadian cheese.

But New Yorkers did not confine their efforts to Montreal. They cabled to Liverpool and London and bid from sixpence to one shilling more than the Englishmen were offering on this side.

It was then discovered that while the latter might talk the market down for their own purposes, yet they were unwilling to back up their words when offered a good price for goods that they already had over there.

This made it clear to holders in Montreal that they might get more money, and results since Saturday have made it evident that the British people at last realize that what cheese remains in Canada is going to cost a good deal more than previous purchases this season.

CIVIC HOLIDAYS AND BUSINESS.

ALTHOUGH the month when civic holidays are held in Ontario is some distance away yet, the time when the different municipalities select the date for the holiday is not so very far distant.

As our readers are well aware, a great deal of dissatisfaction exists among merchants and commercial travelers on account of the different dates which different towns and cities set apart for the holiday in question.

Some have advanced the argument that the Ontario Government should take the matter up and secure legislation giving it the power to fix a date uniform all over the Province. But a holiday so fixed would cease to be civic ; it would be provincial.

The difficulty could, however, be overcome if the municipalities, within a certain radius at any rate, would consult with each other and agree upon a certain date for the holiday. The idea might both improve and expand with practice until uniformity in dates is realized.

THE CANADIAN GROCER introduces the subject at this time in order that an expression of opinion might be obtained in regard thereto from merchants and commercial travelers. What is courted is pointed and brief letters, and it is to be hoped a number will be received in time for the next issue of this paper.

DISCUSSING POLITICS WHILE CUSTOMERS WAIT.

WHEN merchants keep customers waiting while they discuss politics or some other pet subject they are riding for a fall.

Some customers may be disposed to be interested in the discussion, but a great many have neither the inclination nor the time to do so.

This article is inspired by a concrete example.

All the clerks in a certain store were at lunch. The proprietor was behind the counter. His hands were deep down in his pockets. There were several customers in the store waiting to be served. But they waited. The proprietor was discussing politics.

After waiting fully fifteen minutes, one of the customers quietly glided towards the door. Just as his hand touched the door latch, the proprietor, without moving from his position, cried : "Is there anything I can do for you to-day?"

"Oh ! I'll see you again," replied the customer as he shut the door. Jumping into his sleigh he drove off.

Even this hint was not sufficient to turn the attention of the storekeeper to the remaining customers in his store, and he was only eventually drawn away from the political discussion by an impatient customer summoning up courage to call him away from politics to business.

That same merchant has been grumbling a great deal lately about the dulness of trade in general, and the evil of departmental stores in particular. Is it any wonder?

THE COST OF SELECTED RAISINS.

Advices from Denia received this week are interesting. They state that, at the prices ruling, it will cost over 5½c. per lb. to lay down selected Valencia raisins in Canada.

When it is remembered that the wholesalers here are selling selected raisins at 5⅛ to 5¼c. per lb., not only is an idea of the strength of the primary market obtained, but there is also exhibited the foolishness of importers selling below what they could replenish their stocks of this particular fruit at, which has for some time been in light supply on this market.

CUSTOMS FRAUDS AND METHODS OF TRYING THEM

HON. W. PATERSON, Minister of Customs, a few days ago imposed a fine of $2,600 upon a manufacturing firm in Toronto for alleged attempt to defraud the Customs.

The case was, no doubt, proved to the Minister's satisfaction. If it had not he would scarcely have levied the fine he did.

But is it the proper thing for the Minister of Customs to be the judge in such cases? We think not.

When the Minister of Customs adjudicates upon such cases he is adjudicating upon cases in which his Department is the plaintiff. In other words, cases in which the Department is both prosecutor and judge. This is contrary to what is the accepted sense of British justice.

But that is not the only basis for objection against the present system. The other is the secrecy with which the present system is carried on. An importer is charged with defrauding the Customs. His case comes for review before the Minister, who gives his decision, for or against the importer, but it is a rare thing indeed that publicity is given to the matter. It is not, perhaps, that the Department takes particular pains to keep the affair from the press; but it certainly does not make any effort in the other direction.

Cases in which persons are charged with defrauding the Government—whether by fraudulent invoices, fraudulent entries or smuggling—should be ventilated, not before the head of the Department, but before a regular court of justice. This would not only do away with Star Chamber decisions, but would result in publicity being given to such cases, which could not be otherwise than wholesome.

Publicly ventilated cases of Customs frauds would be a strong deterrent to attempts at such practices, for there are a great many men who would dread publicity far more than they would a fine of even a few thousand dollars. But trial before a judge would entail, on the case being proven, the punishment of a fine as well as the penalty of publicity.

DRIED APPLE MARKET DEAD.

The demand for dried apples has been satisfied, and, as was anticipated in these columns, this week ends the abnormal prices which have been ruling this season.

Toronto jobbers are refusing to buy till the market is placed on a basis which may be expected to hold till the opening of next season's business. It is anticipated that prices will eventually settle down at about 4½c. outside. But for the present there is absolutely no life in the market.

THE SUGAR SITUATION.

THE present situation in refined sugar is undoubtedly a trying one to Canadian refiners, as they have to suffer through no fault of their own, owing to the cutting that is being indulged in at New York.

Owing to the fact that the United States Government allows a rebate of the full duty on the imported raw article when exported as refined, the Canadian refiners are compelled to keep their prices down, or the Canadian market would be made a dumping ground by the sugar Trust and the independent refineries. In fact, it is understood that quite a lot of United States refined sugar has already been sold in Canada, in order to further the illegitimate fight now in progress between the United States refiners.

Raw sugars are higher, and this makes the present position of affairs all the more unsatisfactory to the Canadian refineries. Some round transactions in raw sugar have been recently reported from New York, a lot of 25,000 tons Cuban molasses sugar changing hands at $2.25 cost and freight, basis 88 degrees. There is a decided scarcity of this grade in the market. In addition to the above the Trust announced that it is proposed to pay as much for molasses sugar over No. 10 Dutch standard in color, as it would for Muscovado. Centrifugals have also changed hands in round lots at 4⅜c, yet refined is being sold for less money than the figure named for this class of raw sugar.

CANADIAN PRODUCTS FOR FRANCE.

The Paris Exhibition opens April 15, 1900, and closes November 5 following. Canadians who propose exhibiting must return forms of application for space to the secretary of the Canadian Commission, Ottawa, not later than June 1, 1899.

It is to be hoped that there will be a good exhibit of the natural products of the Dominion at this exhibition.

Canada's exports to France are increasing, but still, according to the returns of 1897, they have not yet reached in value the sum of $700,000, in spite of the commercial treaty.

Our chief exports to France for the fiscal year 1897 were: Animals, $125,014; fish and fish products, $295,974; lumber and manufactures of wood, $152,019. It is obvious, therefore, that it is the natural products of the country which a particular effort on the part of Canada should be made to bring before the French people and the people of other nations who will visit the exhibition.

Canadian wines should not be overlooked for the exhibition. While France is a large producer of wines, it is also an importer. Lately it has been importing from Australia, and Canada, in 1897, sent $1,210 worth of wines and spirits.

CANADIAN PACKERS AND THE RAILWAYS.

THE executive committee of the Canadian Packers' Association met in Toronto on Tuesday and Wednesday, prior to holding a conference with the Traffic Association regarding freight rates.

At present the packers find themselves often much inconvenienced by the freight rates and conditions imposed by the railway companies, and particularly during the winter season.

It is to be hoped that the packers will obtain some satisfaction from their conference with the railway men.

With, perhaps, the exception of the Standard Oil Trust, there does not appear to be any industry in Canada that is without a grievance of some kind against the railways, and the result is injury to both the home and the export trade.

Very little satisfaction is ever obtained from waiting upon the railway men. And, what is more, it should not be necessary for the canners or those engaged in any other industry, to take their grievances to them. There should be a railway commission, empowered to not only listen to grievances, but clothed with the authority to compel their removal.

WHEAT UNUSUALLY STEADY.

THOUGH at intervals there have been slight fluctuations in the price of wheat, this article has continued, in Toronto, from August last to the present date, within a range of 7oc., the price never falling below 67c., or rising above 74c. in the intervening seven months.

The grain dealer who remembers an instance of steadiness in wheat similar to this must be a veteran, for such another has not come within the experience of one of the oldest millers in Toronto.

The cause assigned for this state of affairs is that there is very little speculative tendency on the part of the general public, and the wheat manipulators of Chicago, New York, etc., have been unable to create a "boom" as has been done nearly every fall or winter.

The collapse of the Leiter boom in Chicago last summer has been a big factor in causing this result. Young Mr. Leiter's fate has, naturally, made the general public fearful of speculating in wheat. It is to be hoped that the lesson will not be forgotten for years to come, and that the price of wheat will be ruled by the laws of supply and demand rather than the dictums of bears or bulls on the wheat exchange.

EXPORT TRADE IN WOOD BOARD.

It is quite possible that an export trade in wood board may be developed.

One factory in Canada, the other day, received an inquiry from a large soap manufacturing firm in England for 2,000 tons, but, through press of business at home, it was unable to fill the order.

It is to be regretted in a way, that this firm could not fill the order, but perhaps there are others who are not so busy with the home trade that they can.

Perhaps the High Commissioner's office in London can be induced to ascertain what the possibilities for doing an export trade in wood board are. Then, no doubt, the factories in Canada will make the necessary provisions for catering for this as well as for the home trade.

THE CURRANT SITUATION.

Advices from Patras, under date of February 20, state that there has been a considerable fall in the price of currants since the beginning of the year, and that prices on that date were 1s. per cwt. lower than previous figures.

Shipments of currants from Greece to the various consuming countries were, up to the end of January, as follows:

EVAPORATED APPLES FOR ENGLAND.

Mr. Harrison Watson, the curator of the Canadian section of the Imperial Institute, London, England, has been in communication with Anderson & Coltman, Limited, 75 Philpot Lane, London, E.C., who inform him that they have decided to push the evaporated apple trade, and would like to hear from Canadian producers of these goods with a view to taking up agencies.

It is to be hoped that those interested in the matter will correspond with Anderson & Coltman.

Mr. Watson, in a letter to the editor of THE CANADIAN GROCER, ventures the opinion that Canada could do more business with Great Britain in this line, and this paper quite agrees with him.

Just what we send to Great Britain in evaporated apples, the trade returns do not show, both dried and evaporated being placed under one classification, namely, "dried apples," and our total shipments under that classification in 1897 were 638,565 lb., valued at $27,127. Germany, that same year, took 3,678,312 lb., valued at $118,042, and Holland 699,034 lb., valued at $23,251. Our exports to all countries were 5,548,385 lb., valued at $179,504.

FINEST GRADE VALENCIA ALMONDS EXHAUSTED.

It was recently stated that by the end of March stocks of Valencia shelled almonds of the finest grades would be exhausted. Advices received in Toronto this week indicate that these expectations have already been realized, for they state the finest grades are exhausted, while only limited quantities of the other grades remain.

INDIAN AND CEYLON TEA CONSUMPTION.

The total consumption of Indian and Ceylon tea in 1898 was 33,000,000 lb. more than in 1896, 20,000,000 lb. of this being taken by new markets. The production during that period only increased 18,000,000 lb. This means high prices for Ceylon teas.

Ceylon teas in London last week under 8d. rose in value to the extent of a ½d. per lb.

The average price for Ceylon teas in London last week was 8.66d. as against 7.23d. in the same week last year.

EGGS TAKE A TUMBLE.

Last week, note was made of the unusual high price of eggs, and a tumble in quotations was predicted.

The prediction has been abundantly verified, as, since our last issue, there has been a decline of 5c. per dozen, the price to retailers now being 14½ to 16c.

The prices now ruling are, however, not sufficiently low to permit of the clearing out daily receipts, so it is likely there will be a further decline of a few cents. On March 11th, last year, eggs were selling at 13c.

TORONTO'S EXPORTS INCREASING.

February was a record breaker in the exporting trade of Toronto. The total exports from this city reached almost a million dollars, and are said to be the heaviest in the history of the Customs House. In fact they came within some $20,000 of doubling the figures of February of last year. The total value of the exports from Toronto last month was $910,216, against $465,248 for February of 1898, an increase of $444,968. The most remarkable increase was shown in the exports of animals and their produce, which were $316,753 greater, the exports in these two lines being almost three times what they were in February of last year. Exports of manufactured articles more than doubled, the increase last month being $123,254.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

TORONTO, March 9, 1899.

GROCERIES.

THE wholesale grocery trade of the past week has been a fairly satisfactory one for this time of year. The volume of business is rather better than the average, and the general tone of prices is healthy. There is little more inquiry for canned vegetables, and the price of tomatoes and crrn is held slightly higher than a week ago; some of the dealers who had been quoting lower than their fellows have advanced their prices 5c. on these lines, and 95c. to $1 now represents the price for corn, while 90c. is the ruling figure for tomatoes. There is a fair demand for canned salmon and other descriptions of canned fish. The tea market continues to be a strong feature, there having been a further advance in Indian and Ceylon teas in Great Britain, while scarcely any spot teas of this description are to be had upon this market. Japan teas are steady, and China green strong. The sugar market is in a most satisfactory condition, there being a better trade doing, while prices are stronger, although no actual changes have taken place in quotations on the Canadian market. There have, however, been advances in the outside markets. The foreign dried fruit trade is quiet, with prices, as a rule, steady. Coffees are still somewhat irregular in the outside markets, but there is no change here, and a fair business is being done. In spices, a firmer feeling in pepper is to be noted. Prices on tapicoa and rice continue with an upward tendency.

CANNED GOODS.

The inquiry for canned goods is a little better than it was a week ago. During the week a holder of canned tomatoes was offered 87½c. for 500 cases, but refused, his price being 90c. There have, however, been some transactions in round lots at 85c., but as a rule holders do not seem willing to accept this figure. Wholesalers who were last week quoting as low as 85c. have advanced their figures to 90c. and are now firm at that price. This is now the ruling figure to retailers. There has been an increased demand for tomatoes during the past week. The ruling price for corn this week to the retailers is now 95c. to $1 per dozen, those who were last week willing to accept as low as 90c. having advanced prices 5c. per dozen. The feeling in regard to corn is even stronger than in regard to tomatoes, and there have been some transactions during the past week or ten days in car lots at 90c. f.o.b. factory. The general opinion appears to be that corn is more likely to maintain its price than tomatoes. Peas are meeting with a moderate demand and are unchanged at 75c. per dozen upwards. An increase in trade is to be noted in canned fruits, particularly for peaches, pears and strawberries. There is quite a range in the price of both strawberries and raspberries, the former being quoted at $1.50 to $1.75, the latter at $1.50 to $1.65 per dozen. This, of course, is due to the character of the syrup in which fruit is put up. There is a good demand for canned salmon for this season and there is a fair movement in such lines as canned haddies, kippered herrings, lobsters and sardines. There is a little business being done in canned beans at 75 to 80c, and some round lots are reported to have changed hands at 75c. There is a little business being done in gallon apples at quotations. There have been some sales at $1.90 to $2 f.o.b. factory and at 70c. f.o.b. factory for 3's.

See pages 29 and 30 for Toronto, Montreal, St. John, and Winnipeg prices current.

COFFEES.

Although the market has been somewhat easier, cables received here state that the market for Rio coffees is a little stronger on the basis of 6c. for No. 7's. The wholesale trade reports a good business for green coffees at former prices.

SUGARS.

There has been a decidedly better feeling in regard to the sugar market during the past week. London cables on Saturday noted an advance of 1½d. in beet, and on Monday there was a further advance of ¾d. In New York, on Monday, granulated advanced ⅛c. per lb. All this has, naturally, imparted increased strength to the Canadian market, although no changes have taken place. The demand, while it has improved somewhat, is still not satisfactory to either refiners or wholesalers. This is probably, to some extent, due to the competition of American refined sugars, which are still coming into this market. The local price for granulated sugar is still $4.48 for granulated, the product of the Montreal refineries, and $4.43 for the Acadia. Yellow sugars are quoted at from $3.93 upwards. There is a nice, bright Demerara crystal raw sugar on the market, which is quoted at 5½c. per lb. Porto Rico raw sugar is quoted at 3⅝ to 3¾c. per lb.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Syrups are moving fairly well, and the demand is chiefly for bright table descriptions. A fairly good portion of the demand is for corn syrup, which is selling as follows: Bbls., 2½c. per lb.; half-bbls., 2⅝c. per lb.; kegs, 2¾c. per lb.; 3-gal. pails, $1.20 each; 2-gal. pails, 90c. each. Molasses are moving fairly well, and the New Orleans description is from 1 to 2c. per gal. dearer in the primary market, while local dealers are quoting slightly higher figures also. New Orleans advices report offerings light for prompt shipment.

RICE AND TAPIOCA.

Advices from London just to hand state that the market is very firm for Japan rice, which is scarce. The price of tapioca continues to advance, and there is some speculation being done in this line. Local quotations for both rice and tapioca remain much the same as a week ago.

TEAS.

There is a decidedly strong tone to the tea market. The London market continues to advance, particularly in low-grade Indian and Ceylon teas. Mail advices state that teas which were a year ago being bought at 8d. are now selling at 9¼d. The average price at the auction sales of Ceylon teas for the week ending February 23 was 8¾d., against 7½d. for the same week last year. The official estimate of the Ceylon tea crop for 1899 is 125,000,000 lb., against 119,500,000 lb. last year, but the quantity available for the United Kingdom will be but 93,000,000 lb., against 96,000,000 lb. last year. Importers in Canada cannot yet buy on the English market, on account of the relatively high prices ruling there, but local stocks are now practically cleaned up. Consequently, it is likely they will be compelled to go there before long.

There has been a little movement in Japan teas during the past week at 15½ to 16c., but the Japan tea trade at the moment is not receiving much attention.

There is a fair demand for China green teas at from 15 to 16c., but holders are not inclined to show samples as they feel sure they will get higher prices shortly for these teas, particularly as there are still some of these descriptions being shipped from this market to the United States. A few hundred packages of China black teas have been shipped during the past week from this market to Nova Scotia. The price obtained is said to be about 1c. per lb. more than could be obtained here.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS — A little business has been done during the past week for importation at prices which would indicate that the market in Greece is steady. The volume of business, however, for importation has not been large. Wholesalers report a fairly good business in currants, most of the orders received containing some requests for this fruit.

VALENCIA RAISINS — The volume of business is still insignificant and the market is without feature.

PRUNES — Trade is fairly brisk. The demand is chiefly for cheap Bosnia prunes at from 4½ to 5c. per lb.

DATES—There is not much business being done, and we quote 5½c. for Sairs and 6c. for Hallowee.

FIGS—Mat figs are going out fairly well at 3½ to 3¾c. per lb. Natural figs are quoted at 4½ to 4¾c.

GREEN FRUITS.

There has been a good general demand. Oranges, lemons, bananas, apples and onions are selling actively at firm prices. Californian navels and large 420 Valencias have advanced 25 to 75c. this week. There are no 714 Valencias and very few 420 Valencias offering. Spanish onions are done. Cranberries are in poor demand, and, as stocks are fairly large, a decline of $1 is noted. Almeria grapes are about done, and, as there is still a demand for them, the price has gone up $1.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—Since Friday last week the receipts of eggs have continued to increase so steadily that a drop of 5c. in the price of fresh stock has been noted in as many days, and 14½ to 16c. is now quoted. Limed and cold stored are cleared out.

POTATOES— The market is decidedly firm. Some car lots have been sold at from 62 to 68c., f.o.b. Toronto, an advance of from 3 to 4c. The street market is firm at 70 to 75c. per bag.

BEANS—There is a good movement, with prices steady at 90c. to $1 for medium grades, and $1.10 for hand-picked.

POULTRY—Receipts are light, but sufficient to supply the demand. Prices are unchanged.

DRIED APPLES—The market is dead. The buyers state they have quit operations for the season, at the old figures, anyway. Unless some unexpected and improbable demand arises, it is considered that no more business will be done above 4½c. for No. 1 dried stock, which means a drop of 1¼ to 1½c. The evaporated apple market is likewise dull, with prices uncertain.

VEGETABLES —There is no change, except that rhubarb is 25c. dearer, as the hothouse crop is consumed, and the outside crop has not yet come in. We quote as follows: Rhubarb, $1 to $1.50; greenhouse radishes, 40 to 50c. per dozen bunches; spinach, $1 to $1.50 per bush.; green onions, 10 to 15c. per doz.; celery, 75c. to $1 per doz.; lettuce, 20 to 30c. doz. bunches; radishes, winter, 15 to 25c. doz. bunches; cabbage, per doz; $1 to $1.25; parsley, 20 to 25c. per doz. bunches; turnips, 25 to 30c. per bag; beets, 50 to 60c. per bag; parsnips, $1 to $1.20 per bag; carrots, 50 to 75c. per bag; onions, Danvers, $1.25 to $1.50 per bag; butter squash, $2 to $2.50; Hubbard squash, $2 to $2.50; red cabbage, 50 to 75c.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—There is an excellent demand for dairy large rolls and pound prints. Receipts of large rolls are plentiful, but the market can easily absorb more pound prints. These are wanted fresh, however, and stock which has been stored for some time is fully 2c. cheaper than the fresh-made article. The latter is quoted at 17 to 18c. in Toronto, an advance of 1c. over last week. A good local trade is done in creamery, but a decline of ½c. has taken place, owing largely to lower prices for export.

CHEESE—The English market has advanced considerably, and, as stocks are light in Canada, the feeling is very stiff. An advance of ½ to 1c. per lb. is noted. The idea for late makes is 10 to 10½c. per lb. A carload changed hands at 10c. per lb.

FISH.

The receipts of frozen fish from Manitoba are greatly short of the demand, which is excellent, largely on Lenten account. Whitefish, pike, and trout are ½c. dearer. Fresh perch are done. We quote: Frozen salmon trout, 7½ to 8c.; Man. whitefish, 7c.; Man. perch, 5c.; Man. pike, 5½c.; Man. pickerel, 6c.; fresh whitefish, 8c.; trout, 8½c. lb.; steak cod, 6c.; flounders, 4c.; fresh herring, 4c. per lb.; St. John herring, $1.35 to $1.40 per 100; Labrador herring, $5.75 per bbl. and $3.25 per half-bbl.; Digby herring, 10 to 11c. per box; Halifax herring, $1.60 to $1.75 per 100; split herring, $5 per bbl. and $2.75 per half-bbl.; cod, in 1-lb. blocks, 6½ to 7c. per lb.; boneless fish, 4 to 4½c. per lb.; boneless fish in 1-lb. blocks, 5½ to 6c.; fresh-water herring, 60c. per basket; ciscoes, 60c. to $1.25; haddies, 6 to 7½c. per lb.; fresh haddock, 6c. per lb.; oysters, $1.25 to $1.35 per gallon, or $7.50 to $8 per large pail.

GRAIN, FLOUR, BREAKFAST FOODS.

GRAIN—Wheat is 2c. cheaper than last week, and is now quoted at 68 to 68½c. for both red and white at middle freight stations. A good business is being done on the local street market. We quote: Wheat, white, 73 to 73½c.; red, 73c.; goose, 68 to 68½c.;

HIDES Thee is no change in prices, but the feeling is decidedly weak. We quote cowhides as follows: No. 1, 8½c.; No. 2, 7½c.; No. 3, 6½c.; Steer hides are worth ½c. more. Cured hides have declined ¼c., now being quoted at 9c.

WOOL—There is no change. Fleece is unsteady at 15c., and unwashed easy at 10c.

SEEDS.

The market for both alsike and red clover is easier, 25c. decline being noted for both. Red clover is now quoted at $3 to $3.25, and alsike at $2.50 to $3.75, at outside points, though 25c. more might be had for extra choice lots.

SALT.

No change in price is to be noted. The demand is good. We quote at Toronto: Carload lots, $1.05 per bbl., and 65c. per sack of 200 lb.; less than carload lots, $1.10 per bbl., and 70c. per sack. At the wells, we quote F.O.B., barrels, 75c.; sacks of 200 lb., 45c. English salt is quoted at 48¾c. per sack of 154 lb.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

MONTREAL, Mach 9, 1899.

GROCERIES.

THERE has been a fair trade doing in groceries during the week, the movement being improved as compared with last week. Sugar continues much the same, though the unsettled feeling outside is bothering local refiners. Syrups and molasses furnish no particularly striking feature. In canned goods, corn is rather easier than it was. Rice is firm, as last noted, and foreign advices indicate continued strength. The same remarks apply to spices. There has been more inquiry for coffee, and quite a fair degree of activity is noted in the tea market.

SUGAR.

There has been little change in the situation of the outside raw sugar markets since last report, prices being about the same as they were a week ago. Private cables from London report the market for cane quiet but firm, and beet steady with an upward tendency. Raws are active in New York also. The local market for the refined article is without any new feature. Demand is still slow, but refiners report that their advices from the west indicate that stocks are very low, and for this reason they anticipate a better trade during the course of the present month. The tone of the market is steady and prices show no change.

SYRUPS.

There is nothing new to note in the syrup market. Business is still very quiet, and prices rule about steady at 1¾ to 2¼c. per lb., as to quality at the factory.

MOLASSES.

There is little to relate in regard to molasses. Business during the past week has been exceedingly quiet, and, in the absence of transactions, it is somewhat difficult to quote prices, for round lots, after the cutting which has been indulged in during the past two weeks. Late advices from Porto Rico report the market higher, and it is said the crop will show a shortage of, at least, 40 per cent. in high grades. The yield in the English islands is also estimated to be lower, some reports placing the shortage at 25 per cent. for medium grades. A private cable from Antigua the other day quoted molasses at 20c., cost and freight net land and guage.

CANNED GOODS.

An easier feeling has prevailed in the canned goods market lately. This is especially the case with corn, and some large sales between houses of 500 case lots have taken place at 90c. per doz., and the range may be quoted at 90 to 95c. according to the size of the lot. Tomatoes have been quiet, with no quotable change, and the same can be said of peas. There has been little doing in salmon, offers still being made of cohoes at $3.75 f.o.b. Coast

RICE.

In sympathy with the continuous strong advices from abroad, the rice market is very firm, and prices have a distinct upward tendency, though no active change has yet taken place. Mail reports from Bremen note a strong market, and state that estimates of the export surplus of the Burmah crop have been further reduced 75,000 tons, and that present indications were that the total shortage would reach at least 400,000 tons. Offerings of Patna and Siam rices are light, with extreme prices asked. Demand here is quite brisk.

DRIED FRUITS.

There has been little change in dried fruits, and the market is largely a nominal one, in the absence of any movement in business.

SPICES.

The spice market continues firm, and pepper, ginger and cloves have been active with an upward tendency. Tapioca has also ruled strong at the advance recently noted. A late cable quotes this article at 16s. 3d. landed here c.i.f.

COFFEE.

There has been a better demand for coffee, and a fair amount of business is reported. Sales of small lots of Maracaibo have taken place at 12c., and several 100-bag lots of low-grade Santos at 8c. These prices are, of course, for unground bag coffee in straight lots.

TEAS.

The market for Japan teas is very firm, and values on new crop teas are expected to open higher. A round lot of medium Japans, which was offered at 14c. about 10 days ago, was placed lately at 14½c., with more inquiry for the same class of goods at that price. Medium grades have sold quite freely also, at 15½ to 18½c. There is still an inquiry for Pingsuey gunpowder at from 10½ to 14c., and several sales have taken place within that range. In blacks, quite a few cheap Congous have changed hands, but business in this class of goods is restricted by the fact that stocks are in small compass. Ceylons continue steady.

GREEN FRUITS.

There has been a fair trade in green fruits during the week. Oranges show some change, Valencias having advanced about 25c. per box, while Californian navels are also 25c. per box higher. All varieties of oranges are in fair demand. Lemons range within the limits of prices last quoted, but for future delivery, an easier feeling is noted, owing to supplies near at hand. Cranberries are in light demand, and Almeria grapes are very scarce. A few lots of pineapples are selling at 20 to 30c. each.

APPLES.

There has been no change in the apple market, prices ruling firm at $3 to $4.50 per barrel.

FISH.

The fresh fish market continues steady with a good inquiry for all sorts. Fresh caught haddock are selling at 4½c., while fresh herring sell from $1.65 to $1.75; tommy cods, smelts, and dore are unchanged.

Pickled fish are scarce and firmly held. No. 1 herring range from $4.75 to $5 per bbl. and $2.50 per half-bbl. No. 1 green cod are higher at $6.25, and stocks are light. B.C. salmon, are quoted at $12.50 to $13 per bbl. and No. 1 lake trout, $4.50.

There is no change in smoked or prepared fish. Haddies are strong at 7 to 7½c.; and dressed cod, 7 to 7½ for large, and 4c. for small.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—There was a weak feeling in the egg market to-day owing to the liberal receipts, and prices broke 3c. per dozen. The demand was only fair, and chiefly for small lots, at 18c. per dozen. The stock of limed and cold storage eggs is now well cleaned up, and quotations are withdrawn. In regard to fresh, the prospects are, if the present fine weather continues, prices will go still lower.

POULTRY—In dressed poultry, trade was again quiet. A few small lots were received, which met with a slow sale, but prices show no change. We quote: Fresh killed turkeys, 11c.; frozen, 9 to 9½c.; choice fresh killed chickens, 9½ to 10c.; western frozen, mixed stock, 5½ to 6c.; ducks, 8 to 9c., and geese, 6 to 7c. per lb.

MAPLE PRODUCTS — The demand for small lots of maple product is fair, of which the offerings are ample, and sales of syrup in small tins were made at 55 to 60c., and sugar at 6 to 6½c. per lb. No new maple syrup or sugar have been received yet, but some is expected in a few days. The crop this year is not likely to be large, owing to the little snow during the winter.

HONEY— In honey, trade was quiet, and the market featureless. We quote: White clover comb, in 1-lb. sections, 8 to 8½c.; dark, 6½ to 7c.; white extracted, 6 to 6½c., and dark, 5 to 5½c.

BEANS—There was nothing new in beans. The demand is slow and only for small lots to fill actual wants. We quote: Choice hand-picked, 95c. to $1 per bushel; primes, 85 to 90c.

ONIONS — Continue in good demand with prices firmly held at $2.75 to $3 per bbl.

PROVISIONS AND DRESSED HOGS.

The demand for provisions continues to be of a limited character; in consequence, the market remains quiet and without any new feature to note. We quote as follows: Canadian pork, in barrels, $15 to $15.50; pure Canadian lard, in pails, 7¼ to 7½c. per lb., and compound refined

There was a fair demand for small lots of nice bright dressed hogs, and sales of such were made at $5.50 to $5.60, but held stock met with a slow sale at $5 to $5.25 per 100 lb.

FLOUR, GRAIN, ETC.

GRAIN.—The grain market was again quiet to-day and without any new feature of note. The demand from shippers was slow, owing, no doubt, to the soft tone of cable advices and little business was done. At western and eastern points of Toronto the feeling in coarse grains was easier, but no actual change in prices can be recorded. Oats on spot ex store, are quoted at 34¼c. to 34½c.; buckwheat at 57c. to 57½c.; peas at 73c., with holders asking 77c. afloat here May.

FLOUR.—There was nothing new in the situation of the flour market. The demand is of a hand to mouth character and prices rule about steady. We quote: Winter patents, $3.75 to $4; straight rollers, $3.50 to $3.60; in bags, $1.65 to $1.75; Manitoba patents, $4 to $4.25; strong bakers', $3.70 to $3.90.

MEAL—Business in rolled oats in a small way was fair, and prices rule firm at $3.75 to $3.80 per bbl.

FEED—A fairly active trade continues to be done in feed, and, as supplies are not excessive, prices are sustained. Ontario white wheat bran, in bulk, sold at $15 to $15.25, and shorts $15.50 to $16 per ton; Manitoba bran, $16; shorts, $18, and mouille, $18 to $25 per ton, including bags.

HAY—The tone of the market for baled hay is steady, but trade at present is dull. We quote: No. 1, $5.50 to $6; No. 2 extra, $4.25 to $4.75; No. 2, clover mixture, $4; clover, $3.50 to $3.75.

CHEESE AND BUTTER.

CHEESE—More activity has been noted in cheese since Saturday, and in addition to inquiry for United States goods, there was quite a lot of business transacted in Canadian negotiations that were opened Saturday being closed Monday for a line of 3,000 boxes eastern makes at 9¾c. up, the bulk of the lot realizing 9⅞ to 10c. As a consequence of this change in tone, holders are asking more money, and bids of 10c. have been refused for western makes, holders naming their figure at 10¼c., in fact, some holders are not in the market at all at present, as they firmly believe that the market is going still higher. The public cable was unchanged at 49s., but that it was no criterion was evident from the news received from New York, that more money had been bid in Liverpool on United States goods for reshipment across to this side and refused.

BUTTER—Remains quiet and steady, with a good local demand quite sufficient to keep prices steady at 20 to 20¼c. for creamery; 15½ to 16c. for western dairy rolls, and 14 to 14½c. for tub dairy.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER,
ST. JOHN, N.B., March 7, 1899.

ALREADY, there is a noticeable improvement in business, and all are looking forward to a good spring and summer. The weather is mild, which favors early business. New Porto Rico molasses has been on the market for some time, and seeds were landed this year earlier than usual. Our friends across the line are already pushing sales for fall. In hardware and in dry goods early buying has been the rule for some years, and competition is pushing the same rule into groceries. Brooms hold firm at the advance spoken of in our report last week, and even higher prices are anticipated. Cream of tartar is much higher, having made a sudden move this week.

OIL—There is a fair business at even prices. There is so much business to be done, and it is difficult to increase it. This is particularly the case in burning oil, but lubricating and paint oils give promise of a better demand this spring than usual, increased manufacturing through the Province affecting the demand.

SALT—English coarse salt continues to arrive freely, each weekly steamer bringing 6,000 or 7,000 bags, besides that which is shipped through to the west. Little as yet has been stored here by importers, but outside points have been well stocked, and many local holders have been supplied. The quality of the Liverpool factory-filled, or at least some brands, is very fine, and is arriving in splendid condition. Outside dealers should be sure and have their orders in before the steamers stop running early next month, as prices will tend higher. We quote: Liverpool coarse, 38 to 40c.; English factory-filled, 80c. to $1; Canadian fine, $1 per bag; cheese and butter salt, bulk, $2.50 to $2.60 per bbl.; 5-lb. bags, $3 to $3.25 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $2.85 to $3 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 20c. each; 10-lb. wood boxes, 12c. each; cartons, $2 per case of 2 doz.; English bottled salt, $1.25 to $1.30 per doz; mineral rock salt, 60c. per 100 lb.

CANNED GOODS—As the season advances some wholesalers are looking for stock, particularly tomatoes, though some hold good stocks. Corn is also inquired for. Peas show no change. Salmon is firmly held. Stock is not large, and there is every prospect of higher prices. Lobsters are scarce, but the high price has affected sales. Fruits begin to move more freely. Peaches are held firm. While meats are lower than last fall they are firm at present quotations, and it is expected somewhat the same conditions as last year will rule. In kippered herring and finnan haddies, stocks are light and prices firm. Domestic sardines have a fair movement. Stocks of scallops are light.

GREEN FRUITS—With the warmer weather business is more active and market is firm. Valencia oranges have a large sale, and price tends rather higher. In Californians, there is but limited sale and the price is easy. There are very few Jamaicas or Floridas offered. Lemons, which continue to have a large sale, are low. In apples, very few are held, and even for poor stock high prices are obtained, and there is a fair sale. Cranberries have but light sale; chiefly offered in bushel boxes. Bananas tend to move more freely.

DRIED FRUITS—Prunes still have the chief sale. The 25-lb. box Californians are prefered. Some good French and Bosnia are offered at low prices. In raisins little is doing, and prices are easy. Demand is for loose muscatels, and seeded currants have a fair sale at even prices. In figs, there is very light movement. Dates are firm. In evaporated apples stock is light and firmly held. There is but a fair sale. Dried are dull, though quite firmly held. In onions, stock is small and full prices are asked. Dealers begin to look forward to the arrival of Spanish. In peanuts high prices still rule.

SUGAR — There is a very steady sale at even prices. Dealers have small stocks both of American granulated and foreign yellows, but the big end of the trade is in the sugars refined by the Maritime refinery. There is quite a firm feeling with increased demand expected.

MOLASSES — For the past two weeks new Porto Rico has been offered. Arrivals so far are light; quality is good and prices quite high and firmly held. Little change expected until direct importations arrive. In Barbadoes, the market is about bare, and little if any new is expected within a month. New Orleans is firmly held. Late importations have been of particularly good quality. Syrup has little sale, and very little stock is held.

PRODUCE—Eggs, this week, have again turned higher, and are scarce. There is a good sale. Arrivals are now of good quality. Butter is firmer, particularly for best stock, but there is little advance, and it is very difficult to get prices up, even for late-made creamery. In cheese, there is light sale at even prices, and prices continue below those quoted west.

FISH—The season for frozen fish is about over. Sales are active, but the stock cannot be got. There have never been as light arrivals of frozen herring during a winter. Fresh cod and haddock keep scarce, so finnan haddies are about out of the market. The stock of dried fish is light, and prices, particularly for codfish, are firm. Pickled herrings are scarce and high. Smoked are quiet. Boneless move more slowly. There is no large business in any line. A few gaspereaux have been caught, but the price is still high. Few are packed until later, the early catch being either sold for bait or sold fresh or smoked. They are a large catch here; as a rule, over 20,000 bbls. are caught. But few lobsters are sent here. We quote as follows: Large cod, $3.75 to $3.80; medium, $3.70 to $3.75; pollock, $1.75 to $1.80; Grand Manan pickled herring, $1.95 to $2 ½-bbl.; Canso, pickled, $5 per bbl.; boneless fish, 3½ to 5c.; cod, 7 to 7½c.; finnan haddies, 5½ to 5¾c.; smoked herring, 6 to 7c.; spring shad, $3.75 to $4 ½-bbl.; fall shad, $4.75 to $5 ½-bbl.; Shelburne, $3.75 per bbl.; Grand Manan herring, $3.70 to $3.80 per bbl.; quoddy, $3.50 per ½-bbl.; frozen smelt, 5½ to 6c.; frozen pollock, 1¼ to 1½c.; frozen cod, 2¾ to 3c.; frozen haddock, 2¾ to 3c.: gaspereaux, $2 to $3 per 100; lobsters, small, 3½ to 4c.; do., large, 10 to 12c.

PROVISIONS—There is but a fair demand for barreled meats. Pork and beef are firmly held. Eastern competition tends to drive the western out of the market, and in beef, Canadian has increased sale. Lard is easy, with quite a range in price.

FLOUR, FEED, AND MEAL. — Flour in local market tends easier, and there is but fair sale. Oatmeal is rather higher, with oats firm. In cornmeal, the price is lower, and sale is large. Feed continues hard to get. Hay is low. Beans are lower in this market; fair stocks held. Barley and split peas are higher here; there is a fair stock. Blue peas have an improved sale. Dealers are giving particular attention to seeds, and already there have been quite large arrivals. Prices rule lower than last year. A large quantity is handled here. In timothy seed,

IN 1714 a plant was presented by the magistrates of Amsterdam to the French King Louis XIV.

This plant was carefully nursed, and from this source plants were forwarded some years later to the French West Indies, and from these all the coffee found in the Western Hemisphere derives its origin.

The Parisians immediately adopted the drink, and it became the fashionable beverage of Paris. It could only be indulged in by the wealthy few, as the price was exorbitant. It is stated that a sum equivalent to $15,000 per year was expended for supplying the daughters of Louis XV. with the beverage.

The English owe to Mr. Edwards, a Turkish merchant, their knowledge of coffee. This gentleman about the year 1650 brought to England a Greek youth who used to prepare the drink for his master ; the latter, however, finding that the novelty began to attract too many visitors to his home, gave the boy his liberty, and enabled him to open a coffee house of his own.

At first it met with violent opposition ; it was denounced as a "vile drink," "poison," etc. A heavy tax was imposed upon it by the Legislature, but, notwithstanding all opposition, the beverage constantly gained ground, and coffee houses were as plentiful in London as at Constantinople.

Across the water the custom jumped, and the infant United States commenced to nourish its strength from the coffee-pot ; and in no place in the world probably are the influences more healthful, the effects more happily displayed than in that country, especially at the "Old French Market" in New Orleans. The coffee vendors are distributed throughout the market place and streets, and are kept as busy as bees supplying cups of coffee to the European, Creole, New Englander, the Westerner, who, standing side by side in the open street, forget caste, and sip the nectar.

The coffee houses of New York are intimately associated with the history of the city. Here were gathered the leading literary, professional and business men who discussed the leading topics of the day while sipping their cups of coffee.

But the coffee house is a thing of the past. The more pretentious club house has taken its place, and the lovers of coffee are forced to the restaurant for their favorite drink.

Robert Fair, perhaps the best known grocer of Fairville, has sold his business to his two sons. who will continue under the style of Fair Bros.

St. John and Halifax regret that Mr. Preston, Canadian immigrant agent, should have sailed to England via Boston rather than a Canadian port.

The new I.C.R. elevator, to hold 500,000 bushels, is to be completed by October 1, and will be modern in every particular. The C.P.R. are expecting to very much increase their wharf accommodation.

It is expected this summer very low rates will rule to allow tourists to take the sail up the St. John river, and spend a day in Fredericton, returning by train. A more pleasant trip cannot be taken.

THE GIFT SCHEME OUTDONE.

Tea and spice dealers will have to take a back seat in the matter of gift "schemes" ; for their most attractive offers of merchandise "on the side" do not compare with the trading inducements held out by certain rival towns in Kansas bidding for the farmers' grain. According to a local dispatch, the towns of Lacrosse and Larned are in a big fight for the wheat shipment from the Arkansas valley. Larned grain buyers offered a free dinner to every farmer who would bring to that town twenty-five or more bushels of wheat. Lacrosse now goes one better and offers hotel accommodations over night to farmers in Larned territory, besides a good time at the opera house or elsewhere. This rivalry is attracting the attention of the whole wheat region. —Ohio Merchant.

WINDOW DRESSING.

THAT there has been a great deal of preaching done upon the subject of window dressing, I know full well, writes Edith R. Gerry in Printers' Ink, but it would seem that even those who thoroughly realize the power of advertising have not accorded just importance to this valuable branch of publicity. Window dressing is just as important as newspaper advertising. In fact, it is almost an indispensable part of advertising, playing the part of the poster much better than the poster does itself. It should have as careful attention as the newspaper advertising. It should be in the hands of a man just as capable as the advertising manager; and, moreover, one who fully appreciates the fact that advertising is the steam which propels the engine of business. In one way window dressing is certainly more valuable than newspaper advertising may ever hope to be, because, although it has not so much certain "circulation," its display is much more prominent, and it places the real article right in one's eye, and we all know how much quicker pictures tell a story than type, even if the type is read, and very many people will look in windows who will not read advertisements. In many of the large stores there is a capable man in charge of this branch, but he is usually treated as an alien. He has to fight to hold his own, and is looked upon in the light of an usurper who is trying to "do" everybody, and must be promptly squelched.

The windows of a store are like the index to a book—they tell what is within. If they are judiciously and artistically arranged, so that the effect is attractive and interesting, the impression is one which will be pleasantly remembered, even if it is not acted upon at once. We are most of us influenced by effect. It is only the artistic or scientific mind that tends to dissection, and because a window is attractively dressed it does not follow that a window must be richly dressed.

Very many people before deciding just what they want to buy, and where they want to buy it, "look in the windows." especially is this true of the class who have not the time to do their gazing by daylight, but must gaze at night after the stores are closed. All merchants concede that the real profit lies with these people, and certainly every endeavor should be made to make it as easy as possible for them to part with their money. The shades should be up at night and the lights bright. This will always attract the attention of those who pass, even if they are not thinking of such things, and will prove very effective advertising. These passers-by will purchase sometime, and then it is pretty sure to be at the store whose window display has attracted and pleased them most, notwithstanding the fact that the other stores may have advertised the same goods in the newspaper columns.

And window arrangements should be frequently changed. Make a woman think she will see something different in the windows every time she passes your store. She will learn to look for them and greet them as old friends. If I were building a store, I would have it situated in an open space and surrounded with glass from top to bottom. In every available space I would have merchandise artistically displayed, and the whole brilliantly lighted.

Please don't squelch your window-dresser. Respect him, and treat him as liberally as you do the all-conquering advertising manager. If you yourself are divided into proprietor, advertising manager, window-dresser, etc., be sure that the window-dresser part of you is as large and as active as the others. It will pay.

THE NEW TEA REGULATIONS.

A circular has been issued to collectors of Customs containing consolidated instructions regarding adulterated teas, part of which reads as follows:

The following instructions respecting the prohibition of adulterated teas are issued for the guidance of Customs officers, in the place of Memo. No. 954 B. and Memo. No. 998 B., which are hereby cancelled:

1. All teas or goods described as tea in respect of which samples are to be taken for examination or test or which are suspected to be prohibited, shall not be released from Customs control until it is decided that such teas are not prohibited under the Customs laws.

Decision as to the quality of tea presented for entry at the Customs will be rendered by the Department with all practicable despatch.

2. Samples of the following classes of imported teas, when entered for consumption, shall be sent to the Department of Customs at Ottawa to be tested, before such teas shall be released by the collectors, viz:

(a) All teas from the United States not accompanied by Customs certificates of fitness for consumption in the United States.

(b) All tea dust.

(c) All China green teas costing, when landed in Canada, 14c. per lb. or less.

(d) All other teas costing, when landed in Canada, 12c. per lb. or less.

Note.—The cost of "consigned teas" is to be estimated at the export price abroad (f.o.b.), with transportation charges added. In the absence of bills of charges, 2c. per lb. may be estimated for freight and charges from the country of growth to Canada.

A SCIENTIFIC AND ARTISTIC INVENTION.

If there is one thing a woman yearns for it is change, but it is not everyone who can afford the luxury of bran new dresses, blouses ribbons, laces, etc., etc., and, therefore, it came about that Maypole Soap was invented. With a few cakes of this wonderful soap, what transformations can be effected, and the dainty results to be obtained with literally no trouble, would be absolutely astounding were we not to take into consideration the giant strides which Science has taken during the 19th century: Science and Art having once joined hands there is small wonder that their combined efforts have met with such marvellous success. Up to a short time ago the process of dyeing was a positive torture to the thrifty housewife who recognized that cleanliness was not only a virtue next in value to godliness, but it was also an essential from an economical point of view. To obtain a pure and even tint, and a dye which can be used on all materials alike, whether they be silk, satin, cotton, wool or mixtures, the ideal is that prepared with soap. Maypole Soap is the only home-dye which fills the requirements demanded by all modern and up to-date women, it insures absolute cleanliness and equality of colour. Maypole Soap is easy, quick, fast and effective. No other dye can equal it and therefore none can beat it.

The Canadian depot of the Maypole Co. is at 8 Place Royale, Montreal, and the well known firm of A. P. Tippet & Co. are managers.

THE JAPAN TEA CONTROVERSY.

Editor CANADIAN GROCER,—I am sorry to have again to trouble you upon the question of the increased imports of Japan tea, but the "Salada's" last statement leaves no alternative, as they challenge me to come out "flatfooted" and say that the firm I represent has not had teas consigned to Smith's Falls and shipped from thence to the United States, but on this point they are also entirely wrong.

The firm I represent has shipped no teas to the United States from Smith's Falls or any other Canadian point. All the teas we have shipped to Canada have gone into jobbers' hands and are mostly consumed, as large repeat orders have been refused, stocks in Japan being exhausted. It may also interest your correspondent to know that our firm has sold more tea in Canada during the past season than in any previous one. The shipments referred to, viz., Canada to the United States, during 1897-98 were very largely increased by a quantity sent into the United States by jobbers and others to take advantage of the United States duty.

The consumption of Ceylon and Indian teas has increased of late years, but investigation would prove that these teas have taken the place of China blacks and greens, and that there has been no decrease in Japans where they have been principally consumed heretofore.

The following tea market advices just to hand show still further increase: "Total to January 31, 1898, 8,766,861 lb.; total to January 31, 1899, 12,011,691 lb. Increase this season, 3,244,830 lb. Market closed."

A MEDAL FOR MUSTARD.

J. & J. Colman, Limited, are keeping up to the standard of excellence they long ago set themselves. At Grahamstown, in Cape Colony, an exhibition was held recently, and writing of their exhibit, a correspondent advises us that it was the best in the show from a commercial point, and that the giant mustard tins and cardboard boxes of starch came in for much admiration. Our Grahamstown contemporary, The Journal, in its issue of July 5, writes: "Messrs J. and J. Colman, Limited, London, have a first-class and interesting exhibit of their famous mustard, starch, and blue, which is displayed in a very tasty manner, and the mammoth tins are so constructed as to come in for a variety of uses after they are emptied of their contents." By later advices we learn that the firm have been awarded the gold medal. There is no slackness here or depending on the reputation acquired in the past, and we are glad of it.—Commerce, London, Eng.

MONSOON

Have you ever thought of the waste there is in selling bulk teas? Not only waste of the leaves, but the going off in flavor, and consequently the loss of many customers in a year, possibly not only for their tea, but all other groceries There is no possibility of serving your trade as well with a loose tea as with a packet. The loose tea gets stale and flat—the packet is air-tight.

If MONSOON does not please better than any tea you have ever handled, return it and get your money back.

JAPAN TEA

is by long odds the nicest, purest and altogether the most delicious tea in the world.

It is extensively advertised and has decided merit in both flavor and aroma.

You owe it to yourself and your customers to have a full supply on hand.

Housewives want it because they know it is the purest, cleanliest, best flavored and most economical of any and all teas the world produces.

Always follow carefully the following:

OFFICIAL RECIPE. . . . .

Use a small, dry, and thoroughly clean porcelain or porcelain-lined tea-pot. Put in one teaspoonful of tea-leaves for each cup desired. Pour on required quantity of freshly boiled water, and let stand for two or three minutes with closed lid. Never boil the leaves. Tea-leaves should be kept in tight can or jar, free from moisture.

"Stop the Leaks."

I wish that every grocer in Canada could find time to read the article that appeared in this journal (THE CANADIAN GROCER) on Feb. 24th, under the heading "Stop the Leaks." I believe that it shows a practical side to cigar selling by grocers, that will appeal strongly to the grocer who is not selling cigars to-day.

I agree with the writer of that article that it does not pay for a cigar manufacturer to "hide his light under a bushel." I advertise my cigars persistently over my own name. I back up every statement that I make regarding them in the most convincing way that I know of, namely, "your money back," cheerfully, if you do not find them exactly as represented. Flake Barley Profits.

Tillson's Flake Barley as it is now put up (in very attractive wooden kegs holding 25 pounds each) pays you a double profit—one profit from the sale of the Flake Barley, and another from the sale of the empty wooden keg that house-keepers find so useful. There is no time like the Spring for introducing Flake Barley to folks who do not know it.

Tillson's Flake Barley

is an ideal substitute for oat meal for the breakfast porridge. It is rich and delicate and very wholesome—but above all it nourishes without heating the blood. And, too, it makes a pudding that the most cross-grained dyspeptic can eat without fear—it digests so easily. Better yet, there are "two profits" in it for you—let us send you samples and prices.

VOL. XIII. TORONTO AND MONTREAL, MARCH 17, 1899. NO. 11

SUCCESSFUL METHODS IN BUSINESS.*

By J. G. CANNON.

THE spirit which pervades the business world at the end of this nineteenth century is loftier in tone than ever before in the history of this country.

Manufacturers are beginning to realize that the production and sale of dishonest and spurious articles is no longer profitable. A merchant's statements with regard to his goods are accepted as true until they are proven false. An article, to be worth advertising to-day, must have merit, and advertising, to be remunerative, must be restricted to truthful statements. Dishonest goods, like a depreciated currency, are not popular with business men. They are regarded as counterfeit goods and can be disposed of only by resorting to methods analogous to the "shoving of the queer." To restrain the dishonest merchant, who adopts such methods, a law was passed at the last session of the New York State Legislature against what is ordinarily termed "fake advertising," and the National Association of Credit Men gave this measure its hearty support, and was largely instrumental in securing the enactment of this salutary law.

"Claimers" are coming more and more to be marked men in commercial transactions, and this question is receiving a great deal of consideration in passing upon credit risks. Men who try to overreach in their dealings with others, and who seek to get the better of a bargain by resorting to methods, which are as petty as they are contemptible, are being excluded from the class of favored and trusted customers.

The saying, "cheat other men or they will cheat you," is fast losing its pertinence in business matters and a vast stride has been made towards popularizing the golden rule. The adhesive bond in the business structure of the day is a stronger faith in one's fellow men. Distrust disintegrates, mutual confidence builds up and cements together the business community.

Honesty and fair dealing are now the rule rather than the exception in business enterprises. The commercial world seems to have realized at last that honesty is really the best policy, and that there is now manifested a stronger disposition to consider a man honest until he proves himself the contrary, and when a man has once shown a lack of integrity he is cast out from business circles. There is also a growing disposition among merchants to consider character as among the strongest assets a man can have, and the time is not far distant when a man who makes a dishonest failure will find it difficult to rehabilitate himself in business, as the mercantile community is growing less and less anxious to sell merchandise to this class of men. We can all remember the time when it was easy for a dishonest man to fail and immediately to commence business under another name, and to obtain credit from the very merchants who were swindled by the first operation.

The enactment of a national bankruptcy law is a great step forward and demonstrates the fact that a large majority of business men desire equity, justice and fairness in dealing with their debtors, and do not wish to take an undue advantage of other creditors. While improper use may be made of this law by some evil-minded persons, I venture the prediction that the number of fraudulent failures will be far less during the next ten years than ever before, and that the placing of all creditors upon the same basis in the distribution of the assets of an insolvent debtor will not only directly work a great benefit to all, but will indirectly exercise a salutary influence over credits generally.

While the spirit of competition is keener to-day than ever before, I think there is less and less malice and harsh feeling between competitors in similar trades as time goes on. This is evidenced by the growth of organizations among merchants and manufacturers in the same line of business, such as national and local associations of hardwaremen, clothiers and other similar associations which are formed for cooperation and protection of mutual interests. One of the members of our association has expressed in concrete form the difference between competition and opposition, and there is so much truth and force in his remarks that I take the liberty of quoting them :

"Competition is the life of trade." The merchant who promotes a healthy rivalry and honorable competition will find it so.

Opposition is rank poison to legitimate business. The merchant who wastes his time clubbing his neighbors and digging pitfalls for them will find it so ; he will eventually fall in his own trap.

Competition and opposition are easily confounded.

Competition is an honest man's means.

Opposition is a two-edged sword, likely to draw blood on the luckless handler.

Competition, be it ever so sharp, is tempered with fair play.

Opposition arouses passion, puts a premium on trickery and degrades business.

Competition brings improvement and activity.

Opposition suggests any old scheme to injure an opponent.

Competition makes friends.

Opposition destroys friendships and makes enemies.

Competition nourishes profits.

Opposition kills them.

Competition means friendly rivalry, with honor and mutual success.

MORSE BROS., Proprietors, Canton, Mass.

For sale by all Wholesale Grocers; also the McClary Mfg. Co., London, Montreal, Winnipeg, Vancouver and Toronto.

Opposition means unfriendly strife and hostility, without success to either party.

The benefits of competition are world-wide.

The evils of opposition are just as widely distributed.

A well-known writer has said that "mistakes and failures do not occur chiefly for want of knowledge of right principles. The trouble is that the principles are not kept fresh by frequent thought of them." The National Association of Credit Men has sought, by all the means in its power, to keep correct principles constantly before its members.

Another writer has said that "a journey through life is like a journey along the trackway of a retreating army. Here a valuable ammunition wagon is abandoned because a careless smith left a flaw in the tire; there a cannon is deserted because a tug was improperly stitched; yonder a brave soldier lies dying in the thicket where he fell because excited men forgot the use of an ambulance." Our association has constantly tried to demonstrate the necessity for carefulness in all details pertaining to the conduct of business. If the association had not accomplished anything beyond the fact of the adoption of its uniform statement blank, which is being generally used throughout the country and which is becoming more and more a factor in the mercantile world, this achievement alone would have justified its existence. It has, however, taken another step in advance by the agitation of the question of proper methods of accounting, in the small retail houses as well as in the larger establishments. To-day the woes of the credit man are magnified because it is impossible, strange as it may appear, to induce some merchants to keep any books whatever. The reason for their lack of this very essential feature lies in the fact that they do not understand how to keep a proper record of their affairs, and because they have never been brought to realize the benefit and profit to be derived therefrom. Others keep books, but their methods make it practically impossible to secure from the same the intimate knowledge of their financial condition which is so necessary for the intelligent extension of credit. No business man is properly equipped for the handling of his affairs who is not thoroughly familiar with the condition of his assets and liabilities, and frequently furnished with figures showing the results of his transactions.

I am thoroughly convinced, from my contact with merchants and other business men, that a vast proportion of the failures which take place would not occur if the managers of business houses and corporations were thoroughly and constantly familiar with their condition and intelligent results of their transactions frequently laid before them. The lack of this very essential information is not always due to the fact that books of account, intended to show such results, are not kept, but rather because the methods in use are complicated, slow and imperfect. Many bookkeepers get into what may be called a rut, and follow customs which have long since become obsolete. This is very apt to be the case with a bookkeeper whose duties confine him strictly to his office, and who, therefore, has no time to familiarize himself with unknown methods and with other and ready ways of obtaining results. He frequently has no knowledge of any but the system which he has followed for years. The heads of the house have their entire time and attention occupied with the buying and selling of merchandise and the management of the business, which renders them unable to improve the accounting system, even granting that they had the ability to do so. These slow and obsolete methods may be, and sometimes are, the result of prejudice upon the part of managers who have become wedded to a given system and are reluctant to try a new system with which they are not familiar, and which may require study and investigation upon their part. I have known of large institutions and business houses, which, at one period of their existence, have found it impossible to secure a statement of their condition, or of the results of business done, except at very long intervals, and then only after tedious and annoying delays. But, later, by the introduction of improved and more direct methods, the same institutions and business houses have been able at any time to secure a true statement of their assets and liabilities and of the results of their monthly transactions within a few days after the first of any given month; provided, of course, that everything had been kept up and there was no waiting to adjust matters which had been neglected, the only natural delay being that required for receipt by mail of invoices and reports up to the given time. Their lack of information was not due to the want of desire or ability upon the part of their bookkeepers and clerks, but rather to the slow and cumbersome manner in which their books of accounts were kept.

The improvement of existing methods and the introduction of new systems is work for which the professional accountant has fitted himself, and he is rapidly assuming the relation to office work that the architect bears to the erection of buildings. The ideal way of handling business records, so as to get the most satisfactory results, would be to have the accountant provide for each particular business diagrams and written instructions, to correspond with the plans and specifications furnished by the architect. This, if properly done, would enable the business man to intelligently criticize the proposed arrangement before its introduction. It would also do away with the necessity of having an outsider in the office for an indefinite period to get the system under way, and the bookkeeping force would have at all times the diagrams and written instructions for reference and guidance. Of course, this may be too elaborate for the ordinary business man. We recognize the fact that there is a great diversity in the character of business, and that no one set form of bookkeeping is practicable for all, but we believe there is a certain uniformity in accounting which may be adopted in most lines of trade.

A "SUGGESTION BOX" FOR GROCERS.

A GROCER deals in so many commodities and sees his trade so frequently—has such a close touch with them, if he desires—that the chance for increasing his trade on profitable lines is almost limitless, writes R. B. Chipman in the Grocery World.

In the large department store the proprietor is known by name, is seen occasionally, but never waits on trade, and has little opportunity for social contact with the personnel of his large trade.

The retail grocer in the country town, however, has a world of opportunity if he will but utilize it.

He can see that every lady customer gets just what she wants, and as his clerks increase he can make it his business to observe the aptitude with which each clerk takes hold of the business entrusted to his care.

He can so arrange his charge and cash sales as to exhibit just how much merchandise is sold by each clerk and fix his recompense accordingly.

A suggestion box should be in every larger retail grocery. In this suggestions from the clerks should be placed, passing upon the merits of what will please trade and complaining of any method or commodity, which, in the maker's opinion, is against the best interests of the store to continue or foster.

The proprietor should have these signed suggestions come to him personally, and he should give a dollar or two at intervals to the clerk who has contributed a valuable idea.

By thus paying for and stimulating employes' brains to work out the salvation of his business, he will have more leisure and opportunity to become acquainted with his trade.

He might also ask his lady customers to drop a word or two in the suggestion box, and state that any practical idea would probably be adopted as soon as practicable.

And on a neat card some day he might put up a sign reading :

> This dozen of jelly was given to one of our lady customers who suggested this neat way of putting up our preserves.

Many practical suggestions are floating in people's minds if they are only politely asked to express themselves, and particularly if they think they will possibly receive some reward the impetus to this expression of thought and suggestion will become more pronounced.

CEYLON COFFEE ADULTERATION.

The Times, of Ceylon, says : "The days have long gone by when local planters' associations took an interest in the question of coffee adulteration, though the time was when it was a burning question out here, and the Home Government was approached on the subject. But, at the late Mr. Gladstone's instigation, protection for Ceylon coffee-growers was refused in the sacred name of Free Trade. Our South Indian friends are traveling the old journey, however, for we see that at Ooty, on the 27th ultimo, the Nilgiri planters resolved to ask the United Planters' Association to petition the Home Government for more stringent legislation against the adulteration of coffee, and to endeavor to unite the coffee-producing countries of the world in support of the movement, and in pressing it upon their respective Governments."

CALIFORNIA'S ORANGE CROP.

Edwin T. Earl, who is thoroughly familiar with the Californian fruit trade, says: "The yield of oranges in the southern part of the State this season is about 3,000,000 boxes. Of this number about four-fifths are being sent to eastern cities. The financial returns to the orange-growers of the crop will be between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000."

GROCERY WINDOW SCENE.

THE Emporium grocery display was entirely of soap the other day. It was also, like many of their grocery trims of late, marked by a simple but artistic roughness that is quite pleasing. Cakes of soap were lined up the wall on either side. Large steps were formed from the front to the rear of the window, by means of white Castile bars, and which took the whole display with the exception of a break right down the centre, of washboards, which looked like a sort of slide and upon which cakes of soap were displayed.

A ten-minute wait in the store of Phillips & Malic, the Powell street grocers, did more towards making us believe in large displays of single articles than anything we have seen for a long time. The firm had a windowfull of bottled pickles, with one large 10c. sign. The bottles were displayed by means of steps of boxes, the tops of which corresponded with the height of the bottles. One row of bottles lay flat while the next slanted up against the sides of the boxes. During our ten minutes call the number of bottles sold by means of this display was really wonderful.—San Francisco Grocer.

CORRUPT PRACTICES IN TRADE.

Lord Russell, of Killowen, has submitted to the Associated Chambers of Commerce for consideration a bill to check corruption in trade. It is understood that the bill has been prepared by Sir Edward Fry, and that Lord Russell will introduce it into the House of Lords. The bill will make it a punishable offence to make, offer, receive, or solicit a corrupt payment ; and if any person shall give to any factor, agent, clerk, or servant any receipt, account, or other document in respect of which the principal, master, or employer is interested which shall omit to state explicitly and fully any discount, rebate, gratuity, or reduction made, given, or allowed, or in which there shall be any omission of any fact in relation to the transaction to which the said receipt, account, or document relates, and which it shall be for the interest of the principal, master, or employer to know, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and in Scotland of an offence punishable by fine and imprisonment. The executive committee of the Association of Chambers of Commerce of the United Kingdom has considered the bill, and the resolution passed by the committee is in terms of cordial approval of its objects. It reads : "The Council have duly considered the draft bill, and, without committing themselves to all its details, desire to express their cordial approval of its general scope and object. They are glad to observe that Parliamentary attention will thus be effectively directed to the growing and reprehensible practice of giving illicit commissions—a practice which is greatly injurious to business, and is to be seriously deprecated in the interests of commercial morality."

A GROCERS' MATCH.

A very exciting curling match was played in the Caledonia rink, Montreal, the other night, between rinks from the St. Lawrence and Caledonia clubs, composed of gentlemen in the grocery business. The purveyors whose habitat is Burnside Place were victorious, as will be seen from the score:—

The total exportation of Californian wines to Europe in 1898 amouted to 557,671 gallons, valued at $193,583. The bulk of this went to Great Britain and Germany, though France, Denmark, Switzerland and Italy received a portion of the product. The indications are that the exportations this year will exceed those of last season.

SEASON'S ORANGE SUPPLIES.

THE recent abnormal weather conditions throughout the orange-growing section of the south have caused handlers and receivers of this fruit to investigate the situation carefully in order to determine, if possible, the probabilities of the next season's crop. It was thought that the trees had recovered sufficiently from the damage done in 1895 to be an important factor again in the market, but the freezing weather of a few weeks ago blighted these hopes, and the present conditions appear unfavorable for a realization of this expectation.

A prominent receiver, when questioned by The New York Journal of Commerce with regard to the orange situation, said: "The present position of the orange market is a very strange one. The fact of the matter is that the only available fruit is from California. Last week 68 carloads were auctioned here at higher prices than have been obtained so far this season. All the best navels of desirable sizes brought from $3.75 to $4 per box, while smaller sizes of the best fruit sold at $3.25 to $3.50. Sales last week just about equalled those of the week previous, but it is expected that transactions this week will be smaller in volume, as the accumulation of cars in Jersey City has diminished.

"It is true that during the maintenence of these high prices one would naturally expect that consumption would decrease, but it is evident that the limit has not been reached as yet, and in all probability higher prices will be obtained at each succeeding auction. There have been no arrivals of Valencia oranges for several weeks, and the small quantity lately sold has come from the storehouses. It is also learned that there are none on the way from England, as prices in that country equal a cost of over $5 per case of regular sizes. The market for this fruit at present is from $4.25 to $4.50 per box. Valencia fruit is not to be compared with Californian, and is not, as a rule, taken by the same class of buyers. Owing to the advance in the market some shipments have been made from the Mediterranean, and it is reported that 15,000 boxes are at present on their way to New York and Boston from Sicily, with doubtless more to follow. This fruit from the Mediterranean has been in small supply here, principally because of the high duty of 1c. per lb., but a ready market has been found for it, principally at Hamburg, where it has sold at most satisfactory prices, as there is no duty at that port.

"As far as Florida oranges are concerned, it is useless to expect any more fruit of consequence this season, the late freezing weather having ruined the fruit, with the exception of the trees in the most southern part of the State. There has been considerable damage to the young trees, but the zero weather did not ruin them absolutely. A letter dated at Leesburg on the 4th inst. says: 'I am glad to inform you that the orange groves in this region have been little injured, except in the case of one and two-year-old trees and one-year-old buds on older stock. All the old trees, especially those not frozen to the ground in the freeze of February, 1895, have dropped their leaves and have started a thick, heavy, new growth all over the limbs. The actual damage was to young trees (three year-olds and less), to last year's budding on old roots and to the bloom wood that was well out at the time of the freeze.'

"Notwithstanding the higher prices for Californian fruit, it would seem that they must necessarily go higher, owing to the exaggerated ideas of the owners of the remaining fruit on the Coast, where they are at present asking $3 per box f.o.b., in carload lots, for navels, and $1.75 for Mediterranean sweets and seedlings. It is necessary to add $1 per box for freight and selling expenses, and, when it is remembered that this means a variety of sizes, some desirable and some otherwise, these f.o.b. prices are above those ruling here. However, it is simply a question of supply and demand, and, from all appearances, the former is decidedly small."

CANNED SALMON SITUATION.

In its review of the canned salmon situation, the San Francisco Trade Journal, in its issue of March 4, says: "In future, we hear of sales for new season delivery of Sacramento and Columbia river and also Puget Sound sockeyes, but no figures are named so far as we can learn. Sales are reported subject to prices later on. While some of the Columbia river canners talk five cent fish and canned chinook on a $1.25 basis for talls, yet there are two or three who claim that the latter price will be too high for marketing the fish advantageously, for distributors will go more than ever to Alaska, where the conditions are more favorable to canners, and these fish may not show much if any advance on prices now current. It looks now as if the run of fish in the Sacramento river, Columbia river, Fraser river, and in Alaska will be larger than last year, which will cause a larger output, even if cold storage men should be free buyers on the Columbia river and Puget Sound. The fish will be solid and good color, for the water promises to be colder than at the corresponding time in 1898. A report is current in this city that the Columbia River Packers' Association is negotiating for two or three more plants. It is only a question of dollars and cents whether purchases will be made."

A USEFUL SCHEME.

Merchants everywhere know the annoyances caused by demands to advertise in all sorts of programmes, says an exchange. Such advertising does not pay. Only advertising in legitimate publications is worth paying good money for. The advantages of organization can be utilized to shield grocers and other business men from such annoyances. The Williamsport Merchants' Association has adopted a shrewd plan by which the members may save annoyance from importuning solicitors for advertising in programmes of all kinds, church and other directories. The association adopted a resolution against all such plans of advertising, and each merchant is furnished a card which indicates his obligation, as a member, to stand by the organization's action.

IMPORTATIONS OF SUGAR INTO THE UNITED STATES.

A special despatch from Washington to the Journal of Commerce says: "The importations of sugar are beginning to be an important factor in the revenue of the Government. The duties paid in February were $4,280,146, which would afford an average of $50,000,000 per year. The sugar importations were restricted for a time after the passage of the Dingley law, and there was another period of restriction in the payment of duties when the Spanish war was threatened a year ago. Much of the sugar then imported was left in bonded warehouses, and was only withdrawn for consumption as it was actually needed. The imports entered and the withdrawals from warehouse were wide apart for several months as the result of the financial uncertainty. They have now returned to nearly the same figures. The general imports during February were 271,345,504 lb., valued at $5,591,206, and the withdrawals for consumption were 261,120,298 lb., valued at $5,363,078. These were dutiable imports, exclusive of 31,529,451 lb., valued at $1,190,048, which were imported free of duty from the Hawaiian Islands. The withdrawals from warehouse at New York were 171,054,608 lb., valued at $3,444,601, and the duties paid were $2,836,653. The withdrawals at Philadelphia were 65,699,025 lb., valued at $1,372,724, and the duties paid were $1,006,748. The withdrawals at Boston were 21,596,590 lb., valued at $473,970. and the duties paid were $385,709."

A PICKLE FOR BEEF.

Put the beef into a deep earthenware pan that will just nicely hold it, and cover it entirely with a pickle made in the following proportions: One lb. of bay salt, 6 oz. of common salt, an oz. of saltpetre, 2 oz of salt prunella, half a lb. of brown sugar and one gallon of water. Boil these ingredients for 20 minutes, then skim carefully, strain and use when cold. This pickle can be used over and over again if, after each time of using it, it is reboiled with the addition of a little more salt.—National Provisioner.

THE TOO BUSY GROCER.

"Too busy to read a trade paper," is an excuse which, for the grocer's sake, we wish more often had some truth in it. Fact is, the time required to absorb the contents of the bulkiest trade organ is too small to be worth considering.—Merchants' Review.

DON'T WASH EGGS.

We have lately seen some lots of eggs which have evidently been dirty when collected, which the packers have washed as clean as possible with the hope of increasing their value. For the most part they arrived in bad order and mostly rotten. When an egg is soaked in water sufficiently to enable one to remove the dirt from it, the gelatinous substance which ordinarily fills the pores, in the lime of which the shell is mostly composed, becomes dissolved, subjecting the inside of the egg to the destructive effects of the air. In warm weather wet eggs soon decay, and some of these washed eggs lately received here have been almost worthless, while sound candled dirties are worth a good price.—New York Produce Review.

The Ottawa Creamery Supply Co. expect to have their works in order in a few days. When in working order, the plant will have a capacity of 5,000 lb. per day. It will be operated by both electricity and steam. The company have arranged with all the railways to ship cream into the city from within a radius of 100 miles. The butter, after being manufactured here, will, some of it, be shipped to England, hermetically sealed in tins. A large trade is confidently expected.

CASH DISCOUNTS INSTEAD OF TRADING STAMPS.

A RETAIL firm of grocers, which, after an eight months' trial, has discontinued the use of trading stamps, has decided instead to give a discount of 3 per cent. for cash.

As under the trading stamp and coupon systems, when a customer purchases goods to a certain value, the firm gives him a check, and when $5 worth of these checks have been collected, the customer is entitled to 15c. worth of groceries.

This is a far more businesslike way than the trading stamp scheme, for whatever advantage accrues from doing a cash business will be enjoyed by the merchant himself.

Under the trading stamp scheme the merchant is first of all the salesman, without remuneration, of the promoters of the scheme. He sells their goods, and, what is more, he pays for them.

Then, under the trading stamp system, such stamps as are not used by the person to whom they are given redound to the advantage of the company which originally issued them, but, by giving a discount for cash, such as the grocer in question proposes, the benefit derived from the unredeemed checks accrues to the merchant, to say nothing of the satisfaction of knowing that he is conducting his own business without the interference of a third party.

Manœuvre to catch every favorable breeze, even if you are doing pretty well in the business race.

THE TEA SITUATION.

The tea market, particularly in regard to Ceylons, continues to gather strength, and the fact is becoming more and more emphasized that, not since 1879, has it been in such an interesting condition.

Mail advices up to the beginning of the month stated that there was no low-grade Ceylon tea in London under 7d., and, according to a cable received in Toronto this week, the lowest priced there is now 7½d. This, with freight and other charges, means about 18c. per lb. laid down here.

No material change in the present condition of affairs is anticipated until July next, when the first shipments of Indian teas arrive. If, then, a big crop is promised it may be expected to have a more or less depressing effect upon the market. If, however, anything should happen whereby only a light crop was likely to be realized, nothing much short of a panic may be looked for.

With low-grade teas costing what they are to-day, profit in the 25c. packet tea must be getting to an unsatisfactory point indeed.

One advertisement does not create an army of customers any more than one recruit makes a battalion.

COCOA BEANS ADVANCING.

Cocoa, like many other articles appertaining to the grocery trade, is developing a great deal of strength.

Mail advices received in Toronto state that the price of cocoa beans is 2s. to 3s. higher than it was a few weeks ago, while the total advance from the lowest point, according to another authority, is about $2.50 per 100 lb.

Unfavorable weather appears to be the chief cause of the appreciation in value.

MAKING FODDER CHEESE.

THE advance in the cheese market, while it is decidedly welcome, is leading to one development that the more conservative members of the trade neither desire or consider good for the welfare of the trade as a whole. This is the manufacture of early fodder cheese.

Producers in the central section of New York State have already commenced operations, and in several instances this week Canadian factorymen announce their determination of starting as soon as they can get a sufficient supply of milk, and have made good these intentions by placing orders for factory supplies, such as rennet, etc.

An advance in prices just previous to the beginning of a new season invariably has this effect, for producers are human, and with old cheese selling over 10¼c. the temptation is great to make fodder cheese. But, ultimately, in the event of a large make of these spring goods, a great proportion of which are certain to be undesirable, as they do not possess the requisite keeping qualities, factorymen will find their fodder cheese unprofitable.

Such goods come into competition with the more desirable summer cheese, made from grass-fed cattle, and the usual result is a lower price on the latter than they would otherwise realize. For this reason, previous experience has frequently demonstrated that a large make of fodder goods does not pay, and that dairymen would do well not to commence cheese making until the natural climatic conditions warrant them in doing so.

If they are tempted this year, by high prices, into a large output of fodder goods, it will take well on into June before such goods are absorbed, even if they are then, and they will prove, as they almost invariably have, a regular wet blanket on the market.

THE PECAN CROP.

Another short crop of pecan nuts in Texas is anticipated. During the recent cold snap the thermometer registered 14 degrees below zero in that State. This was the coldest on record, and a great deal of damage has been done to the fruit trees.

THE SALE OF LEAF TOBACCO.

THE manufacturers of the Canadian tobaccos are agitating for a change in the law regulating the sale of leaf tobaccos. Their aim is to completely stop the free sale of raw leaf on the open market.

In all other tobacco growing countries the leaf is only allowed to be sold to licensed manufacturers and shippers. In this way the Government receive the full benefit of the duties and manufacturers are protected against unjust competition.

It is estimated that in the Province of Quebec alone over 1,000,000 lb. of leaf tobacco are sold annually without paying one cent of duty. This is in excess of the amount used by growers themselves.

This amount, if properly taxed, would add from $50,000 to $75,000 to the revenue of the Government, and, at the same time, add a large increase to the output of manufactured goods.

The manufacturers of cut and plug smoking tobaccos feel this competition the most. As one prominent manufacturer said the other day: "We not only lose the sale of this amount of manufactured goods, but our goods have to be sold in competition with untaxed leaf. Ten per cent. of all leaf tobacco taken into our factory, through breakage and other causes, becomes useless. The Government will not allow us to sell it without paying the duty, and it would not be worth the duty after being manufactured. Consequently, we have to destroy it. But the grower can sell his best leaf anywhere without one cent of duty. This we consider unfair, and is injuring the grower as well as the manufacturer, as we cannot possibly pay as much for leaf as we might if this competition was stopped."

The growers in the west are mostly in favor of the change, but in the Quebec districts the general sentiment is against any change. This will have to be overcome before anything definite can be done. The Quebec growers have for so long enjoyed the privilege of selling their goods as they wished, that they look upon this as a sort of sacred privilege, and any hasty action would probably be resented by them as interfering with established rights.

The Government should give this question careful consideration, and by devoting part of the increased revenue to establishing model farms throughout the different tobacco sections and exploiting outside markets, they would soon convince growers that their interests were being promoted. As it is now this privilege brings them very little profit. In many cases leaf is sold for less money on the open market than it would bring in tobacco centres. This has a depressing effect upon outside markets.

One thing must not be lost sight of by growers and dealers generally, that is, the changed condition of this industry within the past few years.

The time was when the only market for leaf was in the raw state. All this is changed. The demand for manufacturing is equal to the supply, and the farmer who grows the proper qualities and cures them properly need not worry much about securing a market for them. Good leaf is always in demand, and the larger the quantities that can be bought in one lot the better for all.

Already petitions are being prepared for signature by growers asking for changes, and it is to be hoped they will be extensively signed.

The Tobacco Growers' Association should take this matter up. They are the proper parties to attend to this part of the business, and we feel sure if they go about it in the right way they will be successful. As far as the business community is concerned, it will undoubtedly be in favor of the change.

WILL OGILVIE'S MILLS GO?

Urban municipalities have a penchant for creating conditions which make it unpleasant for manufacturers to stay in their midst.

Toronto, some years ago, developed a most pronounced mania in this respect, and now, after having driven out many industries and kept others out, she is awakening to the fact that it was a blunder.

Montreal has got a new charter, and one of its purposes is to levy a tax on machinery. This has, naturally, caused some alarm, and Mr. W. W. Ogilvie, who operates three mills in that city, declares that when the tax goes on, his mills will go out, and would be located in some other place where the taxation was less onerous.

The great difficulty is that a tax placed on Mr. Ogilvie's machinery would handicap him in his competition with mills elsewhere that not only are free from taxation, but are enjoying bonuses as well.

Montreal should think twice before she finally decides upon taking a course that will result in driving from her confines an industry which gives employment to 300 hands.

A PECULIARITY OF THE RICH.

IN the discussion on the coupon system, at the meeting of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association, on Monday evening, one of the speakers stated that his experience was that it was the rich, the well-to-do, rather than his poor customers who always asked for the coupons.

The speaker said this in tones calculated to throw reproach on the rich man to the praise of his poorer neighbor. But should a business man look at the matter in that light?

We all know the adage that "a penny saved is a penny gained," and it is safe to state that every successful merchant has proved the truthfulness of the adage.

The coupon, or discount for cash, is the same to the consumer that the cash discount from the wholesaler is to the retailer. And what retailer is there who would, after paying cash for his goods (no matter how small the bill), fail to ask for all the discount offered by the firm from whom he purchases?

The merchant who has succeeded is generally the merchant who made it a point to obtain every cent of discount or rebate that is going. This is one of the essentials of good buying, and "a thing well bought is half sold."

There is, of course, with the consumer, as well as with the retailer, the "mean" customer, one who will leave a credit account standing in one house so that she may buy for cash, to get trading stamps or coupons, in another. That "meanness" is dishonesty, and such a customer is not worth keeping. But the customer who wants coupons for her smallest purchases, when her grocer is in the habit of giving them, is doing a wise, a businesslike thing, and should be treated with respect.

STILL COURTING CANADIAN TRADE.

THE New York Chamber of Commerce has passed another resolution in regard to trade with Canada, the last paragraph of which reads :

Resolved, That the Committee on Foreign Commerce and Revenue Laws of the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York be authorized to take such steps as it may deem proper and called for for the promotion of better trade relations between the United States and the Dominion of Canada.

It is gratifying to know that the New York Chamber still recognizes the value of Canadian trade and is still engaged in trying to secure it.

It shows that the business men of New York are wiser in their generation than the politicians who rule the country.

The Chamber of Commerce is an influential body ; but it is not influential enough to bring about what it evidently so much desires. In fact, all the chambers of commerce in the United States combined are not influential enough, just at present, at any rate.

Last year, the chambers of commerce in about 50 different cities and towns in the United States, including those in Boston, New York, St. Louis, and Chicago, passed resolutions in favor of closer trade relations with the Dominion of Canada, but what effect had they upon the politicians who make and unmake the laws of the country ? One only needs to be reminded of the recent abortive international convention in order to give an intelligent answer.

As we have already said, about 50 chambers of commerce across the line passed resolutions last year in favor of closer trade relations with Canada ; but who was it that had the ear of the commissioners during the conference ? It was not the business men of the United States : It was the politicians of that country.

Before those who desire closer trade relations with Canada can hope to attain their object it will be necessary for them to exercise as much influence over the Federal Senate as they now do over the chambers of commerce. Until then their resolutions will only have value as educators, which, of course, is not to be despised.

In the meantime, the business men of the United States may propose, but it is the politicians who dispose. And we in Canada are in much the same position.

COUNTRY PRODUCE FOR A YEAR.

THOUGH the market for country produce does not boast the unique features noted this time last year, the spring opens with the principal commodities at a price which must be satisfactory to the producers.

At this time last year Ontario wheat was in the neighborhood of 90c., a condition largely due so the Leiter boom. This year the price has kept unusually steady in proximity to 70c., a figure fairly remunerative to the farmer. The demand for peas has grown with the pork-packing industry, and this year the price is exceptionally high. Oats have also been in good demand for over a year, and now a fairly good price, 35c. a bushel, is quoted.

The course of the cheese market has been satisfactory to Canadian holders this year, the price steadily rising from 9c. last fall till now the best qualities are held at 11c. Last spring the market was overloaded, and 8¾c. was the top figure.

Dairy butter at this time last year was in a unique and satisfactory position. There were very few inferior dairy prints and rolls and no low-grade tubs. Consequently the demand was excellent, and sales were freely made at 20c. This year the usual quantity of medium and low grades is still in stock, and prices of choice are easy at the same figure as that noted two years ago, 16c. per lb. Creamery butter, however, keeps steady. The make is rapidly increasing in Canada, but the export demand increases sufficiently to absorb all not locally required, and to keep prices firm. The price in the three years compared below has only shown a change of 1c., that an advance.

The egg market has amply illustrated the capacity this product has for breaking in price. Two weeks ago 20c. was freely paid for cases, now 12c. is the general figure. This figure is 3c. below that of a year ago this week.

Two years ago the price of potatoes, 28c., was unusually low ; last year the price, 60c., was considered high, but this year it is 15c. higher, 75c. now being paid for carload lots. And higher prices are looked for in the near future.

The same conditions apply to apples. Two years ago, holders were content to sell at $1.50 ; last year they asked $3.50, this year they want $4.50 for the best ; and are getting it easily.

Prime beans, too, rose from 50c. in 1897 to 85c. last year, and are now selling freely at $1 per bushel. They have been sold in many cases this year for delivery in the lumbering districts of Northern Ontario when it was too cold to ship potatoes.

The rapid growth of pork-packing is known to all dealers. This has had the effect of raising the price of dressed hogs to a price which is more than satisfactory to the breeder. Last year the price was away up, $6 being paid for light weights. This year the large receipts and the big proportion of heavies sent in has caused the price to fall below the figures of 1897, when $5.25 was paid.

The past winter has been a dull one in the calfskin and sheepskin market. The price of sheepskins is now 35c. below that of last year, and 20c. below that of the previous year. Calfskins are 10c. as compared with 12c. last year and 8c. in 1897. Hides have been fairly steady, and are now 8¼c. against 8c. a year ago and 7c. two years ago. ONTARIO MARKETS.

TORONTO, March 16, 1899.

GROCERIES.

THE feature of the wholesale trade during the past week is the advance of 5c. per 100 lb. in granulated sugar, and 15c. in Paris lump. Yellow sugars are unchanged. The volume of business in the wholesale trade during the past week has been fairly satisfactory for this time of the year, particularly in teas, which are going out rapidly, both brokers and wholesalers doing a good trade. The canned goods market remains firm, although there have been no changes during the past week. Coffees are firm and in fairly good demand. Syrups and molasses are quiet and steady. There is a fair business doing in rice and tapioca. In foreign dried fruits there is very little to be noted, about the only feature being an advance of 1s. in the price of Bosnia prunes in the primary market.

CANNED GOODS.

The market continues strong in regard to canned vegetables. There have been sales of round lots of tomatoes at 85c. delivered. There has been some talk of transactions at much lower figures than this, but they do not appear to have foundation in fact. The price to retailers is from 87½ to 90c. with the outside figure most frequently quoted. The feeling in regard to corn is still decidedly strong, and it is said that wholesalers would readily pay 90c., but there appear to have been no transactions at as low a figure as that. There have been some transactions in round lots at 92½ to 95c., Toronto. Peas are steady at 75c. up. for good brands. It is said that there are over 9,000 cases of tomatoes and corn awaiting the opening of navigaton for shipment to British Columbia, bought by two large concerns whose representatives have recently been in the east. Canned salmon is firm, with the demand fair. There is a moderate demand for canned fruits at unchanged prices.

COFFEES.

The coffee market took a firmer turn on Tuesday. A telegram received that day from New York stated that Rio and Santos coffees were excited. Europe advanced ¼d., and on the New York exchange prices advanced 15 points. On the local market, although brokers are not doing much business, the wholesalers are still experiencing a good demand, particularly for Rio coffee.

NUTS.

The local market is without much interest. The advices form the primary market report an advance in filberts, and the New York market is reported firm in sympathy.

SUGARS.

The price of granulated sugar has been advanced 5c. per 100 lb., and Paris lump 15c. per 100 lb., the price of the former now being $4.53 for Montreal and $4.48 for Acadia, and, for the latter, $5.63 in 100 lb. boxes and $5.73 in 50 lb. boxes. Yellow sugars are unchanged, No. 2 being quoted at $3.93 per 100lb. There is a fair volume of business, and the opinion seems to be that trade is improving, although but slowly. The outside markets, on Tuesday last, took an easier turn, cables from Europe reporting a dull market for beets, with prices ¼ to 1½d. lower. Up to that day, however, the outside markets had experienced several advances. Refined sugars advanced ⅛c. in New York last week, and raws 1-32c.

See pages 29 and 30 for Toronto, Montreal, St. John, and Winnipeg prices current.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

There are few, if any, syrups offering, and the business being done by the wholesale trade is just moderate. Medium syrups are quoted from 30 to 32c., and bright from 35 to 37c. Corn syrup is quoted as follows: Barrels, 2½c. per lb.; half-barrels, 2⅝c. per lb.: kegs, 2¾c. per lb.; three-gallon pails, $1.20 each; two-gallon pails, 90c. each. The volume of business in molasses is just moderate and the prices rule steady at the recent advances.

RICE AND TAPIOCA.

The position of the tapioca market is still one of considerable strength, and prices on the local market are practically below what it would cost to import. The rice market rules steady, with a moderate business being done.

TEAS.

The tea market is still the most interesting feature of the grocery trade. Advices from London, England, under date of March 3, state that the late advance for all Indian teas up to 7½d. was well maintained, but that above this price some weakness was noticeable, except for choice descriptions. The advices of the same date state in regard to Ceylon tea, that there had been a further advance in teas up to 7½d., with very strong competition, while medium and good teas showed a somewhat firmer market. A cable received in Toronto on Tuesday stated that there had been a further advance of ½d. per lb. in Ceylon teas. This would mean a laid down cost of about 18c. Toronto. This gives a pretty good idea of the strong condition of the market. Brokers on the local market report a good demand for Indian and Ceylon teas. There are only a few teas on spot, and these are being held at high prices, and the teas on the way are, as a rule, already sold. A cable sent by a Toronto firm to Ceylon asking to have an order for 500 packages repeated, brought a reply that the teas could not be obtained at less than an advance of 1c. per lb., and these were teas at from 9d. to 9¼d.

There is still some inquiry for Japan teas of good medium grades, but, as noted last week, they are scarce. Consequently, very little business is being done in this description of teas.

The China green tea market is quiet but firm. Advices from the primary market, under date of February 11, state that the arrivals of the past fortnight had been confined to 212 half-chests of local pack, while stocks of country green teas, which are, of course, the kind which generally come to this market, are practically nil. Pingsueys have ruled unchanged, the prices being the same as those which ruled in January last. The quantity of green tea shipped from China to Canada from the beginning of the year was shown to be only 7,508 lb., or only about 100 half-chests, a remarkably small quantity.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS—The local market remains quiet but unchanged. There does not seem to be any import business being done at present.

VALENCIA RAISINS—The market is without interest this week, and prices are unchanged.

PRUNES—A cable received in Toronto

this week announced a further advance of 1s. per cwt. in the price of Bosnia prunes. Locally, there are no features to report, trade being moderate and quotations unchanged. Advices from New York state that Californian prunes are very firm as far as goods are concerned, but that prices are prevented from moving upwards on account of the small lots on spot which are being offered. Competition on the Toronto market is pretty keen, and Bosnia prunes have sold down as low as 4c. per lb.

FIGS—Mat figs are still in fair demand at 3½ to 3¾c. per lb.

GREEN FRUITS.

A good demand is still reported. Oranges are stiffening in value. An advance in Europe in Valencias has caused a rise of 50c. to $1 per case here. Some 714's are now on the market. Lemons are moving nicely at a decline of 25c. Some bananas are offering at 15c. below last week's figures. Almeria grapes are done. Danvers onions are 25c. cheaper. Spanish onions are off the market. Cocoanuts are 50c. per hundred dearer. A good movement of apples is noted at steady prices. Cranberries are dull at unchanged figures.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—Receipts continue to increase; prices continue to decline. At time of writing 11½ to 12½c. is quoted, but another decline is expected to bring the price ½ to 1c. below these figures before the end of the week.

POTATOES—The market is decidedly firm. The strong demand has brought about an advance of 7c. this week, and now 70 to 75c. for cars on track at Toronto is the general quotation. The street market is also firm at 75 to 80c. per bag.

BEANS — A strong feeling is noted. Medium grades are steady at 90c. to $1, and hand-picked have advanced 5c., and are now selling at $1.10 to $1.15.

DRIED AND EVAPORATED APPLES—The weak feeling in dried apples is still manifested. A few sales are reported at outside points at between 4½ and 5c. Evaporated apples are easy. Jobbers are quoting 9½ to 10c.

VEGETABLES—Carrots are 15c. per bag cheaper. No other change is noted. We quote: Rhubarb, $1 to $1.50; greenhouse radishes, 40 to 50c. per dozen bunches; spinach, $1 to $1.50 per bush.; green onions, 10 to 15c. per doz.; celery, 75c. to $1 per doz.; lettuce, 20 to 30c. doz. bunches; radishes, winter, 15 to 25c. doz. bunches; cabbage, per doz; $1 to $1.25; parsley, 20 to 25c. per doz. bunches; turnips, 25 to 30c. per bag; beets, 50 to 60c. per bag; parsnips, $1 to $1.20 per bag; carrots, 50 to 80c. per bag; onions, Danvers, $1.25 to $1.50 per bag; butter squash, $2 to $2.50; Hubbard squash, $2 to $2.50; red cabbage, 50 to 75c.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—Receipts of dairy large rolls and pound prints are increasing, and a great deal of the stuff coming forward is somewhat off quality. For selected qualities of large rolls 15 to 15½c., and, in some cases, 16c., is asked, but, for the general run of goods arriving, 14½ to 15c. is accepted. Dairy prints are easy at 15½ to 17c. Creamery is steady at unchanged figures, but, as the summer creameries are beginning to open, it would be unwise to allow creamery stocks to accumulate.

CHEESE—The firm feeling has caused another ½c. advance this week, and now early makes are jobbing freely at 10 to 10½c. and late makes 10½ to 11c.

PROVISIONS.

The demand is improving. Prices of smoked meats are steady. Long clear bacon is ¼c. cheaper; barrel pork is 50c. dearer. There is a good demand for light weight dressed hogs, but heavies are not wanted. From $5 to $5.25 is being paid, which is an advance of 25c. per cwt.

GRAIN, FLOUR, BREAKFAST FOODS.

GRAIN — A decline of 1c. is noted in wheat, which is now selling at 67 to 67½c. for both red and white at middle freight stations. On the street market a decline of 5c. in rye; 2c. in wheat, and 1c. in peas, is noted. We quote: Wheat, white, 71 to 71½c.; red, 71c.; goose, 67c.; peas, 63 to 65c.; oats, 35c.; barley, 46 to 47c.; rye, 52c. No. 1 hard Manitoba is steady at 80c., Toronto freights.

FLOUR—There is no change. We quote as follows: Manitoba patents, $4; Manitoba

QUEBEC MARKETS.

MONTREAL, March 16, 1899.

GROCERIES.

THERE has been a fairly satisfactory trade in general groceries during the past week, and the volume of trade is increased if anything. The price of granulated sugar has been marked up 5c., and inquiry for the staple is quite active. Syrups and molasses are quiet, a rather steadier tendency as to value being noted in the latter. Canned goods move along quietly, and dried fruits have not contributed anything special. Rice is firm in tone, and the same remarks apply to spices, both lines of goods pointing upwards. Teas have been fairly active, and values are firm both on Japans and blacks, while supplies of cheap greens are almost exhausted here. Green fruits of all sorts are active, and oranges, especially, have established themselves at a higher level of values.

SUGAR.

The sugar market exhibits a better feeling as a result of the greater steadiness in the raw article, and sellers are asking 5c. more this week for granulated as a consequence of this fact, though the refiners are still quoting the same rates for large quantities, as they fear the competition of American refined, which is still coming in. In New York, the raw article, on the other hand, is strong, fair refining being quoted recently 3⅞c., centrifugal, 4 13-32c., and molasses sugar, 3¾c. In London, also, cane has continued steady, with only light offerings Java 12s. 1d. and fair refining 10s. 9d. Beet, on the other hand, has been cabled dull and lower this week, with present month 9s. 11¼d. and next month 10s. Demand locally for refined sugar is quite active, and, though the refiners hesitate to advance their prices materially, owing to fears of American competition, they consider that they may be compelled to do so in the near future by the absolute force of circumstances. Granulated is now quoted $4.35 in round lots at the refineries and $4.40 in smaller quantities, with yellows unchanged.

SYRUPS.

In syrups, business still continues exceedingly quiet, and the market is featureless, prices being unchanged at 1¾ to 2¼c. per lb., as to quality.

MOLASSES.

Demand for molasses has been rather slow, but a more settled feeling prevails as regards values, which have stiffened a trifle, as no round lots are now obtainable under 29c., bids of 28½c. having been refused within the past day or so. Latest cables report the market steady at Barbadoes at 12c., first price, and Antigua advices stated that it was impossible to buy under 20c., cost and freight, net land and guage.

CANNED GOODS.

Few special features have transpired in this market during the past week. Some business in corn between houses is reported at 90 to 95c. per dozen, as to quality, and tomatoes have changed hands in round lots at 85 to 90c., and peas at 75 to 85c. per dozen. Mail advices from the Coast state that it is difficult to forecast the future in regard to salmon. The jobbing inquiry for staple lines of vegetables, salmon, and fruit is quite fair for the season.

DRIED FRUITS.

The only new feature in dried fruits was the withdrawal of 1,500 boxes of Valencia raisins which were put up at auction last week, but the price bid was so low that the seller was disgusted. Values in all lines of dried fruits are steady, with a moderate jobbing call.

RICE.

There has been no change in values in rice, but the market is in a very firm temper, in sympathy with foreign advices, and a rise in spot prices is quite probable at any moment. Demand is active for the time.

SPICES.

There is a very firm feeling in pepper, and full values have been paid for both black and white, and rather higher prices are being asked for whole goods, as will be noted from our prices current. Other kinds of spice are also quite firm in tone.

COFFEE.

A fair business has been transacted in coffee in a small way between first and second hands. Maracaibos have sold at 12c.; low grade Santos, 8 to 8½c.; Jamaica, 8 to 8½c., and Rio, 8 to 9c. These prices, of course, are for the whole unroasted bean in straight lots.

TEAS.

The market for Japan teas keeps very firm, with more doing in some quarters, business between first and second hands this week aggregating 1,000 to 1,500 packages at values ranging from 14½ to 17c., as to grade. In black, demand for Congous from 14½ to 18c. has been noted, while low-priced greens, although well inquired for, are very difficult to obtain.

GREEN FRUITS.

There has been a firm feeling in green fruits, business ruling fair for the season of the year. Oranges are in good demand, and prices are higher than last week for Valencia fruit, as importers have had to pay 1 to 2s. advance over previous prices for future delivery. Sales here range from $3.75 to $4 per box, whereas, to arrive, $4 to $4.25 is asked. Californian navel oranges are higher also, at $3.50 to $4, while Jamaicas range from $6 to $6.50 per bbl., Floridas $4.75 to $5 per box, and bitter oranges $2.50 to $3. There has been no change in the lemon market, values being quoted at $2.50 to $3 per box. Cranberries are in limited demand at $8 to $9 per bbl. for sound stock. Supplies of Almeria grapes are light, and prices are stiff at $8 to $9 per bbl. Pineapples are selling at 20 to 30c. each.

APPLES.

The apple market continues firm at $3 to $4.50 per bbl.

FISH.

Demand for fish this week has been light, but so are stocks, for all kinds of fish are scarce, but particularly fresh fish. Fresh caught B.C. salmon and Atlantic Coast haddock are now arriving. Fresh haddock sell at 4½c. per lb., and herring $1.60 per 100, B.C. salmon at 13½ to 14c. per lb., and frozen ditto, 10c. per lb. Manitoba pike are the only western fresh-water fish offering here, and are selling at 3¾ to 4c. per lb. Demand for pickled and preserved fish is small, but prices are steady, as a rule, as stocks are light. No. 1 N.S. herring are held at $4.50 per bbl., half-bbls., $2.40 to $2.50, while choice new finnan haddies are scarce, and firmly held at 7½c. per lb. These are about the only kinds of pickled or prepared fish that it is possible to quote, as the market is bare of all other lines.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—There was a weak feeling in the egg market on account of the large offerings, and prices scored another decline. The demand was fair for small lots, and sales were made at 14c., and in fair sized lots at 13c., but at the close, holders would not have refused 12½c. for a round lot.

POULTRY—The market for dressed poultry was quiet. Receipts are almost nil; in consequence, the season may be considered over. We quote as follows: Fresh killed turkeys, 11c.; frozen, 9 to 9½c.; choice chickens, 7½ to 8c.; frozen stock, 5½ to 6c.; ducks, 8 to 9c., and geese, 5½ to 6½c. per lb.

MAPLE PRODUCT—The feature in the market for maple product has been the arrival of some small lots of new syrup, which sold readily at 60c. per small tin. Old stock is selling at 50 to 55c. per small tin. Sugar is in fair demand at 6 to 6½c. per lb.

HONEY — The market for honey was dull and featureless. We quote: White clover comb, in 1-lb. sections, 8 to 8½c.; dark, 6½ to 7c.; white extracted, 6 to 6½c., and dark, 5 to 5½c.

BEANS—A small trade continues to be done in beans at unchanged prices. We quote: Choice hand-picked, 95c. to $1 per bushel; primes, 85 to 90c.

ONIONS—Both red and yellow are firm, with a good inquiry at $2.75 to $3 per bbl.

PROVISIONS AND DRESSED HOGS.

In the provision market, a weaker feeling has developed in pure lard, and prices show a decline of ½c. per lb. A leading packer is offering hams for the Easter trade, ranging from 8 to 25 lb. each, at 9½ to 10½c. In pork, the feeling is steady, and prices show no change. Trade is yet quiet, but an improvement is looked for in the near future. We quote as follows: Canadian pork, in barrels, $15 to $15.50; pure Canadian lard, in pails, 6¾ to 7c. per lb., and compound refined at 5 to 5½c. per lb. Hams, 10 to 12c., and bacon, 10½ to 11c. per lb.

Dressed hogs are quiet, and the feeling easy. The demand for small lots was slow at $5.25 to $5.50 for choice, per 100 lb.

FLOUR, GRAIN, ETC.

GRAIN.—There was a steadier feeling in the grain market to-day, but business, on the whole, was quiet. There was some demand for oats and purchases west of Toronto were made at 29½c., including one lot of 25,000 bushels. On spot prices were quoted at 32½ to 33c. For peas at points west of Toronto holders asked 66 to 66½c., and on spot 72c. Buckwheat was neglected and prices are difficult to quote.

FLOUR.—There was some demand for Manitoba grades of flour from foreign buyers to-day, and sales aggregating 2,000 sacks were made for prompt shipment. A slight improvement was also noticeable in the local and country demand. And; on the whole, a fair trade was done. We quote: Winter patents, $3.75 to $4; straight rollers, $3.50 to $3.60; in bags, $1.65 to $1.75; Manitoba patents, $4 to $4.25; strong bakers', $3.70 to $3.90.

MEAL—The demand for meal was quiet and the market was without any new feature. Rolled oats sold at $3.80 to $3.85 per bbl.

FEED—There continues to be a steady demand for feed, and prices are fully maintained. Ontario white wheat bran, in bulk, sold at $16 to $17, and shorts $17 to $19 per ton; Manitoba bran, $16; shorts, $18, and mouille, $18 to $25 per ton, including bags.

HAY — In baled hay trade continues quiet, and the market is featureless. We quote: No. 1, $5.50 to $6; No. 2 extra, $4.25 to $4.75; No. 2, clover mixture, $4; clover, $3.50 to $3.75.

CHEESE AND BUTTER.

CHEESE—The cheese market continues firm, and the balance remaining for sale here is so reduced that sellers want an advance on every new transaction that they negotiate. In fact, while 10½c. may not actually have been made, yet holders feel that finest cheese are worth the money, and are inclined to hold out for the price named, and we quote finest western makes 10⅜ to 10½c., and choice eastern 10 to 10¼c. Stocks in London on March 1 were 100,000 boxes, giving a shrinkage of 14,000 during February. Stocks in Bristol were estimated at 65,000 boxes, showing a shrinkage of 30,000 boxes in February. These, with the supply in Liverpool, would give a total of 236,000 boxes in the three cities.

BUTTER—Is firm, under continued light receipts, the domestic consumption being more than equal to the supply. Accordingly, prices are firmly held on creamery at 20 to 20⅜c, as to grade; western dairy rolls, 15½ to 16c., and tub dairy, 14 to 14½c.

MONTREAL NOTES.

Refiners have marked up the price of granulated sugars 5c. per 100 lb.

An advance of 1s. to 2s. is asked on future importations of Valencia oranges, and all oranges are firmer here.

A round lot of Valencia raisins put up at auction here last week were withdrawn, as the price bid was too low.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER,

ST. JOHN, N.B., March 16, 1899.

IT cannot be said that spring demand is as active as many would wish; in fact, business seems a little backward. Still there is a fair steady trade doing. Market show little change, but prices are, on the whole, firmly held. Flour is perhaps the weak spot. Tea is firmly held, particularly the finer grades. Our trade is not at all satisfied with the new tea regulations. It is most strongly held that there is nothing in the tea business nor in the grades imported to cause it to be put under special regulations which are not required of other food products, and further, that the present Government test is not a fair one, working against China tea and favoring Indian and Ceylon.

OILS—In burning oil, there is a marked decline in the demand, but there is still a good trade doing. Lubricating oils have particular attention, and prices are firmly held. Paint oil also finds increased demand and prices are higher. Turpentine is again marked up.

SALT—Outside demand is getting pretty well filled, but stocks of English coarse arriving still find a demand from vessel's side. Importers are pushing sales. Imports for the year are still behind last season. The English factory-filled, at least some brands landing, is a particularly nice salt, in fact, equal to some of the fancy English brands, and sold much lower. Canadian has a fair sale; in fact, there is more being used each season. We quote as follows: Liverpool coarse, 38 to 40c.; English factory-filled, 80c. to $1; Canadian fine, $1 per bag; cheese and butter salt, bulk, $2.50 to $2.60 per bbl.; 5-lb. bags, $3 to $3.25 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $2.85 to $3 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 20c. each; 10-lb. wood boxes, 12c. each; cartons, $2 per case of 2 doz.; English bottled salt, $1.25 to $1.30 per doz; mineral rock salt, 60c. per 100 lb.

CANNED GOODS—There is but a steady demand. Prices tend higher and the later spring must see an advance, at least, in corn and tomatoes, particularly the former. Retail prices keep low; in fact, corn is offered by one dealer as low as four tins for 25c. Other lines move slowly. Baked beans have had a larger trade during the winter, but prices have been cut close, as packers have been pushing sales. Salmon are not a large stock and prices tend upwards. Lobsters are not likely to rule lower. The high prices have, however, affected the sale. In clams there is little business, but in haddies, kippered herring and sardines, sale has been large and stock well cleaned up.

GREEN FRUITS—Sales increase with the coming of warmer weather. Oranges sell largely, Valencias being rather higher. For best trade Californians are sold, but, while prices are not high, the others sell so much lower that the relative sale is small and chiefly for the better grades. Lemons tend easier, and demand is not quite as good. Apples are very firmly held, and stock is light with demand fair. Bananas are more freely imported, and will soon be a feature of the trade. Rhubarb is seen, and pineapples are on the market.

DRIED FRUITS — There is more inquiry for raisins, but prices are easy and market a dull one. In Californian raisins, and in Malaga loose, there are still some of last year's stock. The fact that in Californian raisins grades not up to standard are offered affects the prices of the better stock. Prunes tend firmer, and have better sale; there is quite a large trade in this market. Currants are but a limited sale. Dates have some demand at full prices. Figs move but slowly. Evaporated apples are but a light stock and prices keep high. Dried have but little sale. Onions scarce and high.

SUGARS — Prices have tended firmer during the week, and there has been rather more interest in this line. A fair trade is doing. Buyers are not taking particular interest in the advance, but refineries have made quite free sales.

MOLASSES—The fact that both Porto Rico and Barbadoes markets have opened higher than usual has strengthened the feeling here, but it will be some weeks before any quantity is offered by the trade. Stocks are light. New Orleans has sold more freely, but the trade hold to the West India goods, though there is a growing feeling favoring New Orleans. The difficulty in the past has been the importing of too low grades.

PRODUCE—Butter, while tending firmer for best stock, advances slowly. There is quite an improvement noticed in the demand. The arrival of western at quite a low figure affects the tone of the market. It is difficult to get full price for creamery. Eggs are lower. Arrivals are much freer, and still lower prices are expected, with a probable reaction before Easter. Cheese is dull, with prices unchanged. Local business is light.

FISH—Stock continues very scarce, but demand is not as active. Dry cod shows no change. There have been fair receipts during the week. Pollock is very scarce and rather higher. A few Grand Manan pickled herring continue to arrive, but stock is very light and price keeps high. There are no extra large fish offered. Shad is dull, and there is no change in smoked herring. Boneless fish show a lighter demand, but price is unchanged. Finnan haddies are very hard to get, as haddock are so scarce. There is a good demand. There is only a light supply of fresh cod. Some few Gaspereaux are offered, but catch is, as yet, very light. Fresh halibut is offered, but price is still high. Lobsters are scarce. We quote as follows · Large cod, $3.75 to $3.80 ; medium, $3.70 to $3.75 ; pollock, $1.85 to $2.00 ; Grand Manan pickled herring, $1.95 to $2 ½-bbl. ; Canso, pickled, $5 per bbl.; boneless fish, 3½ to 5c.; cod, 7 to 7½c.; finnan haddies, 5½ to 5¾c.; smoked herring, 6 to 7c.; spring shad, $3.75 to $4 ½-bbl.; fall shad, $4.75 to $5 ½-bbl. ; Shelburne, $3.75 per bbl.; Grand Manan herring, $3.70 to $3.80 per bbl.; quoddy, $3.50 per ½-bbl.; frozen pollock, 1¼ to 1½c.; frozen cod, 2¾ to 3c.; frozen haddock, 2¾ to 3c.; lobsters, small, 3½ to 4c.; do., large, 10 to 12c.

PROVISIONS—Barreled meats have but limited sale at rather easier figures. The presence of Canadian plate beef tends to easier prices. Lard is still low. Smoked meats are firmly held.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL—Flour is rather easier, some mills tending to cut figures to push sales. Manitoba is holding rather firmer than Ontario grades. In oatmeal full prices are asked by millers and local prices are higher. Cornmeal shows no change. Feed is difficult to get. Hay is still low. Beans are easy, some shippers shading prices. There is a demand for yellow eyed. Barley is again marked higher, stock light. Split peas are firmly held, and blue peas are rather higher. Seeds are beginning to move freely. Prices are rather lower than last season. More alsike clover is sold each year. We quote as follows : Manitoba flour, $4.65 to $4.75 ; best Ontario, $3.85 to $4 ; medium, $3.65 to $3.75 ; oatmeal, $3.90 to $3.95; cornmeal, $2.15; middlings, $19 to $21; bran, $17 to $18; oats, 38 to 42c.; hand-picked beans, $1.05 to $1.10; prime, 90 to 95c.; yellow eye beans, $1.75; split peas, $4 to $4.10 ; round, $3.25 to $3.40 ; pot barley, $4.10 to $4.25; hay, $7 to $8 ; timothy seed, American, $1.75 to $2.15; do., Canadian, $2 to $2.40; mammoth clover, 7 to 7½c.; alsike, 7¾ to 8½c.

The retail hardware clerks of St. John, N.B., are pushing for the Saturday half-holiday, and the dealers have decided to close if the retail dry goods trade would do so. The clerks should have the holiday, and we hope the matter will not drop here.

Fred R. Titus, formerly of the late wholesale grocery house of White & Titus, and for some years with J. Harvey Brown, tea importer, is about to go with J. J. Bostwick. Mr. Bostwick, who is making special efforts to extend his business, is to be congratulated on securing a gentleman well-known to the trade of these Provinces.

Travelers will learn with pleasure that the tax on commercial travelers selling goods in Woodstock, N.B., has been reduced to the nominal sum of 5c. per day, 10c. per week, 15c. per month and 25c. per year. Those selling direct to consumer will be taxed $2 per day, $4 per week $6 per month and $8 per year. It is expected the former tax be done away with as soon as legislation can be obtained.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

WINNIPEG, March 13, 1899.

TRADE is very fair indeed for the time of year, and shows a steady increase from day to day. The market in all lines is steady, and very little change can be reported as to prices.

Mr. R. A. Rogers, of the Parsons Produce Company, has returned from an extended visit to the Coast, where he has been arranging matters for increased cold storage and more efficient handling of the perishable products in which the company deal.

Pork-packers have at last issued a new price list, though the changes from the one issued four months ago are very slight.

There is a slightly increased demand for canned and evaporated goods, which is usual at this season.

BUTTER—The easier feeling in regard to dairy butter continues, and is likely to increase as the season advances. Jobbers are asking 17c. for choice round lots of prints and rolls ; tubs are worth almost as much. Choice pound prints bring about 18 to 18½c. Creamery butter is merely a nominal market, as practically none is moving. Price quoted is 22 to 23c. per lb.

CHEESE—None moving. Nominal price 9½c. for large and 10c. for small.

EGGS—Market shows very slight improvement as to quantity received. Limed or pickled eggs are worth about 16c. Fresh candled stock bring 22c. Strictly new laid eggs are 25c., with supply far in arrears of the demand.

VEGETABLES—Really good potatoes are very scarce on this market. Price, 40 to 45c. per bush. Native celery is in good demand, at 50 to 75c. per doz., according to size.

OATMEAL—The Ogilvie package oatmeal is now on the market here, and the package

THE United States has been for many years the largest coffee using country in the world, for the past eight years the average value of imports being $90,000,000 per year. The imports for 1898 exceeded all previous records, being nearly 900,000,000 lbs., which is about 20 per cent. more than in 1897. The latest estimates place the world's production at 1,600,000,000 pounds a year. The United States, therefore, takes practically half the coffee grown in the world. Of the total coffee production, about two-thirds is grown in Brazil. The other third, grown outside of Brazil, is scattered around the world in the belt extending to the 30th degree north and south of the equator.

The steadily increasing popularity of coffee as a drink in the United States, and the steadily decreasing popularity of tea, have led to some revival of the controversy as to the relative merits of these beverages, upon which scientists are not yet agreed.

The partiality for tea or coffee shown by the people of different countries cannot be traced to any particular cause. The English, the Canadians and the Russians, as a rule, come under the head of tea drinkers, while the Dutch, Scandinavians, Germans and Belgians come under the head of coffee drinkers, but why this is so has never yet been made clear. The position of the United States in this matter is somewhat unique, the average consumption of tea per capita having remained stationary for twenty-five years, while the popularity of coffee as a drink has been steadily increasing ; the consumption last year being larger per capita than ever before, and was exceeded only by two countries, Holland and Denmark—the consumption of coffee per capita in Holland being 23 pounds, and in Denmark 15 pounds, while that of the United States was 11 pounds. That of France was 3½ pounds, Great Britain a little less than 1 pound and Canada about the same as the latter.

"The Plant, and its Cultivation," will be the subject in a future number of The Grocer. Watch this page.

NOVA SCOTIAN CHEESE FOR LIVERPOOL.

THE proprietor of one of the most enthusiastic cheese factories in Nova Scotia, Mr. Archibald, of Antigonish, shipped 400 cheese to Liverpool this week by the steamer Scotsman. The price in the home market is from 10 to 10½c. It is to be hoped that Mr. Archibald will make money by his venture. There is some encouragement just now. For almost the first time in three months, there is a strong buoyant feeling in the market. Cables have been passing freely, since Monday, between Liverpool and Montreal, and the inquiries were not of the kind which have been going on of late, but of a kind which mean business. On Saturday, New York bought 1,000 boxes of United States goods, held in Montreal in bond by local buyers, and 10¼c. was paid for them. There is more American cheese in Montreal, and there has been an attempt made to buy it also on New York account. The holders, however, have advanced prices, and are holding for 10½c., and they expect to get it.

Nova Scotian cheesemakers seem to commit a mistake in regard to the early makes. These rule at about 7 and 7½c., a price at which the factorymen say it does not pay to sell. They therefore hold their stock. The result is that cheese is imported. This means that there is more cheese brought into the Province than there would be if our own product were on the market. Later on these early makes are sold to the dealers, but it is at the expense of the higher quality of September cheese. Dealers have the early makes on hand, which they dispose of to the retail trade. It is not the quality that people require, and the next thing we see is a falling off in consumption. Factorymen are compelled to sell their low makes at a lower figure than otherwise they would. In a sentence the evil of holding early makes is this, that the market becomes overstocked and consumption is decreased.—Herald, Halifax.

CALIFORNIAN PRUNES.

Concerning prunes, The California Fruit Grower, of March 4, says: "It is estimated that the stocks in the State amount to upwards of 500 cars. New crop prunes will not be available for six months at least, and, at the rate of four cars a day, the stock on hand here would go out clean before August 1."

GELATINE IS NOW USED IN THE MANUFACTURE OF SILK.

ACCORDING to Consul Frankenthal at Berne, Switzerland, gelatine is utilized in the manufacture of a new artificial silk. It is the invention of Prof. Hummel, of Yorkshire College, in Leeds, England. A reservoir containing gelatine is kept heated at a certain temperature, to keep the gelatine in liquid form continuously. The top of the reservoir contains numberless small openings through which the gelatine oozes in very fine streams. An endless chain of a strip of linen cloth running over pulleys receives this liquid ; and before the chain has traveled far, it is dry and presents a fine thread of uniform thickness and brilliant surface, ready to be wound upon spools.

The whole apparatus requires little attention ; the only thing to be looked after is to change the fully wound spools for empty ones. A single workman can oversee 10 apparatuses as described, which will produce about 470,000 yards of threads per day—equal to a silk production of 24,000 cocoons. To make the gelatine threads proof against being dissolved in warm water, they are lightly wound on drums and submitted to the fumes of formaldehyde in a closed room for several hours. The result is not only their power of resistance to water, but also to any other solution.

The coloring, if wanted, is added to the liquid gelatine at the beginning. It obsorbs dye readily and the brilliancy of the thread is not affected. The proportion of dyestuff is stated to be 15 oz. in 330 lb. of liquid gelatine, if a bright color is wanted ; but for the present fashionable pale colors, the 15 oz. would do in 6,600 lb. of liquid. A drawback against the usefulness of the gelatine silk would be its low degree of firmness in the thread, but in a mixture with real silk or fine linen or cotton thread, a durable tissue could be produced. It is estimated that the gelatine silk could be produced at about $1.15 per lb. Collodion silk costs at present from $2.25 to $2.85 per lb., while natural silk reaches $6.25 per lb. Professor Hummel has produced gelatine silk threads, and has submitted his products to Swiss silk manufacturers for their judgment.

BUTTER AND ORANGES.

A most delicious fragrance attaches to the butter which is kept in an ice chest in company with one, two or half a dozen oranges. This was discovered accidentally, according to the Holstein-Friesian Register. The butter absorbed the "zest" of the orange, i. e., the oily moist that is thrown off in the atmosphere when an orange is squeezed or cut, and which is even more delicious than the taste of the food itself. If there be anything more delicious than best butter, it is the little tub-shaped bundles which have absorbed the citrus flavor of the oranges.

The fact of the butter proving so sensitive is enough to make one credit the warnings against allowing butter to remain shut up with meat, fish and other foods capable of exhaling any aroma.

RETAILERS AND CREDIT.

The giving of credit and the payment of grocery bills is ever a fairly live subject for a trade paper, so, I think I can be excused for reverting again to it this week, writes "The Hustler," in San Francisco Grocer. In spite of all the hue and cry about the cash system, credit still remains, and is likely to remain—king. Every once in a while some credit grocer decides to change his style of doing business from credit to cash. When this is done, we all hear about it, and the beauty of the cash system is made very plain ; but when the same dealer, after giving the new system a thorough trial (or, perhaps I should say, after attempting to get the customers to give it a trial), quietly drops back to the old credit business, do we hear anything then ? No. Still, I know instances where this has occurred. If grocers could all become faith healers or Christian Science teachers and could successfully demonstrate after the methods of these worthies upon their customers, then I have no doubt the great question of "Cash vs. Credit" could be solved. As it is, however, the public, having become used to being trusted, rather like the idea, and do not seem to realize that when a dealer decides to change his style of business they should do so too.

Talking about credit brings up in my mind a little conversation I had once with a grocer in a portion of the city of Los Angeles, in which the population consisted largely of negroes. "Yes," said the dealer, "my trade is nearly all with niggers, and they make good customers, too, if they are handled right. The way to handle them is not to trust them too much. You've got to learn by experience just at what point they get dishonest, and then you are all right. Most any of my customers are good for one or two dollars. Some of them even go as high as three and four, but I've got to see the nigger that's good for five."

Now, while I am charitable enough to believe this grocer's talk to be a base libel upon our colored brethren, still I believe the principle upon which he runs his business is an excellent one. I think that if some grocers whose customers have whiter faces, would more carefully gauge the limit where temptation overcomes them, that they would have less cause to regret the blackness of their hearts.

HOW IT MIGHT WORK.

A correspondent of a contemporary suggests that merchants try the plan of offering prizes to customers for useful suggestions as to the packing of goods, display of the stock, etc. The idea is hardly practicable, for the average grocer gets all the suggestions, in the shape of complaints from customers, that he cares to handle. Nine out of ten customers may be depended upon to offer the opinion, free of charge, with a few strong adjectives thrown in, that the grocer is overcharging them. On the other hand, there is a class of consumers of a bashful disposition, whom a prize scheme might bring to the front with suggestions, long delayed, regarding the conduct of the grocer's clerks. They might suggest some reforms so closely personal, and even affecting the grocer himself, that he might soon come to the conclusion that in fishing for hints he had been fooling with a buzz-saw. Imagine a batch of suggestions like the following handed in for competition for the prizes : "Tell your red-headed clerk to wash his face occasionally." "The young man who serves at the butter counter doesn't know enough to keep his nose clean—and you are nearly as bad." "Don't try to skin your customers with short weight so often." "Your butter is as strong as your coffee is weak." This is about what the general tenor of the "suggestions" would probably be, and while they might be chastening to the spirit, their value in a business sense would hardly warrant the grocer in offering prizes for them.—Merchants' Review.

AMONG TORONTO RETAILERS.

What Goods To Display.

I heard a conversation between two city grocers the other evening that is worth noting. The subject was a fellow-dealer, who has for some time been talking of selling out his present stand.

"I would not like to pay very high for his stock as he now has it," said one, and the other added :

"No. His system of displaying his goods is not a good one. He keeps fancy goods and lines not well known in the back shelves, where they are not readily seen, and fills his shelves with package teas or other articles, which people don't need to see to want."

There was more said to the same effect, and to the effect that the system in question had left the grocer with a lot of old stock on hand, with the result that I have made a few notes about the system of displaying stock followed by the most progressive dealers. Almost without exception, the most prominent articles to be seen in the best stores are the goods not generally known to the public. And this is reasonable and right, for, unless a woman sees or hears of an article, she will most certainly never buy it, and, on the other hand, if a woman sees an article which she has not previously heard of, as a general rule, her curiosity will create a desire for it. The staples--sugar, teas (bulk or package), coffee, etc.—should be kept in the background, unless one is making a specialty of a private blend of teas. In such a case, they should be pushed and displayed all the time. A retailer should always remember he is in business to make money for himself. He is not the agent of one manufacturer or another, and, if the goods of one house will not sell on their merits, those of another house will. It is not a grocer's duty to sell any particular line of goods. His business is to please his customers, that his aggregate sales may be large. Therefore, he should not use his shelves or windows to advertise well-known proprietary goods, but should use them to display goods which are likely to increase his total sales and his net profit. To fill the most prominent shelves of a store with package teas, or soap might help to advertise the particular brands shown, but would not increase the aggregate sales as would be the case if the shelves were filled with a good variety of canned vegetables, fruits, fish and meats, or bottled pickles, marmalades, jellies and jams. The latter are not included among the necessities of life, so are frequently bought up by a housekeeper on the impulse of a moment, so they should always be kept in a prominent position. Staples, however, should not be left out of sight altogether. A good plan is to devote one shelf-space to one line, teas for example. Into this space one or two sample packages of every blend of tea carried should be grouped so as to show the large range handled rather than to advertise any lines. A space at one of the top corners about three by five inches might be left vacant, and a neat card could be printed calling attention to the range of package teas carried, and stating that a good assortment of bulk teas is also kept in stock. Similar displays could be made of soap, baking powders, salt and starches.

Grocers handling stove polish, shoe blacking and other goods handled by hardware or other dealers, should keep these goods in a prominent place. It is always well, too, to put these goods together. A few boxes of polish do not draw much attention, but a number of them combine so that one glancing about rarely fails to notice them.

Breakfast foods are worth pushing. They are not used as much as they might be, so a prominent display of the various lines is calculated to increase their sale.

When green fruits are carried, it is always well to let the public see what is in stock, so these should be kept always where they can readily be seen. One of the best methods of displaying fruits or candies is to have a table in a prominent position on the floor devoted entirely to the goods. A stand is often built to slant upwards from the floor to the table, and this, too, is devoted to the fruit display.

Farm produce and provisions do not need much displaying. The best way to keep them is in a refrigerator at the back of the shop. The average woman is even more particular to have her butter and her provisions fresh and clean than she is about other articles, so she prefers buying these goods where she knows they are well kept, than where she can see them lying exposed on a counter. The accepted method of keeping cheese is in a glass case on a counter. This keeps it clean, yet leaves it where it is seen by many, if not all, entering the store. The display of one's stock may seem a simple matter, but thought and time spent to have it arranged to best advantage will not fail to yield good results.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. W. E Walsh has been appointed Canadian agent for Menier's chocolate, who are making arrangements to thoroughly introduce their unsweetened chocolate on the Canadian market.

Mr. Charles H. Hyde, representing Joy Morton & Co., Chicago, dealers in salt, sal soda, cereals and starch, accompanied by Mr. A. E. Richards, Hamilton, called on THE CANADIAN GROCER last week. This was Mr. Hyde's first trip to Canada, and he stated that the outlook for trade in their goods here is favorable indeed. Some idea of the business done by Joy Morton & Co. might be gained from the fact that their warehouses and docks at Chicago cover about six acres, and they have large factories at Nebraska City, where their cereals and starches are manufactured. A. E. Richards & Co., Hamilton, are the selling agents for this firm in Canada.

Plans are being prepared for the erection of another cold storage building in Ottawa. John Ferguson is the promoter.

HOME-MADE MACARONI.

MOST, if not quite all, of the macaroni sold in the stores of New York is a domestic article put up in 1-lb. packages under a French label, a wholesale grocer told me, says a writer in N.E. Grocer. "The real imported Italian article seldom reaches the American customer. About 500,000 boxes are annually imported, and most of it comes to this port for distribution. It is eagerly bought up by the Italians here, and so the American who desires the simon-pure article is often forced to go without. But for your consolation I may add that the domestic macaroni is about as good as the Italian, and I am positive is a great deal cleaner, more wholesome and nutritious, and manufactured under far better sanitary conditions.

"In the trade, macaroni is known as 'Naples paste,' taking its name from Naples, the principal shipping port of Italy. Dozens of factories are in the neighborhood of the Bay of Naples, and the macaroni is packed for the American market in boxes of eleven kilos each. The French also turn out a great deal of macaroni, and both Italian and French manufacturers use semoule, which is obtained from a certain grade of Russian wheat especially adapted to this purpose.

"Semoule differs from flour only in that it is a trifle granulated. The hard, red wheat grown in the northwestern section of the United States is the solitary variety which will produce a satisfactory grade of semoule, and our own manufacturers of macaroni depend upon it for their supply.

"Macaroni is not a dish of general consumption in Italy. The poorer classes cannot afford it, and it is confined almost exclusively to the tables of persons in comfortable circumstances. It is only on rare occasions or festivals that the poor obtain macaroni."

GROCER IS THANKFUL.

A Haverhill grocer received a letter through the mail addressed with his name and private, says N. E. Grocer. On opening he found a five-dollar bill and the following note: "On figuring up my bill I find that I owe you the enclosed amount. In order to avoid trouble with clerks I withhold my name." This is one case in perhaps 50, and Mr. Coddaire is very thankful to his friend, whoever he may be.

HONEST ADVERTISING.

People used to say: "Oh, I never pay any attention to advertisements; they never tell the truth." Now, it's different; people do read advertisements, and they believe them. Advertisers are becoming more careful and more scrupulously truthful every day. I know a firm of advertising agents who also own a medicated soap. I said: "Is it really such a wonderful thing, and do you take the care you say you do in making it?" The answer was: "Of course it is a good thing. We have seen too much of advertising to be fools enough to spend money pushing a poor article." Most all advertisers understand this nowadays, and that is why it pays better than it used to.—Charles Austin Bates.

TWO PLACES NAMED JINKSVILLE.

Merchant—I wish to transport some goods to Jinksville, and——

Railroad official (irascibly)—Well, why in thunder don't you go to the freight department?

Merchant—It's a large quantity of goods, and I wish to inquire about rates.

Official—Go to the freight department, I say. Whatever the rates are you'll pay 'em, or keep your goods at home. No reduction to you or anybody else. Hear that? Clear out now.

Merchant—The Jinksville I mean is not in this State, but the Jinksville over the line. There is a rival road running there, you know, and I can easily——

Official—Sit down, my dear sir, sit down and let's talk it over. James, bring the gentleman a cigar. Henry, bring the gentleman a glass of champagne. George, tell the president one of our most valued patrons is here.—N. Y. Weekly.

IT MADE HIS HAIR RISE.

A merchant's wife, smarting from experience, one morning handed her husband a sealed letter as he was going to his office, begging him not to open it until he had reached his place of business.

With some solicitude he broke the seal at the proper time, and read:

"I am forced to tell you something that I know will trouble you, but it is my duty to do so. I am determined you shall know it, let the result be what it may. I have known for a week that it was coming, and kept it to myself until to-day, when it has reached a crisis, and I cannot keep it any longer.

"You must not censure me too harshly, for you must reap the results as well as myself. I do hope it will not crush you."

Here he turned the page, his hair slowly rising.

"The flour is out. Please send me some this afternoon. I thought that by this means you would not forget it."

The flour was sent.

THE GROCER KNEW HIS BUSINESS.

Once in a while, one comes across a retail grocer who seems to actually study his business, remarks a writer in Grocery World. His whole soul is obviously in it. He isn't a drudge, in the store simply to live the long day through, but he is an enthusiastic believer in the importance and the dignity of his own business, and, so believing, studies it just as a physician studies anatomy and pathology.

The other day, the writer stepped into a Philadelphia grocery store to buy some certain goods. While there, the grocer called attention, in a very courteous way, to a brand of table water he was selling. The water was a mild variety of medicinal water, and contained a percentage of that well-recognized medical agent—lithia.

That grocer knew all about that water, and as there was no reason why that should have been an exception, he probably knew all about everything in his store. He knew just how much lithia the water contained to the gallon, what lithia was for, what proportions were contained in other competing waters, and so on. Then he took a siphon of the water from the refrigerator and insisted on the writer tasting it. While he did not succeed in selling any of the water, he aroused an admiration as a grocer who knew his business, which feeling will probably carry more or less trade with it.

WHOLESALE GROCERS AND CANNERS OF THE UNITED STATES.

To those who desire to keep in touch with the wholesale grocers, canners, or brokers of the United States there is issued in Minneapolis, Minn., a work of inestimable value. This work is the fifth annual edition of Austin Q. Millar's official directory of the wholesale grocers and canners of the United States. This directory, which is strongly bound in cloth, also contains a large list of the brokers of the Republic. The publishers' price is $2.

"Does your husband worry about the grocery bill?" asked the thin faced lady.

"Why, no!" said the lady with the silk skirt and patent shoes; "we let the grocer do all that."

Housekeeper—I ordered a dozen oranges to-day and you only sent me 11. How's as that?

Grocer—Well, ma'am, one of them was bad and I didn't think you'd want it.

MEETINGS OF RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATIONS.

MONTREAL ASSOCIATION.

REGULAR monthly meeting of the Montreal Grocers' Association, held in Monument National Hall, 220 St. Lawrence street, Thursday evening, March 9, at 8 o'clock.

Present, John Scanlan, president, in the chair, V. Raby, J. P. Dixon, N. Lapointe, S. Demers, Jos. Picard, N. Chartrand, E. W. Farrell, T. B. Deschamps, P. B. Mesnard, P. Fillion, H. Poirier, Eug. Bernier, A. D. Fraser, M. P. Laverty, ex-Ald. Connaughton, and others.

Moved by S. Demers, seconded by N. Lapointe, that the rules be suspended and the following grocers who have paid their dues in advance and signed the membership roll be admitted members of this association: T. Poupart, Oct. Chabot, C. H. Pitt, J. C. Wark, Mrs. B. Daragon, A. Rolland, L. G. Clapin, J. Purcell. Carried unanimously.

The treasurer read his report, showing that the sum of $1,100 had been spent in obtaining the amendment of the Pharmacy Act, which leaves the association with a deficit of $800, and he requested the meeting to suggest means of raising this amount.

The president, Mr. John Scanlan, said that the best means of raising this sum would be to solicit subscriptions from the wholesale trade, and forego the picnic this summer.

After considerable discussion, the following motion was declared carried: Moved by E. W. Farrell, seconded by S. Demers and J. B. Deschamps, that a committee, composed of the officers of this association, be authorized at this meeting to effect a loan to cover the deficit incurred in obtaining the amendment to the Pharmacy Act.

Moved by V. Raby, seconded by J. B. Deschamps, that the secretary notify the standing committees, in the different districts of the city, of the amount of our deficit, and request them to renew their efforts and solicit donations from grocers in general in their respective districts towards liquidating this debt. Carried.

A letter was read, from The London Grocers' Association, requesting our association to join with them in asking for longer terms and better discounts from the wholesale guild. The secretary was instructed to reply stating that our association is in full sympathy with their movement.

Moved by J. P. Dixon, seconded by N. Lapointe, that the secretary write Mr. Lomer Gouin a letter of thanks for the successful manner in which he obtained our amendment to the Pharmacy Act. Carried.

Moved by V. Raby, seconded by A. D. Fraser, that a vote of thanks be tendered the delegates who went to Quebec in the interests of grocers in general re amendment to Pharmacy Act, particularly Mr. S. Demers and Mr. J. P. Dixon Carried unanimously.

Moved by J. P. Dixon, seconded by J. B. Deschamps, that a vote of thanks be tendered to the Hon. Mr. Flynn, Hon. F. G. Marchand, Hon. H. Archambault, and Mr. E. Robitaille, for the courteous manner in which they assisted us with our amendment to the Pharmacy Act, and that a copy of this resolution be sent to each of those gentlemen. Carried unanimously.

Moved by S. Demers, seconded by A. D. Fraser, that a vote of thanks be tendered The Prix Courant, Mr. Beaudin and Mr. Lemieux, for their valuable assistance to our amendment to Pharmacy Act. Carried unanimously.

The meeting then adjourned.

TORONTO ASSOCIATION.

The regular meeting of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association was held in St. George's Hall, Elm street, on Monday evening. The president, F. W. Johnson, occupied the chair. A larger attendance than usual was present.

The report of the "At Home" committee was received. It showed that in all respects the concert this year was better than in previous years. Even the deficit was greater than usual, $21.35 being the net loss from the "At Home" this year.

The early-closing committee reported that a circular had been sent to each grocer in the city, asking cooperation in the efforts towards early closing. Many favorable replies have been received, and many grocers in Parkdale, North Toronto, and on College and McCaul streets have agreed to commence closing early this summer. The committee also stated that they intend to continue their efforts towards the end sought.

A letter was received from the London Retail Grocers' Association regarding wholesale grocers' terms. It was decided to bring the matter up for consideration at the next meeting.

A letter was also received from H. J. Hill, manager of the Toronto Industrial Exhibition, stating that owing to the large number of societies that were asking representation on the exhibition board, it had been decided to grant none of the requests this year.

A discussion on trading stamps was started by D. J. Kelly, who reported that after eight months' trial, he and his brother had decided to discontinue having anything to do with trading stamps. They had given them a good, square trial, and found that they were not a paying investment. They had reached the conclusion that it was a bad policy to allow any third party to step in between the dealer and the consumer. As was generally the case the third party benefited greatly, the consumer little and the dealer less. They believed, however, in giving a discount for cash, so were adopting a discount system of their own. They intended giving 3 per cent. discount on all cash purchases. Checks would be given, and when $5 worth of checks are collected, 15c. worth of groceries will be given free to the customer. Mr. Kelly considered that the saving effected by a cash business was such that the discount given was but justice to cash customers.

Abraham White expressed his opinion that there was no necessity for giving any discount whatever. The grocer has a right to a cash business, and his customers benefit from it as much as he does. Personally speaking, his experience was that if the wholesale houses had given him less credit than they had, he would have been a richer man. Receiving on credit tended toward selling on credit, with the result that many a dollar was lost in bad debts.

A. G. Booth stated that he was a victim of the coupon evil. He had taken them on trial, with the intention of keeping them if he liked them, or stopping them if he did not. He had found out that he did not like them, but also found it very difficult to drop them. The people who asked for them were not the poor people who might benefit from the saving thus afforded, but the rich, who needed little, but wanted all they could get.

David Bell had commenced to give trading stamps to his customers about the same time Mr. Kelly did, but he found his mistake sooner than the latter did, and had dropped them quicker. He, at first, did gain some trade through them, but it was nothing like enough to make up for the cost of the stamps, as he had to pay out from $12.50 per week for them. He had dropped them, and dropped them for good, and was giving nothing in the shape of discounts in their stead.

T. Holmes had a similar experience about four years ago. He had been persuaded to give the coupon system a trial, but found it unsatisfactory, and had given it up as a failure.

R. Paterson, Little York, stated that the trading stamp people had threatened that if they did not use the stamps their competitors would get them. The Little York grocers, however, came together, and the trading stamp people are still looking for grocers to use their stamps in that suburb of the city.

The discussion was continued by the various members of the association, and culminated in a resolution by Messrs. Holmes and White that a committee be appointed to confer with other deputations that may be appointed, and to wait on the Ontario Government and ask that the giving of trading stamps, coupons, etc., be declared illegal. Messrs. Gibson, Clark, Booth, Holmes, White, and Kelly were appointed the committee.

ORANGES IN CALIFORNIA.

A Californian fruit journal of recent date says: "The general estimates of entire amount of oranges remaining in the State vary from 3,000 carloads to 4,200 cars. It seems that the estimates continue to run short in about the same ratio that they ran over last year. Under the excitement of the occasion, however, we assume that current figures are plenty small enough, although from careful investigation we do not expect to see them exceeded.

"In the f.o.b. trading extra fancy navels have the call. Fancy navels command proper attention but seedlings do not seem to be called for. This is explained by the presence of so many small-sized navels offered virtually at seedling prices.

"If there be further advances in the market for navels it is natural to look for a sympathetic advance in seedlings, and at present prices seedlings might be genuine bargains The only thing in the way of seedlings seems to be the reports of heavy operations in Valencia (Spain) oranges, of which there are about 6,000,000 cases left to market."

AN EARLY-CLOSING APPEAL.

THE committee of The Toronto Retail Grocers' Association, having in charge the movement for early closing, have issued the following appeal :

At the last general meeting of The Toronto Retail Grocers' Association, it was unanimously agreed that an effort should be made to try and induce the retail grocers to close at an earlier and more regular hour, and they have decided to spend some of the funds of the association in an endeavor to show you the advantages of early closing. We enter upon the work feeling convinced that we have the sympathy and good wishes of all classes of trade, as well as the public. It is, however, with the grocery trade that our association intend to direct their endeavors. The Provincial Statutes make it possible, after getting two-thirds of the members of any trade to agree upon an hour of closing, to compel the balance to do so. This law was tried some years ago, but with poor success, as the different localities of the city demand different conditions—therefore, we have decided to appeal to the grocers and the public to support us in our plans.

We believe that the present law is all that we can ask from the Legislature, and that the reason of its failure was that both the grocer and the public were not prepared for early closing at that date ; we believe the time is coming, and will soon arrive, when public sentiment will demand early closing from all dealers. At the present time, the down-town grocery stores are closing at 6 p.m., a still larger number are closing at 7, while 8 o'clock seems to be a popular hour with a still larger number. If you are, fortunately, among the number of those who close at either of the above hours, we ask for your support in this movement ; if you close later than 8 o'clock, we would ask you to consider our reasons for trying to get a uniform closing hour.

If the other grocers in your immediate neighborhood do not close early, ask them to join you in an experiment of closing one hour earlier than you have been doing, and close promptly upon the hour agreed upon. If they refuse, try it yourself, and explain it to your customers and they will uphold you in the matter, and it will not be long before your neighbors will fall in line. This has been the experience of grocers in several parts of the city, who have tried early closing and have found no financial loss by it, but have found it to be a benefit to them in many ways.

The early-closing movement is growing in favor in all progressive cities in America, and we trust that Toronto (the "Premier City") will not be behind in this branch of progressive movements.

Below, we give you a few of the many reasons why we consider it to your advantage to close early :
